THE LAST CATTLE KING.

Alberta Is Steadily Turning From Her Old Time Ranches to Wheat.

There is one Cattle King left in Alberta. He is Pat Burns, of Calgary, the first, the last and the only Pat Burns. He has watched the transition as keenly as the old cattle man—perhaps more keenly. But he differs with the old cattle man in that he has figured out the ultimate result. And he is not in the least pessimistic. Pat Burns is practically the only old time rancher left who can still count his steers by the thousand. He was one of the first men to try out the country as a cattle-raising district. That was back in '89, when he came west with a few head of stock. Since then he has become wealthy, wondrously wealthy even for the west, where they made money in a hurry. He has two huge packing plants, one at Calgary and another at Vancouver, has a string of distributing and retail stores throughout British Columbia.

Mr. Burns says, and he has argued to the point many times, that the breaking up of the old time ranches will not only benefit the country, but will also eventually benefit the cattle industry. And he explains it thus: When an area previously used for grazing becomes split up into countless sections and quarter sections, and is used for settlement, the large herd disappears. But smaller bunches, kept by each individual farmer, and fattened and looked after instead of turned loose to rustle, take the place of the herd. The total number of cattle may not be quite as large, but what remain are fed up and fat and ready for market in the spring, whereas oftentimes in the old days the loss by drifting, by freezing, by winter starvation was frightful.

Just now Alberta, with the exception of Mr. Burns, is not able to raise enough cattle to supply her own needs and those of British Columbia, and the Burns steers, branded with a huge "N. H." on the ribs, are the only ones you may see any more traveling eastward for the old country. Last year only forty thousand head of cattle went out of the country. Ten years ago nearly four times that number crossed the ocean to make the famous roast beef of old England.

Some years ago it became evident that a change must come over the method of cattle raising. The old ranch system demanded immense unpeopled areas, and as it is estimated that twenty acres is required to satisfactorily feed one steer it was inevitable that settlement and homesteading in the country could not go on without the sacrifice of the ranges on the part of the cattle raisers. Therefore, as settlers commenced to make application for lands the Government by degrees cancelled the grazing lease and restricted seriously the operations of the cattle ranchers. In fact many of the larger outfits sold out and quit business, swept aside by the changing conditions

The result has been that in the last few years there have been very heavy sales of heifers and female stock, and there are fewer cattle on the range today than there have ever been since 1890.—Canadian Courier.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

A CLAY BELT TOWN.

Hearst, Ont., Is Making a Brave Bid For Success.

What towns exist to-day in Ontario's great hinterland are the result of developments that have taken place in the exploitation of her mine or forest wealth. The first thing we ask of a new town in the north is: What mines are there or what pulpwood treasure? But the popular conception of that largely-unknown region is changing. People are beginning to realize that the north has a bigger boast, a grander heritage of which to send despatches to the city papers, and, after all, a more alluring life to offer the restless from other lands. We are beginning to hear of towns being built upon a faith in the resources of the top six inches of the soil, which the new settlers believe possesses more gold than the whole interior of the earth. The latest story comes from Hearst, an ambitious collection of huts that is moving on fast in a faith pinned to the Clay Belt.

The prospector may do much for Hearst, writes a young railway employe in the new burg, 130 miles west of Cochrane, on the N. T. Ry., who seems to have grasped the right view of things—there are rumors of hidden treasures. But, whatever the railroads or prospectors may do for her, Hearst's real future lies in the miles of agricultural land stretching out on every side, even to the Bay. Facts already established about the soil beyond Ontario's present farming district should make the inhabitants of that embryo town truly optimistic. There are no hills or rocks within a reaching radius of Hearst and muskegs are practically unknown. The surface soil is rich in its centuries of forest mould, and below the humus is a valuable subsoil of clay.

Hearst was surveyed last September, but it has not long borne the name. The Provincial Government had decided on establishing a townsite there and had named it Mattawishquia when the National Transcontinental Commission chose the spot for a division point, being located some one hundred and thirty miles west of Cochrane. The commission called it Grant, in honor of the railway's chief engineer, but it was not to be known as that long, for immediately the Postoffice Department objected, on the ground that there is already a Grant in Ontario. A third christening was ordered and the name of the new Provincial Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines was given to the infant town of scarcely two months.

While it is the National Transcontinental Railway that is to make Hearst known, and the agricultural wealth of the clay belt, settlers are confident, will sometime make her great, there are possibilities hidden in the rocks and forest that the little town cannot afford to overlook. Rumors have been current of the discoveries of silver deposits, and there may be other valuable minerals awaiting but capital and enterprise to draw them to the world's market. Besides, the choice timber lands stretching for miles on all sides are a wealth in themselves, and in them are pulp areas and rivers affording opportunities for power.

Hearst hopes to attract people by her climate, which, while it permits of occasional drops in the mercury to 60 degrees below zero in winter, has a beautiful summer of long days and cool evenings. The winter is also a pleasant season, for, although it gets very cold, there are fewer stormy or otherwise disagreeable days than parts of older Ontario experience.

"Labby" Wanted a Place.

It is hard to think of Henry Labouchere in any other occupation than that of hitting heads and making faces, in a good cause, to be sure, but still with much gusto and impish glee. But we are assured by G. W. E. Russell in the Cornhill Magazine that Labouchere for a time cherished that most bourgeois of ambitions—a place in the cabinet or in the high diplomatic service. When Gladstone organized his last cabinet, in 1892, Labouchere confidently expected that his valiant services to the party during six years of Tory ascendancy would be rewarded, but before Gladstone submitted his list of ministers to the queen he had received a direct intimation that the name of the editor of Truth must not appear there. On this point her majesty was reported to be "very stiff." Later Labouchere was an active candidate for the ambassadorship at Washington.

Dignity of Judges.

Some Ontario High Court judges evidently like to imagine themselves clothed with "the divinity that doth hedge a king" if their pompous entrance to Toronto City Hall, where their courts are held, may be taken as a proper indication.

Nobody may ride in the elevator with those judges when any one of them is ascending to the court floor. The elevator man has been properly trained, and he knows the hour at which the judge is expected. He holds his elevator in waiting for his lordship's coming and other mere human beings may take to the stairways. The judge is met by the sheriff's officer, sword and cocked hat in hand, and escorted to his chamber. County Court judges have less dignity, and anybody may ride in the civic elevators when they are in them. —Canadian Courier.

Bright, Ruddy Cheeks For Pale Girls

No Longer Any weed To be Pale, Weak or Anaemic.

By Following the Advice of Miss McEwen you Can Quicvly Become Strong Again.H

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton has invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied, and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy abd strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if severe illness were hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00 by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

The Largest Fish.

Mr. J. Gordon Paterson, an angler from Hamilton, made a catch in Ingersoll, the like of which has perhaps never been equalled in the Province. It was a six pound trout, estimated to be 20 years old, and was caught on an ordinary rod and silk line.

Mr. Kelly an Officer.

Mr. J. W. Kelly, principal of the King Edward school, who joins the teaching staff at the Kingston Collegiate Institute in September, has been made a lieutenant in the Kingston regimant, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lieut. S. H. Henry.

Miss McNicholl Graduated.

Among the young ladies who graduated from St. Joseph's Hospital, Port Arthur, and received their diplomas, was Miss Margaret McNicholl of Peterborough, who also won a special prize presented by Dr. Bryan, for the best paper on "Medicine." The diplomas were presented by Father Grenier, and Dr. Beck, the medals.

Pauline Johnston Dying.

Mr. W. R. Morris, President of the local Canadian Club, has received a letter from Mr. A. Jackson, of Vancouver, stating that Miss Pauline Johnston, the well-known Canadian poetess, is dying in the Bute St. Hospital, and is in need of financial assistance. The members of the club are taking action to buy a number of autographed books, as suggested in the letter.

Cadet Summer Camp.

The Cadets camp this year is being held at Barriefield from the 17th of July to the 22nd, and it is expected that quite a number of the local Cadets will attend. Each Cadet must bring his own plate, cup, knife and fork and spoon. Y.M.C.A. leaders, teachers, municipal and religious authorities who care to attend the camp will be warmly welcomed.

Mark-st. S. S. Excursion.

Yesterday the Mark street Methodist Sunday school held an enjoyable excursion to Idyl Wyld, on the steamer Geneva. They left the city early in the morning and reached Idyl Wyld in time for dinner. A good programme of sports was run off and the excursionists returned to the city after a very pleasant day.

A Double Drowning.

A double drowning with two young boys, Karl Wilson, aged 12 and Alfred Beasley, aged 18, as the victims occurred in Picton Harbour at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon. With a third boy, Charlie McWilliams, 11 years, the three were in the punt. They had stopped in front of Gilberts boat house, on the upper beam of which was a bird's nest. The boys were trying to look into this. Beasley stood up in the punt, and Wilson got on his shoulders, when the boat upset.

A Small Fire.

Shortly after six o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in the Walter Greene foundry, originating in the timbers and rafters around the cupola. Some employees were about at the time, and one of them turned in an alarm from Box 41, at 6.20, and the remainder of them set to work on the fire with buckets of water. The brigade arrived shortly and although a line of hose was laid ten gallons of chemicals were sufficient to subdue the flames. The damage amounted to $200 or $300.

Damaged in Cyclone.

The large warehouse and factory of Mr. V. F. Ackerman in Regina were very badly damaged. The contents of the top storey were scattered over an area of a block along with other debris. Luckily, however, the employees all escaped with their lives, not being of course, in the building at the time. Mr. Ackerman has just received a letter from his representative there describing the damage and asking him to go out there.

Mr. A. J. Gibson, well known in this city, had also $20,000 of damage done to his building.

Sunday School Excursion

The All Saints' annual Sunday school excursion and picnic was held yesterday to Idyl Wyld on the Stoney Lake, and a good crowd turned out to the enjoyable event. Ice cream and cool drinks were available on the steamer and at Idyl Wyld the excursionists participated in games and sports, and a number of prizes were given to the runners of the different events. They returned to the city, tired, but pleased with the events of the day, about 9 o'clock.

The Peterborough Deputation.

Lindsay Post: At a recent meeting of the town council it was decided to send Mayor Wood and three members of the Town Council to Peterboro on the occasion of a future visit to that city of a Government water conservation commission, but this decision was objected to by Deputy-Reeve Dobson at the meeting held last night. Although not present at the first meeting Ald. Dobson claimed that one man, the Mayor, could ably represent the town, and he called for the yeas and nays of the councillors in regard to the motion. The council all voted "yea" with the exception of Ald. Dobson, the alderman maintaining that it was not business-like and was a waste of time to meet one night and transact business, and at the next meeting undo all the business of the former meeting. The Mayor remarked that Ald. Dobson's protests would no doubt look good in print.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

held and deemed to be valid throughout the whole extent of the confederacy without, however, interfering in any particular way with the doctrines or rights of the religious creeds to which the contracting parties may belong." This Government declaration was read in Parliament at the time for the above express purpose. The present claim that Roman Catholics can only be married by their priests is obviously neither a "right" nor a "doctrine." It is not a "right" because it is, as shown above, contrary to the British constitution, and it cannot be reasonably considered as a doctrine because it is a claim concerning form only, consequently the Federal Parliament has the sole power of declaring in the present case what marriages shall be valid; and since the Legislature cannot touch the question of validity their power of legislating on "solemnization" would appear to be the still important sanction of arranging and preserving the forms without affecting that vital and serious question. For instance, the Dominion cannot evidently introduce marriage by civil registration. But it could declare that marriage by civil registration, if introduced by one Province, shall be valid everywhere. Its power in this respect was evidently intended to secure marriages from just such doubts and disturbances as now raised and give them universal validity and security.

A third item might be added to the discussion, if our information be correct, namely that the earliest registers of the Anglican and Presbyterian churches which are preserved in the Court Houses of Montreal and Quebec show numerous marriages of Catholics by Protestant ministers — a process concerning which no complaint at the time appears in any record. A report from the archivists on this point might be of some subsidiary interest.

LOOK TO CANADA IN THE MOST CRITICAL HOUR OF THE EMPIRE'S HISTORY

Kings Might Envy the Reception Given to Premier Borden ---Englishmen, Irrespective of Party, Look to This as a Pivotal Point in Imperial Relations

London, July 6.—Canada's Premier has had a reception in London which Kings might well envy. For days before his arrival the leading newspapers, from The Times downwards, made his visit their chief news feature. Englishmen, irrespective of party, recognize that Mr. Borden's visit is the pivotal point in Imperial relations. He comes with proposals which cannot but raise the whole issue of Empire defence afresh. What are his proposals for helping England's naval problem at this most critical hour of England's international position since Waterloo? Surmises, forecasts, intelligent anticipations, fill our newspaper columns.

This much may well be said; Every Englishman, irrespective of party, desires the world's peace. Every Statesman, from Lloyd-George to the veriest jingo, is confident that the only way to secure peace is the possession of an overwhelming British strength at sea. Both political parties are united in the agreement to make any sacrifices necessary to maintain this. The burden is heavy. Canada's help may set examples to all the overseas Dominions. Hence the keen tension among all classes over the presence here of the Canadian Ministers.

England is preparing for her visitors a naval review at Spithead next week which will rank as the greatest display of naval fighting strength the world has ever seen.

A Forecast is Verified.

The forecast last week of an early collapse of the organized passive resistance movement against the Insurance act has been quickly verified. The servants' campaign against the Act was led by the Daily Mail group of papers. Month by month these supported mistresses and maids who promised to refuse to pay the insurance tax. Now these papers have discovered that such passive resistance is impossible. The penalties provided are absolutely ruinous. The Harmsworth papers now frankly and wisely admit that the taxes must be paid. For passive resistance they are substituting a more dangerous campaign of obstruction, protest and amendment. To the general surprise the negotiations between the Government and the doctors over the insurance Act are not progressing favorably. The insurance commissioners threaten to be overwhelmed by the tremendous mass of detail of the problems affecting the particular sections of the community which the Act affects. The next few months will show whether the English people are sufficiently great to endure the expense, inconvenience, and substantial extra taxation in the effort to lead the world in protecting the national health.

Couldn't Protect the Premier.

This week has afforded a striking example of the dangers accompanying the women's agitation. The National Liberal Club arranged a great political reception for Friday, when the Premier was to attend. A few days before the date arranged, the Scotland Yard authorities interviewed the club committee and virtually ordered them to cancel the reception stating that they could not guarantee the safety of Premier Asquith in the presence of a mixed social throng, which would necessarily include many Suffragettes. The reception was subsequently cancelled.

NORTH TORONTO VOTES FOR ANNEXATION WITH THE CITY

Special to The Times.

Toronto, July 7.—Yesterday the ratepayers of North Toronto decided by a popular vote to become a part of the city. The vote was a very heavy one, much interest being taken in the by-law. Interest ran at fever heat all day long. Never was the town so stirred. The highways leading to the polling booths were alive with motors and vehicles carrying the voters. No questions have ever excited the people so much as those of annexation and double-tracking.

The warm campaign waged by both sides brought out over a thousand voters into the warm streets and to the polling booths.

The by-law proposing to double track Yonge street was defeated by a large majority. During the past few weeks the ratepayers of North Toronto have been discussing the merits and demerits of double-tracking Yonge street to enable the Toronto & York Radial Railway Co to operate a double line, and the desirability or otherwise of annexation with the City of Toronto. The third proposition which was submitted on Saturday to the electorate has had to take a back seat, and the issue as to the passing of a by-law authorizing the raising of $55,600 by debentures for the purchase of two sites and the erection of one school to serve the southern section of the town, has never evoked any controversy. On this money by-law only property owners voted.

THE WEATHER.

Mostly fair and very warm.

NEW RECORD IN WHEAT PRODUCTION IN WEST

Crops Have Suffered From Long-Continued Drought, But Recent Rains Better Conditions---Large Increased Acerage Over Last Year, and Average Yield Will Bring Total to Over 200,000,000 Bushels.

WHEAT, bushels ... 205,000,000
ACREAGE in wheat 12,000,000

All indications point to a bountiful crop this year in the Canadian West, and if present favorable conditions are maintained up to harvest time, there is no doubt but that a new high record in wheat production will be established.

A week ago the growing grain in the West, and particularly in Saskatchewan and portions of Manitoba, was suffering from drought, but during the last few days copious rain has fallen at widely separated portions of the area, and conditions have been materially bettered thereby. Some reports of damage by insect pests have been heard, but these are by no means general, and up to this time have occasioned little alarm.

The acreage sown to wheat this year in the three provinces shows a material increase over last season, authoritative estimates revealing the fact that some 12,000,000 acres have been seeded. On the basis of last year's crop, and supporting that the showing per acre of the last harvest be repeated, this would indicate a crop of about 205,000,000 bushels, which would make a new record for the production.

The realization of the long-anticipated two-hundred-million bushel crop of wheat in our West should work out to the general prosperity of the Dominion, and will be an effective answer to the critics who have lamented the tendencies of Canada to overdo her warranted expansion.

AN INSPIRING SERMON TO THE ORANGEMEN IN PARK ST. CHURCH

"The Ne Temere Decree Must Be Cut Off" Says Rev. W. C. Riddiford in a Soul-Stirring Address Last Night

The Orangemen in large numbers turned out to attend the annual Divine service last night, held in the Park street Baptist church. The church was crowded and the audience was deeply impressed by the inspiration and the earnestness of manner with which the Rev. W. C. Riddiford preached the sermon. A number of people were turned away. The members of the Orange Lodges marched to the service in a body. The sermon was as follows:

TEXT.

Judges 7: 7.—"And the Lord said unto Gideon, by the three hundred men that lapped will I SAVE YOU."

My Brothers,—In the name of Jesus Christ, whose I am and whom I serve, I bid you welcome to the precincts of this "House of God." No where are the principles for which our beloved order stands revered and loved, as in a Baptist church, and no one can have a higher estimate of the rank and file of the Orange Order than myself. I have tried in my humble way, since coming to this city to be true to the obligation I took some years ago in the city of Hamilton, when first I joined the Order, I think in a measure I have succeeded in proving myself a loyal supporter and fearless exponent of the precious principles and liberties for which our forefathers bled and died.

I am not ashamed to be called an Orangeman, neither will the rising generation have it to say of me, "He was a coward, and cared more for party than principle." I am opposed to any party, be it Grit or Tory, that takes its reins of Government from the party, instead of the people; and that for a few years of power will sell the precious birthrights which are ours by virtue of the heroic sacrifices of our fathers, you are more or less familiar with the story from which our text is taken.

Gideon, trusting manfully in his Divine Commission sets himself to deliver Israel from the Midianites. Encouraged by the manifestations of God's goodness, he succeeds, as men count success, in gathering together a strong army. And what is the first message that reaches him from God, as he encamped before the Midianites? God says, "The people that are with thee are too many." Numbers do not count with God.

Quality and Quantity is God's standard of life power. One man with God is in the majority. Luther was a greater force for good than all the other dignitaries at "The Deit of Worms." The great reformation was brought about not by a big crowd, but by the faithful heart of an honest, yet humble monk.

The best things in life do not always come by the way of an addition table, but often by subtraction. Jesus Christ believed in the "cutting off process." "If thy right hand offend thee cut it off," and if he was a citizen of Canada, and saw the havoc the Ne Temere Decree is working in our midst, he would say, I believe, "If the Ne Temere Decree offends thee, cut it off," and by God's grace we intend to do it, or know the reason why. Orangemen will never rest contented until there is "One Uniform Marriage Law" for this fair Dominion of ours—but there I almost forgot about our friend and brother Gideon.

Gideon has to submit there in the presence of the enemy with a tradition of disgrace behind him; he, a leader of reputed cowards, has to submit to the departure of twenty-two thousand men, leaving his great army of thirty-two thousand, reduced to a pitiable ten thousand. The fearful and the heavy-hearted go away, and more than half of his host has vanished. We have a number of such folks to-day in the ranks of Protestantism. They have a wishbone where their backbone ought to be. Weak-kneed, wishy-washy souls, more fit for the nursery, that the thin red line of Protestantism, where the battle is waged for Freedom of Speech, Liberty of Conscience, Equal rights to all and special privileges to none, and where the precious bill of rights, and the glorious liberties given to Britons by "William of Orange," of pious and blessed memory are defended, if needs be, by the shedding of blood; and where the flag of Protestantism, the good old Union Jack waves majestically to the winds of heaven—and where inscribed upon the banner of liberty are seen these words in letters of gold, "No Surrender." "What We have we hold."

Let us go back to Gideon, poor fellow, it is so easy to forget him in the enthusiasm of the hour. God said again, "The people are yet too many, they must submit to another test." They are brought down to the water of Harod, near where they were encamped, to be tried with the test of thirst, which has so often proved the value of disciplined troops. Some of them, the great majority, stooped down in their great eagerness to drink the water, the rest, a bare three hundred with splendid self control and a habit, which showed that their minds were elsewhere, and that the coming battle was first in their thoughts, took up the water in their hands and lapped hurriedly, as if anxious not to lose a moment in self indulgence, and looking down from the battlements of glory, the Almighty General of the universe instituted right then and there, the Lap Sign of Orangeism, and decreed "that" by the three hundred that lapped I will save you. There is a place for Orangeism in our national life. There is a purpose worth while in the existence of our noble order—and there is power enough in the principles, and grit enough in every lap sign omitted Orangeman to make Canada the freest, and happiest country under the sun. We need men to-day, who, like Gideon's lap sign heroes, are deeply interested in the welfare of the country. These men possessed three characteristics which every true Orangeman should possess. First: Self control; temperate in all things, the conduct of the Past Grand Master Dr. Sproule, of the Orange Order, in doing away with intoxicating liquors at "The Social Functions of the Speaker of the Dominion House of Parliament," is one of the biggest triumphs in the temperance cause of this country. And it was done by an Orangeman—"And don't forget it, ye blatting hypocrites who see nothing in the Orange Order, but a band of drunkards; The Orange Order has a few poor unfortunates in it, so has every church in this city. Men who have lost their self control. They should be the object of our prayers, and not the subjects of our abuse.

Who banished the canteen from our militia camps. An Orangeman Our own Col. Sam. Hughes. I hope we will all exercise self control next Friday—and perhaps by next 12th of July, we will celebrate the 223 anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, and the glorious victory of William of Orange, by joining in a joint celebration with our T.A.S. friends over the banishment of the bar, with all its evils from our Dominion, forever. Second: Then these men were enthusiastic. Trumpets, pitchers, candles, torches, a big time and rejoicing. Yes, let us be enthusiastic over that glorious victory of the Boyne. Some may we shouldn't make such a fuss over it, but my advice is "Never say die." Tell it to our children. Echo it down the vaults of time. That Britons never, never, never, never will be slaves to an Italian Pope, and that the flag which unfolded itself in joyful pride at the mast-head of William's vessel bearing this inscription, "The Protestant Religion and the Liberties of England" will ever float there so long as there remains our loyal and faithful Orangemen to perpetrate the memory of William of Orange and the Battle of the Boyne. Self control, enthusiasm, determination.

These lap sign heroes of Gideon's were determined men. So should every true Orangeman be. Determined to defend the Protestant faith till the last. Determined to stop the encroachments of Rome upon the individual rights of every free born

COUNTESS AND COUNT JAILED

Got $97,000 From American Girl--Prince of Thurn and Taxis as Bride Seeker

Paris, July 5.—The correctional court to-day sentenced the "Countess Clare" to one years' imprisonment and a fine of £200, and Count Ladislaus Zoltynski to two years' imprisonment and a fine of $400 for obtaining money under false pretences, from Miss Wilhelmina Kemper, in connection with a scheme to arrange a marriage between Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis and an American heiress.

The case came up on appeal in the correctional court. In the previous trial in April, 1910, the court acquitted the two defendants on the ground that the "Countess Clare" was not responsible for the loan of $97,000, which Miss Kemper is alleged to have made to the Count, and that the latter borrowed in good faith to help the prince to find a wife.

The defendants are now ordered to return this money to Miss Kemper.

OFFICES TO BE DIVIDED

New Immigration Officer to be Appointed at Once, as Result of Recent Complaints.

For some time the duties of Immigration Officer and Inspector of Weights and Measures has been performed by one individual, with the result that there were many complaints from people arriving from the old land. The Examiner was the first to call attention to the conditions existing here, the result being that an officer of the Department was sent to Peterborough from Ottawa to look into the matter.

It is altogether probable that the offices will be separated, and a new man will be appointed to perform the duties of Immigration Agent.

AN "UNPLEASANT" INCIDENT.

(Editor Morning Times.)

Sir,—There are a few—and thank the Lord only a few—Protestants, who constantly talk about intolerance of their fellow Protestants. They argue that Protestants and Catholics should live in harmony as Canadians, and forget their religious differences. If, as the Times ably put it a few weeks ago, if the priests would leave politics alone and attend to their spiritual duties exclusively there would be no cause for religious strife. Here is an item which is clipped from the Scotsman, which shows how intolerant our Roman Catholic friends are in the old land. The same feeling exists in Canada as the Church is the same in both countries.

The following is the item referred to:—

"A very unpleasant incident took place on Sunday in Londonderry, where a crowd of Roman Catholics assembled and jeered and groaned as a Protestant funeral passed along to the city cemetery. The circumstances were that two months ago a young Roman Catholic woman married a man named Charles McGahey, the brother of a city magistrate and Unionist working-man member of the Corporation. The woman became a Protestant and accompanied her husband to church. She died on Thursday, and the jeering at her funeral took place in the Long Tower district, a Roman Catholic quarter in which she formerly lived."

By publishing the above you will confer a favor on a number of your readers.

GLORIOUS WAS THE STATE BALL AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE

Queen Wore Gown of Cream and Gold Brocaded Silk and Emerald and Diamond Tiara--She Danced Often, But the King Refrained

London, July 6.—A state ball at Buckingham Palace is one of the most stately ceremonies of the London season. The King and Queen are giving two this month, the first of which was held last night.

When the King and Queen, accompanied by other members of the Royal family, entered the ball room, the sight was a glorious one. There was a glimmering display of jewels, and the white walls of the great chamber showed to perfection the splendid toilet of the ladies, and the gold and silver brocades which are now popular. Delicate shades of yellow, from the deepest gold to the tenderest tint of maize, seemed to predominate but blues, shell pinks, and mauve were much in evidence.

The guests numbered 2,500. The King wore the uniform of the Royal Horse Guards, the riband of the Garter, and a number of decorations.

The Queen's gown was of cream and gold brocaded silk. She, too, wore the riband of the Garter. Her jewels were an emerald and diamond tiara, and her neck ornaments were splendid diamonds. The Queen was frequently among the dancers, but the King only took part in the Royal quadrille, which is little more than a parade.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 65 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 65 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. Take Our Advice and Invest in Transcona To-day

Winnipeg's Railway and Industrial Centre

TRANSCONA is rapidly becoming the recognised manufacturing centre of Winnipeg, and will be to Winnipeg what Toronto Junction is to Toronto.

The Grand Trunk Pacific are rushing to complete their immense shops at Transcona, one unit of theses are already finished, the machinery is now being tested, and in a few weeks' time one thousand men will be employed permanently and other sections will be pleted as rapidly as possible, and will give employment to a small army of mechanics.

The C. P. R. are now building the largest railway yard in the world at Transcona, together with elevators, round houses and other terminal facilities. Several industrial plants are already located in Transcona, and many others will be located there in the near future. The Dominion Tar and Chemical Co., and the Ely Cartridge Company now have their plants in operation. The Manitoba Bridge and Iron Works are building an enormous plant, and expect to have a part of it completed by the first of the year.

The G. T. P. shops will give employment to four or five thousand men, and in the near future the C. P. R. will require fully one thousand mechanics and yard men and the several manufacturing plants will require sufficient men to bring the total number of employees in Transcona up to fifteen thousand, this will mean a city with a population of over fifty thousand people.

Transcona has been incorporated, a progressive Council elected, and contracts have been already let for several mile of sidewalks, streets graded, electric light, and the question of sewage is now under consideration.

Investors who buy in Transcona to-day will make large profits. Real estate values in Transcona are exceptionally low, considering the possibilities of this young City. Lots that we are now offering for $5.00 per ft. and upwards will be worth from $100.00 to $300.00 per ft., in less than five years' time.

Any Investor can make 100 p.c. or more on their money in a very short time by investing in Transcona Lots.

STUDY THE MAP.—Note the Location of our Property—Shown in Black.

PEOPLING THE LAND.

New Brunswick Has Launched on a Striking Campaign.

New Brunswick has decided to keep young farmers in the east and to encourage immigrants of an agricultural turn to settle on lands as yet unfarmed in that province, says Harold Brown in The Canadian Courier. Spending $12,000,000 to make a national harbor of Courtenay Bay does not epitomise the progressive policy of modern New Brunswick. There, as in all other fertile areas of Canada, the land is the thing. New Brunswick is still a province of large unclaimed areas of arable land. While the mad rush for free land is still on in the valleys of the Saskatchewan; while the trek to the free lands of the Peace River is going ahead of the railroads; while large areas of good land are being settled upon in British Columbia; and while Ontario is still pushing back the unsettled boundaries of its huge clay belt — the Maritime Provinces are beginning to realize that it is better economics for the east and better for the immigrant, to settle land which has lain idle along the Atlantic since the Micmacs first hunted the moose in Nova Scotia.

New Brunswick's forward policy on the land question began in a vigorous protest against the continual exodus of thousands of her best young agriculturists to the west; and against the almost more serious efflux of productive population to the eastern States. Newspapers and Boards of Trade, merchants and manufacturers and people in general made the protest something of an organised howl. The howl became an intention. The intention took form in legislation. The bill to encourage the Settlement of Farm Lands was the result.

Precedent to the bill, however, and the direct cause of it, was a somewhat remarkable paper read at the recent Immigration Conference in Fredericton, by Charles H. McIntyre. Mr. McIntyre was born on a stone-knob farm in New Brunswick. While still a youth he managed to get an education as far as graduating from the University of New Brunswick at Fredericton; after which he studied at Harvard, took a course in American law and set up a legal office in Boston, where he is now a prominent citizen, a past president of the Boston Canadian Club, and as much interested in his native province as though he were still living in Fredericton.

"Speaking generally," he said, "the average young man without funds cannot purchase a farm and from its proceeds redeem himself from debt before he is worn out."

Mr. McIntyre cited the examples of several other countries in dealing with the manless land question: England, Germany, Ireland, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand. The basic principle in all these somewhat varying methods of getting idle people on to idle land, and of building homes for workingmen was—some form of state assistance. Most of the aid given by the state took the form of loans to farmers. Mr. McIntyre outlined three methods of Government aid to potential farmers, and he recommended the appointment of a land settlement commission to be the agency by which any one of the three methods should be carried out.

The first-mentioned was the case of the fund in Government savings banks on provincial credit as advance loans to farmers. The second was provincial debentures. The third was bonds issued by the Land Settlement Commission itself, under provincial guarantee.

The bill of the New Brunswick Legislature, born of this idea set forth by Mr. McIntyre, makes the idea into a fact. It provides for the creation of a "Farm Settlement Board" of three commissioners, one of whom must be the Provincial Superintendent of Immigration, who becomes the secretary of the board.

New Western Senator.

Dr. F. L. Schaffner, M.P., for Souris, Man., it is announced, will be the new Senator for one of the Senatorial districts created by the extension of the Manitoba boundary under the bill of last session. He is one of the sturdy political stalwarts of the Government benches who during the dreary days of opposition won his reward by service of a faithful and effective kind and his translation to the Upper House is now said to be certain. Dr. Schaffner is another Maritime Province boy who has made good and has proven that the provinces down by the sea can produce plenty of brainy men as well as fish. He comes of German and English parentage and was born in 1855 at Williams Town South, Annapolis County, and was educated at Acadia College, N.S., and Trinity College, Toronto, where he took his degree in medicine and surgery. He also took post-graduate courses in New York and Chicago and after moving to Manitoba he made rapid success in his profession and is now health officer for Morton and Boissevin, Manitoba, and also a member of the Board of Health for the prairie province. He has been councillor and mayor of Boissevin. He is an able debater, a well-informed politician and would add materially to the talent of the Senate.

File the Documents.

Sir Joseph Pope and Mr. J. S. Ewart are again eating up newspaper space at a terrific rate in the discussion of "The Canadian Flag." It is about the 'steenth time these valiant wielders of the pen have fought out the question, and the probability is that before 1920 they will have threshed it over many times.

In ordr to save the valuable moments of these eminent gentlemen, we suggest that the present correspondence be filed away in the Dominion Archives. Then, whenever occasion warrants, Mr. Ewart can call attention in the press to "Exhibit I—R, chap. 763." and Sir Joseph, in wrath, can reply by mentioning "Exhibit T—R, chap. 15, 608."

The increasing cost of newspaper composition and the growing necessity for a conservation of the tempus fugit call for this reform.—Ottawa Free Press.

Too Much Nothing.

"This cheese is full of holes," complained the prospective purchaser.

"Yes, sir," said the proprietor. "That's right."

BROKE HER PROMISE.

She Hated to Do It, but Then She Felt That She Was Justified.

A widely known motor racer was asked by a friend if he would be so kind as to allow three young women to accompany him while he was trying out a new racing car.

"Why, I can't be bothered with passengers at a time like that, and especially with women. They always talk to me, and I can't have my mind distracted. It might prove dangerous, you know."

"But these girls won't bother you. I'll tell them not to. One of them is my sister. They are crazy to go; want to say they have ridden with you. You know how girls are."

"Well, if you will tell them they mustn't speak to me while I am driving they may go. They mustn't move around or do anything to distract my attention. You impress this upon them. If they are willing to do this they can go."

The promise was made, and they started. At one place the driver ran over a water guard and there was a tremendous bump. He did not try to look around, as he was going at a rapid rate of speed, but presently he felt a timid touch on his shoulder.

"What is it?" he growled.

A weak little voice answered him: "Really, I hate awfully to bother you. I know I shouldn't and promised not to. But I feel I must tell you Helen isn't with us now."—Harper's Magazine.

THACKERAY AT OXFORD.

A Jolt to the Author's Fame and an Awful Libel on Punch.

The ignorance of the scholar concerning what is going on in the world around him is proverbial. But a story of Thackeray's own telling gives an astonishing instance of "cloistered ignorance" at Oxford in the last century. Thackeray, it seems, was to lecture at Oxford and, according to custom, had first to get the vice chancellor's license to do so. This is the conversation that occurred, as the novelist reported it:

Vice Chancellor—Pray, sir, what can I do for you?

Thackeray—My name is Thackeray.

Vice Chancellor—So I see by this card.

Thackeray—I seek permission to lecture within your precincts.

Vice Chancellor—Ah! You are a lecturer. What subjects do you undertake, religious or political?

Thackeray—Neither. I am a literary man.

Vice Chancellor—Have you written anything?

Thackeray—Yes; I am the author of "Vanity Fair."

Vice Chancellor—I presume a dissenter. Has that anything to do with John Bunyan's book?

Thackeray—Not exactly. I have also written "Pendennis."

Vice Chancellor—Never heard of these works, but no doubt they are proper books.

Thackeray—I have also contributed to Punch.

Vice Chancellor—Punch? I have heard of that. Is it not a ribald publication?

Alaska's Delegate.

It takes the Alaskan delegate nearly a year to cover his district in a campaign. He reaches the coast cities by boat, goes down the Yukon to the interior and goes in as far as time and facilities permit to the interior camps. So closely is the population packed in the settled districts, however, that he is able to tell by midnight of election day from the telegraphed reports from the more important cities whether or not he has been elected.—Argonaut.

Always Against Them.

Mike Kelly had been a habitue of the courthouse for fifteen years and at every criminal trial had occupied a front seat, listening with evident admiration to the speeches of the prosecuting attorney.

"Ben," he said one day after the prosecutor had ended his remarks, "I've heard you speak again and again, but never, on my soul, have I heard you say a good word for the poor devil on trial."—Popular Magazine.

Mary's Little Ring.

Mary had a little ring; 'twas given by her beau; and everywhere that Mary went that ring was sure to go.

She took the ring with her one day when she went out to tea, where she might display it to the girls, who numbered twenty-three.

And when the girls all saw that ring, they made a great ado, exclaiming, with one voice, "Has it at last got round to you?"—London Tit-Bits.

Unreasonable.

"What is your objection to Dr. Foodlam?"

"His unreasonableness. He told me I should have to take more nourishment and then charged me so much that I couldn't afford to take any."—Satire.

A WELL SET TRAP

TRIED TO WORK JAY GOULD.

But the Old Financier Was Not to Be Scared by a Black Hand Letter, and His Partner Fixed Up a Scheme That Cleverly Caught the Culprit.

The late Jay Gould arrived at his office one morning in a state of mind. "There!" he said to his favorite partner, flinging down a letter which had been addressed to Mrs. Jay Gould. "I don't mind their writing their scurrilous things to me, but when they begin to send them to my wife it's got to be stopped. What can you do?"

The partner first read the letter. The writer premised that he had lost a great deal of money speculating in Gould stocks, especially Missouri Pacific, and required that he be advised how to get back what he had lost and more besides. Unless Mr. Gould imparted to him straight, bona fide money making information he would destroy Mrs. Gould. The manner in which he desired the information to be imparted was this: Every morning an advertisement should be inserted in the personal column of a certain New York newspaper advising him when to buy and when to sell Missouri Pacific. The advertisement should be written in a code which he had devised, so that he alone would receive and understand the tip.

"I think I can catch him," said Mr. Gould's partner. "Just leave it to me."

Mr. Gould was for calling in Inspector Byrnes at once, but his partner thought they had better wait until they had laid a mine for the offender.

The partner, who had a shrewd understanding of human nature, proceeded in an unexpected manner. It happened that Mr. Gould's firm was very active in Missouri Pacific and controlled the stock's fluctuations. On the next day an advertisement was inserted, as the blackmailer had re- souri Pacific stock went up. A few days later another advertisement was inserted telling him to sell Missouri Pacific. And Missouri Pacific declined. Again he was told when to buy it and again when to sell it, and when this had been repeated a number of times the partner was ready to spring the trap. He inserted an advertisement which took the blackmailer off his guard. It read somewhat like this:

"Missouri Pacific.—The person who has been receiving information to his own profit about the movements of this stock has not kept faith with us. He has been imparting it to others. For that reason it is discontinued."

That was not true. There was not the slightest reason to believe that the blackmailer had imparted his information to others; there had been even no conclusive evidence of his acting on it for himself, as he would not be likely to speculate on so large a scale as to be recognized in the stock market. But even in a few hundred shares at a time a man could make a great deal of money in a short time if he knew beforehand infallibly when the price would rise and when it would fall. Mr. Gould's partner counted upon the man's natural impulse when accused of having, by his own lack of discretion, slain his goose. The impulse would be to deny that he had broken faith. The chances were that he would deny it by letter. The trick was to nail him as he mailed the letter.

Inspector Byrnes was now called into the case. The accusing advertisement was printed on Sunday morning, so that if the blackmailer posted a letter during the day it would be all the easier to catch him. Inspector Byrnes stationed a man at every mail box in the postal district from which the original letter of threat had been posted to Mrs. Gould. Every man who posted a letter anywhere in that district that Sunday was under suspicion. Before he was out of sight a detective, under pretense of posting one of his own, had opened the box with his pass key and had inspected the letter last deposited.

And just before dark a letter addressed to Jay Gould was posted by a well dressed young man, who ten minutes later was in the office of Inspector Byrnes protesting indignantly and declaring his family connections. He did not know on what evidence he had been taken. Mr. Gould's partner was summoned, and he opened the letter, which was exactly the one expected. The writer warmly and truthfully denied that he had imparted the Missouri Pacific information to any one and said that therefore he should expect to continue receiving it as before.

But the blackmailer was no more surprised when confronted by the letter than Mr. Gould's partner was when he saw the blackmailer, for it turned out that he was socially well connected. He was, in fact, the son of a man for whom one member of the Gould firm entertained feelings of friendship. He had done badly with everything and had at last resorted to blackmail. His threat to do violence to Mrs. Gould was empty, though there was no knowing beforehand that such was the case. Mr. Gould was not easily mollified. He thought an example should be made of one of the few threatening letter writers Wall street had ever caught redhanded. The pleading of the young man's family at length prevailed, and he was let off.—New York Post.

After trying several things I heard of your remedy, Catarrhozone and procured a bottle and began using it. I was not long in finding out I had struck the right thing. I am recommending Catarrhozone to all who have catarrh, etc.

AN INSPIRING SERMON

son of the British Empire. Determined to see to it, that no government, no church, shall take the principles of Protestantism and sink them beneath the quagmire of political abuse, or make this young nation blush for shame before the civilized world, for fear of losing a few votes. This Canada of our is a branch of the most Protestant tree in the world England, our motherland. Personally, I cannot forget it, if I would that my mother was a Hugonot, and there is enough French Hugonot blood in my veins to love the French and to hate the tyrannical system of Rome, but at the same time to grant every man the privilege to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience. I am British enough to "Be British," and to be British means to give every man fair play. To "Be British" means to be Protestant and to be Protestant means equals rights to all and special privileges to none. To "Be British" means that "England shall never, never be ruled or bossed again by any foreign Prince or Pope." Britons sons under William of Orange, of pious and blessed memory threw off their papal yoke forever, and never so long as there is left one British heart to sing, "God Save the King," will a papal monarch sit upon the English throne, or a Protestant King become the slave and vassal of the Pope, and the time has come when every British colony should demand the withdrawal of all the delegates back to Rome. And let us Canadians be the first to demand it. What right has the Pope to send or any government to accept from the Pope any of his representatives any more than from any other church. I consider Lloyd-George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer of the British Empire, who is a loyal subject of King George, because he is a loyal and humble member of the Baptist Church, has more right to be called a prince or has as much right, as any Italian-born puppet of an Italian Pope. Who can blame the Canadian Protestants of this British Colony resenting a government which without a dissenting voice, could allow its representatives to say, or any other man for that matter, "We welcome you from Rome on the Tiber to Rome on the St. Lawrence."

That was a basler's lie, an insult to the Protestants of this Dominion. We have no Rome in Canada, and by God's grace, if we Orangemen can prevent it there will never be one; until the last follower and believer in the principles of Orangeism lies dead upon the battlefield wherever it may be, fighting to the last ditch for equal rights for all and special privileges for none. And that day is close at hand. We read that in the last days, "The young men shall see visions and the old men shall dream dreams." That is about to come true. The old man at the vatican has been dreaming of regaining the temporal power in Canada, he has recently lost in France, Spain, Bolivia, Portugal and some other places. I assure the dear old gentleman at Rome, that its a dream and a bad one at that. Montreal, Quebec, nor any other city or place in Canada will ever become a Rome, in any sense of the word. But while our "Lord God the Pope," as he is irreverently called, is kept awake at night by bad dreams—some of us are kept awake at night by having visions. I see the rising tide of Protestantism, like Ezekiel's vision of the rising waters (Chapter 17) issuing out from under the thresholds of our Protestant temples, rushing north, south, east and west gaining force and power as it rushes on its mighty triumphant stream of influence, and culminating its mission to this young and growing Dominion of ours until the last vestage of Popish influence shall be swept forever from our midst and the citizens of this land—this loyal daughter of a greater Empire yet to be "in spite of the German Scare" both Roman Catholics and Protestants shall not be asked by Governments, be they Grit or Tory to listen to the voice of "The Pope or consult a papal legate" concerning the rules and regulations of our national affairs. Canadians, be they French Canadians, Scotch Canadians, Irish Canadians, Italian Canadians, or simple plain born Canadians, like some of us are, nevertheless Canadians, are British to the core and don't you forget, and we intend to remain British. Yes, the tide of Protestantism is rising—now ankles deep, now knee deep, and soon it will have risen high enough, for every Orangeman to swim, and then we shall all take swimming lessons, and it would not be much loss to the country if some of the weak-kneed Protestant politicians who are ashamed of the Protestant principles of their father's would drown in their attempts to try and swim the rising tide of Protestantism in this country. Brethren, get in and swim. Rome would like to get a strangle hold on this country. She started a Eucharistic Congress for the sole purpose of showing the faithful what a big force she was in this country, but it turned out to be a big farce, the biggest farce staged in this country, during the last two centuries. Let us be men of self control. Let us be men of holy enthusiasm. Let us be men of pure motive and spiritual determination. It may cost suffering; It may cost sacrifice; it may cost the price of another "Waterloo," but God is with us. I ask you, yea, I beseech you my brethren of the lap sign order, "Be true to Christ; true to your king; true to the Union Jack; true to the principles of our noble order—and when the great God shall call you higher may it be said of you:

So he died for his faith—that is fine,
More than most of us do;
But say, can you add to that line
That he lived for it to.

It is easy to die, men have died
For a wish or a whim,
From bravado, or passion, or pride.
Was it harder for him?

But to live every day—to live out
All the truth that he dreamt,
While his friends met his conduct with doubt,
And the world with contempt.

Was it thus that he plodded ahead,
Never turning aside.
Then we'll talk of the life that he led
Never mind how he died.

Yes, let us be true to our principles—He who will not suffer for principle has no principle. He who will not suffer for love—love of man, love of country, love of God, does not know what love is. It sinks self to bury self in the interests of God and country and humanity—That is greatness; that is glory.

Do you say that is impossible? I answer, "All things are possible to him who believeth." Do you remember Bunker Hill when all Boston turned out at the unveiling of that famous monument. There stood Daniel Webster. Keep back the crowds. "Impossible Sir!" was the answer. "Impossible." Impossible said Webster majestically and with a wave of his hand, he said to that surging mass of humanity. "Stand back," nothing is impossible on Bunker Hill. So all things are possible with Christ. "We can do all things through Him."—Amen.

BELLEVILLE

[ST. LAMBERT]

BELLEVILLE is 3 miles from the centre of Montreal. It is reached in 20 minutes from the centre of the city, and is guaranteed to be high, dry and suitable for building purposes. Cars run there every 20 minutes for a 5 cent fare.

Land within the three mile radius of Montreal, which touches Belleville includes Westmount, Outremont, and Maisonneuve, where lots cannot be bought for under $1,000 each. Yet Belleville lots can be purchased for from $225 each, payable 10 p. c. cash and the balance by small monthly payments.

The reason for this is that Belleville is on the South shore, and the South shore in the past has been like Cinderella. Although it is the most beautiful residential section round Montreal, the other sections all got good trans portation systems, whilst the South shore, separated by the Victoria Bridge, could not get anything but a slow train service.

To-day all that is changed. Cinderella has come into her own. The South shore has a perfect system of Electric cars One line runs to within a few minutes of Belleville, whilst a new line, almost completed, runs right along the whole of one side of the property.

These lines have been operating for less than two years, yet in that time the South shore has quadrupled its population.

Belleville is in the finest possible location for an investment. It immediately adjoins St. Lambert, which is now practically all sold and built on, and investors there will see their money double and treble within a very few months.

Cookery Notes

Lenten Dishes.

Fish Croquettes.—The remains of any fish, one large onion, a sprig of thyme, three sprigs of parsley, a clove of garlic if you like it. Mince all fine and mix. Season to taste, adding a tablespoonful of butter. Add breadcrumbs in proportion to one-third the quantity. When thoroughly mixed make into balls and flatten like cakes; then dip into beaten egg and cover with breadcrumbs. Fry a delicate brown and serve with cream horseradish or tomato sauce.

Potato Salad of Cold Potatoes.—Cold boiled potatoes can be utilized in a salad, although they do not make as appetizing a salad as one made of the fresh boiled potato marinated with oil and vinegar while hot. For the cold potato salad take three cold boiled potatoes, one large white onion, two hard boiled eggs, nine tablespoonfuls olive oil, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one teaspoonful of salt and four sprigs of nice fresh parsley. A dash of mustard may be added if desired.

Cheese Fondu.—Put two tablespoonfuls of butter into a saucepan and melt without allowing it to brown at all. Then stir in two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour end as soon as smooth pour in half a cupful of fresh milk or cream and let boil about two minutes. Remove from the fire and stir in the yolks of three eggs well beaten; salt and pepper to taste; a grating of nutmeg and a cup of grated Parmesan or Gruyere cheese. Mix all together well and have ready a small pudding dish or individual souffle dishes well buttered. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and beat into the mixture and then fill the buttered dishes about two-thirds full. Bake in a moderate oven about twenty-five minutes. Serve immediately, or the mixture, which has risen to the top of the dishes, will shrink or fall.

Stuffed Dried Herring.—Smoked dried herring are popular with a family where they appear stuffed with savory dressing and baked. The bones of the fish are taken out and the place from which they came is filled with a mixture of fine buttered breadcrumbs, finely minced chives and a little parsley. Then the fish are brushed with butter. A very little water is put in the pan and they are baked about fifteen minutes. Serve them with lemon slices.

Orange Salad.—There cannot be a more delicious dinner salad, and certainly hardly a simpler one, than lettuce leaves that are torn, not cut; bits of orange pulp without a trace of white fiber or seeds and a dressing of oil and vinegar, with a scanty sprinkling of sugar.

Baked Halibut.—Any dry white meat fish, such as halibut, is delicious baked in a thick slice that has been dipped in flour, covered with a layer of tomato pulp or with slices of tomato, sprinkled with a little minced green pepper, seasoned with salt and pepper and baked about twenty minutes.

French Fried Stuffed Eggs.—Take four hard boiled eggs, remove the shells, cut a small bit of the end of each and carefully take out the yolk. Mash this yolk with a silver fork until it is perfectly smooth and add to it some salt, pepper, a small piece of butter and some chopped parsley. Replace all in the whites and cover up end. Beat up the white of one raw egg and in this dip the cooked eggs, and afterward roll them in breadcrumbs. Place all in a wire basket and let them cook for two minutes in boiling lard. Serve with tomato or cream sauce.

Clams a la Newburg.—For clams a la Newburg, as a girl makes it in her chafing dish, cut the soft part from each clam and chop the tough part very fine. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in the blazer with a little salt and paprika and add the chopped clams. Simmer them for about ten minutes. Then add two tablespoonfuls of sherry and the soft clams. At the last stir in quickly the yolks of two eggs beaten into half a cupful of cream and let come near a boil, but not quite to the point. Serve at once.

One Egg Cake.

Cream a half cupful of butter, work in one cupful of sugar, then one egg yolk. When smooth stir in one cupful of milk and gradually two cupfuls of sifted flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with vanilla, bake and ice with the following: Beat one cupful of confectioner's sugar slowly into the white of one egg and flavor with a half teaspoonful of vanilla. Stir over the fire a half cupful of grated chocolate, two tablespoonfuls of confectioner's sugar and one tablespoonful of hot water until smooth, then add one more tablespoonful of hot water and stir into the sugar and beaten egg. Nuts may be added, whole or chopped.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

The history of Crescentwood will be repeated in Oakdale. Where in the former 5 or 6 years ago lots were sold at $15 to $25 per foot, with the same building restrictions as Oakdale Park has to-day, and now $80 to $150 per foot is being paid in Crescentwood and residences to the value of $10,000 to $100,000 are being erected. History will repeat this in Oakdale, but in less time, as it has better Electric Car Service now.

BREAKING THE RULES.

It's the Wise Man Who Knows When to Jump the Track.

"You trumped my ace," said the engineer accusingly when the game was finished and the postmortems were on.

"Well, what of it?" truculently demanded the oracle. "Didn't we win?"

"Yes, but according to all the rules of which"—

"We didn't break any of the rules regulating what you can and can't do. We broke only one regulating what you should do. There's a difference."

"Nevertheless, according to all the rules of the best authorities"—

"According to the rules of the best authorities," the oracle declared, "we didn't have the ghost of a show to win that hand. It was my trumping your ace that made is possible—our winning. I broke the rules, if you wish, but I played fair, and we won.

"In life it's exactly the same as in cards. Stick to the rules and you'll stick in one place. It's the wise man who knows when to break them. I don't mean breaking the rules of fairness and honesty. I means the rules set up by the so-called authorities. I'll bet you when Alexander conquered the world all the old wiseacres shook their heads and remarked that he wasn't observing the time-honored rules of warfare. We know what they said about Napoleon when he fought in winter, and we also know how vexed Braddock's men were with the red men who wouldn't stand up and be shot in the open, but insisted on getting behind trees.

"When you stick by the rules you're like everybody else and you'll never get you name in the papers. When you know when to bust the rules you begin to climb. There never was a successful writer or adventurer or soldier or lawyer who didn't leave whole wastes of broken rules behind him in his progress. And when the conventional old wiseacres got a new set made to fit the new situation somebody else came along and spoiled them all over again.

"Suppose you have a job where you don't need to think. Tradition has made it a rule that a man in that place shouldn't think. By and by you rise. If you'd stuck to that rule you'd stick in the nonthinking job. The men who do the impossible, the men who give us light and gas and printing presses and trolley cars and phonographs and such like things, are all rule breakers. They broke the rule of precedent, of tradition, of doubt, of fear. They wouldn't be stopped by what others had decided were limitations. They went ahead, and if the rules didn't fit the thing they were seeking to accomplish the rules went by the board."

An Occasion When Abell Made Up His Mind in a Hurry.

It is probable that on no occasion has any other musician had to practice his art under more disagreeable circumstances than that in which Abell, a singer of the seventeenth century, once found himself.

It appears that while Abell was rambling through Poland he was sent for to go to court, and after evading the request by excuses for a short time he was commanded to attend. At the palace Abell was placed in a chair in the center of a spacious hall and suddenly drawn up to a great height. The king, with his attendants, appeared in a gallery opposite him as he sat thunderstruck in his suspended chair. At the same instant several bears entered the hall with their keepers.

As the singer gazed in horror at these ferocious creatures the king calmly inquired whether he preferred to sing or be let down among the bears. The singer's choice, of course, was quickly made, and he afterward declared that in spite of his terror he never sang better in his life, although he admitted he might have introduced a few more "shakes" than usual in his songs.—New York Press.

The large warehouse and factory of Mr. V. F. Ackerman in Regina were very badly damaged. The contents of the top storey were scattered over an area of a block along with other debris. Luckily, however, the employees all escaped with their lives, not being of course, in the building at the time. Mr. Ackerman has just received a letter from his representative there describing the damage and asking him to go out there.

Mr. A. J. Gibson, well known in this city, had also $20,000 of damage done to his building.

HOMES OF THE NORTH.

All Sorts of Nationalities Represented In New Ontario.

Have you ever realized that if you place a compass on Toronto and describe an arc embracing Cochrane to the north and complete the circle to the south the line will pass through the Allegheníes in Virginia? asks Ben Hughes in Toronto Globe. And for the one hundred and fifty miles north of Haileybury there are settlers from the big barns and wide clearings at New Liskeard to the logs shacks and the holes in the forest at Cochrane?

Where do the people come from that pioneer in the wilderness of spruce and jackpine.

As the north reckons, Englehart is an old settlement, and therefore it is to be expected that there will be some trim homes in the vicinity. Nor will you be disappointed. Some years ago an English couple, the husband a gardener in an English country house, settled on one of the concession lines between Englehart and Charlton. The individuality of the man is reflected very closely in the character of the house, the trim, well-kept lawn in front, without which to a certain type of Midlander no house is a home. Opposite him lives a German family with a quiverful of children, raising prodigious amounts of onion and cabbage, and in a roomy, go-as-you-please domicile.

Nearly eighty miles north the Pullman cars attached to the T. & N. O. trains four times a day pass within view of the log shack of yet another German settler. A year or two ago he came here from Brazil, where a great number of Teutons are seeking "a place in the sun." However, this particular family found that it was quite possible to get even too much sun, particularly when it is combined with malaria, and they jumped clear across a continent to northern Ontario. The good wife in the middle of winter sometimes sighs for the langorous heat of South America, but the husband last year raised the champion crop of oats along the T. & N. O. and will certainly stay with the country for some time to come.

In the little settlement of Homer there lives a German-Canadian, Sigismund Freiburger. He built the log house and has lived in it; he has cleared the land around it and raised crops on it; yet on the books of the Ontario Government his name cannot be found, and legally he has no right to either the clearing or the home. It is part of the burden of the settlers in Homer, this uncertainty of tenure of land.

It is work for a man, this settlement of the north in the Arctic cold of the midwinter day, when the settler earns his bread cutting out spruce for pulpwood waist-deep in snow; in the forcing-house heat of the spring, when the winter roads have gone and the cattle must be fed with grain brought in, on the settler's back, over a swamp trail where a horse would founder; in the early summer, when the blackfly and the mosquito make life a burden; in the late summer, when the bush fires flame in the sky; in the fall, the best time of all the year, when man and nature are preparing for the long hibernation.

And why all this travail and heavy labor? For the landless, dollarless man, a home and a stretch of land that he acknowledges no man's right to walk on but himself; for a place where his children can run abroad without inhaling the dust of the streets. Little it may seem to those reasonably well to do, but, oh, how infinitely to be desired by the thousands of town dwellers in the bye-streets where the weekly salary is regularly eaten up by the weekly expenditure, and where the future holds out no hope of protection for a rainy day.

Thieves at Work.

The general store of J. T. Braund, at the corner of George and Smith streets, was entered last Monday, the safe being opened and valuable papers taken. The amount of money in the safe at the time did not exceed $5.00. While Mr. Braund stands to lose his cash, the papers have since been recovered.

Tennis Club Tea.

St. John's Tennis Club held their second tea of this season at the Nicholls Oval on Saturday. The players assembled at the courts at 3 o'clock and held a number of interesting matches after which they had tea. Quite a number of members of the club turned out and owing to the splendid arrangements, all had a very pleasant time.

Ravaged by the Storm.

In Friday's storm, John Davidson, on the Harvey Farm, had five milch cows killed by the lightning. James Grant on the Chemong road lost one cow, William Fair, of Cavan, lost five one-year-old calves, and Mr. Nelson Blewett lost two. A Douro farmer had three colts killed by the lightning.

Sunday School Excursion.

The Norwood Presbyterian and Methodist Sunday schools held a union picnic and excursion to Jubilee Point on Friday. The arrangements provided for those who wished to stay over in this city, and quite a number remained for the day with friends here. Those who went on to Jubilee had a most enjoyable time.

Received Places.

Three men from the old country arrived Saturday and secured positions with farmers immediately around Peterborough. The weights and measures officer Mr. G. H. Howson, has been inspecting the large scales at the Standard Iron Co., at Deseronto, the factory was gutted by fire some time ago.

The New Wharf.

The work of drawing stone from Nassau to fill up at the new George street wharf was completed on Saturday. The dredge, which has been working above the Lift Lock, has been dismantled to get under the high level, Norwood road bridge that she may sail down the canal, to be employed in digging the channel to the new wharf.

Lightning Struck Tree.

Three men engaged at work at a new house, opposite the Normal school on Benson avenue, were badly frightened on Friday afternoon when lightning struck a large tree, sending some of the heavy branches to the ground. The men were in a small storehouse, just a few yards from the damaged tree and when the crack came one man was stunned for a short time. Fast footwork for safer quarters followed.

Orillia Plan Failed.

Orillia goes back to Standard time The Daylight Saving scheme has been tried and found wanting. Not so much for any fault of its own, perhaps, but because it was a victim of circumstances. The opposition to it before it went into operation was very bitter in spots, and it did not decrease. The free advertising Orillia received more than made up for o l the abuse, so that the scheme answered the original purpose.

The Times Abroad.

It will be interesting for many of our readers to learn that The Times is not only read throughout this portion of the country, but has also found its way to other countries. Mr. Duyzers who is an esteemed subscriber sends his copy regularly to Holland, his native land. Mr. Duyzer's family are well educated and read English readily. They enjoy their regular copy of The Times.

The Chief at Brantford.

Brantford Expositor: "Chief Thompson, of Peterborough, gave an exceptionally interesting and instructive paper dealing with the vigilant and observing patrolmen, which gave rise to a great deal of interesting discussion. The Chief in his paper took up the observance of the patrolman as regards people, safes, hours, of opening and closing business places, promotion, improvement of education and cleanliness in word and character."

Fired by Lightning.

In the course of its manoeuvres the lightning of Friday afternoon caused considered trouble with the fire alarm telegraph system and for about thirty minutes the entire system was out of commission. Unfortunately, just at this time the lightning played havoc in the Otonabee Power Company's sub-station on Simcoe street, striking one of the transformers which, containing much oil, blazed furiously, and damage to the extent of several hundred dollars will result.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

All Who Lack Vigor, Those Who are Dispirited and Worn Out, Should Read This Carefully

Proof that Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit for my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see that they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box. 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

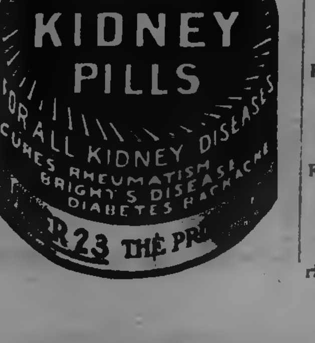
OBITUARY.

William Petterson.

On Friday morning there passed away at 639 Water street, one of the most respected and widely known citizens of Peterborough in the person of William Patterson, after an illness bordering on eight months. The deceased was in his 69th year, the last four of which has been spent as a resident of the city. Previous to that, he followed the agricultural occupation in the county of South Simcoe. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and came to this country half a century ago. It was in the year 1908 that he took up residence in Peterborough, living a more or less retired life since.

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid While such fund is only $60,000.00, the guarantors are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best points of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guarantors, who are equally interested in its management. Home Office, Toronto.



There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PROPOSE TO BUY PALESTINE

Hebrews Organization Have Deep-rooted Desire to be in Possession of Holy Land

Delegates have returned from the Twelfth Zionist Convention of Canada at Ottawa, which comprised 147 delegates from all Canada and was dominated by a spirit of hope and enthusiasm. Reference was made to the tangible results of the year's work.

A tremendous movement, of which Canadians in general have little conception is at the present time stirring in all Hebrew centres and organizations of the Dominion. The deep rooted desire for a home-land which has never yet left these people is today stirring up a remarkable enthusiasm, and the probability of a world-wide return to the Holy Land looms larger than ever before.

Purchase of First Land.

"Already fifty per cent of the money needed for the purchase of the first land in Palestine in the name of the Federation of Zion Societies of Canada has been subscribed and had been sent to the headquarters of the society," he declared.

"Thinking Jews were daily perceiving that Zionism alone offers a complete solution of the Jewish question and that the Hebrew, who have for twenty centuries been the victims of persecution, fanaticism and outrage have at last a means of escape."

"Zionism is our chance for a land of our own. Palestine for the Jews, inch by inch, acre by acre, until every foot o it is owned by our people," urged Dr. Shane, of Toronto.

Hon. Geo. H. Perley, Acting Premier, welcomed the convention, and wished it success in the undertaking.

The new officers include Clarence I. De Sola, president, and A. Levin, of Montreal, treasurer.

REV. H. D. KENNEDY RETURNED TO CITY

Has Been Engaged in Evangelistic Work in California and Indiana.

The Rev. H. D. Kennedy, son of Mr. Dawson Kennedy, accompanied by his wife, is in the city for a few weeks on a visit to his parents, 600 Water street. Mr. Kennedy is a well known evangelist and has made his mark as a pulpit orator. Six years ago he left Peterborough for California, arriving at San Francisco just at the time of the big earthquake, fortunately escaping injury. He labored five years in California, holding sixty evangelistic campaigns in different parts of the States One year ago he went to Indiana where he has lived ever since, and during the twelve months he conducted ten campaigns. In the two States these campaigns meant about 3000 individual meetings.

In conversation with The Times, Mr. Kennedy stated that he found the spiritual life of the church in the United States in a better condition than it was apparently in Canada. He will remain here several weeks before he departs for his home.

THE ORANGE CELEBRATION

The indications are that there will be one of the biggest Orange demonstrations in Peterborough on the coming 12th, that has ever been held in Eastern Ontario. All the lodges in Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland, Hastings, Durham and Haliburton have been invited and special trains will arrive on both railways from every direction. Through the courtesy of Col. Clegg and the 57th regiment, the armouries have been placed at the disposal of the brethren during the day. It is well to understand that in this respect the Orangemen are receiving no favor that would not be granted any other institution under similar circumstances. The drill hall, as the Minister of Militia stated when addressing the Summer Fair, a magnificent building which has been constructed for the use of the Militia is to be used and not kept solely ornament.

The committee who have charge of the celebration have been working overtime and have done everything possible to insure the success of the celebration.

The local brethren have been fortunate in the selection of Mr. C. E. Wiley, as chairman of the committee and Mr. F. F. Reid as secretary. These gentlemen have been assiduous in their efforts to promote the success of the celebration.

HORRIBLE ATROCITIES IN PERU

BOAT HOUSES ERECTED ON RINK STREET MUST BE REMOVED

Owners Will Be So Notified By The City---Romaine Street Sewer To Be Repaired at Once Under Supervision Of The City Engineer. Board of Works In Session Last Night

The City Board of Works met in business session last night, chairman Ald. Buller presiding. There were also present Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen Anderson, Graham, Johnston.

Ratepayers in East City asked for a cement walk on north side of Smith street, a distance of 400 feet west of Concession street. A cinder walk was recently laid here, which, however, is not satisfactory to the petitioners. This matter was left over for proper investigation. Ald. Anderson and Ald. Johnston's motion that a cement walk be advertised was lost; and Ald. Graham and the Mayor's amendment for investigation of conditions in connection with the present cinder walk before a cement one is laid in its place, carried on the chairman's casting vote.

A Protest.

Messrs. Eastwood and T. Rutherford petitioned the board to modify the conditions imposed by Council upon which the structure is to be erected for Mr. Eastwood over the creek on Hunter street. Council had insisted that the walls of this building be of 14 inch brick for the first storey and 9 inches for the second storey; but Mr. Rutherford objected to such conditions, in the face of a permit for nine inch walls having been issued a couple of years ago for the structure over the creek on Charlotte street, now occupied by the Green Music Co.

It being pointed out that the conditions being objected to by Mr. Rutherford are in accordance with the by-law Mr. Eastwood expressed his readiness to comply with same. The present Council are not responsible for the action of a past Council in permitting the erection of the Green Music store building over the creek on Charlotte street with less than 14 inch walls, and the building by-law will for this year at any rate be strictly enforced.

Paving of Chambers Street.

Mr. Lytle addressed the board and offered to pave Chambers street with reinforced expansion jointed concrete, a pavement rapidly growing in popularity with municipalities every year.

It was moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by the Mayor,—That tenders for paving Chambers street be invited.

Aldermen Johnston and Anderson moved in amendment that the contract for this work be awarded Mr. Lytle, and that specifications governing this work be prepared by the City Engineer. It was finally decided that the awarding of this contract be left in abeyance until the City Engineer submit plans and specifications governing this work to the board.

The cost of street paving will be paid for as follows: 60 per cent by the ratepayers fronting such streets and 40 per cent by the city from its general rate, the city also to bear the cost of paving intersecting streets.

Boat Houses Must Be Removed.

Citizens who have erected boat houses at the end of Rink street will be brought up with a round turn by the authorities.

Moved by Ald. Anderson, seconded by the Mayor,—That the parties who have erected boat houses on Rink street be notified to remove them.—Carried.

Romaine Street Sewer.

Moved by Ald. Anderson, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the City Engineer be instructed to have repairs made to the Romaine street sewer, as outlined by Mr. Chipman, after consulting with the City Engineer.—Carried.

Ratepayers on Sophia street asked that the sidewalk they petitioned for be four feet instead of five feet. This matter was left in abeyance pending consideration of the advisability of changing the by-law, which provides that all sidewalks be five feet in width.

Harvey-Waterford Streets Sewer.

City Engineer Hay, reported that the cost of constructing the Harvey-Waterford streets sewer would call for $1,657.66 being raised by a general rate. The problem of raising this amount of cash this year proved a knotty one, and the board decided to go slow until they could see their way clear to raise the necessary cash without creating an overdraft.

Mr. Moore's request that the steps from Bethune street to the corner of Smith street, opposite petitioner's property, be renewed, was not granted. Board considered that such steps are exclusively in Mr. Moore's benefit, hence their action. Ald. Johnston, however argued that Council had previously recognized the importance to the public of these steps by constructing a cement crossing at this point, and moved that new steps be built at the city's expense. Ald. Johnston, however, secured no seconder to his resolution.

Romaine Street Drain.

Moved by the Mayor, and seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the Engineer write the Grand Trunk authorities regarding access beneath their track for thoroughly draining Romaine street.—Carried.

CAMORRIST FOUND GUILTY AFTER TRIAL OF OVER A YEAR

Verdict in Great Italian Trial After Two Years--Exciting Scenes in Closing Hours

Viterbo, July 8.—The verdict in the Camorra trial was handed down today. Nine of the accused were unanimously declared guilty of the murder of Genero Cuocolo and his wife. The remainder of the band were found guilty of belonging to a criminal association.

Viterbo, Italy, July 8.—It is believed that the Camorra trial which has been going on for two years will come to a conclusion to-day and great excitement prevails all over the town. Reinforcements of troops and mounted police have arrived to assist in maintaining order, although whatever sentence is pronounced serious trouble is not expected. A body of 300 police has been especially entrusted with the surveilance of the court and its precincts.

A number of the relatives of the accused comprising wives, sisters and mothers, arrived here this morning bringing a votive offering of wax candles as a present to the Madonna while others brought gifts for St. Rosa, the patron of Viterbo. Many of them took up their position early to-day in the church facing the court house, where they remained kneeling beating their breasts and imploring mercy for their beloved ones.

Priest Vitozzi Prays.

The presiding judge resumed his summing up of the evidence with fresh vigor to-day, taking the greatest pains to explain to the jury the exact position of each of the accused and the significance of each of the 144 questions which the jury must answer.

All the accused maintain an absolutely calm demeanor. As most of them are veterans they seem better able to conceal their anxiety.

Only Ciro Vitozzi, the priest known as the "guardian angel of the Camorra," displays any kind of shame at being forced to enter the iron cage with the other prisoners. He mutters prayers all the time, saying: "I am in the hands of God and of the jurors whom I pray the Almighty to illuminate."

In Sad Plight.

Genero Ibello head of the Camorra in the Vesucian villages with eyes red from weeping remarked: "The Crown prosecutor withdrew the accusation against me. Therefore I am practically acquitted. I have, however, spent five years in prison and lost $100,000. My house has been destroyed and my wife died from a broken heart. If I am set free I will be a beggar."

Abbatemaggio the informer, remains serene and almost jovial, saying: "I have said the whole truth, I haven't a single word to change. Those are the murderers of Cuocolo."

The jurors maintain an impenetrable front. They have been provided with couches if it should be necessary to spend the night in discussing their verdict. It is believed that this will take seven hours.

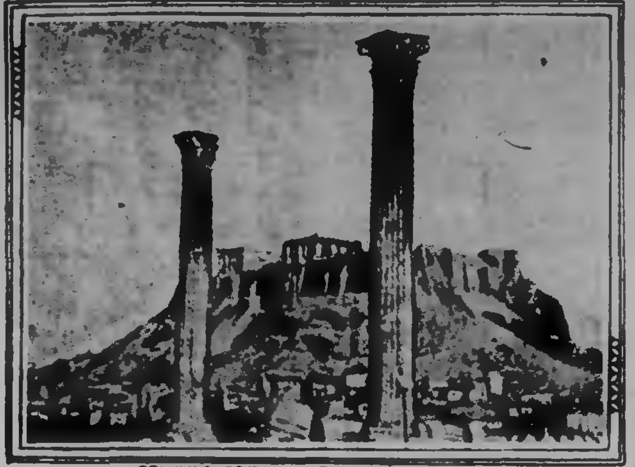
SEEK MEMORIAL TO WRIGHT BROTHERS IN THE TEMPLE PILLARS AT ATHENS



COLUMNS OF THE TEMPLE OF JUPITER

Mr. L. L. Caftanzoglu, the Chargé d'Affaires of the Greek Legation in Washington, has asked his government to aid the Aero Club of Dayton, Ohio, which purposes erecting a memorial to the Wright brothers, fashioned after columns of the Temple of Jupiter from the ruins at Athens.

The Greek government will probably select a Greek artist to make models of the pillars and send them here, so that copies can be erected at Dayton. This request on behalf of the Dayton Aero Club was recently made to the Greek Legation in Washington by James M. Cox, Representative from Ohio.

FIENDISH TORTURES OF MEN AND WOMEN BY PERU AGENTS

Burned to Death With Oil; Cut to Pieces or Shot For Brutal Amusement--Indian Tribes Nearly Wiped Out

London, July 8.—No scandal for many years has attracted so much attention in philanthropic and diplomatic circles in this country as the Putumayo atrocities. They have been at last fully revealed to the public by the report of Sir Roger Casement, H. M. Consul-General at Rio de Janeiro since 1909, who was sent by the British Government to Amazon district of South America to investigate certain terrible stories which had leaked out as to the way in which an English rubber company employing British subjects, negroes from Barbados, had been carrying out the work of collecting rubber.

The Congo crimes were as child's play to the atrocities on the Putumayo. Fearing neither God nor man—for the few Catholic missionaries protested in earnest, outspoken fashion, but in vain, while the Peruvian authorities either could not or would not intervene—the rubber crusaders employed the means of torture with all the refinements of modern ingenuity. At first it was fortunate that neither the British Government nor the public had any part, lot, or responsibility in the campaign of greed lust and blood. But this was all changed in 1905, when some thirty-six Barbardian negroes—British subjects—were engaged to act as deputies to the Latin American filibusters.

One Man Killed 26 in a Day.

The slave gangs often were starved. They died in their long marches under burdens as heavy as themselves. The chain gang officials took life merely for the amusement of the thing and one day one man alone killed 26 persons, shooting some, cutting off the heads of others and hanging up the rest until they were choked with the chains around their necks. One man tied up a boy and poured some kerosene oil over his long hair, set it alight and then threw him into a fire. The boy screamed out and begged to be taken out, but he was soon burned up.

Buried Chief Alive.

No regard whatever was paid to age or sex. Women were killed as frequently as men. A mother suckling her baby would be caught on an expedition and beheaded with a knife. Often they were tied up to trees and shot at. Sometimes they were put in rows and a bullet sent through several of them together. To amuse his friends a man would blindfold a girl and send her to walk away from the house. He would then shoot her dead. Live fires were lighted under the old people. A man would be asked to blow down a rifle barrel for amusement; innocently he would do it and at once the trigger would be pulled and his head would be blown off. Families usually perished together. An Indian Chief was buried alive in the presence of his wife and children; the wife was then beheaded and the children dismembered and thrown on a fire. Two hundred lashes a day was quite a common penalty. The list of horrors might be continued definitely, but enough has been said to show its nature.

Women Victims.

No woman's honor was safe, though martial affection and simple virtue were admittedly features of the tribal life. Moral offences were perpetrated often under circumstances of fiendish ingenuity. For some reason one of the women offended her master and he at once had her hung up and scourged. Every old person was remorselessly slaughtered to stop them giving the younger generation good advice. To avoid leaving the traces of flogging a system was adopted of tying the victims' arms, fastening the bodies together and holding them under the surface of the rivers. They were usually dragged out half dead and sometimes actually drowned. Even when confined in the stocks they were treated with unspeakable barbarity. A man would go around with a club and batter the victim's body until death mercifully released him. Indeed the whole country reeked with slaughter.

WEDDING BELLS.

Score—Hinds.

A very pretty, but quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hinds, when their eldest daughter, Miss Annie Ioleen, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Edward Blake Score, of Toronto. The bride was attired in a very pretty gown of white voile over white silk and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The happy couple left on the 4.19 C.P.R. train for their new home in Toronto.

A WOMAN WHO LANDED TITLES

Interesting Record Of A Remarkable Woman

THE QUEEN MOTHER HOME

Ex-King Manuel of Portugal Has Returned from Switzerland — Beer and Bacon Dances Among the Latest Fads in Society.

London, July 5.

GOING abroad is the characteristic of the average American woman of wealth. In this connection the memoirs of one of the band of "Social Promoters," who pick up a more or less uncertain income introducing tilt-hunting American millionairesses into English society, will reveal to the world some of the methods used. The woman in question was turned matrimonial agent will tell how she frequently obtained titles for American heiresses, her specialty being a thorough knowledge of wealthy Chicago, New York and Pittsburg families seeking matrimonial alliances with European aristocrats.

Queen Mother.

Queen Alexandra has returned to London from Copenhagen, and will stay in England until about the middle of August, when she is going to Norway for two or three weeks, and afterwards to Denmark for the autumn.

Ex-King Manuel.

Ex-King Manuel has returned to Richmond after spending a few weeks in Switzerland for the benefit of his health. He stopped for two days at Brussels on his way to England, and dined one evening with Prince and Princess Victor Napoleon at their villa. Princess Victor is a cousin of Queen Amelie.

Should Be Great on Law.

If there is anything in heredity, there is at least one baby in England who should some day make a great lawyer. He is the infant son of Viscount and Viscountess Wolmer and will one day be Earl of Selborn. His great-grandfather was the famous jurist, Sir Roundell Palmer, afterwards Lord Selborne, and lord high chancellor of England. His grandfather, the present Lord Selborne, was a capable barrister before he entered statecraft and became a successful high commissioner of South Africa. His mother was the Hon. Grace Ridley, daughter of Sir Matthew White Ridley, once home secretary, and niece of Justice Ridley, another distinguished lawyer. For this reason alone the youngster's career will be watched with more than usual interest.

Beer and Bacon.

The latest society fad is to have "beer and bacon" dances. The form of invitation is as follows: "Do come and dance. Beer and bacon at five."

A Foremost Peer.

One of the foremost peers in the Tory party has now sad reason to regret that he did not remember in this the old adage, "Tis well to be off with the old love before you are on with the new." It seems that he had for some months been carrying on a flirtation with a young and beautiful lady; but when she was out of town recently on a holiday he transferred his affections to another fair damsel. His first love, however, happened to ring-up his flat one day, and was naswered by her rival. The two had a long conversation together, and now the gentleman is in fear and trembling lest his duplicity should become known among his friends, a proceeding he is most anxious to avoid.

Saturday afternoon, August 3rd, is the date fixed for the Printers' Picnic. The steamer Stoney Lake will take the excursionists to Jubilee Point, and the committee in charge promise one of the most enjoyable outing of the season. Don't forget the date—Saturday, Aug. 3rd.

G. M. ATLAS IS ON THE SCENE IN THE FARMERS BANK CASE

"Opens His Heart To Me In Jail" He Says--Refuses To Give Name---3,000 Cheque May Be Identified at Last

Toronto, July 8.—It may be that when the investigation into the downfall of the Farmers' Bank is resumed before Chief Justice Sir William Meredith that Rev. George M. Atlas will be called on to testify in regard to certain conversations which are alleged to have taken place between him and ex-Manager William Travers in the Toronto jail. During the course of one of these conversations, it is declared that the disposition of the mysterious $3,000 cheque was discussed by Travers, who told Mr. Atlas the name of the person who had received it. The name mentioned, it is said, is that of a politician.

Troubles of His Own.

When seen Mr. Atlas declined to discuss the matter, beyond saying that if he was called on, he would have to testify.

"God knows," he added, "I have had enough trouble of my own without wishing to embroil myself with other people's affairs. I am not seeking further publicity, and I have nothing to say except that if I am needed to give any testimony I shall have to do so."

In answer to another question, Mr. Atlas stated that during the two months he had been associated with Travers in the jail, the latter had told him many of his troubles. "He opened his heart to me," he added, "But what he said is a matter of confidence between ourselves, and I certainly do not intend to make it public."

"But if the Commission call on you to do so?" he was asked.

"In that case," he answered, "I suppose I shall have to give evidence. But I have nothing to say until I do."

MRS RICHARD HARDING DAVIS
MR. RICHARD HARDING DAVIS.

Mrs. Richard Harding Davis has started suit for divorce in Chicago, charging desertion.

OBITUARY.

Daniel Comstock.

There passed away yesterday a well known resident of Kendal, Ont., in the person of Mr. Daniel Comstock, aged 77 years.

The deceased gentleman, who was born in Colborne, has for a great number of years ran a grist mill and saw mill, and was well known, and highly respected throughout this locality. He is survived by a sorrowing wife, one son, Manson, and two daughters, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. (Rev.) Snell. Two brothers also lament his demise in the persons of John of St. Catharines, and Aaron of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place this afternoon from the late residence of the deceased to the family burying ground.

NATIVE BOY SERVANT MENACE TO WHITE WOMAN

Johannesburg, July 6.—An extraordinary outburst of feeling has occured in this city and vicinity against what has come to be known as the "black peril."

Some time ago a similar outburst was caused in Rhodesia by the action of the Governor General, who reprieved a native convicted of attempted outrage upon a white woman and sentenced to death. At that time it was explained to those who were unfamiliar with South African conditions the reasons for the deep feeling which is always close to the surface of South African social life, and ready to flame out on any real provocation. The basis of this feeling is the consciousness that the white race in this country is a small minority of the total population, that in many districts white women have constantly to be left alone by day and even by night without the protection of their men folk and that under such conditions the only possible safeguard for the white woman is a feeling of awe and respect in the mind of the native.

It would naturally seem that these conditions cannot possibly attain in a great town like Johannesburg, or even in its more remote suburbs. Those who think this are misled by their lack of knowledge of the conditions which prevail in the up-country towns of South Africa. It is impossible in many of these towns to obtain native women as domestic servants. White servants are still more difficult to get, and the wages which have to be paid to them are prohibitive in the great majority of cases. Under these circumstances the custom has grown up of employing native "boys" (who are grown native men) to all the domestic work. The system is no doubt pernicious in itself. But it is the outcome of the special conditions of life on the Rand and in other towns in this country. A real substitute for the system has not even been suggested. Its results owing to the close contact which it naturally creates between these native servants and their white mistresses, are to lessen the feeling of respect which the native has hitherto entertained for the white woman, and to cause a gradual but formidable increase in the number of cases of outrage committed by natives.

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid. While such fund is only $60,000.00, the guarantors are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best points of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guarantors, who are equally interested in its management. Home Office, Toronto.

BURIED ANOTHER WOMAN BY ERROR

Paris Porter Astonished When Wife Returned from the Hospital.

Paris, July 5.—Some three months ago a Mme. Thomas, wife of a porter at the Halles, was admitted as a patient to the hospital of the Hotel Dieu. About the middle of May M. Thomas received a notice from the hospital that his wife had just died there. In due affliction the husband repaired there and on the mortuary slab certainly recognized the body of the late Mme. Thomas. All his friends rallied round him and subscribed for a wreath, and the next day the market porter, with his employer, and the keeper of the wine shop that he habitually patronized, followed the coffin to the Ivry cemetery, after which the widow went into the usual mourning.

The other day Mme. Thomas was discharged from the Hotel Dieu and naturally went straight back to her room, which she found empty. She next repaired to the bar, whose proprietor nearly fainted at the sight of her. It was in vain that he and his customers explained that she was dead and had been buried three weeks ago, and while the question was being argued M. Thomas dropped in. "Look there, you donkey—there is your wife, who is as alive as you are," were the words addressed him by the proprietor. A furious quarrel ensued, as madame seemed very vexed at the mistake, and declared that she would no longer be a wife to him since he had so quietly made up his mind to bury her before she was dead.

A good many delicate points will now arise, for according to numberless official papers and certificates Mme. Antoine Thomas departed this life in regular form three weeks ago, and was properly buried, wherefore her existence to-day is a defiance to the administration, and M. Thomas, fortified with legal documents, is undoubtedly a widower to-day, free to take another wife, and unable to compel his former spouse to resume her place and duties.

FRANCE'S MORROCAN "ARMY" UNSTABLE

Paris, July 5.—The "great" Morrocan army, which alarmed Europe for a time, giving France the probable preponderance in the number of soldiers she could put in the field has vanished into thin air. The Morroccans enlisted by France proved so unreliable and such bad soldiers that the French War Minister was glad to dismiss them wholesale. Of the two "army corps" on paper, only one hundred and fifty men remain, and they have to be watched lest they desert or run away in battle.

Just the same, the alleged Morrocan army cost the German people tens of millions per year, since the Kaiser used the story as a club to force through his bill for an increase in his own army.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly; Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager, 45 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 85c, and well worth it, too. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 85c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. Take Our Advice and Invest in Transcona To-day

TRANSCONA is rapidly becoming the recognized manufacturing centre of Winnipeg, and will be to Winnipeg what Toronto Junction is to Toronto.

The Grand Trunk Pacific are rushing to complete their immense shops at Transcona, one unit of theses are already finished, the machinery is now being tested, and in a few weeks' time one thousand men will be employed permanently and other sections will be pleted as rapidly as possible, and will give employment to a small army of mechanics.

The C. P. R. are now building the largest railway yard in the world at Transcona, together with elevators, round houses and other terminal facilities. Several industrial plants are already located in Transcona, and many others will be located there in the near future. The Dominion Tar and Chemical Co., and the Ely Cartridge Company now have their plants in operation. The Manitoba Bridge and Iron Works are building an enormous plant, and expect to have a part of it completed by the first of the year.

The G. T. P. shops will give employment to four or five thousand men, and in the near future the C. P. R. will require fully one thousand mechanics and yard men and the several manufacturing plants will require sufficient men to bring the total number of employees in Transcona up to fifteen thousand, this will mean a city with a population of over fifty thousand people.

Transcona has been incorporated, a progressive Council elected, and contracts have been already let for several mile of sidewalks, streets graded, electric light, and the question of sewage is now under consideration.

Investors who buy in Transcona to-day will make large profits. Real estate values in Transcona are exceptionally low, considering the possibilities of this young City. Lots that we are now offering for $5.00 per ft. and upwards will be worth from $100.00 to $300.00 per ft., in less than five years' time.

Any Investor can make 100 p.c. or more on their money in a very short time by investing in Transcona Lots.

WILES OF GEM THIEVES

GENIUS AND RESOURCE NOW MARK THEIR CALLING.

The Day of the Clumsy Window-Breaking Jewelry Robber Has Passed Because Merchants Have Adopted All Sorts of Safety Contrivances—The Criminal Has Now Set His Wits Against the Inventor.

The "crook" of to-day who makes a specialty of jewel robberies possesses nerve and ingenuity which, applied to more legitimate pursuits, would assuredly earn for him a fortune. Of course, there is the clumsy thief with very limited brain, who smashes the jeweler's window with half a brick hoping to be able to decamp with a handful of jewels ere passers-by and the jeweler's assistants have recovered from their surprise. The up-to-date jeweler, however, checkmates the window-smasher by hanging an extra plate of glass from the ceiling by chains just inside the window pane The force of the brick might break the outside glass, but it would be checked by the inner plate, and, even if it did break the latter, the thief would have two jagged holes to put his hand through—a difficult job to manage successfully.

And then there is the equally clumsy thief who enters a jeweler's shop, ostensibly to purchase jewels, and endeavors to bolt with a number which he snatches off the counter, quite forgetting that there are such things as automatic closing doors, and that, while one assistant is serving there are usually one or two others seemingly deeply engaged in various work connected with the shop, but in reality standing in close proximity to the door, and ready to circumvent any such trickery.

The clever jewelry thief, however, adopts quite different tactics. Take for instance, the man who a short time ago, became known as a regular, if not a very wealthy, customer at a West End (London) jeweler's. He frequently made small purchases, and admired at the same time the more costly jewels displayed in the cases on the counter. One day he asked to look more closely at a certain diamond necklace which he had previously admired, and the obliging jeweler took it out of the case to show him.

After duly praising it, the customer handed it back and the jeweler would have taken no further note of the incident had he not happened to notice that the necklace had attached to it a tag of buff color. All goods in the shop bore white tags and he immediately surmised that something was wrong. The man was detained and search revealed that he had the original necklace while the other handed back to the jeweler was an imitation.

It appeared that during the several visits paid by the customer he had made a close study of the necklace as it lay in the case taking in the minutest details and from memory had an imitation made from paste diamonds, correct enough in every particular to deceive almost anyone; and this he had exchanged for the real necklace while admiring it. Had he not made the small mistake of attaching to it a wrong-colored tag the jeweler might still be bemoaning the loss of a $2,500 necklace.

This palming of real jewels and handing back imitations is a favorite game with jewelry thieves, and only by the greatest care can loss at their hands be prevented. An elaboration of this trick has, by the way, been tried very successfully both in London and in New York. A smartly-dressed woman with a pretty child—usually a girl—drives up to a fashionable jeweler's and asks to inspect a selection of stones. Naturally the child displays a certain curiosity, which is apparently checked by the lady, who frequently admonished the youngster with words: "No, darling; you must not touch these things. Keep your hands away."

The child seems so innocent of wrongdoing that the jeweler suspects nothing, and perhaps engages the child in conversation, and it is while so doing that he offers the lady an opportunity for substituting some paste stones for the real. Or, if a chance occurs, the lady will detract the jeweler's attention from the child for a moment and allow the precocious youngster, who, of course, has been trained for the part, to effect a substitution of the imitation for the real.

And then there is the old dodge, still worked very successfully, of affixing a piece of cobbler's wax in the hollow heel of a boot, accidentally knocking off a ring or so from the counter, treading on it, and after submitting to a search by the suspicious jeweler and threatening all sorts of legal proceedings for indignity, walking out with the spoils, worth perhaps $200 or $300.

The half-eaten apple scheme is also an old one, but even now is worked successfully. The operator enters a store munching an apple, and while examining uncut stones, presses one into the apple, casually saunters to the door, and throws it out. Then he returns and buys a little something. His confederate on the outside gets the apple and the stone.

The umbrella-carrying thief is also another one to look out for. It is easy to sweep goods off the counter into the folds, and the alert salesman always keeps his eyes open to the stranger who handles a handerchief while looking over goods but apparently does not put that article to natural use.

Perhaps Ignorance Was Bliss.

Mabel—I have at last experienced the great, the wonderful event of my life. Yesterday, when the sudden failure of the electric light at the Blank's reception plunged the company into darkness, he kissed me passionately.

Julia—Who?

Mabel—Who? That's just what I should like to know!

Must Wait Fifty Years.

E. D. Armour wrote to the Toronto Board of Control recently offering the city a century plant, which, he said, had been in the possession of his family for fifty years.

The board accepted with thanks and recommended that the plant be placed in the Allan Gardens.

"It will bloom in fifty years," said the mayor.

NORSEMEN NEEDED.

New Ontario Requires the Scandinavian Peoples.

"Ontario is now obtaining a larger proportion of the right sort of men and women from the United Kingdom whom we require; this result is largely due, I think, to the good accounts that are sent 'home' by those who have settled in the most British province of the Dominion since we established headquarters in London and organized a campaign throughout Greater Britain." Mr. C. C. James, C.M.G., former Deputy Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government, made these remarks to a representative of the press not long ago. "Now that the superior opportunities Ontario can offer various classes of intending emigrants are becoming better appreciated, we hope to use the machinery of our agencies on this side more effectually in sending the right people to the right localities. For instance, my visit to Norway, Sweden, and Denmark has confirmed an impression I formed on my first short visit to these areas two years ago that there is a large Scandinavian population who will find in the prolific virgin soil of the newly-opened areas of Northern Ontario, climatic and other conditions similar to those in which their present persevering, intelligent hard work leaves them only a bare subsistence. While I should be very careful as to what British agriculturists I advised to settle in Northern Ontario, I think it would be difficult to make a mistake in encouraging Scandinavian emigrants to these areas, and the more of this class of foreign settlers we can get into Northern Ontario the better it will be for the province, and, indeed, for the Dominion as a whole.

"Ontario has become a great manufacturing province, by far the largest in Canada, and her growth in this regard is increasing more and more. The one thing in which Ontario has been deficient, and for which she has had to depend upon the adjoining states, is coal, but the great water powers, and the distribution of electric power will soon make the province well-nigh independent of the coal fields of Pennsylvania. That Northern Ontario also has its part to play has been shown by the recent mining developments in the Cobalt area and the Porcupine district; its local markets will in time be unexcelled. For the present we advise the British newcomer to spend a year or two in Southern Ontario before taking up land in the area more remote from conditions as to schools, neighborly intercourse, and general routine, than those he has been accustomed to in Britain. Toronto, our capital, it should always be remembered, is within seven days' reach of London, and in the centre of the most thickly populated area of all Canada. Our manufacturing industries are growing so rapidly in the area that the agriculturist is sure of his market. But speaking as Deputy Minister of Agriculture, responsible for advice to the emigrant, it is to the agriculturist, the domestic servant, and the prudent investor, that we hold out the most inducements."

As illustrating the extent of the organization of Ontario's Department of Agriculture, for the benefit alike of the new-comer and the native born, it may be mentioned that it has fifteen district representatives in various parts of the province, and there are eleven separate branches, managed by experts in dairying, live stock, fruit growing, or co-operating with farmers' institutes, agricultural societies, and women's institutes.

"The latest addition to the Agricultural Department," concluded Mr. James, "is a veterinary college, which will shortly have a new building in Toronto, and add to the opportunities afforded at Guelph, at Kingston, and Toronto, for the most practical education to be given upon reasonable terms, to the sons and daughters of those who decide to cast in their lot with the prospering Province of Ontario."

Mr. James was recently appointed a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, upon the recommendation of the Governor-General, Earl Grey, as a recognition of his general services in promoting the scientific promotion of agriculture in the Dominion.

Following the Rule.

"Barbara," the teacher scolded, "your writing exercise is very nice except the last line, which is dreadful. Why do the letters stagger and fall over one another in that disgraceful way?"

Barbara raised reproachful blue eyes wet with tears. "You 'ticularly said write every line better than the last!" she reminded her mentor.—New York Press.

AN AID TO LAW.

Experience has proven that the most promising field for the detective dictograph is in aiding the enforcement of the law. The little device, which weighs less than a pound, hears where the human ear is deaf, and its presence may be hidden behind a partition or in a desk or drawer. In a room of ordinary size, it gathers every sound, even whispers from the fartherst corners, and transmits them, magnified in volume, to the receiver.

When used by a detective, the receiver is a near-by room, or on the floor below, but in one case the Burns detectives used it over a wire a mile long. The inventor of the dictograph says that it will reverse the old method of working up confessions of criminals. That method was to put accomplices in separate cells, and then to deal with them one at a time, telling each that the other had "peached" and urging him to get even by telling his story on the other.

The new method is to imbed a dictograph in the concrete wall of a large cell, put the accomplices together and have the officers of the prison to keep away from them, but to let their friends and kins-people visit them freely. Sooner or later they are sure to talk of their crime and to give a number of clews from which conclusive evidence may be worked up, because human nature cannot keep such secrets locked in silence.

It is easy to realize what a great help the dictograph would have been would have been in the days of the Spanish Inquisition, but it is obvious that the operators of the rack, the wheel and the thumbscrew would have been out of employment, because exacting confession by torture would have been useless when the dictograph was ready to extract the truth by means entirely simple and painless.

COLLEGE SOCIALISM.

A significant manifestation of the growth of Socialism in the United States is found in the rapid increase of Socialist societies in the colleges. It is a manifestation that is well worth studying, however much inclined some may be to belittle it as superficial undergraduate enthusiasm for a new cause or as a youthful interest in a passing fad. Since 1905, when the college movement in behalf of Socialism in that country was begun, societies have been formed in forty-nine colleges. The annual report of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, which was made public a few days ago, shows that twenty of these Societies have been organized within the last year. They are found in all parts of the country.

It is also to be recognized that in many of the institutions Socialism is now taught by professors who are devoted to its principles. All of this does not of necessity means that Socialism in one of its many forms is getting possession of these great centres of learning, any more than the election of one Socialist congressman and half a dozen Socialist mayors that it is destined to become a dominating political influence, but it does help to disprove the familiar assertion that Socialism is confined to newly-arrived malcontents. The American undergraduates now enrolled in these societies number about 1000. It is not a great host in comparison with the total number of students, especially when we remember that the undergraduates are not half so serious as they often think they are, but the movement is nevertheless a symptom to be watched.

NEITHER SAFE NOR SIMPLE.

The first warm days awaken a longing for the "simple life" in the heart of the dweller in the city who all at once feels the lure of the farm and sighs for a safe, quiet, country haven. In his thought the word "country" is synonymous with the terms "safe" and "simple." Yet, if the truth be told these two words are far more descriptive of urban existence. Life on a farm is an elaborate affair and ever presents a succession of complicated problems to be solved which arise long before the sun and never set.

Country life is not "simple," and just now we are learning from statistics that it is far from safe. This fact has already been proved by investigation, that those engaged in agriculture suffer much more from accidents than do those employed in any other occupation. In Germany, where the matter has been specially tabulated, it has been shown that the total number of mishaps resulting in temporary disability, 45 per cent occur in agricultural work; 9 per cent each in iron and steel trades and building operations, 8¼ per cent in mining. The agricultural laborer, who has to handle teams, machines, and explosives, is of course specially subject to accident; moreover, it has been demonstrated that modern methods increase rather than lessen the risk in this "dangerous" occupation.

After all, there is only one absolutely "simple" way of satisfying human wants, and that is by placing one's finger upon a small electric button in a well regulated hotel; there, screened from the harassing insect world (which makes life on the farm a constant battlefield), cooled by electric fans and soothed by pleasant music, one may enjoy the "simple life," free from attendant dangers, always excepting those that threaten the contents of one's pocketbook.

Editorial Notes

Always let your wife buy your ties. She knows just the kind that will queer you with other women.

There can be no further doubt of the sincere determination of Mrs Pankhurst. She has made it absolutely clear that she would rather vote than eat.

With the utmost nonchalance in the world the fact is chronicled that seventy Chinese assassins have left their homes for Pekin in order to massacre the Cabinet. It is really not wise to let everybody know your business that way.

Who cashed the check that Travers went to Peter Ryan? is a question which may be answered when there is an authoritative reply to the older query, Who struck Billy Patterson?

Another revolution has been overthrown in Nicaragua, and the dispatches announce that the gentleman is now in jail.

Old Bill Miner's chief amusement seems to be breaking jail and getting captured. The old man is having no end of fun in the closing years of his career.

Mrs. Pankhurst has been released from jail owing to the breakdown of her health. The others who went to prison with her are on "a hunger strike" and are being forcibly fed. Suppose they were allowed to starve themselves to death, would they be martyrs or suicides? We confess that it is hard for us to see any true martyrdom in such cases.

A new money-cleaning machine is being experimented with by the government. It restores old, greasy, wrinkled bills to their original clean, crisp condition. The note is first washed in a mixture of hot water, soap, germicide and bleaching chemicals, and then sized, dried, pressed and ironed. After this renovations it is said that only experts can distinguish the old bill from a new one fresh from the press.

Somebody has figured that an average man of 150 pounds contains the constituents found in 1,200 eggs. There is enough gas in him to fill a gasometer of 3,649 cubic feet. He contains enough iron to make four ten penny nails. His fat would make seventy-five candles and a good-sized cake of soap. His phosphate content would make 8,064 boxes of matches. There is enough hydrogen in him in combination to fill a balloon.

History fails to tell the inventor of the doll, which has been such a boon to mankind, not only in quieting the rowdy youngster, but in stimulating a healthy imagination and affection. Five hundred years before Christ little girls had dolls; there is sure evidence of it, and Edward Lovvett, an enthusiastic collector, has a doll from those dim ages. It is little more than a battered stick now, but it is unmistakably a doll. No one could name a fair value for such a prize, which stands out as a proof that the child of to-day is singularly like her little sister some twenty-five hundred years ago.

THE MARKETS

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Grain holders today encountered the most disastrous market of the week. The entire list of cereals became demoralized. Wheat fell below the $1 mark and closed heavy 1 1-4c to 1 3-8c under last night. Corn finished 1-4c to 5-8c down, oats off 1-8c to 2 1-4c, and provisions at a decline of 10c to 37 1-2c.

The Liverpool market closed ⅛d to ⅜d lower on wheat, and ⅜d to 1d lower on corn. At Antwerp, wheat closed ⅜c lower, Berlin ⅝c lower, and Budapest ⅛c lower.

MONTREAL, July 6.—Business in all kinds of grain over the cable continues dull, but there was some demand for American corn from local buyers, and sales of 8,000 bushels of No. 3 yellow for shipment from Chicago were made at 74½c per bushel c.i.f. HEALTH AND BEAUTY ADVICE

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Alea M.: A plain quinzoin hair-tonic will quickly stop the irritation and soothe your tender scalp. To prepare, pour 1 ounce quinzoin into ½ pint alcohol and to this add ½ pint water. Using this quinzoin tonic regularly banishes dandruff and excess oiliness, makes the scalp healthy and induces an abundant growth of even-colored, fluffy, brilliant hair.

Myra S.: I know you feel uncomfortable carrying around so much fat this hot weather, but if you dissolve 4 ounces parnotis in 1½ pints hot water and take a tablespoonful before meals you will soon regain your former weight and shapely figure. The parnotis treatment is quite harmless and dissolves the fat without any present or future ill effects. After your weight is where you want it, your flesh will be solid and the skin free from wrinkles. Then, too, this method does not call for dieting or violent exercise.

Bride.: The skin on your hands and face will be of velvety softness and free from blemish if you apply each day a plain almozoin cream-jelly made by adding 1 ounce almozoin to ½ pint cold water in which has been stirred 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This cream jelly is elegant for riding the skin of pimples, blackheads, freckles, lines, and that "muddy" condition. It also rounds out hollows and lends a charming tint and youth-look to prematurely aged skins. You will find the almozoin cream-jelly far superior to anything you ever used, and it positively will not grow hairs.

Ethel: Use a delatone paste and you will be quickly rid of those annoying hairs. With some water mix enough powdered delatone to cover the hairs not wanted. Apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off and wash the skin. This removes every trace of hair and leaves the skin firm and smooth.

Edith: Aching eye muscles do not indicate a pressing need for glasses. Try this harmless eye-tonic and I am sure you will find prompt relief: In 1 pint clear, cold water dissolve 1 ounce crystos, then each day put 2 or 3 drops of this in the eyes. The crystos eye-tonic is especially nice for granulated lids and to remove foreign particles. To dull eyes it gives a delightful sparkle and expression.

Alda: Perspiration will not cause your hair to become "mussy" and unmanageable if you shampoo frequently with canthrox. Just dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup hot water and you will have sufficient mixture for a thorough cleansing. Canthrox creates a wealth of thick, creamy lather that gently and completely removes every atom of dust, dandruff and excess oil. Its use keeps the scalp clean and healthy and insures an abundance of brilliant hair even in color, and of a soft, silken fluff. After a canthrox shampoo the hair dries quickly and is easy to do up in any style.

Mrs. R. M.: You must discard powder and greasy creams, because these clog the pores and cause the skin to grow rough, blotchy, oily and freckled. Using this simple, inexpensive lotion will soon clear your skin and give to it that delightful youth-tint so much admired. Into ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water) stir 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, then add 4 ounces spurmax. Apply sparingly to the skin and rub lightly until dry. The spurmax lotion is invisible when on and imparts a velvety smoothness to the skin. It is especially fine for hot weather, because perspiration does not spot it, nor does it rub off.

O. L. R.: Your system craves a cleanser and tonic. Into ½ pint alcohol pour 1 ounce kardene, then add ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a quart. A tablespoonful before meals is the dose, and a course of this treatment will eliminate all poisons from the body, build up waste, worn tissues and give you full health, strength and energy. This tonic is particularly good for lost appetite, and that tired, "all-gone" feeling. Keeping the kardene tonic handy for emergency use often avoids serious sickness and doctor's bills.

OUR FIRST COMPOSER

CALIXTE LAVALLEE TAKES HIGH RANK IN MUSIC.

The Man Who Wrote the Inspiring Music of "O Canada" and Whose Death Was So Pathetic Showed Real Genius as a Musical Creator—He Is Far Better Known Abroad Than He Is In His Native Land.

Canada can boast, unabashed before the elder nations, at least one musical composer who possessed first-rate creative genius, and who, within the short creative period of his fitful and unhappy life, produced works marked by versatility in form and style, and distinguished by beautiful melodic invention, by rich, noble harmonies, and by emotional variety, says Dr. J. D. Logan in The Canadian Courier. This composer was Calixa Lavallee.

Unfortunately, Lavallee has been most admired for his less, if not least, admirable music. In Canada, his native land, he has achieved fame solely through a single composition, the so-called "Chant National," which neither melodically nor emotionally possesses the satisfying qualities of several of his other compositions. Indubitably, however, he is to be signalized as the first creative Canadian composer, by virtue of nativity, education, sphere of activity, inventive genius, and number of meritorious compositions in all styles. "Lavallee," said Dr. A. S. Vogt (the most eminent living Canadian musician and creative composer) "impressed me as a man of extraordinary ability, not as a merely clever executant of the piano; not as a merely adroit deviser of pretty melodies and harmonies, but as a musical genius, a genuinely creative artist."

Lavallee's constructive years did not begin until 1878, when he had removed from Montreal to Quebec City. In that year he composed a beautiful and brilliant Cantata which was sung by a choir of 500 voices in welcome to the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise on their arrival at Quebec as vice-regent and vice-reine of Canada. His creative period seems to have ended as abruptly as it began. For in [illegible] he is touring the United States, as solo pianist, with Mme. Zetelka Gerster, famous at that time as an operatic and coloratura soprano. But during his brief productive period Lavallee composed prodigiously, having to his credit many songs of pure beauty, a Cantata, an Oratorio ("Tu es Petrus"), an Opera ("La Veuve"), three authorities say two Operas; also a Symphony, two orchestral Suites, several Overtures and String Quartets, many piano pieces and etudes de concert ("Le Papillon" is the best known), and, finally, the so-called "Chant National" (1880).

As for the latter, there is nothing in its origin or in its musical structure and emotional appeal to cause it to be, as it has become, a bone of racial contention and spleen in Canada. Its melody was composed as a melody as such, and not as a setting to the words by Hon. Judge Routhier, who says: "I learned to sing it without words, and I set myself to compose a poem which was in harmony with its ideas, rhythm and time." The worthy poet of "O Canada" is here indulging in metaphor. A melody constructed purely out of the imagination or musical sense, and not composed expressely as an interpretation of specific words and sentiment, contains no ideas except musical ideas, melodic and harmonic, made up of related tones. In itself Lavallee's melody, which was a pure construction of the musical sense, is without sex or race, and devoid of any specific sentiment or meaning. Further, it was composed to be sung, as it was in 1880 at Quebec, in celebrating the religious Festival of Jean Baptiste. Naturally, therefore, in tempo, structure, and emotional expression it has all the qualities of a Hymn, and might have had any literary setting which was consistent with the tempo, structure and emotional demands.

Whether or not it wins the distinction of becoming Canada's national anthem, let us remember Lavalle as a brilliant and patriotic fellow-countryman who has left our musicians a splendid ideal and ourselves a goodly heritage for our delectation and inspiration. Alas, that we recall how this brilliant creative Canadian composer passed, as Schubert and Mozart and others of the same gifts—lonely and alone. He died at Boston, Jan. 21, 1891, "un frere des nuits tragiques"—companion with those whose night of life is starless of love and of hope.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

GLINES AND COMPANY, LIMITED

— Established 1880 —

301 Northern Crown Bank Buildings
Winnipeg, Canada

The history of Crescentwood will be repeated in Oakdale. Where in the former 5 or 6 years ago lots were sold at $15 to $25 per foot, with the same building restrictions as Oakdale Park has to-day, and now $60 to $150 per foot is being paid in Crescentwood and residences to the value of $10,000 to $100,000 are being erected. History will repeat this in Pakdale, but in less time, as it has better Electric Car Service now.

The work of drawing stone from Nassau to fill up at the new George street wharf was completed on Saturday. The dredge, which has been working above the Lift Lock, has been dismantled to get under the high level, Norwood road bridge that she may sail down the canal, to be employed in digging the channel to the new wharf.

In Friday's storm, John Davidson, on the Harvey Farm, had five milch cows killed by the lightning. James Grant on the Chemong road lost one cow, William Fair, of Cavan, lost five one-year-old calves, and Mr. Nelson Blewett lost two. A Douro farmer had three colts killed by the lightning.

SOILED POSTAGE STAMPS.

If They Are Ink Splashed They Won't Do to Put on Letters.

"How dirty can a postage stamp become and still retain its usefulness in the eyes of the government?" was a question propounded to muddle the already overworked brain of a busy man. Happening to meet a postman who was collecting mail, the man handed him a stamped letter.

"That won't go," said the postman. "Stamp's dirty."

As was his wont on special occasions the busy man resorted to sarcasm.

"Since when," he demanded, "did the United States government become so immaculate that it requires none but unsullied stamps stuck on its letters?"

"Well, they've always been pretty particular," returned the unperturbed postman, "but there are some kinds of dirt that count for more than others. That stamp's got ink on it. Inky stamps don't go because an ink spot could be used to disguise a canceled stamp."

"Then I suppose every stamp I happen to drop a speck of ink on is wasted?"

"Oh, no. Turn it in to the office where you bought it, and after a certain period you will get your money back."

"How long will that take?" the man asked.

"About three months."

"I'm afraid I can't wait," said the man, and over the discredited stamp he stuck a spotless stamp.—New York Times.

Fata Morgana.

The kind of mirage known as fata morgana is seen across straits or lakes in southern Europe and shows in calm weather such images in the air as those of towns, castles and palaces. On the Lake of Geneva it is sometimes seen on fine afternoons of spring or summer. F. A. Forel, the well known Swiss investigator, has been giving some attention to the curious apparitions and concludes that they are due to a peculiar distribution of temperature in the air over the water. In the morning, the air being cooler than the lake, the opposite bank seems to be depressed, exaggerating the earth's rotundity, and late in the afternoon, the air having become hotter than the water's surface, the opposite bank apparently rises above the true horizon and the earth's circumference is enlarged. For a few moments only, at the change from one condition to the other, the fata morgana may be seen.

Orillia goes back to Standard time. The Daylight Saving scheme has been tried and found wanting. Not so much for any fault of its own, perhaps, but because it was a victim of circumstances. The opposition to it before it went into operation was very bitter in spots, and it did not decrease. The free advertising Orillia received more than made up for all the abuse, so that the scheme answered the original purpose.

It will be interesting for many of our readers to learn that The Times is not only read throughout this portion of the country, but has also found its way to other countries. Sequel to an Amusing Mistake.

An amusing story is told of Mr. McKinnon Wood, who succeeded in holding his own in the St. Rollox bye-election. The wife of "Mr. Speaker" introduced Mr. Wood, at a reception, to a lady, having previously mentioned that she was about to make him acquainted with the wife of a member of the Russian Duma.

Mr. McKinnon Wood, being unable to speak the language of the Slavs, felt somewhat embarrassed, and endeavored to explain, by signs and smiles, his lingual deficiency. The lady, somewhat to his surprise, though, perhaps, to his relief, said, "I would much prefer to converse in English," and added that she was Mrs. Austen Chamberlain. Mrs. Lowther, quite inadvertently, had introduced Mr. McKinnon Wood to the wrong lady.

It is not, perhaps, generally known that the member for the St. Rollox Division was originally intended for the Bar, but instead took up business as a merchant. He made his mark on the London County Council, and is rather "learned" having contributed several articles to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition, and a Feeling of "Don't Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick, tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse, and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose and, indeed within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord, as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills I took a dose twice a week only just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c boxes, five boxes for $1, all druggists and storekeepers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Girls Wanted.

Girls Wanted by the Canadian General Electric Co.

Nearly an Accident.

Two automobiles and their drivers were lucky to escape serious accident yesterday at the corner of George and Brook streets, and collided with a car on George street. Both cars were damaged, one being taken to the Carey M'Mober Bros. shops for repairs.

Not Leaving the City.

A report that Mr. Ivor Brock, manager of the Brinton Carpet Co., is to be transferred to Toronto, is entirely misleading and incorrect. Mr. Brock was asked yesterday morning, if there was any reasonable foundation for the circulation of such a rumor, and he answered positively in the negative.

Chemong's Opening Dance.

The initial dance of the season at Chemong Park pavilion was an extremely popular event on Saturday evening, quite a number of local young people driving or motoring out. The dances, or hops, as they are styled, are annual, and greatly enjoyable Saturday evening diversions at Chemong, and have attained much popularity.

Boys Will Be Boys.

It is understood that action will be taken against a number of boys and young men who were found bathing on Sunday, without the needful attire—which is not burdensome. Their conduct was noisy and unseemly.

The Biggest Trout.

The largest trout ever caught in Ontario, or even in Canada, for many years, weighed 11 pounds and was caught near St. Ola, in Salmon Lake, by a 12 year old boy, Cecil Haag. This season is the best for fishing of every kind of the finny tribe that has been granted the anglers for many years.

Lindsay Is Alive.

We are pleased to see that the Warder, our Lindsay contemporary, has taken the clue from the Times, and is agitating for the conservation of the public holidays in Lindsay for the benefit of the citizens of that town. The fact that the Scugogville paper recognizes the value of such a step makes it all the more evident that it would be useful here.

Aeroplanes on Civic Holiday.

Mr. J. M. Brooks, President of the Peterborough turf club, called at The Times office yesterday and we were informed that the contract with the Curtis Exhibition Company has been closed. They have agreed to make two flights of not less than one-half hour each. In addition to this great attraction there will be a full program of races and a splendid day of sports is assured.

A Good Catch.

Mr. Walter Flowers brought out of the Otonabee a five-pound bass, 28 inches long yesterday morning, and the report comes up of two gentlemen, who do not wish their names published, catching two lung, of 10 and 13 pounds weight, yesterday. This is certainly a splendid fishing season and all who enjoy angling or the finny creatures should take advantage of it.

Were in the Cyclone.

The Times had a call yesterday from Mr. C. M. Blewett, of Regina, who is on a visit to friends here. Mr. Savigny accompanied him and together they gave The Times a call. Both gentlemen were in Barrie's store when it was damaged by the storm and their experience as well as their descriptions of the devastations of the storm were interesting.

Still In the Tolls.

The Chinamen who were arraigned in the court some time ago on a charge of keeping and frequenting a gaming house, and who were dismissed on some technical decision, again made their appearance yesterday, this time on a charge of playing cards on the Sabbath. Judgement was reserved. The punishment for this offence is a fine.

Will Not Take Action.

It has been finally settled that the Crown will not take any further action in the Grass Hill collision case. Any legal fight which may be put up now will be one for damages. It is understood that proceedings of the latter kind will be taken, and that the company have attempted an amicable adjustment of all claims, but the terms were not satisfactory to the injured ones.

Mr. Mackay.

The Post has the following to say of Mr. Mackay, of Lindsay, who is taking a position on the P.C.I. here: Mr. Mackay has been on the staff of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute for two years and before coming here was Science Master at Barrie Collegiate Institute for over five years. He was a member of St. Andrew's church, and was an enthusiastic curler, and was held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends, who regret his departure from Lindsay.

It Is Not True.

A report appears in the Lindsay Post declaring that the Peterborough men used underhand and unscrupulous methods in attempting to secure the Automobile Body Factory, which has moved from Cannington to Lindsay. This is not true. The local authorities did not use any means that would not be countenanced by the strictest-minded church members in the city. The Lindsay outburst being false and unfounded.

Major Young Hurt.

In the first week of the Petawawa camp, a regretable accident occurred when Major Young, who was in charge of the 24th Field Battery, from this city, was injured when his horse fell. The Major was thrown to the ground and the horse rolled over him. He was [illegible] assigned the command of the battery to Captain F— He was recovered enough on Sunday to return home with his men.

The Entrance Examinations.

Miss M. O'Connell, the secretary of the Entrance Board of Examiners, has not yet received the report of admitted candidates from the Education Department. As soon as received it will be published.

Returned from Brantford.

Chief of Police Thompson has returned from the three day convention in Brantford and reports that it was a success. The principal motion passed was to effect that stenographs of suspected persons is admissible. At the convention the chief read a paper on vigilence of the policemen, and it was well received.

Returned From Camp.

The 24th Field battery have returned from the camp at Petawawa, and report having had an excellent time. They were down to camp 100 strong, with 80 horses and four guns and made a favorable showing and good impression on the inspecting officers, representing the Dominion authorities. This was the first dry camp and the experiment, though it did not please some of the more convivial artillery men, yet proved successful. The battery was in charge of Major Young.

The Printers' Picnic.

An enjoyable time is promised to all who attend the Printers' Picnic which is to be held to Jubilee Point on Saturday afternoon, August 3rd. The steamer Stoney Lake will leave Wolfe street wharf at 1.40 sharp and on arrival at the Point a good program of sports will be run off and a most enjoyable time will be spent. One big feature of the day will be the baseball match between the local typestickers and a City League team. The boat will leave the Point for home at 8.30 p.m. giving the excursionists a good afternoon and evening entertainment. Don't forget the date, August 3rd.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

St. John's tennis club held an enjoyable picnic tea at the Oval Saturday afternoon.

The members of No. 8 Co., 57th Regiment are asked to turn in all clothing and equipment Thursday and Saturday without fail.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

There will be a meeting of the Bugle Band to-night at the armouries at eight o'clock, to make arrangements for their annual moonlight excursion.

Many of the local printers are out these nights getting into shape for the big events which come off at the Printers' Picnic on Aug. 3. Our old friend Sammie of the Review, says he will be in good shape this year, and he is going after the bacon.

MR. BORDEN AND COLLEAGUES VIEW GREATEST BATTLE FLEET

315 Ships Of All Classes Gathered At Spithead For Guests of First Lord of Admiralty. Sham Raid on England's Shores

London, July 9.—The active British fleet in English waters and the vessels from the Mediterranean station, consisting of 315 ships of all classes, gathered at Spithead to-day for inspection by the members of the House of Lords and Commons.

Mr. R. L. Borden, the Canadian Premier, with his colleagues, J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine; C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, and L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, who are now in England to consult the English Admiralty on Canada's naval programme, attended the inspection which opened with a display of the aeroplanes and hydroplanes now being used for the first time at British naval manoeuvres.

Greatest Fleet.

The great fleet later proceeded to sea for the summer manoeuvres. This is one of the strongest fleets, if not the strongest that has ever assembled and still many effective vessels remain in the naval ports, including those of the eighth battle squadron and the seventh, eighth, nine, tenth and eleventh cruiser squadrons as well as a number of ships under repair.

In the North Sea.

The manoeuvres are to be held in the North Sea and although the plans of the Admiralty have been kept secret enough has leaked out to indicate that the problem set for elucidation is concerned with the frustration of an attempted raid by a force of troops under naval convoy.

The ships are to be divided into two fleets, red and blue, the latter constituting the defending force under Prince Louis of Battenburg, and the former the attacking force under the command of Sir George Callaghan. Twenty-one admirals will have their flags flying in addition to two commodores.

The attacking force will probably consist of twenty battleships, of which eight will be Dreadnoughts, ten armored cruisers, including one dreadnought-cruiser, seven protected cruisers and the usual auxiliary fleet; while defence includes 23 battleships, of which five will be Dreadnoughts, four battleship-cruisers, 16 other armored cruisers, four protected cruisers, a great fleet of submarines, destroyers, torpedo boats and mine layers.

BIG WATER MAIN BUSRT IN TORONTO—$15,000 DAMAGES

Toronto, July 9.—Fifteen thousand dollars worth of goods, stored in the basement of the Canada Pipe and Steel Company's building, 87 Church street, were badly damaged, asphalt pavement was upheaved for yards up and traffic on Church street blocked for nearly an hour this morning by a torrent of water which poured from a break in a large water main.

The break in the main occurred at 9.30 o'clock on Church street, about forty yeards up from Lombard, and in a few minutes the street for a whole block had become a river of gushing water. The asphalt on the east side of the street near the curb was raised several inches for twenty or thirty yards. Working its way underground the water entered the basement of the building occupied by the Canada Pipe and Steel Company, at the corner of Church and Lombard streets. The basement which was filled with supply goods, was soon three feet deep in water.

All traffic on the street was suspended by the police for half an hour until the water in the main had been shutoff. The drains in the basement of the flooded buildingf were opened, but the water did not drain off, and was still standing over two feet deep at noon. The Waterworks Department has made arrangements for pumping out the water this afternoon.

BUFFALO GIRL HEARS CRY "POLICE" AND GIVES THE ALARM

Buffalo, N.Y., July 9.—Quick work by a Buffalo telephone girl late last night got a squad of police to the scene of an assault on a man and his wife and of an attempted burglary, made an arrest and may have prevented a murder.

Miss Lillian Hasselbeck, a night operator, had started to answer a call from a four party line.

"Police," said a woman at the other end, dropping the receiver, she had been dragged from the telephone by an intruder in her home, and was being beaten. Her husband rushing to her aid, as the police learned later, was stabbed in the face and neck by the blade of a chisel.

Miss Hasselbeck devoted her attention to that call. The light was still flashing and she could hear snatches that sounded like "murder, my husband, help, help." There was nothing to show immediately which telephone on the line was open. From her records however, Miss Hasselbeck quickly learned that all four were near No. 842 Jefferson street. She telephoned an alarm and in less than three minutes the police automobile patrol was on the scene. The prisoner, it developed later, was a brother to the man stabbed. His name is Martin Reeb, 23 years old. Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Reeb were cared for by a surgeon. They say they do not know why their brother entered their home and assaulted them.

WELL DEFINED.

The following was handed to the Times yesterday as a result of the result of the recent school exams:

A class of boys had been studying physiology with remarkable results. They were ordered to write an essay on the "spine." Many interesting papers were handed in on the subject, from one of which the following is an extract: "The spine is a bunch of bones that runs up and down the back, an' holds the ribs. The skull sits on one end, and we sit on the other."

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

☞ NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

PRINCE ARTHUR TO WED A RUSSIAN PRINCESS

Only Son of the Duke of Connaught Said to be Engaged to a Daughter of Czar's Cousin

New York, July 9.—A cable despatch to The New York Times from Paris this morning says: The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris reports that Prince Arthur of Connaught, only son of the Duke of Connaught, will shortly marry Princess Irene Alexandrovna, daughter of the Grand Duke Alexander Michailovitch, who is a cousin of the Czar.

It was stated that the marriage was decided upon last August. No official announcement was made then owing to the youth of the Princess, who, however, is now about to reach her seventeenth birthday, when the betrothal will be announced.

The marriage, it is added, will be celebrated in St. Petersburg, and it is expected that King George will attend the ceremony.

THE ENNISMORE PICNIC AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

The Ennismore annual picnic took place yesterday afternoon in Ennismore Grove and was largely attended, quite a number of people driving out from Peterborough. This picnic has been an annual affair for some years and has been very popular.

A fine orchestra provided music for dancing, on a platform built for the occasion, and which was always one of the features of the picnic.

Speeches were delivered by Father Fitzpatrick, the parish priest, the Hon. J. R. Stratton, and Messrs. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P., E. A. Peck, M.P.P., Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., Harry Phelan and B. Morrow. A program of sports was provided and very much interest was taken in them.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND ORANGEMEN.

Fifteen or twenty thousand Orangemen are expected to be congregated in Peterborough on next Friday, the 12th of July. These will give a magnificent parade from Central Park through the Central Part of the city. The lodges will be drawn up on Central Park with the leading lodge facing west on McDonnell street, and led by this, which will be a County lodge, the Orangement will take the following course: The County lodge will lead across in front of the Collegiate to Murray street, the other lodges following in succession from Murray to George, to Dublin, East to Water, South to Hunter, to Aylmer South to Dalhousie, East to George and north to the park. The procession will be one of the finest and largest ever seen in this city.

THE WAY TO DO IT.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir.—When you want to do a man up, the way to do it is to go round saying that if he was put out of the way you would be glad to help the cause. It gives the disappointed ones of the party a great chance, too.

—Citizen.

AS ORANGEMEN AND CANADIANS

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir.—The bills out for the great Orange demonstration have Hon. Dr. Sproule and Hon. Sam Hughes as Ministers of the Crown. That is a mistake. They appear simply as Orangemen and Canadians and no more. The State as it is now represented is in league with no body or organization, lay or ecclesiastical.

—One Who Knows.

A UNION STATION.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir.—Would it not be a good thing for our City Fathers to take up the question of a Union station for Peterborough? There are plenty of good sights for such a structure, and if the Council could get the railways together I am sure the matter might be arranged satisfactorily. It would be a godsend to the travelling public.

I hope Mayor Bradburn will get busy. If he is successful it will be an everlasting monument to him and his Council.

NOTABLE SLEUTHS ATTEND CONVENTION IN TORONTO

Toronto, July 9.—Amongst the two hundred odd delegates to the Police Convention, there are several whose names are known throughout the length and breadth of the continent. One of these is W. A. Pinkerton, head of the famous agency of that name. Mr. Pinkerton bears little resemblance to the dime novel sleuth. He is stout, jovial and looks more like a prosperous merchant than the famous detective he is. When he shakes hands, however, he does so with a grip that the average man remembers, for despite his years and stoutness, he still retains the strength for which he was noted in his younger days. He said this morning that he was enjoying his visit to the city. "All except the heat," he said. "It seems hotter hear than in Chicago."

The Youngest Delegate.

Chief Sebastian of Los Angeles is the youngest man who has ever held that position. He is but 30, and looks ten years younger. This is his first trip to Toronto, but he has already gone around the city to make himself acquainted with police conditions. In point of numbers Toronto and Los Angeles are about the same, and many of the problems which the local police are called on to face have to be confronted by the officers in the Californian city.

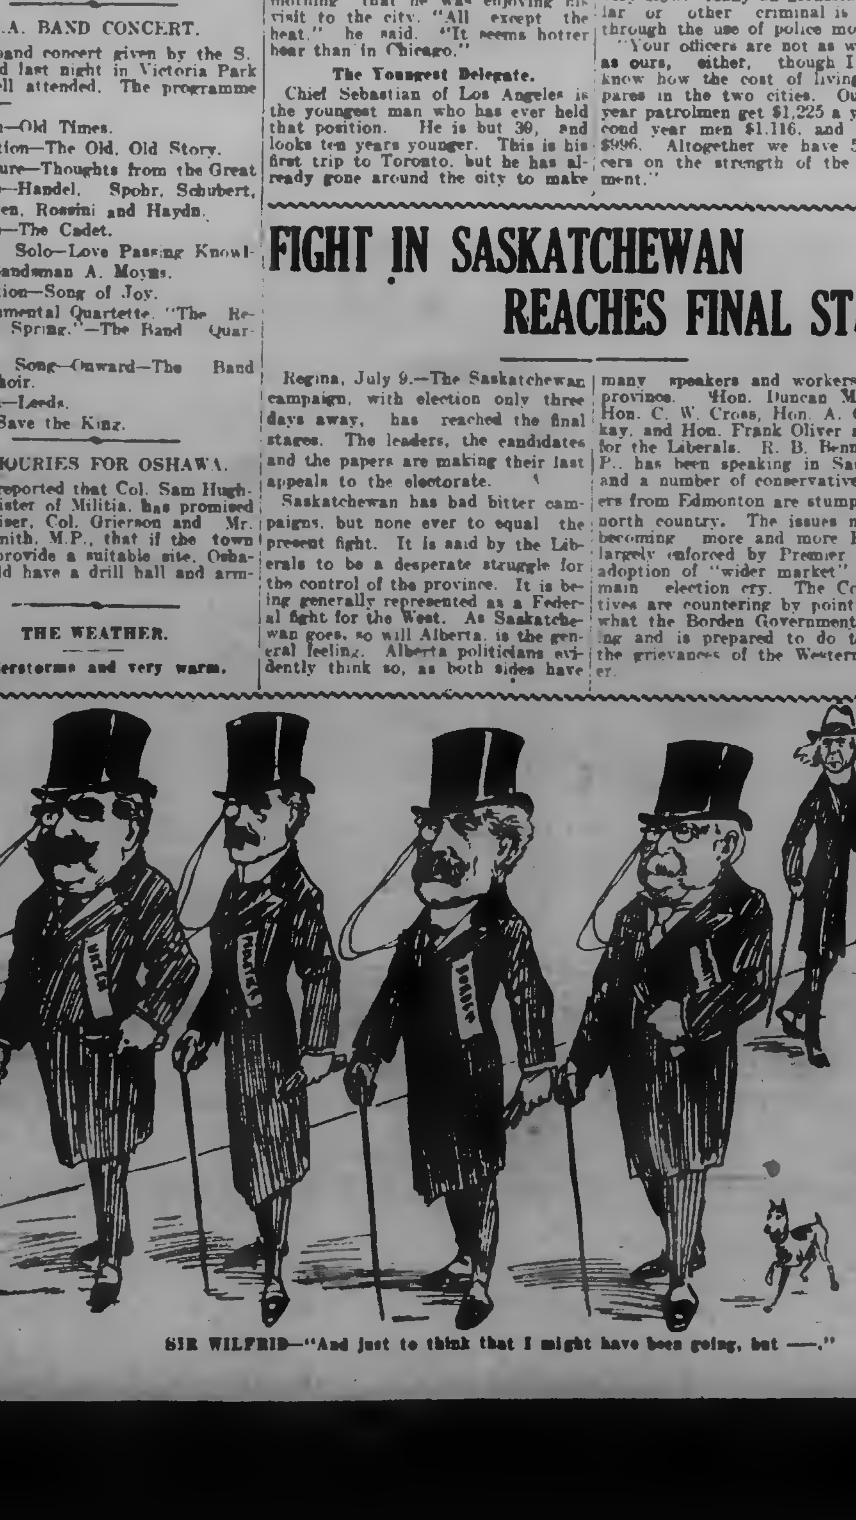
"I can't understand how your people get along without an automobile" said the chief. "I thought they were joking when they told me that they did not have one in the department. In Los Angeles we have nine and in addition to these we have 26 motor cycles. Horse-drawn vehicles, especially when a rush call or an ambulance or a riot is sent in, must be very slow. Many an assassin, burglar or other criminal is collared through the use of police motors.

"Your officers are not as well paid as ours, either, though I do not know how the cost of living compares in the two cities. Our third year patrolmen get $1,225 a year, second year men $1,116, and recruits $996. Altogether we have 526 officers on the strength of the department."

FIGHT IN SASKATCHEWAN REACHES FINAL STAGE

Regina, July 9.—The Saskatchewan campaign, with election only three days away, has reached the final stages. The leaders, the candidates and the papers are making their last appeals to the electorate.

Saskatchewan has bad bitter campaigns, but none ever to equal the present fight. It is said by the Liberals to be a desperate struggle for the control of the province. It is being generally represented as a Federal fight for the West. As Saskatchewan goes, so will Alberta, is the general feeling. Alberta politicians evidently think so, as both sides have many speakers and workers in the province. Hon. Duncan Marshall, Hon. C. W. Cross, Hon. A. G. Mackay, and Hon. Frank Oliver are here for the Liberals. R. B. Bennett, M.P., has been speaking in Saskatoon and a number of conservative speakers from Edmonton are stumping the north country. The issues now are becoming more and more Federal, largely enforced by Premier Scott's adoption of "wider market" as his main election cry. The Conservatives are countering by pointing out what the Borden Government is doing and is prepared to do to meet the grievances of the Western farmer.



SIR WILFRID—"And just to think that I might have been going, but —."

WAS ELECTED MODERATOR

Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's Church, Was Chosen Presiding Officer of the Presbytery of Peterborough — Met Yesterday in Port Hope.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met yesterday in St. Paul's church, Port Hope on the call of the Moderator. After the reading of the minutes and other routine business, the Rev. Robt. Pogue, of St. Paul's church, Peterborough, was elected Moderator and acknowledged the honor paid him in a suitable manner.

The principal business of the meeting was the consideration of a call extended by the Bellwood congregation of Guelph Presbytery to the Rev D. D. MacDonald, of Keene. The matter was deferred, a special meeting to take place on the 18th to consider it.

A considerable amount of business was disposed of, after which the meeting adjourned.

BRIDE OF A MONTH DROWNED ON GEORGIAN BAY ISLAND

Body of Mrs. Margaret Campbell, a Young Old Country Girl Who Married Middle-Aged Man, is Found Floating--Had Been Missing For Two Weeks

Parry Sound, July 9.—The body of Mrs. Margaret Campbell, who disappeared from the summer hotel kept by her husband, Mr. John Campbell, on Copperhead Island, Georgian Bay, opposite Sans Souci, was found floating near the dock at the island yesterday afternoon, two weeks after her disappearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were married just one month and two days prior to her death, and their married life was apparently a happy one. Mr. John Campbell, the husband, has resided on Copperhead Island for the past twenty-two years, and is of a kindly disposition, so that it could not be that domestic trouble led to the sad drowning of the wife.

Very early on the morning Monday, June 24, Mrs. Campbell got out of bed and went out of the house and that was the last seen of her until her body was found yesterday.

Coroner Dr. Lambet, of this place, went to Copperhead Island yesterday afternoon, and held an investigation and decided that the death was accidental, the lady having walked or fell off the dock.

The body was taken to Midland this morning on the steamer Waubic for interment. Mrs. Campbell was an old country girl under 30 years of age. Her husband was past middle age.

CADET CAMP CAN ALMOST QUALIFY FOR A CREMATORY

Special Order Permitting Straw Hats and Shirts in Place of Hot Tunics---Guns Too Heavy for Little Fellows---Parade for a Swim

Niagara on the Lake, June 9.—Never before has the good old common had a camp like this one. Close on two thousand boys are under canvas and it would be unreasonable to imagine that they have not numerous new ideas which never entered military camp life until now. The serious object of the camp as an experiment is all right for the powers that be to worry over, but for the boys themselves it is mostly great fun and the youngsters, who are taking it seriously are to the onlookers the funniest part of it all.

Old Niagara is never by any means a refrigerator in July and this year is no exception. Since the boys came into camp the heat has been a terror and only a few more degrees are necessary to qualify the place as a crematory, but this does not seem to affect the boy soldiers like it does the men in the regular camps. A number of cadets toppled over with the heat on parade yesterday and there were several effected on Sunday, but a little physicing brought them all round. Weak tummies have protested against the change in the mode of living. The heat is responsible for most of the ailments, but where a few are sick there are hundreds already visibly benefitted by the outing.

Straw Hats.

A welcome order was issued by the Administrative staff at noon yesterday and was received with cheers when the company's officers read it after the warm morning work. It said:

"Owing to the excessive heat straw hats and shirts may be worn by Cadets when walking out."

SOUTH AFRICA IN TERROR ONCE MORE OVER BLACK PERIL

Whites of Both Sexes Arm Themselves For Self Protection

Johannesburg, July 6.—The Black Peril scare has once more set its seal on Johannesburg. This time almost a condition of panic prevails.

Vigilance committees are springing up all over the place, and the gunsmiths are reaping a harvest. Women are devoting themselves to revolver practise, and the Daughters of the Transvaal, a local body of female volunteers, who divide their time between ambulance work and amazonic militarism, are extending their sphere of usefulness so that non-members may learn how to use firearms and practice jiu-jitsu.

In Turffontein a thickly populated suburb of Johannesburg, a woman was not only attacked by unknown Kaffirs, but was carried from her room where she was sleeping with her baby, to a plantation 150 yards away. Ten days after the outrage she died from the shock.

Similar instances, although fortunately unaccompanied by fatal results, are occuring not only in the Transvaal, but in the Orange Free State and Cape Colony.

Government Doing Nothing.

In spite of this reign of black terror the Botha government does nothing to show that it has the welfare of the community at heart. For this reason the people of Johannesburg are taking the law into their own hands. Kaffir drives are becoming a constant occurrence.

Last week a "drive" took place at Forest Hill, a suburb at the south of town, somewhat beyond Turffontein. A rumor of outrages spread around the district, and 400 determined men gathered together, armed with revolvers, shotguns, sjamboks, whips and sturdy branches of blue gum trees.

For a time they listened patiently to speeches offering suggestions for the best means of counteracting the growth of black outrages. Suddenly, one of the crowd jumped up and drew a revolver.

"We've rapped enough!" he cried. "Now's the time to act. Come on! We'll have the drive now, and dispense with resolutions!"

In a moment order was thrown to the winds. Dozens of revolvers were flourished, and the chairman's appeals for order fell on deaf ears.

"Volunteers who know the roads!" was the first cry. Thirty or forty men stepped forward. Each guide was told to take charge of a couple of score of men, and a move was made for the Kenilworth plantations. All natives found abroad were subjected to a severe cross examination.

Three natives and a Cape boy, all provided with the requisite pass were escorted back to their "baas'" houses, and the Cape boy, who smelt strongly of brandy, was recommended for and received chastisement.

To Escape.

The excited crowd were looking for a black about 5 feet 6 inches high, booted and gray suited. Every native answering to his description was stopped and examined by the angry drivers, whose blood was now thoroughly up. A native who tried to escape received rough handling.

There were so many gangs abroad that any black, after refusing to submit to full enquiry, who attempted to get away, fell foul of other search parties and soon relented under the whip or sjambok.

A running black, as may be surmises easily, was asked no questions but laid by the heels at once. Six natives, roughly answering the description, but able to prove their innocence of any outrage, were terribly handled before the police arrived on the scene and endeavoured to calm the maddened crowd.

In the plantation are a number of huts inhabited for the most part of natives. In one of these huts a gray suited Kaffir was found. He had no pass and frightened by the armed force around the door of the hut, he attempted to escape.

A Mad Chase.

A mad chase began. He knew the neighborhood well, and soon put a good distance between himself and his pursuers. Shots began to ring out and the drivers grew reckless. Several running natives, it is said, were hit, but the gray suited Kaffir, who was innocent of all outrage, because it was discovered later that the entire affair was the outcome of a false alarm, got clear away.

The "drive" was followed next day by an exodus of native servants, who were determined to take no risks.

On the following day some one on the mines hung an effigy of a black man from the top of one of the shafts. The dangling figure could be seen for miles around, and the news spread that a Kaffir, who had attacked a white woman, had been captured and lynched. Hundreds of people journeyed southwards to view the body, while in town dozens of shopgirls climbed to the roofs of the building in which they were employed to catch a glimpse of what became known as "The Dancing Demon."

The spectacle scared the native population and many boys openly announced their intention of returning to their kraals. Unfortunately these are the better class of boys, so that if they carry out this threat the local servant problem will become an acute one.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 49 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 85c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 85c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 368 George St. directly opposite Creeman's store.

AUDITOR.
JOHN I. SUTCLIFFE, Chartered Accountant.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

Bavarian Burials.

Hearses or funeral cars are not used in Bavaria. The dead must be removed from the houses within twenty-four hours after death, the bodies being conveyed to the "dead house," with which every cemetery is provided. The removal is in charge of municipal officers, and by very plain casket wagons, which are owned by the municipalities. Private concerns have no interest in funeral arrangements every detail being under the control and direction of duly authorised municipal officials.

The Women of Carthage.

There is a grand old story told about the supreme devotion displayed by the women of Carthage. When their city was besieged by the Romans ropes were needed; but, as there was no flax to make them in the city, the women, headed by their heroic queen, came to the rescue. They one and all cut off their glorious tresses and made ropes of their hair.

Gone.

The tightwad went to the pastor. "Mr. Brown," he said, "through a blunder I dropped a $5 gold piece in the plate instead of a nickel."

"Ah, yes," said the pastor briskly, "a benevolent blunder. But I assure you it will count with us just as much in your favor as if you really meant it."

And he hurried away.

Punishing Bachelors.

This punishment of the bachelor has been common in many ages and countries and extended down to the early days of our own history. In Connecticut in 1636 a law was passed which would not "allow any young unmarried man to keep house," and Hartford taxed "lone men 20 shillings a week" for the "selfish luxury of solitary living." In 1682 a special town order gave permission for two bachelors to keep house together, "so they carry themselves soberly and do not entertain idle persons to the evil expense of time by day or night," while as late as the eighteenth century a general statute of Connecticut forbade any householder under penalty of a fine to "give entertainment or habitation to single persons without special allowance of the selectmen."—Forum.

Parnell and Thirteen.

Parnell was a believer in the thirteen superstition. There is a familiar story of his positively refusing during an election campaign with Tim Healy to occupy a bedroom numbered 13. While in Kilmainham there was submitted to him by his colleague the draft of a bill amending the Irish land act. On discovering that the clauses counted up to thirteen he threw down the manuscript with a gesture of terror and refused to have anything to do with it.

WHEN COAL WAS FORMED.

Curious Condition the Earth Was In at That Period.

What is said to be the strangest period through which this earth has passed is the one that was responsible for the formation of coal. The planet is described as being at that time flat and smooth as to surface and peculiar as to vegetation. The continents were just beginning to rise above the ocean, and the land had not yet become dry. Mountain ranges had not arisen from the swamps, and the atmosphere was thick with fog. In this state of affairs there sprouted and flourished the plants which were later to furnish the world with its coal supply.

These plants grew as big as our largest trees, taking deep root in the morass and flourishing like the lush grasses in moist meadow land, developed into the strange shapes now found in tropic vegetation. The forests looked, scientists state, like dense growths of weeds, rushes and enormous ferns. Some of them grew in the shape of cacti, having spines all over them. This kind of vegetation was very rich in carbon, which it derived from the warm, moist atmosphere. Then the millions of years rolled by, the forests of giant weeds were buried by deposits of earthly material, and the chemical change took place which slowly changed them into coal. This process stopped with the carboniferous age, so that when the present supply of coal is dug out of the ground there will be no more.—New York Sun.

A RUSSIAN ROYAL TRAGEDY.

Czar Boris and the "Bell With the Ear Torn Off."

The kamaoulle koloko, or "bell with the ear torn off," had a most romantic history. In the sixteenth century Prince Dimitri, the rightful heir to the Russian throne, was deposed by a revolt led by Boris Godunoff, who was afterward proclaimed czar. The seat of government was then at Uglich, and thither Dimitri was sent in order that he might remain under the direct observation of the usurper.

Boris, fearing the populace might awake to the justice of the claims of the young prince, planned the assassination of Dimitri. He was one day stabbed in a courtyard. None of the bystanders showed any disposition to aid him. A priest, however, from the cathedral belfry saw the crime and immediately began tolling the great bell, which was held sacred and rung only on unusual occasions, such as a coronation or the death of a czar.

Furious at this tacit expression of reproach, the czar commanded that the priest should be tortured and executed and that the bell should be taken down and placed beside the body of its ringer. This order was fulfilled, and the bell was beaten with clubs by the entire populace, the Czar Boris being at their head.

The czar then decreed that the bell should be exiled to Tobolsk and that one of its hangers be removed to indicate its disgrace.—Harper's Weekly.

In Harness at Ninety.

Hon. C. D. deBoucherville, who celebrated his 90th birthday the other day, is one of the grand old men of Canadian public life. He is still hale and hearty, taking a keen interest in the recent political contest in his native province.

This venerable old man was Premier of the Province of Quebec back in the early '70's. His dismissal from the Government by Governor Letellier is one of the big historic incidents of the province and created a large-sized political controversy for a very considerable period. His administration was followed by that of Ross, Mousseau and Mercier, who rode into power on the Riel excitement and whose extravagance and scandals later were the subject of judicial investigation in the Senate which led to his downfall.

Hon. C. D. deBoucherville was the man who overthrew the whilom idol of the Quebec people and shortly afterwards resigned because the federal Conservative party of that day appointed Sir Adolphe Chapleau Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. Sturdy independence has characterised the political career of this veteran and as speaker of the Legislative Council, legislative councillor, Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec and now as Dominion Senator, he displays the same spirit and believes in hewing straight to the line whenever a matter of principle is at stake in public affairs.

A Double Request.

"Are you the answers to correspondents man?" inquired the dyspeptic looking caller.

"I am," replied the gentleman addressed. "What can I do for you?"

"Firstly, what will dissolve a chunk of lead in the human stomach? Secondly, won't you please refrain from publishing recipes for plum pudding hereafter?"

Old Time Delicacies.

Swans are coming back into favor as a dish for the table. This reversion to the tastes of our forefathers may lead to a demand for other delicacies once held in high esteem. In the thirteenth century the heron, the crane, the crow, the cormorant and the bittern were considered excellent food. But for some undiscovered reason the hare and the partridge were despised, and in the houses and of the nobles neither was ever seen. Another dish favored by our ancestors was dillegrout. This must have been a special delicacy, for the lord of the manor of Addington held his tenure on the condition of his presenting the king every year with a dish "called dillegrout, and if fat be added then it is called malpigeryum."—London Standard.

Inexplicable.

"I can't understand it," sadly remarked the theatrical manager after he had again studied the figures, which showed that his loss amounted to $43,723.61.

"What do you refer to?" asked his general publicity man.

"The failure of 'Naughtie Nettie.'"

"It seems to me the thing can be explained very simply. The music didn't amount to anything, and the book was nothing but the stupidest kind of trash."

"I know all that; but, confound it, I brought it over from Europe, didn't I?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Freak Base Hit.

Writing on freak plays in baseball, Hugh S. Fullerton tells the following story of Canadian ball:

"A freak play robbed Doc Casey's Toronto team of a game in the Eastern league. Casey's catching staff was so crippled that the plump little veteran was compelled to don the wind pad himself. Casey is short and quite stout. But he was doing fairly well until the tenth inning, when Rochester had a runner on third with two out. A wild pitched ball struck the ground in front of Casey and disappeared. The runner hesitated until he saw Casey making frantic efforts to get the ball from under his protector; then he came home with the winning run just as Casey located the sphere, which had gone under the protector and wedged itself past the elastic belt tightly."

SCARS THAT STAY.

They Come From Cuts That Go Down to the True Skin.

There are people who tell you that everything in the body is changed every seven years and that there is no part of it which was there seven years ago. This does not mean that we slough the whole thing off at once, as a snake does its skin or a deer its antlers, but simply that the innumerable and tiny atoms which are used up by the daily wear and tear are replaced by fresh atoms supplied by our food and drink, which keeps the body going, just as coal and water keep the steam engine at work.

But these changes are so minute and gradual that the form of the body remains the same, although such things as scars take a long time to disappear, and sometimes they remain for life, although they always lose a great deal of their prominence.

You have noticed that if you cut your finger slightly it will soon heal up and the scar will soon disappear, just as the marks of a superficial burn will gradually go away, but if the cut is deep the scar remains. This is because it went down to what is called the true skin. Any cuts or burns on the outer skin are gradually pushed up and worn or washed off, just as the hair on the back of your head wears off without your cutting it and grows again, but anything that goes down to the true skin, like tattoo marks, always remains.—New York Sun.

THE SLAUGHTER IN THE SKIES.

Perhaps the frightful succession of deaths in the aviation world will not deter airmen of positive genius from taking the risks involved in flights through the skies. And it is quite as unlikely that all the venturesome spirits who have taken to this field of science as a mere sport or recreation will have their enthusiasm toned down by the increasing list of fatalities. But it is not improbable that the recurring horrors will lead to some regulation which will keep to the lowest possible level the number of deaths by increasing the qualifications required of aviators.

It would hardly do to suggest that the scientific value of these flights is too small to justify the toll taken by death. Possibly actual conquest of the air is far removed, but much of great utility and practical scientific knowledge has already been gained, and aviation is still in its primary stages. If aviation bodies and state and civic authorities can find common ground for co-operation in bring about more drastic regulations and applying more rigid rules for those who fly for the pure fun of the thing it may be possible to reduce this air slaughter without sacrificing any element of scientific research or accomplishment.

SOME CANADIAN CENSUS FIGURES.

The figures of the census taken last year are just being made public, and they show that our urban population is increasing much more rapidly than our rural population. In 1901 our rural population was 3,349,516, and our urban population 2,021,799. Last year our rural population showed an increase of 571,878, or 17.16 per cent, while our urban population showed an increase of 1,258,615, or 62.25 per cent. Ontario shows for 1911 a rural population of 1,194,785, and an urban population of 1,328,489; a decrease of 52,184 in the former case and an increase of 392,511 in the latter case. With our Ontario farms already undermanned, a decrease of 52,184 in ten years of our farm population is rather a serious matter, while the fact that with an immigration of 1,705,375 into Canada during the past ten years our farm population should have increased so little is fairly conclusive proof that our immigrants have not been "land hungry" to any great extent.

If the object of our immigration policy is to populate our farm lands it is evident that the policy is not a very great success; if it be, however, to help fill our larger cities, it seems to be doing it fairly well.

Editorial Notes

After his recent experiences Prime Minister Asquith has refused to meet any lady unless he has positive assurance that she has no notion of hittinh him with a piece of gas pipe.

In the latest southern lynching bee the victim was a colored woman, and the mob went to the scene of the crime in motor-cars. The latter fact appears to indicate that the peculiar chivalry of the south is being maintained by the well to do class.

Throat Becomes Diseased From Neglecting Colds

Then Catarrh Sets In, Mucous Drops Into the Stomach, Coughing, Headaches and Debility Follow.

That the best method of curing catarrhal disease consists in using Catarrhozone is now freely admitted. Catarrhozone is infinitely superior to cough medicines, tablets, sprays and emulsions, which are for the most part of no practical value except to ease the cough for the time being. Often liquid cough remedies contain opium, morphine and cocaine. With Catarrhozone you take no drugs—you employ Nature's way—just inhale Catarrhozone's soothing, healing vapor and relief and cure follow promptly.

Weak Throat, Racking Cough Cured.

"For five years I suffered from a severe bronchitis. A harsh, dry racking cough kept my throat in a raw condition from one year's end to another. Before going to sleep at night I always had a bad attack, and in the morning before each breakfast I suffered greatly. My voice was harsh and raspy, and sometimes I found it difficult to make myself understood. Catarrhozone seemed to sooth and heal from the first day. It cured me, and now I wouldn't think of being without a Catarrhozone Inhaler—it means life to me."

The above experience is related by Mr. Alexander P. Savary of Hamilton, Pa., and proves the effectiveness of Catarrhozone, which will cure every cough, cold, bronchial or catarrhal attack. The dollar size of Catarrhozone contains two months' treatment and is guaranteed. Smaller size 50c. Sample size, 25c. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

"If England," says the Pittsburg Dispatch, "had suggested to us that we return the standards and artillery captured at Yorkton, we should hardly regard the proposition with favor." It is doubtful if our neighbors would give up a single British trophy in their possession in return for that little Bunker Hill cannon at Quebec. What they have they hold—and whatever else they can get. And being reasonable neighbors after all, they are not likely to blame us Canadians for following their example.

Frossay, a small town half way between Paris and Angers, in France, is said to be the only civilized community in which the municipal affairs are entirely in the hands of the women. The mayor is a woman, and so is the superintendent of the railway station, the switchman, the mail carrier and the town barber. Mme Lesseboro is the telegraph messenger and Mme Druhon-Marchardin is the drummer whose duties it is to announce each proclamation of the Mayor. Mme. Druhon-Marchardin is described as an octogenarian who has held her post through wind and rain for upwards of twenty years. The letter carrier, Mme. Doubour, has held her office for more than ten years, and goes about with her letters regardless of the weather.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL

The minutes of the last two meetings were read and confirmed.

Mr. M. Carton and Mr. A. E. Dixon came before the Council with a plan of Mr. Carton's property, being a sub-division of lots 23 and 24 on plan No. 31, for North Monaghan and being a part of lot 15, plan No. 11, North Monaghan, and being a part of township lot No. 12, Con. 12.

The Council decided that all interested parties sign an agreement that Ford ave shall be made the required width (namely 60 ft.) from Chamberlain st., south to Business st., at any time the Council desires to open up this Ave for an outlet from the West end of Chamberlain st. The street shown on this plan being a continuation of Chamberlain st., and being 60 ft. in width.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Robson, that the Clerk write to the C.P.R. and ask for the plan and dimension of the culvert on their road about one mile west of Peterborough, and known as Sucus culvert.

Moved by Mr. May, seconded by Mr. Morrow, that Mr. J. H. Forster be authorized to removed the stones from the road on Harper's hill, con. 12.

Moved by Mr. May, seconded by Mr Robson, that J. T. Stinson's bill for $1.00 for a grip for the Township book be paid.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr May, that 2nd Ave on the Stinson lot be graded.

Teamsters hauling gravel, etc., $3.50 per day; teamsters employed on the grader, $4.00 per day.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr Robson, that Mr. John Little's letter be referred to the Township solicitor for advice.

Mr. Jas. C. Morrow reported that Dr. Marsh's complaint about water running in around the Church property at Springville had been remedied.

The meeting adjourned until the call of the Reeve.

The trade in flour for both local and export account is quiet at unchanged prices. Millfeed is in fair demand. Butter is firm with a fair volume of business passing for local and western account. Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 8.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 6 were 1400 cattle, 1300 sheep and lambs, 1800 hogs and 1200 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale were 900 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 100 hogs and 400 calves.

Altho the supply of cattle was fully 200 head smaller than a week ago, a weaker feeling prevailed in the market and the prices realized as compared with last Monday's, show a decline of 25c to 30c per cwt. This is attributed to the fact that the quality of the stock now coming forward is generally poorer, consisting principally of grass fed cattle, of which a large percentage are not fully finished for the market.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large, including some from Quebec, but owing to the continued extreme heat and the falling off in the consumption of fresh meats lately, the demand was somewhat limited and chiefly for small lots. However, on the whole, a fair trade was done, and as the offerings were lighter, a good clearance was made at the above reduction in prices. A few full carloads of choice steers were sold to packers at $7.25 to $7.50, and some small lots of extra choice Manitoba hay-fed steers at $8 per cwt., and one load of Ontario choice steers brought $7.75 per cwt., less $1 per head.

In spite of a smaller run of hogs a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices, as compared with last Monday, show a further decline of 15c per cwt. At this reduction the demand was good from packers and a fairly active trade was done with sales of selected lots at $8.40 to $8.65 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for small meats, prices being about steady at the recent decline noted. Supplies of sheep and lambs coming forward are more liberal than they have been for some time past, for which the demand is good at present prices quoted.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $7.25 to $8; medium, $5 to $6.50; common, $3.50 to $4.50; choice cows, $5.75 to $6, medium, $4.25 to $5.25; bulls, $3 to $5.50; milkers, choice, each, $75 to $90; common and medium, each $50 to $70, springers, $40 to $50.

Sheep—Ewes, $4 to $4.25, bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.75; lambs, $5 to $5.50.

A Troubled Conscience.

"I had a horrible dream last night," said Huddleston when he came down to breakfast the other morning.

"What was it?" asked his wife.

"I dreamed that I was in purgatory and was made to do all the things I had told my friends I would do if I were in their places."

On Safe Ground.

Whenever on one of his rare holidays Captain Goldby went to the city he took some young relative with him as a special treat. On one such occasion he told his seventeen-year-old grandson, whom he had with him, that they would "dine at a real rest'rant and get a taste of fancy cooking."

When they were at last seated in the great dining room the grandson waited impatiently while the captain read the bill of fare completely through without omitting a single article, whether domestic or foreign in title. At last he sighed and handed the card across the table to the boy.

"You choose what you like, sonny," he said, with a sigh. "As for me, I reckon as I've already eat more herrin' than any other man livin' I might as well stow away a little more. It's al'ays agreed with me so far."—Youth's Companion.

His Fortunate Mistake

It Brought Him Good Luck

By CLARISSA MACKIE

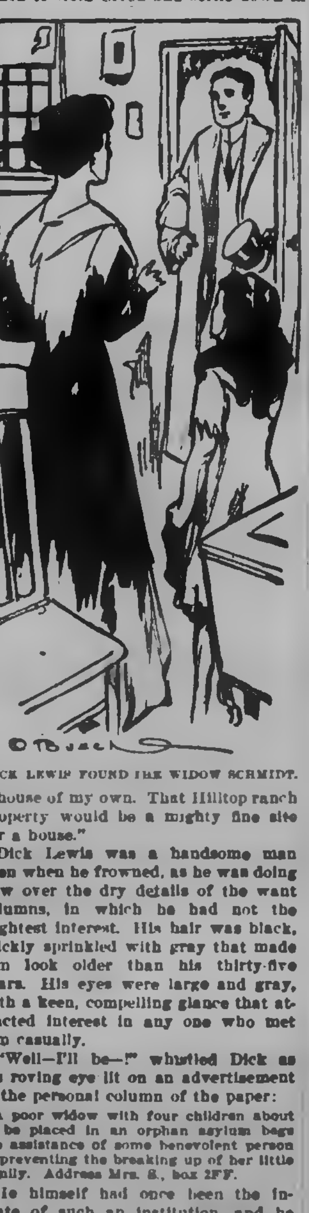
From the window of his luxurious private parlor Dick Lewis looked down at the brilliant color and continuous movement of life on Fifth avenue. The great hotel which he had entered with awe and some misgiving in his new role of millionaire mine owner was situated on the fashionable thoroughfare, and his rooms were on the fourth floor. From his windows he had an excellent view of the daily parade of wealth and fashion, and he had soon wearied of it.

He was a stranger in New York, and because of his natural reserve and reticence he had not yet been discovered by those human vultures of society whose instinct it is to prey upon the guileless newcomer and separate him from his money. As a matter of fact, Dick Lewis had renounced cards and gambling of any sort ever since one night in a Gold Creek mining camp when he had witnessed the killing of three men over a game of poker.

There was no one to know that he was a stranger in the city—a raw westerner who had made a lucky strike in Nevada and who had come to the great metropolis to see life and to spend his money. So far he had been safe.

As he looked down at the continuous stream of automobiles and carriages in the broad avenue, at the multitude of strangers, a sense of loneliness assailed him for the first time since his arrival. He turned from the window and picked up the morning paper.

"If this is all there is to New York," he muttered grimly, "I guess I'll hike back to Gold Creek and settle down in a house of my own. That Hilltop ranch property would be a mighty fine site for a house."



DICK LEWIS FOUND THE WIDOW SCHMIDT.

Dick Lewis was a handsome man even when he frowned, as he was doing now over the dry details of the want columns, in which he had not the slightest interest. His hair was black, thickly sprinkled with gray that made him look older than his thirty-five years. His eyes were large and gray, with a keen, compelling glance that attracted interest in any one who met him casually.

"Well—I'll be—!" whistled Dick as his roving eye lit on an advertisement in the personal column of the paper:

> A poor widow with four children about to be placed in an orphan asylum begs the assistance of some benevolent person in preventing the breaking up of her little family. Address Mrs. S., box 2FF.

He himself had once been the inmate of such an institution, and he had always remembered the homesick feeling that had attended his residence there.

It was characteristic of him that he drew paper and pen toward him and indited a short note to Mrs. S. of the advertisement:

> Dear Madam—If you will send your address to me, care of this hotel, I will be glad to call upon you concerning the matter mentioned in your advertisement of this date. Yours truly,
> RICHARD LEWIS.

When he addressed the envelope Dick did not notice that his glance had skipped a few lines and that the address he penned was the one appended to the one following that of the poor widow.

By noon the following day he received a businesslike little note:

> Dear Sir—Please call at room 844, Luckily building, concerning advertisement.
> F. SELDEN.

"F. Selden must be the widow," mused Dick, as he ate his luncheon in the splendid hotel restaurant. "Wonder what she's doing in an office building—why, of course she's a scrub woman and some kind hearted fellow has allowed her to have her mail addressed there. I'll go down by and by and see her—makes me cold all over to think of those four youngsters being torn away from their mother's arms."

Room 844, Luckily building, proved to be tucked away in a corner at the end of a long, dark corridor. Dick Lewis knocked gently and then turned the knob and entered the office.

It was a small office and contained one window looking down on a dim side street far below. There was little office furniture, and what there was appeared to have been recently reclaimed from some secondhand store, for it was all pretty well battered and scarred. However, everything was neat and clean and carefully arranged to the best of its poor advantage. There was a roll top desk and a long table and a couple of chairs. Beside the window was a typewriter on a stand, and seated at the machine was a young woman, gowned in black. She arose and came toward Dick as he closed the door.

Dick Lewis was tongue tied. He had seen many women in his life, but never one just like this. She was tall and slender, with a sweet, oval face lighted by soft brown eyes. Her golden brown hair was braided into a coronet above her white forehead. The dark eyebrows went up ever so slightly as she waited for her visitor to speak.

Suddenly it dawned upon Dick that this could not be the poor widow of whom he was in search. This young girl could not be the mother of four children, although her gravity and the mourning gown she wore lent her an air of maturity.

"You came in answer to my advertisement?" she questioned at last.

"Yes," stammered Dick, wiping the perspiration from his brow.

"Then you must be Mr. Lewis, for I only had one answer yesterday, and that was yours," she went on, motioning him to a chair and resuming her seat by the window.

"I was hoping I might be of some service to you," began Dick awkwardly. "You see, I've got more money than I know what to do with, and I came east to spend some of it, but it's mighty lonesome spending money all alone, and it's a confounded idiotic thing to do when there is so much need for it in the world. I suppose I sound kind of goody-goody, but I'm not"—

The girl in black stiffened and all the pretty color faded from her cheeks. Her brown eyes lost their gentle expression and became sharp and questioning. She arose with a single graceful movement and looked down upon him in the brief moment before he remembered to get upon his feet.

"I scarcely understand just what your business is with me, sir, but it is evident that you do not wish any typewriting done," she said haughtily.

"Typewriting?" he echoed blankly. "I came to see if I couldn't help you keep those four kids out of the orphan asylum and"—

"Four kids—er—four children! What do you mean?" demanded F. Selden, bewilderment mingled with her hauteur.

"I am referring to your advertisement in yesterday's Trumpet." Dick was on his feet now and looking down at her disturbed face.

"I don't know what you mean. I didn't advertise for an orphan asylum," she said confusedly.

"No, no; of course not. Only, you see, I got your answer to my inquiry, and I supposed you were the party—poor widow wanting help to keep four children out of the orphan asylum," explained Dick.

F. Selden shook her head and a faint smile curved her pink lips. A slender hand went up to smooth the golden brown braid, and Dick's heart leaped strangely to notice that there was no wedding ring upon the third finger of that left hand—indeed the finger was quite bare of rings.

"I am Miss Selden, and I do typewriting here. Business was so dull that I placed an advertisement in yesterday's Trumpet. I noticed the other advertisement just above my own. You must have addressed your envelope to me instead of your widow."

"I must have done that," admitted Dick with some chagrin as Miss Selden produced a copy of the Trumpet and showed him his error. "So that widow didn't get my letter after all. I shall have to write her another one. Perhaps—perhaps you'd write it on the machine for me."

Before he wrote the letter he told her all about himself and his trip to New York and how glad he was to find a useful way to spend some of his money. She listened with sympathy, and after the letter was written and properly addressed Dick found courage to voice a great desire.

"Miss Selden, I wonder if you'd let me come up tomorrow or next day and report on the case of the widow?"

"I shall be interested to hear the outcome," said Miss Selden politely.

Dick Lewis found the Widow Schmidt as poor as her advertisement hinted at. It gave him pleasure to set her up in business in a small notion store in the suburbs.

Dick's greatest delight was in telling all this to Freda Selden, who listened with genuine interest. He called on her once more and gave her a bulky package of papers to be copied, and that time he was introduced to her widowed mother, who happened to be in the office at the moment.

Lewis didn't see as much of New York as he had intended, his time being taken up with hunting manuscripts for Miss Selden to copy. He wrote to all his friends to send him manuscripts to be typewritten, he to pay all costs. He discovered that every friend he had in the world had at some time been innoculated with the literary fever.

When Dick Lewis went back to Gold Creek to build his handsome home on the hilltop he carried with him a bride and a mother-in-law as well as the blessings of the entire Schmidt family.

A PUPIL OF FARADAY

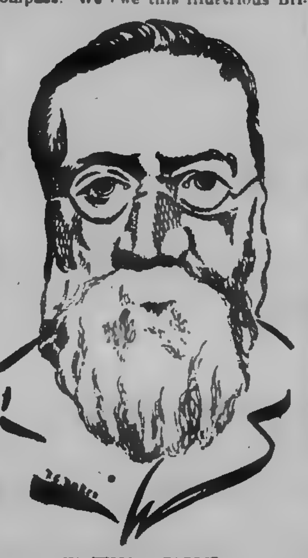
SIR WILLIAM PREECE IS GREAT INVENTOR'S SUCCESSOR.

Illustrious British Electrician Is the Survivor of a Famous Line of Helpers of Mankind and Is Responsible For the Modern Telegraph System In Its Present Perfection—Received Many Distinctions.

It is just forty-five-and-a-half years since Michael Faraday died. Would you believe that one of his closest associates is still living? During the last years of the great magician's life, William Henry Preece, now a knight and holder of innumerable titular distinctions, was his assistant. Great as have been Sir William's achievements in the world of electricity, this fact of his association with that master mind is to all of us who know the fact, a prime romance.

"Give me," Faraday could say, "give me health and a day and I will make the pomp of emperors ridiculous." One of his creations was young William Henry Preece. Sir Humphry Davy, you will remember, when they praised him for his discoveries, quickly answered, "My best discovery was Michael Faraday," and your beloved Faraday would have said very much the same thing, applying the words to Preece. For Preece has complemented the work of these two giants, as he has put a crown of practical effectiveness upon the work of Alexander Graham Bell.

He has made the dreams of the seers realities in our everyday life, and to the works of others he has added achievements of his own which their lives were not long enough to compass. We owe this illustrious Briton to Faraday, for, had there been no Faraday, fame would never have known Preece. Faraday was his hero, idol, and guiding star, and to become the pupil and assistant of that splendid genius was as great an event in the life of Sir William Preece as was the day in Faraday's life when he became the pupil and assistant of Sir Humphry Davy.



SIR WILLIAM PREECE.

The British Government did not believe in the electric telegraph. Had they not publicly and officially declared that they had no use for the new invention; that the old semaphore, worked by hand, such as we still see in ships, was good enough for the British Empire! But the people with whom young Preece threw in his lot thought that there was a use for the electric telegraph.

Many companies started in business, the railway companies among the first. The thing went quietly on its way until Tawell the Quaker, committed a murder and escaped from the Midlands to London. He was seen to depart by train, and the news—the first real news message ever sent by wire—was flashed to London. It was almost a failure, because the telegraph alphabet did not then include a sign for "Q," and the word "Quaker" had to be spelt over the wire "Kwaker," which puzzled the receiving clerk so long that Tawell almost escaped. But the message was deciphered in time; Tawell was tracked, arrested, and executed, and people, as they rode along the railways, used to point to the telegraph wires, and say, "Them's the cords wot hung Tawell, the Quaker."

That gave the electric telegraph its first hold upon the public imagination, and when things had got a real start, the British Government awoke to find that there really was something in the invention, that they had pitched away incredibly valuable monopolies, and, if you please, they had to pay ten millions sterling for the right to take over the telegraphs of the country. Sir William entered the postoffice very soon after the transfer, and he was one of the finest assets that the nation as telegraph-owner has ever possessed. He has made the British telegraph system what it is.

COAXING THE MULES.

Methods of Stage Drivers in the Mountains of Mexico.

The drivers who pilot the stagecoaches through the mountains in Mexico have a way of their own of coaxing their mules along the rough roads. The method is described by Wallace Gillpatrick in his book, "The Man Who Likes Mexico:"

"If you have never ridden on a Mexican coach you have still a new sensation in store. The Chapala coach has a cushion on top, and if you are fortunate in sharing this seat you may ride muy a gusto, seeing the country and the manner of manipulating an eight mule team at the same time.

"There are two about the size of rabbits in the lead, a string of four in the middle and two larger ones on the wheel. The driver has a whip with a lash long enough to reach the leaders. His assistant has another shorter one, but his chief persuaders are rocks.

"The assistant earns 50 cents a day and free insurance against dyspepsia. He alights at the foot of every hill and fills his sombrero with rocks on the way up. He then shies several bowlders big enough to dislocate a hip at the leaders, and when the whole team is in a gallop he swings himself on to the box in some miraculous way. I think he stands on the hub. He could never do it if he wore shoes."

TUNNELS UNDER RIVERS.

They Are Built on a Plan Taught to Man by a Worm.

There are now many great rivers with tunnels under them. Even when one is sunk to such a depth and carried so far along as the one under the Hudson at Storm King for the aqueduct it excites only a moment's wonder.

Such tunnels are generally driven under the water on the same plan, and that plan was taught to an engineer by a worm. The first attempt to make a tunnel under a river of any size was the Thames tunnel in London, which was built by the famous engineer Brunel. He had so much trouble with the water that oozed through that he came near giving up the job as impossible when he happened to see a piece of rotten wood into which a worm had bored under water.

As the worm ate its way into the wood it left a deposit like lime all around the hole, and this got quite hard and waterproof, so that the worm could always get out the way it came, and the hole remained true and firm.

Brunel did the same thing. He made large steel tubes and pushed them into the earth, and then he forced cement in between the tube and the wet ground about it, so that it set as hard as a rock. All tunnels under water are built on the same plan now.—New York Sun.

CIPHER MESSAGES.

Rules That Will Help an Amateur to Read the Riddles.

Writing in cipher, where letters or figures or characters, grotesque or otherwise, are used to form the words, while it may look formidable to the uninitiated is really not difficult to solve if one will tackle it with care and patience.

The proper way to set about reading an unknown cipher is to find the letter or figure that occurs oftenest. This is sure to be "e," as "e" is by far the commonest letter in the language. The second commonest is "t," and if you find a three letter or three figure batch often of which the last is "e" and the first "t" the middle letter or figure is sure to stand for "h." Any letter or figure standing alone must, on clear reasoning, be "I" or "o" or "a."

The second commonest three letter word in a message of any length is sure to be "and," which gives you three more letters for addition to the alphabet.

Remembering that the commonest doubles are "ee," "oo" and "ff" (in the order given) and the commonest two letter words are "he," "by," "or," "as," "at" and "an" (in the order given), a person should be able to solve almost any cipher message.

Distance.

"The railroad business is pretty complicated."

"Yes," replied the traveling man. "I don't suppose I ever will be able to understand why two towns that look so close together on a railway map get so far apart when they come to measure up the distance with a mileage book."

Earliest Germ of Vitality.

The microscopic dot or earliest germ of vitality is the marvel of science today. Everything that lives, whether the giant oak or the monster animal, has each to begin its individual growth from this microscopic dot, which actually contains all the past story of the living growth and every part in miniature of its future frame.

It is the same distance from business centre of Winnipeg as Parkdale is from business centre of Toronto.

The history of Crescentwood will be repeated in Oakdale. Where is the former 5 or 6 years ago lots were sold at $15 to $25 per foot, with the same building restrictions as Oakdale Park has to-day, and now $80 to $150 per foot is being paid in Crescentwood and residences to the value of $10,000 to $100,000 are being erected. History will repeat this in Oakdale, but in less time, as it has better Electric Car Service now.

The largest trout ever caught in Ontario, or even in Canada, for many years, weighed 11 pounds and was caught near St. Ola, in Salmon Lake, by a 12 year old boy, Cecil Haag. This season is the best for fishing of every kind of the finny tribe that has been granted the anglers for many years.

We are pleased to see that the Warder, our Lindsay contemporary, has taken the clue from the Times, and is agitating for the conservation of the public holidays in Lindsay for the benefit of the citizens of that town. The fact that the Scugogville paper recognizes the value of such a step makes it all the more evident that it would be useful here.

PERFECT BOY CONDEMNED.

Usually Most Tiresome Youngsters Get Best Marks, Says Educator.

James L. Hughes, chief inspector of the Board of Education of Toronto, is a champion of the plain, everyday little boy who may, or may not, be known as a neighborhood nuisance, but who, at any rate, does not make any pretense of winning school prizes for good conduct or correct lessons.

"It is usually the deadest fellows who get the best marks," says Dr. Hughes. "The one who sat still and never did any harm got all the prizes. He was the model child, according to the stories. The one who had vigor, originality, and executive ability used to be looked upon in horror.

"Lots of times we say boys don't like to work, when, in reality, they don't like the kind of work we pick out for them to do. I would think any boy a piece of putty if he stood around to see what I had for him to do next. You've got to let the boy pick out his work. He's got to have some responsibility.

"One of the greatest modern tendencies is to develop power. We have establish parks and playgrounds to keep up the physical power of children. We have medical officers in the school to keep them healthy. We have open air schools for the subnormal. We are beginning to realize that book knowledge is not the chief function of our schools.

"That boys naturally take the right view of things is shown by their reverence for law. They may dispute whether or not a runner reached first base before the ball, but if it is a matter of rules, and some one has the latest rule book, they will follow unfalteringly what that rule book calls for."

Dr. Hughes thinks no child should be taught to read until 9 years old.

Theater Audiences.

The tricks of theater audiences have been remarkably similar in all ages. Alciphron, who wrote of the later Attic comedy, shows that the claque was known then and also "young men of the town" who took a malicious delight in hissing a play off the stage. Theophrastus, who died in 288 B. C., sketches among his "Characters" the man of superior taste, whose pride it was to hiss when everybody else applauded and to clap when the rest were silent, and the annoying person who would hum or whistle an accompaniment to every tune that pleased him. And Aristotle himself refers to spectators who brought out provisions during the dull parts of the performance.

FREAKS AMONG FISH.

Weird Sea Life in Bartlett's Deep, Off the Cuban Coast.

Cuba ends to the south in a huge hammer of mountains 8,000 feet high and steeping sheer into the sea. The wall does not end there, but continues its precipitous descent into the 700 mile long abyss called Bartlett's deep. This gigantic submarine valley is nearly four miles deep and eighty miles wide.

At a mile and a half the pressure of the water is nearly two tons to the square inch. The ooze that comes up from such a depth, though the equator runs overhead, is cold as hoarfrost. It is ten times certain that no vegetation can grow there.

As in our world none but the vegetables are able to make food, it ought to follow that in the depths of the sea there should be no animal life. As a matter of fact, these glooms are inhabited by the most grotesque and chimerical of all fishes. It would seem as though in the darkness life had taken every imaginable license to be ugly and bizarre. Cannibalism is evidently the only method of life, and its equipment runs to every kind of extravagance.

There are fish with teeth so long that they cannot close their mouths, fish that draw their stomachs over prey larger than themselves, fish with no more mouth than a leech and getting their living as leeches, fish with huge myopic eyes and fish frankly blind. Probably none of them comes from depths quite beyond the region of light, though a great many of them go poking about their ghoulish business furnished with lanterns of the glowworm type.—London Nation.

An Experienced Sailor.

Captain Fred. Lardner, of the cable ship Mackay-Bennett, which has just completed a most trying duty, was a famous river pilot in London. He was known as "Shirty" because of his spotless shirt-front. Captain Fred. has had much experience at sea. He was on the Amber, another cable ship, when its boats went to the rescue of the Utopia's passengers at Gibraltar in 1891. A cable ship's boats and crew are well adapted for rescue work. Much of their work is done in small boats on the open sea. Hence, when the word came to the Amber's crew that the Utopia had struck, they knew exactly what to do. The boat of which Lardner, then second officer, was in charge saved nine lives, and Lardner received a medal from the British Humane Society and another from the Italian Government.

Logical Reasoning.

The law imposing a tax on bachelors had gone into effect.

One morning a little baldheaded man appeared before the tax commissioners.

"I've just married my fourth wife," he said. "I'm entitled to a bounty, ain't I?"—Exchange.

The Ideal.

It is in making endless additions to self, in the endless expansion of its powers, in endless growth in wisdom and beauty, that the spirit of the human race finds its ideal. To reach this ideal culture is an indispensable aid, and that is the true value of culture.

One of Those Questions.

"Pop!"

"Well, what is it now?"

"Say, pop, did the dog star ever have the dipper tied to its tail?"—Philadelphia Record.

Do You Feel Moody, Irritable, Depressed?

When That Languid, Laggy, Easily Tired Feeling Comes, Your Liver Is Slow.

Tells How to Cure Quickly.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches, and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those full feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish and this accounted for my poor color my tiredness, langour and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills and they were so mild and helpful. Well, I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use. I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in cleaning up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvellous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all others, men and women, can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c a box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or post paid by the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Dropped Dead in Lindsay.

As a result of heart failure, caused probably by the extreme heat, Miss Isabella Millar, 50 years of age, dropped dead in Lindsay while putting a screen in one of the open windows of her residence. Dr. Vrooman pronounced the case one of heart failure. This is the first death in this region caused in all probability by the heat.

Mr. J. T. Braund reports the crop conditions good.

Have New Uniforms.

L.O.L. 2322 have received their new collars and caps and will wear them for the first time on the 12th at Peterborough. The new banner is a dandy and will waft to the breeze the same day. Several advancements were made on Tuesday, and another meeting will be held next Tuesday.—Campbellford Despatch.

Company All Right.

Mayor Thorp of Guelph has contradicted rumors to the effect that the Independent Tire Company, is not an active company. He said:—"The Independent Tire Company is fulfilling its obligations to the city to the very letter of the agreement, and the machinery will soon be installed and the plant in full operation. State emphatically that there is not a word of truth in the rumor."

Summer School to Train.

Miss Edna Armstrong, of this city, who has been appointed Peterborough district representative to the Bay of Quinte Summer School, by those who attended the school this year, was one of the committee of five who reported in favor of teacher's training being taken up in the summer school, and the report of the committee was adopted. At the school Miss Armstrong read a paper on the "Social and Literary work of the League."

No Curtains Allowed.

Aldermen Bird and Davey, who were appointed a special committee by the license committee to make an inspection of Chinese and other restaurants in Hamilton, with a view to ascertaining if it would not be advisable to pass a by-law which will provide that no rooms shall be curtained off, visited a number of places lately. It is likely that they will recommend the committee at its next meeting to immediately order all curtains removed. The rule will apply to all restaurants.

Speaking on the 12th.

The programme on the 12th July will be given in Central Park. P.G. M. Sproule and Col. Sam. Hughes are expected to speak, as well as the Revs. R. Pogue, W. C. Riddiford, C. H. Coon and Ben Oliel. As Orange demonstrations go this will certainly be the banner one among those ever held in this city. It is not often that one gets the opportunity of hearing such a number of well known speakers and the park will not hold those who would like to be present next Friday.

TENNIS.

The following is the next two rounds for the city tennis tournament in doubles:—

Second Round.

St. John's vs. Bowling Green.

Golf Club vs. Y.M.C.A.

To be played before the 27th July.

Third Round.

Bowling Club vs. Y.M.C.A.

On Wednesday, July 10th, the schedules for three tennis tournaments will be drawn up as follows: Mixed doubles, men's singles, (handicap) ladies' singles, (handicap). All gentlemen wishing to enter will kindly hand in their names to Mr. G. K. Rackham, and ladies to Mrs. E. C. MacLeod, before the above mentioned date. Every tennis player is requested to enter his or her name and help to make the tournament a big success.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

HOW TO COOK CARP.

While in Orillia on Saturday evening the Rev. Canon Greene, who is well known in Peterborough, told the Packet a recipe for cooking the carp which are so plentiful in the lakes this season. It was given to him by Mr. Houser, of Housey's Rapids, who now lives at Toronto. Any one fond of fish can be assured of a most delicious repast if instructions are followed closely. Take a carp, clean and wash it well, then cover freely with butter. Secure a piece of oak plank large enough to hold the fish, and place them in the oven. Cook well with a steady, hot fire for two hours, then take out of the oven, throw the fish away, and eat the plank.

LIBERAL LEADER ADDRESSES BIG MEETING AT BELLEVILLE

Liberal Leader Met at Station by Prominent Citizens---Stores are Closed. But Fine Weather for Haying Kept Some Farmers Away

Belleville, Ont., July 10.—This city is a Tory stronghold, but it surrendered at least for the day to N. W. Rowell, K.C., and his invading host when the train and boats poured in their loads of enthusiastic Liberals this afternoon. The stores were closed, and everybody went to Victoria Park, where the big demonstration takes place.

Mr. Rowell arrived from Toronto on the noon train, escorted by several leading Liberals, and was met at the station by a number of prominent citizens. He made his headquarters at the Quinte Hotel, and there did much hand-shaking, making many new friends and meeting many old ones.

Excursion rates prevail on boats and trains for the big rally, and the Belleville streets are much livelier than usual. The delegation of farmers is lessened, however, by the fact that they cannot afford to lose the fine haying weather.

Mr. Rowell is supported on the platform by M. S. Madole of Napanee, Samuel Clark, M.P.P., and Hugh Munro, who redeemed Calgary for the Liberal cause.

PARTIZANSHIP IS CHARGED.

Nearly One Hundred Complaints Against Men in Government Printing Office.

Ottawa, Ont., July 10.—Charges of political partizanship which have been made against employees of the Government Printing Bureau number nearly a hundred. The investigation will start shortly. It is alleged that many employes were away for extended periods at election time and drew their pay.

SCIENTIST SAYS ERUPTION OF AETNA WILL RUIN ITALY

Boston, July 8.—Prof. Frank Alford Perret, of the Department of Geology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, predicts that Italy will soon be visited by another catastrophe. He foretold the eruption of Mount Aetna in 1910. After the eruption of 1906 the King of Italy decorated him. Since then he has remained within the zone of volcanic activity, coming to Boston at rare intervals.

"Having devoted my life," Prof. Perret said, "to the study of earth disturbances I have through purely scientific means been able to approximately judge the time of volcanic eruptions before they occur. I believe that we may look for another eruption of Mount Aetna within three or four years.

"To learn the nature of volcanic eruptions it is necessary to be at the crater at the time of eruptions. For two weeks during the latest activity of Mount Aetna I suffered tortures from the terrible heat, dust and gases, and have not yet fully recovered from burns received at the edge of the seething cauldron."

NEW YORK MEN TURN ATTENTION TO THE WHEAT OF MANITOBA

New York, July 10.—An important meeting of the grain trade in New York was held last night in the room of the Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange. The question of starting a contract market for futures in Manitoba wheat was taken up. The trade considered that the best results could be obtained by referring the opposition to a special committee for investigation and a report on a comprehensive scheme to a later meeting.

Owing to the immense surplus of Manitoba wheat and the dwindling surplus of American wheat for export, the volume of business done in American wheats at the seaboard has steadily decreased, while the volume of business in Canadian wheats has steadily increased. The Canadian crop this year is estimated at about 200,000,000 bushels, of which over 100,000,000 bushels will undoubtedly be surplus for export, to be moved through the Atlantic seaboard, and, during six months of the year, through all American ports. The establishment of a market which would give Northwestern producers, shippers, receivers and exporters an opportunity to protect transactions in spots would greatly facilitate transactions and minimize the risk, it was declared.

ROUTE OF PROCESSION

The Orange procession will leave Central Park at 2 o'clock sharp, and will proceed down George street to Hunter street, west on Hunter to Aylmer, south on Aylmer to Dalhousie, east on Dalhousie to George, north on George to Hunter, east on Hunter to Water, north on Water to Dublin, west on Dublin to George, and south on George to Central Park.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Grand Marshall of the parade.

On the arrival of trains and boats, the visiting brethren will be escorted to the Armouries, where their banners and musical instruments will be left until required for the procession.

Tags will be sold by the Orangemen during the day, the proceeds of which will go towards building a new Orange Hall.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED
NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.
"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn [illegible] a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning [illegible] and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

SENSATIONAL TWIRLER AND HIS SMILE.

RUBE MARQUARD.

Here's the smile that won't wear off. It belongs to "Rube" Marquard, sensational twirler of the New York Giants, who has established a record of successive victories that will probably last for years. There was a time when this same "Rube" was looked upon as a lemon, but, my, how he has come through!

ANTI-TAFT PETITION WAS MERELY A "FLASH-IN-THE-PAN"

Washington, July 10.—The scheme of Republican Progressives in the House of Representatives to launch a fresh campaign against President Taft by means of a petition asking him to withdraw as the republican nominee, proved to be a "flash in the pan."

When pinned down to it the members who had participated in the conference which developed the idea, hastily joined the "don't mention-my-name" club. Those who started the movement abandoned their efforts to show the participation of the Regular Republicans in it, and it was clearly apparent that there was little support forthcoming from that direction.

ESCAPED FROM CONVENT.

Cincinnati, July 10.—Dangling from a frail rope, made by tying strips of bedsheets together, three girls slid from the third floor of the Convent of the Good Shepherd in Carthage, a suburb of Cincinnati, and escaped. They sustained numerous sprains and bruises.

LEPER IMPRISONED IN HIS OWN HOME

Wife to Stick By Him; Another Leper Escapes and Goes to Russia.

Bay Sity, Mich, July 6.—Doctors who made a personal examination of Herman Hirschfield, a suspected leper here, have confirmed his disease as typical leprosy.

It has been decided by the local health authorities to permit the man to remain in his own home, but he will not be allowed on the street. Mrs. Hirschfield has decided to remain with her husband, and will be subjected to practically the same regulations.

Health officers Tuesday received word that Samuel Izen, a leper, who recently escaped from quarantine at Ann Arbor, probably is on his way to his old home in Russia. In a letter posted at an Ohio town ten days ago, Izen informed a friend that he was headed for Boston, where he intended to board a steamer for Europe.

The Orangemen will hold a tag day to-morrow the 12th. Be sure and get tagged.

ROWAN'S RUSTERS TOOK FIRST FROM DENEAU'S DUTCHMEN

White Caps Play Snappy Ball Yesterday---Good Fielding and Batting Were Features

In a pitchers' battle yesterday at Riverside Park, Roy Osborne for the White Caps out-pitched Hadley, the star Champ twirler, and backed by splendid support and timely stick work by the locals he came out of the scrap on the upper side of a 6—3 score.

A feature of the game was Connor's fast and run-saving field work in the centre garden, he having seven put-outs to his credit, gathering in many difficult flies in a manner that was highly entertaining to the spectators. He copped everything he got his hands on and showed some pepper that looked good to the fans.

When Swartz pasted the pill onto the distant brewery sheds for a three bagger and scoring two runs, put the Petes ahead, the fans cheered and rooted for the dusky left fielder. It was the drive that started the fireworks and gave the locals a lookin.

Nemo Nasher gets everything at short, and his throwing, with one exception was a surprise to the attendance. Byrnes played well at the third bag and Rowan is an improvement on first. Jack White leaves nothing to be desired in right field.

The Bees in the green and the grey have steadied, and while they were out-played yesterday it will be a battle royal for their place at the old park the next three days.

Umpire Pearson, who has always satisfied the reasonable fans, handled yesterday's game, and will guard the indicator the rest of the week.

KING GOES DOWN INTO COAL MINE

His Majesty Had to Surrender His Cigar Case Before Entering

New York, July 10.—A cable to The New York Times this morning from London says: Notwithstanding the explosion yesterday in the Cadeby Colliery in Yorkshire, which cost probably 80 lives, King George carried out his plan to descend into a coal mine at Elhecar, near the Cadeby mine and see for himself the conditions in which his miner subjects work. A Daily Mail correspondent who accompanied the Royal Party says:

Gave Up Cigar Cases.

"The King was wearing a light grey suit, without overalls. When an official when we entered the cage, requested the party to surrender all matches, pipes and tobacco. His Majesty said he had no matches, but offered his cigar case. The Archbishop of York and Lord Charles Beresford handed over match boxes, and there was soon a fine collection of pipes and cigarette cases.

"When the news of the Cadeby disaster became known it was feared that His Majesty would postpone His descent, but the King waved all objections aside. His determination was fully appreciated by the miners. As the cage descended the surface men gathered at the pithead and raised a vociferous cheer.

King Used a Pick.

"After penetrating underground a considerable distance, the King having to bend almost double to get through a low passage, the Royal party reached an open spacei where two men were squatted, vigorously swinging their picks. From one of them His Majesty borrowed a pick, felt its weight, balanced it for a moment, and then struck blows. Down came a rush of coal. The King remarked that he could tell which were the hard and which were the soft parts—and there was a great difference."

Saw It Was Hard Work.

Both miners told the correspondent that the King handled the pick very skilfully. "And he said he could see it was hard work," they added proudly. They were also pleased with the fact that the King secured as a souvenir a piece of the coal which he struck down. The King's first descent into a coal mine lasted altogether forty minutes.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL GREETED BY THOUSANDS AT WINNIPEG

Declared He Could Hardly Recognize City He Visited Twenty-Two Years Ago

Winnipeg, Man., July 10.—Greeted by an outburst of enthusiasm unprecedented in the history of Winnipeg, the Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia arrived here last night. The streets blazed with light, and 50,000 people crowded the thoroughfare along which the royal party passed. The royal visitors were driven to the City Hall, where Mayor Waugh extended a civic welcome. In replying the Duke expressed regret that the Duchess had been unable to share in the wonderful reception.

"It is difficult for me," he said, "to recognize the Winnipeg which I knew 22 years ago in the Winnipeg of to-day, for your history has moved very rapidly in that time. There have been periods of stagnation and discouragement which drove some of the less determined out of the field; but those who were not discouraged reaped a rich reward to which your city to-day is the living witness. I thank you for your welcome, and desire to express my hope and belief that you are now on a wave of prosperity which nothing in this woold can stop."

After the civic welcome the Duke and Princess were driven to the residence of the Hon. Robt. Rogers, where they will reside during their stay in Winnipeg.

BETTER CLASS OF IMMIGRANTS ARE NOW COMING TO CANADA

Toronto, July 10.—England's misfortune in the form of strikes, labor troubles and industrial unrest generally, are proving a boon to Canada. Whereas in the past years the bulk of English immigration to this country has been of farm hands, this year a very large number of skilled artisans have decided that old England is no longer the healthy place it was formerly and have bundled off to Canada and the other colonies.

This morning a party of English shipbuilders driven from home by the poor prospects consequent on strikes affecting their trade, were sent by the Dominion Immigration officials to the Collingwood Shipbuilding Co. The present reason, too, is remarkable for the large number of families which have come out from the old land. The immigration officials have experienced no difficulty in placing the new comers on good farms all through the province, and, indeed, could have placed many more.

Already this month 2,500 immigrants for Ontario have registered at the Dominion Government offices at the Union Station and a new high record is expected for the month of July.

"There is not likely to be much of a closed season this year," the Immigration Registrar remarked.

BATTLE LASTED FIVE HOURS 180 ROYALISTS KILLED IN FIGHT

Paris, July 10.—A special despatch to the Journal from Verin says that in the fight at Chaves, Capt. Couceiro and nearly a thousand men in three columns with artillery, made an attack on the town. The garrison which numbered 200 men, replied vigorously. The engagement lasted five hours when the arrival of a regiment of cavalry caught the Royalists between two fires. A determined sortie by the garrison completed the defeat of the Royalists, who lost 180 men killed and wounded and many prisoners.

As the frontier is very mountainous it offers many safe retreats to the Royalists whose roving bands are thus able to hold in check the superior forces of the Government

SAM GOMPERS APPROVES OF THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Trenton, N.J., July 10.—Governor Woodrow Wilson was in conference for more than an hour yesterday afternoon with Samuel Gompers and other officials of the American Federation of Labor. After the meeting Gompers said:

"We discussed with the Governor, the platform adopted by the Baltimore Convention and expressed ourselves as being in entire approval with the planks which apply to legislation and principles affecting the rights of the working people of the United States.

"I think the platform goes as far as a great political party can declare under present industrial and political conditions—that is with any degree of assurance of being enacted into law."

Mr. Gompers said that he and his colleagues were acting as "envoys of the American laboring men," when he was asked whether the Federation of Labor will support the Democratic ticket, he said, "We are going to report to our colleagues and they will make a declaration or authorize us to make it.

George Cameron Anderson of South Monaghan and Miss Minnie Brown were married at St. Paul's church Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, by the pastor Rev. Robt. Pogue. The ceremony was witnessed by Miss Rebecca and Miss Marjorie Anderson, sisters of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will reside near Bailieboro.

Blewett—Melville.

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized in All Saints church yesterday afternoon, when Miss Harriet White-Melville, daughter of Mr. A. G. Melville, of Peterborough and Mr. Chas. Milan Blewett of Regina, Sask were united in marriage by the Rev. R. B. Grobb. The bride was unattended. Mr. R. J. Devey played the wedding march. Mr. and Mrs. Blewett will reside in Regina.

POPE BEFORE KING.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice at the Speak French Society's convention in Quebec a few days ago, messages of fealty were sent to the Pope, the King and the French community overseas. Mgr. Stagni, the Papal Delegate, attended and received and made an address.

Protestant.

AN INDUSTRIAL COMMITTEE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see by your columns that the Lindsay Industrial Committee have secured two new industries for that town. Now, Mr. Editor, I think that an industrial commission of interested and active citizens, such as is working in Lindsay, would be a good thing for this city. Surely this matter is worth the consideration of the city council, as it might result in the bringing of a large number of industries to Peterborough. I hope this suggestion will seem worthy of attention.

Yours truly,

Citizen.

There was an old woman, as I've heard tell,
Who thought Post Toasties were mighty swell,
She ate them for dinner, she ate them for tea,
She ate them on land and she ate them at sea.
The more she eats them the better she feels,
So now she has them for all of her meals.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 60 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 65c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 65c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 390 George St. directly opposite Creeman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

People Didn't Cheer.

Has cheering become a lost art in Guelph? asks The Guelph Herald. One was almost led to believe so by the feeble attempts which were made to voice the welcome of Guelphites for their Sovereign's representatives? From the time the Duke of Connaught left his car yesterday afternoon till he entered it again in the evening, though various attempts were made, not one real hearty cheer went up from the immense crowds gathered to greet the royal party.

That Guelphites were delighted to see Their Royal Highnesses, and that their outward manifestations were not to be taken as the full evidence of their welcome, The Herald pointed out yesterday. Still, it is remarkable now in recent years cheering is dying out. Go where you will, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, or stay right here in Guelph, and the same thing is noticeable. People appear to be repressing their feelings more and more all the time. Cheering appears to be dying out; even a ball game cannot raise that good hearty cheer which in olden times used to roll out without effort, re-echoing o'er hill and dale, and making everyone within hearing distance feel the better for the vent to their feelings thus afforded.

If cheering is a lost art, as appears to be the case, then the world has lost something worth while. One good cheer yesterday would have enlivened things considerably.

Monument to McIntosh Red.

To erect a monument to an old apple tree now just about dead and soon to pass out of existence may seem at first a most unusual happening. However, the farmers of Dundas county, who by popular subscription have placed a marble stone near the spot of the old tree that is rapidly disappearing, regard the incident as being of the utmost importance, and believe they have done a service to posterity. Dundas claims to be the home of the McIntosh Red apple, and the tree to which they have done honor, they declare, was the first to produce this choice variety of dessert apples. It stands against an old barn on the McIntosh homestead at Dundela, where the first owner of the place carefully planted it several generations ago. One Saturday recently the monument was unveiled before a distinguished gathering of agriculturists.

Many Public Buildings.

This is a season of unusual activity in the construction of Government buildings. No less than 306 are under way in different parts of the country. The cost varies from $20,000 to $1,000,000.

Discourteous Cops.

Two policemen in Montreal were compelled to work an extra hour's duty a day for a fortnight because they declined to give up their seats to ladies who were standing in a street car.

SERVING THE "COMPANY."

Many Notable Men Have Worked For the Hudson Bay Corporation.

Many men of note have served the Hudson Bay Co. during its eventful career. Probably the most prominent of present-day Canadians who have spent a considerable portion of their lives in the company's employ is Lord Strathcona, the veteran High Commissioner of the Dominion in London. His connection with the great trading concern began as far back as 1838, when, as Donald Smith, he left the United Kingdom to take up a junior clerkship. On arriving in Canada he was almost at once sent to Labrador. His sterling ability was quickly recognized, and he eventually became a resident governor of the company. While in Labrador he was threatened with snow-blindness, and had to drive several hundreds of miles through snow-carpeted forests to the nearest doctor. The treatment he received saved his eyesight, but the return journey was even worse than the coming. His two half-breed guides perished from exposure, and he himself was almost dead when he reached his post.

The full story of the Hudson Bay Co. affords ample material for many a bulky volume. The adventures of its trappers, conflicts with Frenchmen and Indians, and the hardships endured by its officials in traversing a country which in its pioneer days was inhospitable in the highest degree, are a storehouse of the sort of romance with which the early days of the British Empire were so plentifully adorned. Nor is this romance vanished completely even in these less turbulent times. In the far northern wilds, which are penetrated by trappers in search of the furs demanded by the fashionable, a man still carries his life in his hands. Nature in its sternest aspect has to be faced in order that the fair shoulders of some leader of society may be decked out in the skins of the rare creatures of the Arctic forests. Yet the wild, free life of the woods continues to attract the class of man who feels cramped so long as he is unable to place ten miles between himself and the nearest of his fellows. It is no life for weaklings, but those who adopt it would probably chafe exceedingly under any other conditions.

Going Up—The Cost of Living.

One would feel more complacent about it, regarding it as a struggle between the wholesaler and the middleman, were it not for a sort of lady's postscript to the report, in the form of a few pages on the subject of retail prices. The main feature of this part of the report is the promise on the part of the Department of Labor of which is familiar to the readers of The Labor Gazette and to produce in relation to retail prices similar reports to those dealing with wholesale. Meantime, a table is given of the utmost value. It is the weekly budget of a typical family, so far as purchases of a number of everyday necessaries are concerned.

This typical family is of five members and has an income of $800. The budget covers 26 articles of food, to which rent, fuel, coal oil, starch, etc., are added. On these necessaries people spent in 1910 $12.10 and in 1911 they had to spend $12.77, an increase of 67 cents, or at the rate of $34.84 a year. That is, in 1910 these people had $170.80 to spend for clothes, amusements, doctors' bills, books and other necessaries, but in 1911 they had only $135.96 for these purposes. It looks as if these people were learning poor Wilkins Micawber's lesson of the difference between happiness and misery,—the sum total was only one little shilling in Micawber's case, and there are a great many shillings in $34.84. All the more likely is this typical Canadian family of 1911 to find it has slid below the line of happiness, or rather that the waters of the never-ending flood of Deficit have risen above the floor of their little dwelling.

The eye of imagination looking through the formal windows of such a report as this upon prices, sees a new crisis in the wonderful drama of the everyday life of the average man.

Dislike May Be Costly.

One of the leaders of Parisian society is being sued in Montreal, and may face a criminal charge as well.

He had a daughter, who married against his will, and he determined to cut her off his will without a centime of his $21,000,000 estate. This he could not do under the French law, as his property would have to go to his children. He came here in the first week of September, 1909, and on Sept. 9th applied for naturalization papers, swearing that he had been three years in the country and owned property here. This latter was true, for he had made the purchase the same week. The papers were granted.

He returned to France, claiming that, as he was a Canadian citizen, he could leave his money as he liked. The father of his son-in-law is a judge, and he could not figure out how he could be naturalized. The papers are now being contested, and an attempt will be made to try him for perjury.

His daughter is dead, but she leaves a son.

To Chaperone Immigrants.

In the past parents and guardians of British domestics contemplating proceeding to some of the Oversea Dominions have been concerned that the journey to a strange country had to be taken without chaperonage. This feeling has been shared by the girls themselves, who felt that if someone competent to shield them from the slight inconveniences inseparable from a long unfamiliar journey, and accompany them to their destination, were provided, a big improvement would be made. This matter has been dealt with in a very efficient manner by Mr. N. B. Colcock, agent in Great Britain for the Ontario Government, who has entered into arrangements with various Canadian steamship companies to supply a trained Ontario Government matron, whose duties will be to supplement the care taken of the girls by the staff of the steamers, and see that those in her charge are made thoroughly comfortable.

On arrival at the landing port in Canada, the matron will make all arrangements for the train journey to Toronto, where the girls will be placed in comfortable situations by the Ontario Government. — Standard of Empire.

Whitefish Scarce.

That the average yearly catch of whitefish during the past five years in Lake Huron and Georgian Bay was only one-third what it was twenty years ago was the statement made by M. J. Patton before the fisheries committee of the Conservation Commission at Ottawa recently.

In Lake Superior twenty years ago, the catch was twice as large as to-day, but in Lake Erie, where the Government had planted about 30,000 fry per square mile every year the catch is now twice as great.

He urged the immediate planting of whitefish fry on a large scale.

Prairie Development.

Dealing with the Borden Government's proposed Prairie Development Bill, "Canada" says: We have seen how in the United States the soil has been robbed of its virtue by being overworked; and we have seen how in Algeria the advice and encouragement of the authorities at the Jardin des Plantes has helped to establish a wine industry which can now compete with the growths of the Mother Country. It is all to the good that Canada should have determined to copy the French and not the American example. But Canadians will not only copy; they will surpass.

Labor In Canada.

A special report on labor organization in Canada has just been issued by the Labor Department. It is the most complete of its kind ever published in the Dominion. The four largest cities in Canada comprise about one-fifth of the local unions, as follows: Toronto, 105; Montreal, 95; Winnipeg, 79; Vancouver, 76.

The total estimated membership in Canada of trade unions is 133,132, the Canadian international roll reaching 119,415, the remainder belonging to purely Canadian unions.

Canada, the report shows, is less highly unionized than many European countries. Germany has the largest union membership, exceeding even the figures of the United States, with its greater population, but Great Britain shows the highest percentage of unions to populations, Denmark being second, Germany third and the United States fourth.

A Heavy Handicap.

Pallanzavitch is the Christian name under which the youngest immigrant to arrive in Canada this year will make his start in life. The baby was born to Russian parents in the steerage of the Pallanza during her voyage, which terminated at Montreal recently, and, anxious to honor the ship, the parents christened the child accordingly.

A LEGAL ABSURDITY.

Last week the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia sentenced Mr. Samuel Gompers, Mr. Frank Morrison and Mr. John Mitchell, the most famous labor leaders in North America, to serve terms of from nine months to one year in jail for contempt of court. The case arose out of a fight which started some seven or eight years ago between the Buck's Stove people and the labor unions in reference to the open shop. The unions boycotted the company. The company sued the union and the courts issued an injunction restraining the Federation of Labor from proceeding with the boycott and from advertising it in the union papers. The Federation refused to obey the Court, and the three officers were sentenced to imprisonment. They appealed. The Supreme Court decided that the proper legal steps had not been taken and quashed the conviction. New proceedings were instituted, and the present sentence is the outcome. The case will, of course, again be appealed, and it may be a couple of years yet before it is settled. Meanwhile the Buck's Stove Company and the Federation have been reconciled, and the shops were unionized long ago while the Stove Company is doing its best to disassociate itself from the persecution which is being carried on ostensibly for its benefit. Surely there is urgent need of law reform when a case can be spun out to such a length. Surely this is calculated to bring the courts themselves into ill-repute with the common people, who do not, and cannot, understand this legal delay.

Editorial Notes

It is proposed that the next congress of the French language shall be held at London, Ont. This is probably the reply of the French bishops to Bishop Fallon, and it will be interesting to watch developments.

W. R. Hearts is opposed to Woodrow Wilson, being a candidate for the presidency, because Mr. Wilson is an admirer of the British system of responsible government. Here are two reasons for thinking Mr. Wilson would make a good president: he knows a good thing when he sees it, and he is disliked by William Randolph Hearst.

If women voted, would the result of the elections be any different? There is one thing in which we should probably see a change, viz., more women would occupy public office. No less than twenty-five women have been mayors of small cities in Kansas, where women have municipal suffrage, and they have left a good record.

One of our Roman Catholic contemporaries, speaking about the ex-communicated French-Americans in Maine, declares: "Rome has a way of its own of bringing stubborn gentlemen to time. Rome is just and reasonable, but when it puts down its foot, recalcitrants may as well prepare to take their medicine." Yes, says the Christian Guardian, until Rome has put its foot down so often that the recalcitrants have increased by millions. Rome may be "just and reasonable" but millions of her own people have ceased to believe [illegible]

WHY SNIFFLE AND SNEEZE WITH CATARRHAL COLD?

By Breathing the Healing Vapor of Catarrhozone You Get Relief in Ten Minutes.

Every second person that you meet seems to have a sneeze and stuffed feeling in the forehead and nostrils. To cure promptly, say, in half an hour, there is nothing worth using except Catarrhozone. You inhale its balsamic vapor, and feel as if you were among the Norway pines. This is because Catarrhozone contains a healing medicine, light as pine air, which is breathed straight into the lungs and bronchial tubes. Away goes the cold; sneezing and catarrhal cough cease, bronchial irritation stops; in short, you are cured of catarrh by a pleasant, simple remedy, free from sedatives and irritants.

That Catarrhozone is a swift, certain means of destroying colds and catarrh is proved by the following statement of Mr. Pulos, one of Brockville's best known merchants:

"In the fall of 1908," writes Mr. Pulos, under date of June, 1910, "I contracted a very severe cold which developed into Catarrh. At that time I was living in New York State and treated with four different physicians who afforded me no relief. On coming to Brockville I was advised by a friend to try Catarrhozone. I bought the dollar outfit and was gratified by the results. I was completely cured by Catarrhozone and have used it since to check a cold with unfailing results. It is the grandest medicine in existence, and I hope my testimony will be of some use to other fellow-sufferers."

(Signed) George Pulos."

An ideal protection for the chest, lungs, nose and throat is the frequent use of Catarrhozone. Two months treatment (the large size) costs $1.00, medium size, 50c; at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE "LOST HERDS."

The Wolves Have Been the Greatest Enemies of the Buffaloes.

Reminders of the lost herds of buffalo are still in existence in the west. The homesteader's plow now and then turns up a buffalo bone, and many of the trails to springs and creeks used to-day by range cattle are known to have been made originally by buffaloes. Occasionally, on the prairies, are to be found "buffalo boulders." At a distance they appear no different from others, but closer inspection shows them to be surrounded by a well-beaten trough several feet wide. These boulders, within the memory of old cattlemen, were used by the buffaloes as rubbing-places in their wanderings over the treeless prairies. Another reminder of the lost herds are the "buffalo wallows," great circular depressions common on the plains, where the ranchers say the buffaloes formerly hunched together.

The most interesting reminder of the departed buffalo, however, is the "mystic circle of the plains," a familiar feature of the landscape to the cattlemen in early days, though one now almost undistinguishable. The strange circle consists of a wide green band in the midst of the great dun-colored stretches of prairie, inclosing an area of ground twenty to thirty feet in diameter.

"In the early eighties," said an old plainsman in speaking of these circles and their significance, "while there were a few herds of buffalo still roaming the prairies, I was riding along one day when some distance away I spied about a dozen buffaloes which seemed to be walking in a circle in single file. The strangeness of their movements led me to ride closer. As I approached I discovered a bunch of calves inside the circle, and a moment later perceived a big grey wolf crouched on a knoll a couple of hundred yards away. The story was plain enough. It was the old tragedy of the plains, only in what to me was a new setting. The wolf was thirsting for one of the calves. The mother buffaloes, in order to protect their young, had formed themselves in a circular barrier about them.

"As I watched their manoeuvres, a couple of unruly calves made a sudden break in the ring. Quick as a flash the wolf was leaping through the grass toward the breach. No sooner had he started, however, than one of the cows charged out of the circle and came plunging toward him with head lowered. It seemed time for me to take a hand, and, raising my rifle, I shot and killed the wolf. The tragedy, or near-tragedy, I had averted I learned afterward was a common affair on the plains, and the explanation of the odd circles I had so often wondered about.

"A wolf with one spring will hamstring a calf and render it helpless. The buffalo cows, well aware of this, had learned how to prevent a tragedy by forming a circular stockade about their offspring. Where these rings remained so vividly green for years after one of these battles, it is believed the fight between the herds and the wolves may have been kept up for many hours, or even two and three days at a time. Only when in desperate need of water did the buffaloes ever break the circle, and then they have been seen to withdraw in soldier-like order, goring the wolves to death if they dared approach."—Saturday Night.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 8.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 6 were 1400 cattle, 1300 sheep and lambs, 1900 hogs and 1200 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale were 900 cattle, 800 sheep and lambs, 600 hogs and 400 calves.

Altho the supply of cattle was fully 200 head smaller than a week ago, a weaker feeling prevailed in the market and the prices realized as compared with last Monday's, show a decline of 25c to 50c per cwt. This is attributed to the fact that the quality of the stock now coming forward is generally poorer, consisting principally of grass fed cattle, of which a large percentage are not fully finished for the market.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large, including some from Quebec, but owing to the continued extreme heat and the falling off in the consumption of fresh meats lately, the demand was somewhat limited and chiefly for small lots. However, on the whole, a fair trade was done, and as the offerings were lighter, a good clearance was made at the above reduction in prices. A few full carloads of choice steers were sold to packers at $7.25 to $7.50, and some small lots of extra choice Manitoba hay-fed steers at $8 per cwt., and one load of Ontario choice steers brought $7.75 per cwt., less $1 per head.

In spite of a smaller run of hogs a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices, as compared with last Monday, show a further decline of 10c per cwt. At this reduction the demand was good from packers and a fairly active trade was done with sales of selected lots at $8.60 to $8.65 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for small meats, prices being about steady at the recent decline noted. Supplies of sheep and lambs coming forward are more liberal than they have been for some time past, for which the demand is good at present prices quoted.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $7.25 to $8; medium, $6 to $6.50; common, $3.50 to $4.50; choice cows, $5.75 to $6; medium, $4.25 to $5.25; bulls, $6 to $5.30, milkers, choice, each, $75 to $80; common and medium, each $50 to $70; springers, $40 to $50.

Sheep—Ewes, $4 to $4.25; bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.75; lambs, $5 to $5.50.

Hogs—F.o.b., $8.40 to $8.65. Calves—$2.50 to $8.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 19,000; market steady to 10c lower; beeves, $5.70 to $9.70; Texas steers, $5.90 to $7.40; western steers, $5.75 to $7.70; stockers and feeders, $4 to $6.75; cows and heifers, $2.70 to $8; calves, $6 to $8.75.

FINDING COAL IN B.C.

INDIAN GAVE THE FIRST CLUE FOR A BOTTLE OF RUM

An Old Chief Who Had Brought His Gun to the Blacksmith to Be Repaired Recognized the Similarity of the Coal to the "Black Stone" of Vancouver Island and Led the White Men to the Nanaimo Fields.

And as yet the mineral deposits of British Columbia have been no more than scratched. Her coal deposits are the richest in that part of the continent lying west of the Rocky Mountains. That means that British Columbia possesses the controlling element in the industrial life of the whole Pacific Coast region of North America.

And this suggests the remarkable story of the discovery of coal in British Columbia. The story takes one back to the year 1849—the year of the Rebellion Losses Bill riots in Montreal, when the Houses of Parliament were burned; when Canada consisted of the upper and lower provinces; when the Maritime Provinces were separate colonies; when the central prairie west was a hunting ground of the Hudson Bay Co.; and when the first Colonial Government on the Pacific coast, that of Vancouver Island, was set up. The Hudson Bay Co. was still the great power on the coast, just as it was in the interior. Shortly before that time Fort Victoria had been built and made the headquarters of the coast fur trade. At that time there was in the service of the company at Fort Victoria a man named Joseph W. Mackay. One day in December, 1849, while Mackay was engaged in the company's office, posting books, the foreman of the blacksmith shop that stood a few yards away in the courtyard of the fort, entered the office and called aside Mackay to whom he repeated a remarkable story just told him by an Indian.

It seemed that an old Nanaimo chief, from the vicinity of what was then called Protection Island, had come to the blacksmith shop for the purpose of having a gun repaired. While waiting to have his job attended to, he watched the men at their work, and noticed that they kept their forge fires burning by now and then throwing on them chunks of "black stone," which, of course, was coal, carried to Victoria by ship, either from Great Britain or from eastern Canada. The Indian was surprised to see the "black stone" burn so fiercely, and after making a thorough examination of the coal he volunteered the statement that there was plenty of "black stone" where he lived.

The story at once interested Mackay, and returning to the blacksmith shop with the foreman, he had the Indian repeat his statement with more details than he had given the foreman. Then Mackay made an offer that to a coast Indian was very attractive. He would not only repair the old chief's gun free of charge, but he would give him a bottle of rum, if he would bring to the blacksmith shop some of the "black stone" that, he said, was to be found in his country.

The Indian accepted the offer, and with his gun repaired set out for home, promising to bring soon to the blacksmith shop the "black stone" that was to earn the bottle of rum.

Months passed and nothing further was heard of the old chief and his "black stone." It was supposed at the fort that he had forgotten all about his promise to earn the bottle of rum. The suppositions were wrong. It was illness and not negligence or bad faith that kept the Indian from returning to Victoria and fulfilling his promise. With the return of spring came a return of health. One day early in April the old chief drew up his canoe on the shore near the fort at Victoria. It was heavily laden, for he had brought to the fort a cargo of coal.

The coal was carried up to the blacksmith shop, and some of it was at once tested in the forge, when it was proved to be of excellent quality. The Indian told where he had found the "black stone," and he was given the promised bottle of rum and something besides; and so it came to the knowledge of white men that there were deposits of coal in Vancouver Island.

With this valuable information in his possession, Mackay at once organized a prospecting party, and following the old chief's directions, the men soon came to the land on the east shore of the island, near where now stands the city of Nanaimo.

The coal deposits were found just as the faithful old Indian had described them. After making a more or less superficial survey and obtaining a small quantity of coal, Mackay and his companions returned to Fort Victoria, where a favorable report on the discovery was made to the company's higher officials. It was forthwith determined to turn the discovery to practical accounts, but owing to other pressing business, the coal deposit was neglected for some time.

From the time when Mackay had prospected the deposit from which the old chief had brought the "black stone" in 1850, until the arrival of the first family of white miners, a year later, the Indians had taken out considerable coal from the deposit on what is now known as Newcastle Island. In the following year Mackay completed the fort at Nanaimo and the white miners so increased in numbers as to be in little danger of disturbance from Indians. The new industry was carried on by the company with great energy, and before the end of the year 1853 no less than two thousand tons of coal were shipped, one half of which was taken out with the assistance of the Indians. At Nanaimo the coal sold for $11 a ton. Carried by ship to San Francisco, it sold for $28 a ton. And so, at this early date, Nanaimo became the centre of the coal industry of British Columbia.

JAGGED CAPE RACE

One of the North Atlantic Traps That Mariners Dread.

ROCKY, FOGGY AND DEADLY.

This Gray, Grim Menace to Vessels That Come Within Reach of Its Icebergs, Gales and Wild Currents Is One of the Graveyards of the Ocean.

In Harper's Magazine George Harding describes Cape Race, that menacing point of Newfoundland that is a terror to the mariners of the north Atlantic coast:

Every great trade route of the world has in season some peculiar danger to navigation which brings disaster to vessels plying its lanes. In the north Atlantic, for ships bound east and west over the busy northern route, the particular menace is Cape Race. In this neighborhood there is an extraordinary conjunction of perils. Fog, icebergs, submerged rocks, northeasterly gales, a sheer shore and singularly treacherous current create a large possibility of catastrophe.

Cape Race is a bluff, jagged bit of coast scarcely provided with strand, and a multitude of submerged rocks are scattered from the breaking water at the foot of the cliffs as far to sea as the Virgin rocks, which outlie ninety miles. The polar current, "which runs like a river" past the gray cape, is so variable in the direction of its flow that it may race southwest at one time and flow northeast at another. In the spring and early summer—and often as late as the fall of the year—icebergs come down with the current and lie sluggishly off the coast, hidden from the sharpest eyes of the ships' lookouts in the dense accumulations of fog.

It is the fog, almost continuously gained by contact of the polar current with the warm waters of the gulf stream, which for centuries has made a menace of this cape of evil name. There is little relief from it. It is so continuously present, indeed, that the cape foghorn is frequently blown for hundreds of hours at a stretch. * * *

The route of the transatlantic lines from American ports runs past a hundred miles to sea, and it is the vessels that go astray in the fogs off the beaten track which come to grief and give the coast its gruesome name. In a single month an Atlantic liner, crowded with passengers, and four tramp steamers were totally wrecked within twenty miles of one another. And once ashore a craft has small chance. The stupendous cliffs, with deep water to their jagged edges and exposed to the swells of the open ocean, have allowed but one vessel of the seventy that have been wrecked there in the past twenty years to be refloated.

The craft on the rocks is furiously pounded to pieces by the first heavy sea. * * * The Regulus, a tramp steamer of near 2,000 tons, utterly vanished with the whole ship's company between dark and dawn, leaving her propelled fixed in the cliffs twenty feet above sea level, where it remains to this day.

Steamers have gone so close to the cliffs in the fog that the fishermen on the heads, unable to even discern an outline of the blind craft, have clearly heard that panic on the bridge when the captain reversed the engine room signals and in the same breath ordered the lifeboats manned. After that they have listened to the churning of the screw, to the orders from the bridge and to the gradual departure of the vessel from her dangerous position.

Once, at a point beyond range of the fog whistle, a fisherman heard from the fog not only the orders to reverse the engines and man the lifeboats, but a loud command to one of the officers to guard the liquor. Vessels often slip past in the mist, themselves unseen, their presence, peril and escape from disaster told only by voices coming muffled from the obscurity at sea. Sometimes skippers send boats ashore to inquire the way, but often they go by in care free ignorance without the faintest notion that they have escaped catastrophe by the miracle of a hair's breadth.

"I heard a feller go by today," said a fisherman of Chance cove. "I allowed he'd fetch up on Fish reef by the sound of his course and waited to see, but he skipped her, and a close skim too!"

It is a coast to beware of. The better it is known the more it is feared. The skipper of a New York-St. John's liner, for a moment at a loss for a reckoning in the fog, took no chances, but instantly turned tail and headed for the open sea, where he lay for six days waiting for the fog to lift.

It is no wonder the deep sea skipper shakes in his sea boots when the fog captures him in a treacherous current off that coast. Some of the rusted hulls of his forerunners in predicament serve as landmarks for off shore fishermen, and on the wind swept barren of the heads, in graves marked by crosses raised by kindly hands and snugly stowed away for good and all in the little graveyards of the settlements, lie the bones of hundreds of men who have been cast up by the sea.

No End to Grabbing.

Mopus—I suppose there will never be an end to land grabbing until everything is grabbed. Smith—Oh, not even then, because the people who haven't grabbed anything will be trying to grab what has already been grabbed. —Boston Post.

There would not be so many open mouths if there were not so many open ears.—Bishop Hall.

FAT NOVA SCOTIANS.

A Bluenose Writer Resents Imputations of Slenderness.

In a recent article a newspaper made the mistake of stating that Nova Scotians are generally "slender," a circumstance due to the diet of the majority of the people of that province. The statement did not long stand unchallenged. A Nova Scotian promptly sat down and wrote a reply, which must have convinced the editor of the paper in question that Nova Scotia is the land of big people—physically big, for neither the editor nor anyone else would think of questioning the mental and moral stature of the people down by the sea.

"I am inclined to think," writes this defender of Nova Scotia, "that if the editor had gone into the eastern part of the province, as far as the island of Cape Breton, he would have found more big men to the square mile than he has ever seen in his life in an equal area. I personally know of a family in that island, the male members of which, consisting of two sons, the father, and two grandfathers, average six feet one inch in height, and 232 pounds in weight, and there was not a fat man among them. Families of that type are not at all unusual in that part of the country."

The writer then points with pride to a few of Nova Scotia's big men—the famous giant MacAscal, who came to his death from injuries sustained "while juggling with a ship's anchor; the writer's father and his two uncles, whose united weight was 675 pounds; and the late Hon. D. C. Fraser, of whom "it is said they had to build a special seat for him in the House of Commons in Ottawa, and when he traveled he used to send plans and specifications ahead so that the railways could provide adequate accommodation for his vast bulk."

In New York to-day one can easily find proof of the falsity of the statement that Nova Scotians as a rule are slender and lean. Let him attend a meeting of the Canadian Society of New York. "The first slender Nova Scotian he will find will be the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, the president of the society, who rears up some six feet one inch in his pulpit at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, and weighs, I should judge, somewhat over 200 pounds. He will also encounter Donald MacFadyen, the colossus who played centre and guard for Princeton a few years ago. Either of these slim gentlemen will be able to round up for him at almost any meeting five ethereal 'Bluenoses' who will 'weigh in' at considerably over half a ton."

The editor attempts to back up his statement by the theory that the leanness of Nova Scotians is due to meagreness of diet. Let the answer of the defender of Nova Scotia be given in his own words.

"As a matter of fact," he writes, "Nova Scotians are neither slender as a race nor scantily fed. The province is rich in products of the farm in fruits, meats, and fish, and while we have the poor with us as elsewhere, I have never known a case of dire want. . . . In fact, I will make so bold as to say that both in build and brains the average Nova Scotian is just as good, if not a little better, than the average Easterner, to whom he is closely allied geographically and racially."

A Real May Day.

When the sappers and miners, under Col. Moody, landed at a certain spot on the Fraser River, that mighty stream which traverses the Province of British Columbia, and named it New Westminster, in honor of their sovereign, they transmitted to the city for all time to come an English influence which manifests itself in many ways, making the Royal City unique in western Canada, and probably in the whole Dominion. One of the most pleasant of these manifestations is the celebration of the old English festival of May Day, celebrated this year on May 11 in deference to the clerk of the weather. Established in 1870, this custom has survived without a break; and the list of the May Queens, elected annually by popular vote of the school children, reads like a roll of honor in the city's history.

The celebration this year was one of more than usual magnificence. New Westminster boasts but 17,000 of a population, yet the parade was a mile long, and contained seventy-five automobiles, most of them decorated in honor of the occasion and all loaded to the guards with children, who overflowed into motor trucks, street cars, and wagons. More than five thousand people assembled in Queen's Park to witness the ceremonies attendant on the ascension of the throne, when the retiring sovereign, Queen Kathleen, surnamed Welsh, placed the crown on the fair head of Miss Annie Staton, May Queen-elect, to the accompaniment of the National Anthem and the salute of honor from the bugle band of the Boy Scouts. Her Majesty then graciously commanded her loyal subjects to eat, drink and be merry, and the festivities commenced, a feature of which was the dancing of the old English maypole dance by a bevy of young girls.

A WORK OF ART.

"It Must Be Indescribable, and It Must Be Inimitable."

Pierre Auguste Renoir's views on art are shown by Walter Pach in Scribner's Magazine in this question and answer by the great painter:

"There are things about your work that we should like to know. When we find the colors in such perfect relation to one another we wonder how you arrive at such a result. When you have laid in the first tones do you know, for example, which others must follow? Do you know to what extent a red or a green must be introduced to secure your effect?"

"No, I don't. That is the procedure of an apothecary, not of an artist. I arrange my subject as I want it; then I go ahead to paint it like a child. I want a red to be sonorous—to sound like a bell. If it doesn't turn out that way I put more reds or other colors till I get it. I am no cleverer than that. I have no rules and no methods. Any one can look over my materials or watch how I paint. He will see that I have no secrets. I look at a nude. There are myriads of tiny tints. I must find the ones that will make the flesh on my canvas live and quiver.

"Nowadays they want to explain everything. But if they could explain a picture it wouldn't be art. Shall I tell you what I think are the two qualities of a work of art? It must be indescribable, and it must be inimitable. Take a thing like the Eiffel tower. It is not art, because it can be duplicated by any one who has it described to him and who knows how to make such things. But you cannot make any more Titians, and you cannot copy Notre Dame. There is the Pantheon at Rome. They thought they could make a copy of it in that votive church at Naples opposite the royal palace, but the Pantheon is a great thing, and that church is a dead thing. So when they try to build like the Pantheon they find that those lines which seem so straight and regular and simple are very subtle and hard to follow. The more they measure the more they realise how much the Greeks departed from regular and banal lines in order to produce their effect.

"So in our Gothic architecture—each column is a work of art, because the old French monk who set it up and carved its capital did what he liked, not doing everything alike, as results when things are made by machinery or by rules, but each thing different, like the trees in the forest."

WRECK OF AN ACTOR.

Macklin's Last Attempt to Play Shylock as His Mind Failed.

Macklin, the famous English actor, made his last appearance on the stage as Shylock. He came ready dressed for the character into the greenroom, where all the performers were assembled and prepared. Looking round, he said:

"What—is there a play tonight?"

All were astonished, and no one answered.

"Is there a play tonight?" he repeated.

"Why, sir, what is the matter? 'The Merchant of Venice,' you know," said the actress who was to play Portia.

"And who is the Shylock?" asked Macklin.

"Why, you, sir—you are the Shylock!"

"Ah!" said he. "Am I?" and sat down in silence.

Every one was very much concerned and alarmed. The curtain went up, however, and the play began. Macklin got through the part with every now and then going to the side of the stage, lifting up his hair with one hand and putting his ear down to the prompter, who gave him the word. He then walked to the center of the stage and repeated the words tolerably well. This occurred often through the play. Sometimes he said to the prompter:

"What is it? What do you say?"

From that time Macklin's great talents were lost to the public. His memory gone, he spent most of his time in an elbow chair in his home in Covent Garden, where he died.—Kansas City Star.

He Dined Out.

An incident took place in a restaurant in New York city one evening not long ago that, besides being amusing, was the cause of considerable thinking on the part of three men who were regular patrons of the place. They were seated together at a table when they noticed that the waiter who had come to take their orders was not the one who usually served them.

"Where is John this evening?" one of the group asked.

"He has had his hours changed," the waiter replied. "He is out for dinner now."—New York Tribune.

Paid For His Flirting.

"I was behind you coming up the street just now," asserted Mrs. Jellus, "and you rubbered at every pretty woman you passed."

"At every stylish woman," corrected Mr. Jellus. "I was just taking notes of the fashionable gowns, with a view to buying you a handsome one."—Washington Herald.

Social Progress.

"Have you interested yourself in any social problems?" asked the man of severe ideals.

"Yes," replied the tractable man. "Thanks to my wife, I now almost know how to keep score in a bridge game."—Washington Star.

Don't Knock Whisky Lake.

For the benefit of the Sudbury scribatious scribe who yawned out an unfounded and embellished falsehood and spiritus frumenti joke regarding conditions at Whisky Lake appearing in Toronto Daily Star, May 27, and to do justice to all concerned and to Northern Ontario at large, we would advise that this muddy-headed mountebank get wise and acquainted with the real facts and conditions at Whisky Lake before he displays his reptile tactics of knock, says the indignant correspondent of The Algoma Advocate in a recent issue. It would be well for many of his calibre to moult that which puts them in bad with right-minded men, and the boosters and builders of New Ontario, and besides, they would not leave themselves open to humiliation and disgrace. Should we ever have the pleasure of entertaining this doleful doughhead at Whisky Lake we would be glad to hand him a nice bammochryses.

Now to get down to brass tacks and facts, Whisky Lake has everything in its favor to make good and great prospects for the future, and time will prove that the pessimists and biased-minded knockers will at least keep out of the limelight in its development. Gold, pure, yellow gold, has been discovered on at least a half dozen claims, and the camp is yet but a week old.

The Duke and the Scouts.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught had an amusing experience on his recent visit to Toronto.

Each morning the duke used to go for a walk over Avenue Road hill, and on one of his walks he met a party of boy scouts. He stopped to speak to them and, after complimenting them on their appearance, said: "I'm a Scout. I think I'm the head of the Boy Scouts."

Accustomed to seeing the duke—or at least pictures of him—attired in a way that gave some indication of his rank, the boys were a little surprised to be told that.

Forgot His Invention.

A story is told by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, regarding his absentmindedness. He got home a few months ago about an hour late for dinner, and his apologies did not soothe his wife. "That is all very well," she said, "but in these days of telephones on every corner, there is no excuse for a man not calling up his home when he is going to be late."

"Well, now," replied her penitent husband, "I never thought of that."

Mayor Thorp of Guelph has contradicted rumors to the effect that the Independent Tire Company, is not an active company. He said:—"The Independent Tire Company is fulfilling its obligations to the city to the very letter of the agreement, and the machinery will soon be installed and the plant in full operation. State emphatically that there is not a word of truth in the rumor."

FLORENCE CARLYLE.

She Won Herself an Enviable Place in Canadian Art.

Florence Carlyle long ago attained to the standard of the genuine in art. Though her name and work are known all over Canada and in art circles in other countries, of Florence Carlyle herself little has been written. The reason is good and sufficient: she has not permitted it, says Florence E. Deacon in The Globe.

The old home in Woodstock, Ont., where her father, a grandnephew of the great Thomas Carlyle, lived throughout his forty years' inspectorship of Oxford public schools, is a fit setting for an artist. The house is low and rambling, surrounded by wide lawns and fine old spruce and pine trees. Across the front of the house is a spacious, old-fashioned verandah, and a winding path from the street leads up to it through the trees. It is one of those Ontario homes that the years have gracefully mellowed.

Within one felt at once the personality of the artist. There was no obtrusive showing of pictures and rugs and objects of art, no attitudinizing, yet the rooms expressed with certainty the atmosphere of art and dignity, of rest and a sense of ease very pleasing to a guest. How these effects were obtained I did not stop to consider, but the arrangements of thin green fabric over the long, latticed windows, with their deep, low sills, had something to do with it. And then the presence of the fair-haired hostess, with her cordial greetings, cast a glamor upon everything.

One expects to find early precocity in those who attain greatness, so I asked Miss Carlyle if there were any evidences of her talent when she was a child.

"I don't know," she said, "except that I always had to draw the heads. We children all used to draw a great deal, often lying flat on the floor or on the grass, and the others would draw everything else, but when it came to the heads of the people and animals I always had to do it."

This little reminiscence started another:

"I remember, too, the first time I saw color. Nurse brought in a big pink apple blossom. It was the first thing I ever thought was beautiful. It seemed so large to me, and so pink. I have never seen an apple blossom like that since."

Schooldays passed happily, with favorite diversions of riding and tennis, and though she received constant encouragement in the course to which all her thoughts tended, it was not until she had finally set out for Paris that her life-work was seriously begun.

Miss Carlyle had the company of the late Paul Peel and his sister on the boat going over, but in Paris it was a lone venture, and she did not know even which school she would enter. However, she came across an agreeable, good-natured girl who was enthusiastic about her school and decided to go with her.

"I remember one criticism I had at that first school," said Miss Carlyle. "I had worked so hard at a figure I was doing and was taking all sorts of pains with the head, changing and working away, when Bougereau, who was one of the critics there, came along. 'For God's sake, tell her to put a body on that thing!' he exclaimed. It took several minutes to recover from that blow."

Weary Tiredness Changed to Vigor

That Played-Out Feeling Was Quickly Remedied and Health Restored.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of sedentary character," writes T. B. Titchfield, head of a well known firm in Buckingham. "Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill-health which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I bent over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at business every day I neglected myself rather than risk any further weakness. Of course, I grew worse, but by a happy chance I began to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me as gentle as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthened my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared and my appetite, strength, spirits are perfect."

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c boxes, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ontario.

Struck by Lightning.

Belleville, July 10.—Charles Conley's house in Madoc Township was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon. A big hole was torn in the building and Conley's daughter who was sitting in a chair, was stunned and remained unconscious for several hours. Her chair was shattered and the sewing machine was torn to pieces.

In Critical Condition.

Chief Howard yesterday called to see the little boy who was severely burned a few days ago. The little fellow is in a very critical condition owing to the serious nature of the burns he received, and his recovery is merely a matter of conjecture. He also soaked the ground well to prevent it again smouldering or breaking out into flames.

An Interesting Address.

Miss Smith, a Presbyterian deaconess, who is engaged in work in the interest of the Jews in Winnipeg, is in the city for a visit, and last evening gave a splendid address on her work and the conditions there. Owing to the bad weather, the attendance was not as large as it otherwise would have been.

Soused P. C. Brown.

In the police court yesterday morning, P. C. Brown told of how Jim Wilson, who was in the cooler for being drunk, asked him to give him a drink, and when he (P. C. Brown) in performing this little charity approached the cell, the drunk soused him with a pail of slops. He was asked to separate himself from $15.75

Lamp Exploded.

Belleville, July 10.—The explosion of a lamp in an upstair room of Mr. Lowery's residence at 9.30 o'clock last night was the reason for sending in a fire alarm. The brigade was not required as first aid had been rendered by an inmate, who hurried upstairs and seeing the bed on fire, it having caught from the lamp, turned it upside down and smothered the blaze. But little damage was done.

Changes Hands.

The plant and buildings of the Mann Lumber Co., have been purchased by Mr. A. H. Stratton. The plant is an up-to-date one and is being put in first-class shape for operation. Some repairs are necessary owing to the recent fire in the building, which are being taken in hand at once. As soon as these have been made, it is expected the mill will be open for business.

TENDERS FOR HEATING, PLUMBING AND VENTILATION.

Separate or Bulk.

Tenders for Heating, Plumbing and Ventilation of addition to Nicholls' Hospital will be received by the undersigned up to 5 p.m. Monday July 15th, 1912.

A marked cheque equal to 5 p. c. of the tender must accompany same.

John Crane, Sec. Nicholls' Hospital.

Cressman's Won.

The ball tossers of Cressman's Ltd. defeated a bunch picked from the dry goods stores at Riverside Park on Tuesday night. The score board read 19—15 at the close of the game, the balance in favor of Cressman's counter hoppers. The batteries are reported to have played a phenomenal game, whatever that means. F. Cressman twirled for the winners and Halpin had difficulty in recognizing some of the contortions of the pitched sphere.

Stunned by Lightning.

Mr. Peter Kirley's residence in West Ops was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon, the fluid doing considerable damage to the building. The chimney was torn from the house and several square yards of plaster stripped from the inner walls. His daughter, Miss Hilda, was seated near a window close to the end of the building which carried the deadly current to the earth and was knocked into insensibility. A physician from Lindsay was quickly summoned and from latest accounts the young lady has revived, but is still suffering from the shock.

Delegates Home.

The Peterborough delegates who were present at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Association at Kingston, have arrived home again. They availed themselves of the opportunity to take in the Thousand Island and report an excellent trip. The next meeting of the Association will be held in Hamilton.

On Civic Holiday.

Peterborough will be initiated into the mysteries of sky flying on Civic Holiday, August 12th, when the Curtiss Exhibition Company, of New York, with whom the contract has been signed, will give exhibition flights on two aeroplanes in the exhibition grounds. The aeroplanes are capable of attaining a speed of more than 60 miles an hour and are driven by a first-class driver. There will be two flights by each machine of 30 minutes duration. No doubt this will prove a strong attraction for Civic Holiday. In addition to this there will be a five mile motor cycle race for a silver cup, open to the district. Excepting professionals all who own a motor cycle are asked to compete in the race.

Tags have been issued by the Orangemen to be sold on July 12th, in aid of the new Orange Hall. Get your tag early.

Age Limit Lowered.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association was held on Tuesday night, and important business was transacted. One of the important changes made was the age limit in the Boys' Department. In the past no boy could join the Y.M. C.A. unless he was 12 years of age or over. This kept many boys from enjoying the privileges of this important organization. Boys can now join at the age of ten and no doubt parents will be glad to learn of this wise decision on the part of the Board of Directors.

OBITUARY.

Miss Emma Kidd.

The death occurred at Warsaw on Tuesday of Miss Emma Kidd, aged 45 years. The funeral will not be held until Sunday, so as to allow time for relatives from the West to be present. Interment will take place at the Warsaw cemetery.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

HALTED THE FIGHT.

A TALE OF OLD TIME POLITICS

Colonel Fitzhugh's Chivalry In Scoring Both Whigs and Democrats Won Him a Challenge, and the Weapons He Selected Averted the Meeting.

In a book long out of print a contributor to the New York Sun has found a tale of old Maryland politics which shows that, the knight of La Mancha to the contrary notwithstanding, an almost extravagant ideal of chivalrous conduct is not incompatible with a keen sense of humor.

Colonel Fitzhugh of Calvert county was a pattern of generosity and nobility of character. He was once a candidate for office. In those days it was the custom for rival candidates to stump the county together and speak from the same platform.

On a certain occasion Colonel Fitzhugh and his opponent were to speak in joint debate. When the day came his rival did not appear. The people assembled and grew impatient. Finally Colonel Fitzhugh, taking out his big watch and glancing at it, got up and delivered his speech. In it he took all the liberties that a gentleman of the Democratic party might take with Whig principles and closed amid prolonged cheers.

As he was concluding he received a message that the rival candidate was critically ill. Colonel Fitzhugh looked round for a representative of the Whig party who might take the place of the sick man, but could not discover one.

Finally the colonel rose again with the announcement that he believed in fair play. He said that as his opponent could not be there to reply to the arguments that he himself had advanced and as there was nobody of his political faith to take his place he would himself deliver a speech for the sick man. He added that he would keep his watch open before him to see that he gave just as much time to his opponent's cause as he had given to his own.

He then began. If he had scored the Whigs he now scarified the Democrats. If the Whigs had been men of broken promises, of smirched reputations, tricksters and rogues, the Democrats were now liars, thieves and murderers.

From the Whig point of view the address was masterly. But among his own partisans there were some who refused to see that the colonel was doing anything chivalrous and who were unable to appreciate the real humor of the situation.

One Democrat in particular, whose name tradition has not handed down, was much offended. The next morning he sent his seconds to the colonel with a challenge. As no explanation would satisfy him, the colonel reluctantly named his seconds, who accepted the challenge. The Spout—a stream of water that gushed from the side of a hill on St. Leonard's creek—was selected as the place of the duel. The time appointed was the following morning at 8 o'clock.

When the challenger and his seconds rode up to the Spout a little before 8 o'clock they found the colonel and his seconds, but could see nothing that looked like weapons of any kind. On the beach near the Spout, however, there was a big iron kettle steaming away over a fire that was being industriously fed with cordwood by two of the colonel's darkies.

"Where are the weapons?" demanded one of the challenger's seconds.

"Colonel Fitzhugh, as the challenged party, has the right to select the weapons," was the reply. "They will be produced at the proper time."

When the seconds agreed that the time for the duel had come Colonel Fitzhugh approached the pot, holding his hands behind him. The challenger, advancing in turn, demanded to know what the weapons were to be.

"Mr. Blank," said the colonel, "the ammunition is in the pot. The weapons are behind my back. This pot contains boiling pea soup. Here are two ladles. I propose to give you one of them, and I will keep the other. I propose that you take your stand on the other side of the pot and that we fling hot pea soup at each other until one or the other has had enough."

"But this is ridiculous, sir, ridiculous!" exclaimed the other.

"Not more ridiculous, sir," gently remonstrated Colonel Fitzhugh, "than your quarrel with me!"

The other saw the point, and they shook hands.

Father Was Neglected.

At first David did not like to have his teeth brushed. His father said to him one evening when the three-year-old struggled more than usual against the sanitary performance of his mother:

"David, I wish my mamma had brushed my teeth when I was a little boy. I would not have lost any then."

"Don't you wish your mamma had brushed your hair?" was David's revengeful reply, with a look toward papa's bald head.—Exchange.

A Delicate Compliment.

"My new gown received a very sincere compliment the other day."

"How was that?"

"The proprietor of a restaurant I went into asked me to sit near the window; said it would lend tone to his place."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Battle of the Boyne Why it was Fought

By F. Hugh O'Donnell, an Irish Roman Catholic.

Students of history must have often reflected on the immense and incalculable difference it would have made to the peace, progress and common patriotism of Ulster and all Ireland during the last century if the Irish Catholic laity had been allowed to learn the truth of the causes which brought William of Orange and his Protestant army to fight the Battle of the Boyne. It has occurred to me that even to-day it may not be too late for future generations to begin to know something of the true reason which forced the subjects of the Stuart King to call over the Dutch Deliverer, and which made the Regiments of the little republic of Holland dare even the mighty hosts of the French monarchy in order to prevent the bloody system of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes being extended to Protestant men, women, and children in England, Scotland and Ireland.

Let me say at once that there need be no word of disrespect for those Irish Catholics of long ago, the valiant companions of Patrick Sarsfield, who on all those stubborn field from the banks of the Boyne to the walls of Limerick maintained, often with magnificent courage, the bad cause of the traitor tyrant, James II. Though abandoned by their French allies and by their own dastard king, the fierce Irish cavaliers who grappled with veteran Schomberg in the fords of the Boyne, who manned the crumbling ramparts of Athlone and Limerick, did not tarnish the military glory of the Celt; and their subsequent career as the famous Irish brigades in France and Spain fill some of the proudest pages in the history of war.

O, my Protestant countrymen of Ulster and Ireland, let us all look back to the awful past, not for motives of continued division but for reasons why Irishmen of different creeds should at length begin to understand that the mutual knowledge of the facts of history, which the clerical spirit has so long distorted or hid, is the surest guide to toleration, to mutual respect, to the unity of the common country and the same dear Irish home! Believe me, ye stern and martial weavers of Orange William's conquering color, that it would be better, gloriously better, for the future of our dear Ireland, if all the men who love the green only knew how holy was the cause, how deep the necessity, how noble was the spirit which united the apprentices of Derry and the Guards of the United Netherlands to keep the Dragonades of Louis and the inquisition of the Jesuits far forever from the English and the Irish shores. Bitterly duped were the ancestors of the Catholic Irish. Perhaps not one Irish Catholic in a thousand knows to-day that the news of the victory of the Boyne brought hope and gladness, not only to stout Lutherans and Calvinists from Amsterdam to the Elbe, but to freedom-loving men, Catholic and Protestant millions and tens of millions, in all the lands of Germany and Austria, and beyond the Alpine passes of Piedmont and Tyrol.

Not very long ago a Dublin friend of mine speaking of my book on "The Ruin of Education in Ireland," said to me: "Of course what you write is quite true. The clerical schools and colleges are doing no end of harm. But I would not please these Orange bigots by admitting it." That is precisely the frame of mind which clerical education produces. If truth appears to be on the non-clerical side, suppress it. What I am going to say about the Battle of the Boyne may be expected to wound people like my Dublin friend very much indeed. But I know by experience also that there are numbers of Ulster Catholics who are sick of the pious fables which have kept Catholics and Protestants apart in nation-killing separation.

What caused the Battle of the Boyne? The average pupil of that education which certain British statesmen would establish and endow even in a seat of university learning would at once reply: "The determination of England and her Irish Protestant garrison to crush liberty of conscience in Ireland." and he may go on to add "If we had only a few good French troops we would have won the day." Beyond a certain idea that the French troops at the Boyne did nothing, the Irish Catholics has no more to say about France and Ireland in connection with the great encounter. Not one in ten thousand has ever been taught to know that those regiments of Louis XIV represented infamy and persecution, and that the unhappy Irish had been again duped by their clerical advisers into risking the whole future of their race and country on the vilest game of hypocrisy and tyranny which any century has ever witnessed. Astounding as it appears to the ordinary Catholic, the side of civil and religious liberty was the Protestant side; the side of Louis and James was the side of perjury, persecution, and oppression; and the whole of Europe, outside of France, was praying for the victory of the Deliverer from Holland as a deliverer of human nature itself from the Bourbon tyrant, his Stuart accomplice and the Jesuit counsellors and guides of the precious pair.

The Catholics of Ulster have been asked to bear in mind that date of July the first, 1690, which saw the great victory of William of Orange. Let me ask them to bear in mind for the future another date, only five years earlier than the Battle of the Boyne, the date of the 22nd of October, 1685. What happened on the 22nd of October, 1685? Only this, that on that day Louis XIV of France, in the very lust and insolence of his military preponderance and his unbridled despotism, incited by his clerical counsellors and servile bishops, abolished the Great Charter of Toleration of the Edict of Nantes solemnly granted by King Henry IV a century before, and ordered half a million of patriotic Frenchmen, Christians by as good a right of conscience as any Irishmen in Ireland, to abandon their religion, to be renegades to their faith and conscience or to live like trampled slaves and helots in their native land. The Protestant churches were levelled to the ground. The Protestant ministers of religion were banished from France under the most cruel penalties. The Protestant laity who would seek in exile the liberty denied at home were punished with penal servitude in the galleys. The children of the Protestant people were torn from the arms of fathers and mothers and forced into Catholic schools, where monks and nuns, dishonored slaves of the tyrants, were to make them apostates and perverts from the faith of their parents and their baptism. To drive the parents themselves into the same apostasy by terror and privation, regiments of dragoons were quartered on the Protestant communities, to waste the substance and riot at the expense of the oppressed people so long as they refused to join the official church of the pious profligate upon the throne.

For a quarter of a century the palace and court of the French King had been disreputable. His mistresses and their children were the honored centre of a gorgeous galaxy of marshals and cardinals, and marquises and monsignori. The magnificent Louis changed his concubines with the seasons, but he never changed his confessors. They were always Jesuits, Father La Chase, S.J., and Father Le Tellier, S.J., fill up with their ghostly counsels the entire reign of the profligate and scandalous despot. And now at one stroke he was to atone for his infamies by stamping out of existence the peaceful and loyal Huguenots of France!

The same year which saw the Revocation of the Edit of Nantes saw the enthronement of James the Second on the British throne. A Jesuit, Father Peter, S.J., was sworn a member of the English privy Council. A secret treaty bound together Louis and James. Britain was to be remade on the French model. Military absolution was to take the place of Parliamentary institutions. A standing army supported by French reserves and French subsidies, was to obey the king alone. The doom of the Protestants of France was impending over the Protestants of Britain. Every Protestant mother and father saw in vision before them the children torn from their arms, as in France, by a ruffianly soldierly, saw the ministers of religion banished from the land or expiring on the gibbet.

This, men of Ulster, Catholic and Protestant, this is what went before the Boyne. Was William of Orange wrong in listening to the appeal of a nation menaced by such oppression, and already ruled by the hireling and ally of the French persecutor? Was William of Orange anything less than a hero and a chevalier in resolving to match the forces of his Netherlands against all the might of Bourbon and Stuart, in resolving to risk land and life in order to prevent the pious Nero of Versailles from setting up another pious Nero at Whitehall? Alas, for Irish Catholics that they were duped in that tremendous time to link their nation with the butcher of the peasants of Sedmoor and with the revokers of the Edict of Nantes. If vengeance fell upon unhappy Ireland blame the clerical leaders in the first place. The day that the crown of the morose and fanatical James fell into the waters of the Boyne, a great cry of relief and exultation went up from three parts of Europe. The victory for which Walker and Schomberg died aroused a score of people to arise against the French terrorism, just as 120 years later the retreat from Moscow roused all the people from the Baltic to the Euxine for the war of liberation against Napoleon. And this at least must be said for Napoleon. Under Napoleon no man had to fear the fires of Smithfield for believing according to his conscience, no mother had to fear having her children plucked from her arms by missionary dragoons and cut-throat proselytisers.

Heavy was the ruin that fell upon Ireland for packing a penal code at home. Yet the Irish never knew what Louis and James meant to European freedom. The Irish never knew. Magnificently reckless, egregiously deceived, the dupes of their trustfulness, carefully excluded from information, two hundred years ago they charged for the "clergy's kings" just as they to-day vote for the clergy's candidates. And that is why Ireland has missed its destiny. And that is why the huge new convent arises among the streets of hovels. And that is why the Irish race is dwindling from the earth. No land could progress beneath a political clergy such as ours.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager, 45 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 366 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

PICTURES IN THE CAPITOL.

Reed's Caustic Comment on His Portrait in the House Gallery.

Among the most interesting features of the capitol at Washington are the numerous paintings of departed statesmen and events of importance in our national history. In the wide gallery back of the house of representatives are portraits of the various speakers of the house. The likeness of each speaker is hung in this hall of fame upon his retirement from office.

The portrait of every speaker can be found there, with but one exception. The missing face is that of Nathaniel Macon of North Carolina, who was speaker from 1801 to 1807. Macon was a modest, unassuming man of simple manners, attired always in the coarse homespun of the day, although an exceptionally able official. A lover of horses and cattle, he entered the pedigree of his own blooded stock in his family Bible. Macon never posed for his picture. Although every effort has been made to discover a portrait of him, the search has been without avail.

A service of barely five minutes in the speaker's chair won for one man a space on the wall of this gallery. Schuyler Colfax, speaker of the house, was elected vice president and took the oath of office on the 4th of March, 1869. On the morning of that day Colfax resigned the speakership, and Theodore M. Pomeroy of New York was elected speaker for the remaining few minutes of the session.

The picture of Thomas B. Reed was painted during the last year of his term of office. When it was shown to him he looked at it closely. He noticed the protruding lips, the florid complexion, the heavy, flabby cheeks and massive neck.

His eyelids partly closed and his countenance grew cold. Slowly and with his inimitable drawl he commented:

"I hope that my dearest enemy is satisfied now."

Then with an expression of irony on his countenance he turned and left the room.

Of the many portraits from life in the capitol the most valuable is one of the Gilbert Stuart pictures of Washington. There are two portraits of Washington by Stuart. One of these Stuart portraits of Washington cost the government $5,000. This is the most expensive portrait in the capitol. However, other pictures in the building have been infinitely more expensive—for instance, the great "Battle of Lake Erie," at the turn of the senate staircase, showing Commodore Perry leaving his flagship at the height of the battle, cost $30,000.

Fully Assimilated.

Ray S. Baker, the author, in an argument on immigration cited the marvelous speed wherewith the immigrant family, be it German or French or what not, becomes assimilated into the national life.

"An instance of this assimilation occurs to me," he said. "I know a worthy Neapolitan, one Paoli Cucci, who came to this country three years ago. Paoli's little son, Francesco, an American citizen of seven, looked up from his schoolbooks the other evening to ask:

"'Say, pa, what year was it you Italians discovered us in?'"—Exchange.

A Blow to Carlyle.

When the first volume of Carlyle's masterpiece, "The French Revolution," was finished, it was sent to his great friend, John Stuart Mill, for him to read, but by some extraordinary accident Mill's servant used the manuscript to light the fire.

Carlyle had kept no notes and could scarcely recall a sentence of what he had written. Nevertheless he set to work again, although thoroughly disheartened, and after two more years of hard and laborious work the manuscript was for the second time completed.

Not So Bad.

"Did you tell the landlord what an awful leak there was in the roof?"

"Yes, I told him."

"What did he say?"

"He said he'd fix the roof as soon as you pay the rent you owe."

"Did he? I guess it ain't much of a leak."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A POET'S GUARDIAN.

Paludan-Muller's Fierce Little Wife Kept Him Secluded.

The famous poet of Denmark, Paludan-Muller, was closely guarded in his later years by an eccentric wife, greatly his senior. Of her preposterous oddity, writes Edmund Gosse in "Two Visits to Denmark," stories were everywhere current in Copenhagen. She kept him as much as she possibly could from all intercourse with the outer world. During a visit to Copenhagen the host of Mr. Gosse decided to invite the poet to dine, and his daughter and guest were sent on a mission to invite him.

If we could secure him for a night convenient to him, writes Mr. Gosse, all that was brightest and best in Copenhagen was to be constrained to come too. But fortune was against us. If we had found him alone it is possible that success might have crowned our efforts. When we arrived with our dinner invitation on our lips we were damped by being told the poet had gone out for a walk, but that Mrs. Paludan-Muller would receive us. The fierce little lady, in fact, closed our retreat by peeping round the edge of the door and commanding us to enter. Miss Aline Fog, overwhelmed by the event, lost her presence of mind and blurted out the invitation, which it would have been wiser to suppress.

The answer came at once: "Impossible, my dear lady, impossible! I could not sanction it. Mr. Paludan-Muller is weak; he is good natured; he is only too ready to go into society. It is my privilege to prevent it. I say to him: 'You are too delicate, my dear, to mix with others. You must positively consider your health.'"

Miss Fog feebly asked whether the poet might not himself be appealed to, "such old friends; so small a party; so early an hour!" The lady was quite obdurate, however. "I could not trust him with your message. He is so weak, so good natured. His place is at home with me. I do not wish to dine abroad. Why should he?"

Only Made It Worse.

Harry was taken out to dinner for the first time in his life. His mother kept him at her side because his mother is a wise woman. But he acted like a perfect little gentleman until the dessert course. Then his mother found occasion to reprove him.

"Harry," she exclaimed in such a loud whisper that everybody at the table could hear it, "what do you mean by wiping your spoon on your napkin? You never do that at home."

"No, mamma," answered Harry in an even louder whisper, "but at home we always get clean spoons."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Alexandrite.

Don't think that your knowledge of wonder gems is complete till you have seen in all its beauty an alexandrite, green by day and red by night. And such a green—olive bronze, with a potent suggestion that red is there; green when held in the sunlight; in a darkened room with artificial light a ruby where the emerald was a moment before—a tawny wine red of exquisite tone.

Quite Satisfactory.

An old colored barber is responsible for this gem: When asked if he favored the abolition of capital punishment he replied: "No, sah, I don't. Capital punishment was good enough fo' my fo'fathers, an' it's good enough fo' me."—Boston Transcript.

Keeping the Hands Smooth.

It is possible to have smooth hands even if one is a housekeeper and dishwasher. Obtain from the druggist 5 cents' worth of tragacanth, which is enough for a year's use. Dissolve a spoonful of this in three times as much water. Let stand in a covered teacup for twelve hours. Then fill the cup with water, and you may apply the thin jelly which is made freely to your hands after each washing. A few drops of your favorite perfume and a little glycerin added to the jelly improve the lotion.—Woman's Home Companion.

He Spoke to Her.

A Virginia farmer was driving a refractory cow down the road one morning. The cow and the driver came to a crossroad. The man wanted the cow to go straight ahead, but the cow picked out the crossroad. A negro was coming along the crossroad.

"Haid her off! Haid her off!" yelled the driver.

The negro jumped about the road and waved his arms. The cow proceeded calmly on her way.

"Haid her off! Haid her off, niggur!" yelled the driver.

"I's a-tryin' to!" replied the negro.

"Speak to her! Speak to her and she'll stop!"

"Good mawnin', cow—good mawnin'!" said the negro politely.—Saturday Evening Post.

When You Crack Your Hat.

If you are ever unfortunate enough to smash a new derby hat, so that it cracks and in spite of vigorous rubbing and brushing refuses to resume its pristine smoothness of surface, try the simple expedient of holding a lighted match inside the hat close to the broken spot. By the time the match has half burned out you will find that the hat has become soft. If you will then brush it vigorously with a stiff brush for a moment it will regain its former smoothness and look as if nothing had ever marred its surface.—New York Sun.

VACCINATION AGAINST TYPHOID

According to the Buffalo Times its city is the first in the United States to officially recognize vaccination against typhoid. Though anti-typhoid vaccination is a recent discovery, its efficacy has been as well established as that of vaccination against smallpox.

The first field of successful application of the anti-typhoid vaccine was in the United States army, and the excellent health of the troops during their mobilzation in Texas, which continued throughout the months of patrol, camp and garrison duty that followed was attributed, in a large degree to anti-typhoid vaccination.

But in spite of light and knowledge there is a large class of people opposed to vaccination against smallpox, hence it is reasonable to suppose that anti-typhoid vaccination will also encounter its share of opposition, especially if it is made compulsory. But nevertheless it has come to stay, just as anti-smallpox vaccination did, unless some more efficacious preventive shall be discovered.

BRITAIN GIRDLING THE GLOBE.

The international conference on wireless telegraphy which is now in session in London, has already had the interesting result of disclosing at least a part of the British government's plans for establishing an "all-red" aero-telegraphic service around the world connecting all parts of the British Empire and with all its stations on British soil.

These plans are made possible of execution by the fortunate distribution of British possessions, and are based upon an agreement between the British government and the Marconi company, under which the former will supply the latter with the funds for number, which, with one provided by erecting the necessary stations, five in Australia on her own account, will suffice to "put a girdle round about the earth." The Atlantic ocean is already crossed, of course, from Poldu to Glace Bay, and there will be no difficulty in establishing a land service across Canada. From Victoria there will be the longest leap of all, presumably to Fanning Island, whence the aerograms will go by easier stages to Fiji, New Zealand, Australia, Hong Kong, Singapore, Madras or Colombo, Bombay, Suez, Malta, Gibraltar and home, with branches to Mombasa, Cape Town, Nigeria and Senegambia.

No other nation could do such a thing, unless the range of aerography were much greater than it is. Germany would have to leap from home clear to Togoland or the Cameroons, whence she could reach her other African possessions without trouble. But to get from Zanzibar to Kiao-chau to the Pelews or to New Guinea would be a formidable task. From Papua to Samoa would be an easy step, but to get from Samoa across two oceans and a continent to the starting point would be impossible in the present state of the service.

Of course it would not be necessary for the line to go around the globe, so long as it touched all parts of the empire, but the distance to be covered eastward from Zanzibar seems to preclude the possibility of that. France could come nearer to duplicatin Great Britain's feat, for everything in Africa is within easy reach, and it might be possible to leap thence to Indo-China.

If so, a service would probably be established across Melanesia and Polynesia to the Marquesas Islands. But it would be a desperate leap from Hiva-oa to Cgyenne or Martinique and another thence to Senegal. This French route is, however, far more hopeful than any which Germany could plan.

Ideal Protection Against The Inroads of Catarrh

By Breathing the Rich, Balsamic Vapor of Catarrhozone You Prevent and Cure all Head, Nose, and Throat Diseases.

Remember this: You don't take drugs when using Catarrhozone; you simply inhale a healing vapor that cures every type of Catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, throat and nose soreness and irritation.

No medicine brings such prompt relief, exerts such an invigorating influence or so thoroughly and speedily cures throat troubles as "Catarrhozone." Doctors, hospitals, sanitariums, all say that those who suffer from changeable weather, for those who are predisposed to catarrh, lung trouble, deafness or bronchitis, no treatment is so indispensable as Catarrhozone.

Victim of Chronic Catarrh Cured.

I contracted a severe cold while following my occupation of furniture travelling, and eventually it developed into Catarrh. The desultory mode of life I was following gave me very little chance to attend to the Catarrh condition, and at last I became a victim of Chronic Catarrh. I bought a large package of Catarrhozone, used it as per directions, and have never been bothered since. I will be only too glad to give any information I possess to any person suffering from the disease that was the bane of my life for two years.

A. H. SWARTZ, Brocvville, Ont.

For certain cure, for relief in an hour, use Catarrhozone, the only direct, breathable medicine. Two months' treatment guaranteed, price $1.00, smaller size 50c, at all druggists, or the Catarrhozone Company Kingston, Ont., and Buffalo, N. Y.

Editorial Notes

The friends of our good friends, Hon J. R. Stratton and Hon. Senator Cox have selected for them a cosy little corner in the political graveyard.

Keir Hardie publicly confesses that he is losing faith in the efficacy of strikes to improve the lot of the workers. Many other students of industrial conditions came to that conclusion long ago. It often happens that the men in the thick of the fight cannot see clearly.

The Bank of Montreal has taken steps to stall off the challenge of the Bank of Commerce by having its shareholders authorize an increase of capital from $16,000,000 to $25,000,000 The increase will not be made at once, but gradually as the Bank needs it. The move is simply another evidence of the prosperity of the country and of the growing demands which its industrial and agricultural activities will make for money.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 10.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending July [illegible] were 1250 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, [illegible] hogs and 1700 calves. The offerings on the market to-day for sale amounted 700 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, [illegible] hogs and 700 calves.

Owing to the continued exceedingly hot weather prevailing the trade in cattle to-day was slow, as buyers showed no disposition to operate freely, consequently the market was dull with an easier undertone, as the supply was far in excess of the requirements. The top price realised for the best steers on the market was $7 and the lower grades sold from that down to $5 per cwt. The demand for butchers' cows was slow and prices ranged from $3.50 to $5.50 per cwt. The quality of the bulls offered was generally common and sales of such were made at $3 to $3.50 per cwt.

A fair trade was done in sheep and lambs and as the supply was not large, a firmer feeling prevailed in the market and better prices were realised, with sales of sheep at $4 to $4.50 per cwt., and lambs at $6 to $6.25 each. The demand for calves was fair and sales were made at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each.

The tone of the market for hogs was steady, owing to the smaller offerings and sales of selected lots were made at $8.40 to $8.65 and mixed lots as low as $8.25 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

A Local Hymn Writer.

We publish in this issue of The Times an Orange Hymn written by Mr. S. M. Duyzers. Two years ago Mr. Duyzers could neither speak nor read English, but the hymn shows to what extent his ability in this regard has developed. In his native country Holland, and in Canada, Mr. Duyzers has been enthusiastic in his efforts against intemperance, an earnest investigator of the white slave traffic and an ardent Orangeman.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY ORANGE LODGES IN GRAND CELEBRATION

Over Fifteen Thousand Orangemen in Parade This Afternoon--To Be Addressed By Prominent Members of Order

One hundred and fifty Orange Lodges will invade the city to-day, from ten different counties, to take part in one of the grandest Orange celebrations that has ever been held in this section of our Dominion. By special train, by regular train and by steamer the visitors will pour into the city, commencing early this morning, till before the celebration is at its height the population of Peterborough for the time being will be in all probability doubled.

In the morning the Peterborough brethren will assemble at their lodge rooms at 8.30 o'clock and at nine o'clock will march to Central Park, which will be the rendezvous and headquarters for the Orangemen in the city to-day.

From the park the local lodges will march to the stations and the wharf to meet the incoming brethren, and escort them to the armouries where their banners and musical instruments will be taken care of till this afternoon. This will constitute the morning's program and certainly the arrival of the different lodges will cause a great deal of interest in the city.

In the afternoon the whole army of Orangemen will assemble at 1.30 o'clock at Central Park and organize for the Monster procession. The leading county (South Hastings) will take up its position facing west on McDonnel street, and the other counties and lodges will take up their positions in long lines with two abreast facing west also. The rear section (West Peterborough) will take up its position near Murray street. Then with South Hastings leading across in front of the Collegiate Institute and Armouries the others will march off in succession, and in the following order:

SOUTH HASTINGS.
CENTRE HASTINGS.
NORTH HASTINGS.
NORTHUMBERLAND.
VICTORIA.
HALIBURTON.
WEST DURHAM.
EAST DURHAM.
EAST PETERBOROUGH.
WEST PETERBOROUGH.

These comprising 150 or 175 Orange Lodges with the members in full regalia, will march through the city by the following route: Down Murray to George street to Hunter street, west on Hunter street to Aylmer, south on Aylmer to Dalhousie, east on Dalhousie to George, north on George to Hunter, east on Hunter to Water, north on Water to Dublin, west on Dublin to George, and south on George to Central Park

On their return to Central Park a number of prominent Orangemen will address the gathering.

Hon. Dr. Sproule, Hon. Col. Sam. Hughes; the Revs. R. Pogue, W. C. Riddiford, C. H. Coon, Ben Oliel and others will give addresses.

The Central portion of George street is nicely and appropriately decorated for the occasion, and many colored streamers, with the Orange and Blue in prominence, are in evidence at other parts of the city.

LOOKS LIKE CONSERVATIVE VICTORY IN SASKATCHEWAN

Returns, Although Incomplete, Indicate Defeat of Liberal Government

Special to The Times.

Regina, July 11.—Latest returns would indicate the defeat of the Liberal Government of Hon. Walter Scott. The constituencies are so scattered that it will be a day or two before anything like full returns are to hand. The fight which terminated to-day was the bitterest in the history of the West. When the poll opened to-day in the 52 seats (two northern constituencies having delayed elections) it was amid intense excitement and a grave probability of some violence on both sides. The press of both parties openly advised their partisans to be prepared for trouble. The Regina Province editorally called for the "smashing of all crooks who attempted to vote." There was no mistaking the temper of both sides. There were a number of arrests among workers engaged on each side, and the Conservatives charge "fraud and corruption."

During the contest the Conservatives claim to have delivered a fatal blow to the reciprocity talk involving claims that the United States markets offer the Canadian grain producer any advantage because the Winnipeg July future closed at 107¼, while in Chicago it was 103¾ and 104⅛ in Minneapolis. This certainly shows a big advantage in prices for the Winnipeg market and the fact has been wired all over the province. The reciprocity issue was made the leading feature of the campaign by the Liberals candidates, though Mr. Haultain denied that such was the case, claiming reciprocity to be dead beyond the hope of resurrection.

The latest returns received by The Times last night showed the Conservatives under Haultain to be in the lead.

CHARGE OF THE WIVES' BRIGADE

Cagliari Spouses Rise Against the Slothfulness of Their Husbands.

Milan, Culy 9.—Goiro, a small Sardinian township in the neighborhood of Cagliari, has attained to fame owing to the charge of the Wives' Brigade.

Four hundred women, exasperated at the slothfulness of their spouses, in the face of increased local taxation, resolved to make an impression on the authorities. They stormed the town hall, broke down the doors, and proceeded to ransack the archives.

The small force of carabinieri were unable to resist the onslaught, and dispatched a patrol in hot haste over the countryside to muster as many rebel husbands as possible to the scene of the conflict.

The wives' brigade, however, yielded only when the men had actually constituted themselves a deputation of protest and had been marched by their better halves to the threshold of the prefect's office.

IN COLONY CROP IS KAISER'S HOPE

Sees Rival To America's Staple In South African Yield.

Berlin, July 8.—The Kaiser recently earned much praise "for encouraging colonial enterprises," by buying two farms in the Black Continent. It now turns out that he risked less than two days' pay on the farming experiment, namely 90,000 marks. The Prussian State Treasury pays him so much for one and three-quarter days' work.

The Kaiser's object is to raise cotton on his African farms and eventually become a competitor of the Southern States in America.

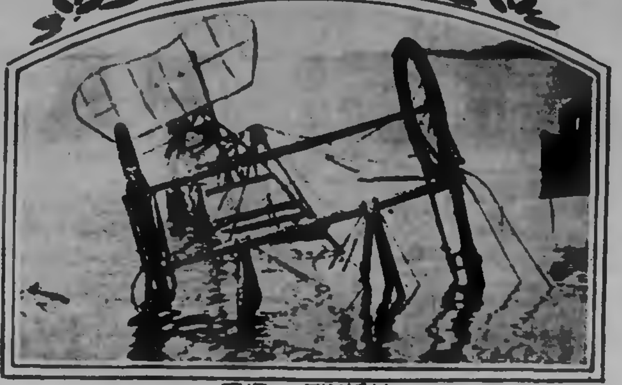
START OF MISS HARRIET QUIMDY WITH MR. WILLARD

Herein are shown the start of the fatal flight near Boston, Mass., in which Miss Harriet Quimby, the first woman aviator of America, and her passenger, W. A. P. Willard, were dashed to death from a height of one thousand feet, when the rudder control jammed and threw the two unfortunate aviators from their seats. The machine struck in shallow water and both were killed instantly. The smaller picture shows the wrecked aeroplane immediately following the accident. Miss Quimby was the first woman to fly across the English Channel



THE FINISH

LIFE PRODUCED BY SCIENTISTS

French Savants Create Vegetable Growth With Aid of Violet Rays

Paris, July 10.—The problem of the creation of life seems now to be emerging from the theoretical stage. According to a communication read before the Academy of Sciences this week, two French savants have succeeded in reproducing for the first time without the presence of any living matter the essential phenomena of life of the vegetable world.

These phenomena are stated to be the reaction and assimilation of glass in air under the influence of light.

This transformation, when attempted by purely chemical means and without vegetable ferments, had been found impossible by ordinary light. The authors of the communication, however, discovered that the reproduction of vegetable growth can be attained under the ultra violet rays. It is announced that the activity of these rays is so great that the chemical substances employed in the experiments when immersed in air, charged with carbonic acid gas, behaved in exactly the same way as actual living plants.

VACCINATION TO FIGHT CHOLERA

Tests of Tunis Pasteur Institute Encouraging--Will Be Pursued

Paris, July 10.—Important experiments in vaccination against cholera made at the branch of the Pasteur Institute were reported this week at the Academy of Medicine here. Three French scientists, directing the Tunis institute, having found by numerous tests that vibrions of Asiatic cholera do not multiply in the blood of animals, determined to inoculate men with cultures of the so-called comma bacillus, taking themselves as subjects. Two injections of these microbes into the veins was followed only by very light feverishness. It was afterwards repeated many times with no ill effects.

Persons thus inoculated were considered from examination of their blood to be immune from cholera, and afterward absorbed into the stomach a quantity of bacilli without taking the smallest harm.

Although it is pointed out at the Academy of Medicine that these isolated experiments do not absolutely prove the efficacy of the vaccination method, it is considered they are of the highest value to medicine, and must be followed up without delay.

AN ORANGE HYMN.

By S. M. Duysers, Late of Holland.

Whose heart is full true Orange blood
Like Holland William's
And still, like he, abhors the wrong,
May join our brotherhood.
Our manly voices do we raise
And take you hand by hand,
And sing together till the praise
Of His dear fatherland.
And of our Orange Lodge.

And God upon his heavenly throne,
Surrounded by the angel host,
Will listen to our heartfelt tune,
Now and forever more.
If to the end we faithful stand
To God and Crown and Land,
We trust He'll grant our ardent prayer.
For our dear Motherland,
Amd her Dominion.

O God protect our Orange Lodge,
The one we love so well.
O list Thou when we pray to Thee,
For Crown, and Land, and Lodge.
O God, from whom all blessings flow
May Thy dear, loving Hand,
A thousand blessings still bestow,
Upon our Orange Lodge,
And this, our Canada.

BERLIN TAKES SECOND GAME FROM THE WHITE CAPS

Game Goes Twelve Innings But Finally Falls To Berlin--Score 8-6

A good crowd of fans turned out yesterday at Riverside Park, when Berlin captured the second game of the series from the Petes. It being ladies' day, a large number of Peterborough's finest were on hand, and in some cases could be heard cheering above the rest of the fans, and a look of disappointment was on their faces after the game.

The game opened with Tracey in the box for the locals, but he was not in very good shape, and Berlin tapped him out for four runs in the first inning, when he was replaced by Derr, who pitched the balance of the game in excellent style.

Several bad errors were made by the never-failing Nemo, and a couple of wild throws to first were made before the boys got down to business and evened things up. A special feature of the game yesterday was the fielding of O'Connor, who grabbed everything in sight, and tried hard for more; but he was not quite up to the mark in his batting, but he will come all right.

During the course of the game, the boys were handed out some raw decisions from Umps Pearson, and they were handed at a time when things looked pretty rosy for the Petes, and the fans think that the finish would have been different had he given the boys a fair deal. While the fans in general were pleased with the game which went to Berlin after twelve innings had been played. The final score was 8—6.

To-day's game starts at 3.45, and a large crowd is expected to be on hand. Davie Rowan promises a fast game and the boys are with him.

FOUGHT DUEL WHEN WEDGED UNDER HOUSE

Redding, Cal., July 10.—A. J. Daughtery, a night watchman, died here to-day as the result of a gunshot wound received Saturday night in a duel with another man, while both lay flat on their faces, under a house. Daughtery attempted to arrest the Greek. The Greek crawled under the house. Daughtery followed him through an aperture scarcely large enough to admit his body. Daughtery could see nothing and lay still until he could hear the other breathing. Then he lit a match. Dullen, the Greek, fired, and Daughtery was hit. Still holding the lighted match he fired three shots. Dullen returned the fire and then the night watchman swooned.

The Greek crawled over his body, squeezed through the hole and escaped. He later was arrested and is in jail at Yreka, Cal.

MR. W. M. GRAHAM NARROWLY ESCAPED DROWNING IN STORM

Is Rescued by Daring of Mr. Cole--Storm Played With Great Violence On The Lakes

Mr. W. M. Graham, of Lakefield, and proprietor of Viamede, Stoney Lake, had a very exciting and dangerous experience on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Graham had gone across the lake to McCracken's landing, in his gasoline launch, and in returning the heavy storm that blew overturned his craft three times in close succession. Mr. Graham was thrown into the lake, but managed to secure a life preserver. With the aid of this he floated for some time until Mr. Cole, a cottager, noticed him in the water, and at great risk to himself put out into the giant waves to rescue him. With great difficulty, he managed to save Mr. Graham.

Mr. Graham is now in a serious condition from his long immersion in the roughened waters.

That no other serious accidents are reported is due to the fact that at the approach of the storm, the canoes, launches and steamers made for the shelter of the nearest landing place.

The telephone service was blown out of commission and the storm raged with terrific violence all through the lakes.

RECEIVED SECRET DOCUMENT FROM BRITISH GOVERNMENT

Contents May Never Be Given to Public. London Times Prints in Full Speech of Canada's Premier

London, July 11.—To-day Premier Borden and his colleagues devoted themselves almost entirely to a conference with the British Ministers.

It is understood that there came from Downing street to the Canadian Premier on Wednesday a memorandum which outlined the naval position of Great Britain, and stated her political relations with the powers. What this document contains will possibly never be known by the public, but upon its representations of the course of events depends largely the dealing with the Canadian Premier's utterances at the Royal Colonial Institute dinner.

AN INSPIRING FIGURE.

The Times declares that the speech assures Mr. Borden a place in English esteem as a leading, trusted and inspiring figure in the great arena of affairs. The paper unqualifiedly approves his declaration that Canada will work towards the supremacy of Britain in the seas by the maintenance of a single fleet. The Times prints the speech in full.

The Standard uses such phrases as "Tumultous welcome," "Splendid speech which delighted its hearers," "The last pitch of enthusiasm inspiring his audience," "His strong, rugged, and forceful manner captured his hearers, embodied in which were strong, sunburned faces upturned to the speaker with eagerness." The paper editorially accepts as the basic condition that Canada must have a proper share in directing the armaments and anticipates the solution of the question within a few months.

Premier Borden lunched with Joseph Chamberlain yesterday.

172 WOMEN DOCTORS IN GERMAN EMPIRE

Most Prosperous Professions of Sex are Medical and Dental.

Berlin, July 8.—The Berlin University authorities recently instituted an inquiry as to the progress and prospects of women in professions necessitating, in Germany, university diplomas.

The most prosperous professions, judging from the replied, are apparently the medical and dental. In January, 1912, there were in Germany 172 certified women doctors.

From 1869 to 1909 45 German women had taken the American dental courses, but in the decade ending 1912 60 took the German courses, and obtained the official German license. All the replies showed that the professional prospects are very satisfactory, and apparently there are openings for more.

On the contrary, there are few openings and unsatisfactory prospects for women taking jurist or national economic courses. Only 23 appear to be in positions where they are definitely utilizing their diplomas.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN

Some Interesting Statistics Gathered by Japanese Newspaper in Tokio.

Tokio, July 8.—The "Kokumin Shimbun" has been examining the statistics of suicide in Tokio during the last year and reports that the number of male suicides exceeds the female by nearly 100 per cent. This may be ascribed to the "greater daring" of the masculine sex. Among the men hanging proved the favorite method of ending life, while a large majority of the women preferred drowning, which the paper explains by saying that "even in death our women choose the gentler way."

Between 20 and 30 is the favorite age for suicides with both sexes, because "between those years discretion has not yet ripened." Especially in adolescence is jumping down a volcano a popular destiny. The favorite months are July and August, when the weather is warmest, and especially so with regard to drowning, "a certain proof of human selfishness." Various cases of "joshi" are noted, when two lovers, having agreed to die together, tie themselves face to face with the woman's obi, and either jump into the sea or over a cliff, or lie down on the railway track.

NOT HEARSES ENOUGH TO BURY MONTREAL CHILDREN

Ninety-Five Interments Made Yesterday Morning--Some Bodies Taken in Carriages--Masses Said Over Half-Dozen at a Time

Montreal, July 11.—The most painful evidence of the hot spell was contributed to-day in the record number of funerals held at the Roman Catholic and Protestant cemeteries. In the former 95 interments took place this morning and afternoon, eighty of them being children. Ten children were buried in the Protestant cemetery.

The pressure has been so great on the undertakers that they did not have enough hearses to convey to the burying grounds, and many little coffins had to be taken in cabs. Masses were said over five and six bodies at a time.

A white funeral horses dropped dead from the heat yesterday afternoon while proceeding to the cemetery.

PROBED CRATER MOUNT AETNA

Rome, July 9.—In the Accademia dei Lincei in Rome Professor Giovanni Platania discusses the much-disputed question as to the heat of lava immediately after or during a volcanic eruption.

Ten days after the last eruption of Aetna Professor Platania succeeded in climbing nearly to the top of the highest crater. He also investigated two smaller craters in the neighbor of Monte Rosso. From one of these latter craters issued fresh lava, travelling at a rate of three feet, three inches per second. At a point two hundred and fifty feet distant from the crater and fifty feet distant from the edge of the stream, the professor obtained foothold on the hardened lava. He then lowered a pyrometer for measuring the expansion of bodies by heat, through a break in the upper crust, into the lava bed proper.

The running mass was orange colored, moving at a velocity of three feet three inches per second.

GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP.

No Medicine so Beneficial to Brain and Nerves.

Lying awake nights makes it hard to keep awake and do things in day time. To take "tonics and stimulants" under such circumstances is like setting the house on fire to see if you can put it out.

The right kind of food promotes refreshing sleep at night and a wide awake individual during the day.

A lady changed from her old way of eating to Grape-Nuts, and says:

"For about three years I had been a great sufferer from indigestion. After trying several kinds of medicines the doctor would ask me to drop off potatoes, then meat, and so on, but in a few days that craving, gnawing feeling would start up, and I would vomit everything I ate and drank.

"When I started on Grape-Nuts vomiting stopped, and the bloated feeling which was so distressing disappeared entirely.

"My mother was very much bothered with diarrhea before commencing the Grape-Nuts, because her stomach a quantity of bacilli without gest her food. Since using Grape-Nuts food she is well, and says she don't think she could go without it.

"It is a great brain restorer and nerve builder, for I can sleep as sound and undisturbed after a supper of Grape-Nuts as in the old days when I could not realize what they meant by a 'bad stomach.' There is no medicine so beneficial to nerves and brain as a good night's sleep, such as you can enjoy after eating Grape-Nuts." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Married the Family.

When Lafcadio Hearn married his Japanese wife all his wife's family accompanied him to his new quarters. He mentions that he had nine lives dependent upon him—wife, wife's mother, wife's father, wife's adopted mother, wife's father's father, then servants and a Buddhist student. This wouldn't do in England, but it is nothing in Japan.—"Lafcadio Hearn—His Life and Work," by Nina H. Kennard.

Tam o' Shanter's Inn.

Every visitor to Ayr, Scotland, should see the little Tam o' Shanter inn, with its simple front and great lamp hanging over the sidewalk. Here opened the scene which Robert Burns has immortalized in his poem "Tam o' Shanter." Tam had spent a very convivial evening at the inn, and when he finally started home on his gray mare, Meg, he was in a rather foggy frame of mind. A terrific storm was raging, and on the way he was caught by ghosts, who ended his earthly career.

Too Sensible to Give Up.

"Yes," he replied. "I think a man's a fool who goes to the bad because a girl refuses to love him."

"Then I will be yours."—Chicago Record-Herald.

GREENLAND'S ICEBERGS.

Their Progress Southward Lasts From February Till August.

Those monsters of menace to navigation, icebergs, are formed from huge pieces broken from the glaciers of the north, which the Arctic currents carry southward until they melt away in the warmer waters of the gulf stream. The terrible procession begins in February, and not until the end of August is the ice season supposed to be over in the north Atlantic.

Each year brings its regular reports of thrilling sights and collisions and losses in the ice fields from the incoming steamers during the spring and summer months. Certain years stand out as unusually bad ice years, but the general story is much the same. Once, during the month of May, 142 icebergs were sighted off Cape Race in a single day.

One of the largest icebergs on record towered [illegible] feet above the surface of the sea. As hardly more than one-tenth of the berg is out of water, this would mean a mass of ice 7,000 feet (one and one-third miles) from top to bottom. Its volume was calculated to be about 680,000,000 cubic feet and its weight some 16,000,000 tons!

Icebergs need not be extraordinarily high to be stupendous. Lieutenant Peary reported a berg 12,500 feet long (over two and one-half miles), 11,600 feet wide and 186 feet high. It was estimated to weigh 1,292,000,000 tons. Another measured farther north contained 27,000,000,000 cubic feet of ice and weighed no less than 2,000,000,000 tons.—New York World.

BOGUS GEMS.

Imitation Diamonds of Paste Are the Best Counterfeits.

It is always wise when buying a white topaz to purchase it from a reliable dealer, inasmuch as rock crystal and even lead glass are often sold under that name.

Colorless beryl yields a very brilliant and diamond-like stone when properly cut. Indeed, many gems and even phenacite and rock crystal often passed in former days as diamonds, even under the scrutiny of experts, such exact tests as refraction and specific gravity being unknown until comparatively recent years.

No imitation of the diamond, however, is so brilliant as a skillfully cut piece of the kind of lead glass known in the trade as "paste." The play of color in these counterfeits is often very beautiful, but the glass "diamond" possesses no luster, this term being applied to the light reflected from the top surfaces of a gem. The flashes of light and color that give brilliancy come from the interior, being thrown from the rear surfaces of the stone.

The glass diamond is soft and is attacked chemically by a number of things with which it comes in contact by wear, for both of which reasons it soon becomes dulled.—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

COLORS OF THE RAINBOW.

They Vary According to the Size of the Raindrops.

Violet, indigo blue, green, yellow, orange, red—the colors of the rainbow. Any child knows that, and the high school pupil can refer you to half a dozen textbooks to prove it. It is true, however, of only a very few rainbows, as C. Fitzhugh Talman demonstrates in the Scientific American.

SIGNAL MESSAGES.

Beacon Fires Were First Used, and Then Came Semaphores.

Signal fire telegraphing, with its very limited scope of information contained, seems to have been about the only means of communicating quickly across distances until relatively modern times.

It was not until the days of the French revolution that any material improvement over the beacon fire telegraph developed. Three brothers named Chappe devised the semaphore telegraph. This system got into active operation in 1794, and the first real message ever spelled out and telegraphed across country was in that year, and the text was as follows:

"Conde is taken from the Austrians."

The same day the national convention, sitting in Paris, sent back the following reply to the army:

"The army of the north deserves the gratitude of the country."

The semaphore operators attained a speed of three letters a minute in fine weather, with an average of one a minute over long distance. This made necessary the invention of condensed codes, which came into fashion.—New York Telephone Review.

Nerve Rewarded.

"Now, Billy," said the young man's father, "I've found a fine job for you—a job which will, if you attend strictly to business, give you a splendid chance to rise."

"What is the nature of the job?"

"You've seen some of the big buildings in course of construction, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"Have you ever noticed how the great iron beams are lifted to their places?"

"Sure."

"Well, a friend of mine, who is a contractor, has agreed to use you to stand on the beams and balance them as they are hoisted. I told him about the splendid nerve you had exhibited in sitting around and permitting me to support you, and he agreed that you would be just the man for the job."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Profession.

Mr. Justice Lawrence was once passing sentence on a man, and in the course of his preliminary remarks he referred to him as "a professional burglar."

The prisoner raised loud protests from the dock.

"Here," he exclaimed, "I dunno wot you mean by callin' me a professional burglar. I've only done it once before, an' I've bin nabbed both times."

Mr. Justice Lawrence beamed upon him.

"Oh, I did not mean to say," he remarked in his most suave manner, "that you had been very successful in your profession."—London Answers.

A Practical Query.

My little boy stood, open mouthed, while a friend elaborated the details of a sudden death. The patient had not been considered very seriously ill, and his nurse entered, bringing a baked potato for which the sick man had expressed a wish. "But," said my friend, "before he had tasted it he died." I deprecated the sadness of such recital before the child, but I need not have feared. His baby voice piped out, "And what became of the potato?"—Harper's Magazine.

MONSTER ICEBERGS.

One Five Miles In Length Grounded at Cape Race in 1884.

The first glimpse of icebergs is likely to bring disappointment to one who has feasted his imagination upon descriptions of their ponderous bulk and imperturbable demeanor. The glistening white, marble-like blocks dotting the blue expanse to the horizon seem too small to be guilty of the disasters charged against them. They do not seem capable of causing the shipwrecks and suffering that lie at the bottom of the universal homage paid them by the mariner.

As one approaches them they gain in grandeur and impressiveness. They range from 80 to 300 feet in height, and one that rose above the water to an elevation of 836 feet has been recorded. They vary in length and breadth, bergs a mile long and a quarter to a half mile wide being not uncommon. It is reported that one which was five miles in length ran aground in 1884 on Cape Race, and persons from the headlands of St. John's saw one three miles in length pass that point in 1898. One nearly five miles long was seen off the coast of Labrador in 1905, and in April, 1892, observers in the neighborhood of Notre Dame bay, on the northeast coast of Newfoundland, saw one which is said to have been nine miles long and more than half a mile in width and 200 feet high. A similar one is reported to have been passed by the steamer Portia off Cape Fogo, Newfoundland, five years later.

Curious characteristics are seen sometimes when approaching an iceberg in the neighborhood of the gulf stream. It will be bearded with icicles formed from the dripping of the monster itself, and occasionally a cataract will be seen pouring from its crest into the sea, the source of which is a small lake formed on the top by the sun's rays and fog.—New York Tribune.

HINDU JUSTICE.

The Case of the Cat That Carried the Fire to the Cotton.

Four Hindus, partners in business, bought some cotton bales. That the rats might not destroy the cotton they purchased a cat. They agreed that each of the four should own a particular leg of the cat, and each adorned with beads and other ornaments the leg thus apportioned to him. The cat, by an accident, injured one of its legs. The owner of that member wound around it a rag soaked in oil. The cat, going too near the hearth, set this rag on fire and, being in great pain, rushed in among the cotton bales, where she was accustomed to hunt rats. The cotton thereby took fire and was burnt up.

The three other partners brought a suit to recover the value of the cotton against the fourth partner who owned this particular leg of the cat. The native judge examined the case, and this was his decision:

"The leg that had the oiled rag on it was hurt. The cat could not use that leg. In fact, it held up that leg and ran with the other three legs. The three unhurt legs therefore carried the fire to the cotton and are alone culpable. The injured leg is not to be blamed. The three partners who owned the three legs with which the cat ran to the cotton will pay one-quarter of the value of the bales to the partner who was the proprietor of the injured leg."—London Telegraph.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., left yesterday for Toronto, where he will be one of the speakers at the Orange demonstration in that city to-day. It is needless for us to say that the brethren of Toronto will be given an excellent address by our popular member.

Civic Holiday.

The horse races on Civic Holiday will consist of a free for all 2.18 and 2.35 class, the distance being half a mile. These events will take place on the Exhibition grounds. On this same date there will be a Canadian League baseball match between Peterborough and London. Keep this date open for these events.

Stomach Always Baulked, Had Constant Indigestion

Smell of Cooking Made Him Sick—Bilious Two Days a Week

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Clemmon's experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep, and have you feeling better, if not cured, next morning.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, five for $1.00 at all druggists and storekeepers or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Committed Suicide.

William Boswell, a highly respected farmer of Dummer Township has committed suicide by taking Paris green. After dinner on Thursday, Mr. Boswell went to work in the fields and those who went in search of him when he did not return found the dead body. He had been despondent for some time and no inquest will be held.

Two Cattle Killed.

Pleasant Point, July 11.—During the fierce electric storm which passed through this section of the country on Monday last, Mr. John Hayes suffered a loss, when one of his horses was struck by lightning and killed. The animal was standing in an open field. Mr. Jos. Greer, of Pleasant Point, sustained a heavy loss, when two cattle were struck and killed.

Horses Killed by Lightning.

A team of horses, the property of Mr. John Davidson, Little Britain, were struck by lightning on Tuesday morning and killed. The animals were in the pasture field at the time the bolt descended upon them. Another pair, though within a few feet of the ones struck were uninjured. The team were worth about $500.—Lindsay Warder.

North Monaghan Council.

At a meeting of the North Monaghan Council on July 5th, with all members present, it was decided to authorize Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., to urge the Dominion Government by letter to build a wharf near Whitfield at the end of the concession line between North and South Monaghan. They also decided to widen some old and make some new streets north from Peterborough.

Young Forger Escaped.

The twelve year old boy, Wilson, who was sentenced by Magistrate Masson in Belleville, to an indefinite term in the Mimico Industrial school for forgery of cheques whereby he secured goods from two merchants, made his escape last evening from Mr. W. H. Wrightmyer, officer of the Children's Aid Society. His whereabouts are as yet unknown.

Burglars in Belleville.

The night owls have not let up their intentions of getting food by hook, crook or broken door. An uptown grocery was visited last night by burglars and an entrance was forced. What prevented their taking anything is not known, perhaps the heavy tramp of Belleville's midnight police or the noise of people stirring over head gave them fear and they withdrew without the bacon.

Labor Council.

At a meeting of the Trades and Labor Council on Wednesday night, a resolution to the following effect was passed, "That it would not be in the best interests of the city to have the Toronto Carpet Company locate in Peterborough for the reason that they are alleged to be in opposition to union labor, and also that they are alleged to have imported alien labor." The program for Labor Day was also discussed.

Display Your Colors.

To-day there will be hundreds of visitors to Peterborough, who will come here with minds wide open to receive impressions of the city. Let one of these impressions be the enthusiasm of citizens in the matter of decorations. Also Mayor Bradburn, personally asks citizens to display their flags and thereby do much towards adding to the beauty and attractiveness of the city. It is not too late now—DECORATE.

Mark Street Church.

During the months of July and August the Mark street Methodist church propose to hold their evening services on the beautiful church lawn. These will be largely services of song and on Sunday, July 14th, in addition to four hymns and selections by the choir, Miss Kate Manning, of Oshawa, and Mr. George Mulligan, of this city, will render solos, while the quartette will sing "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." It is the purpose of all concerned to make these services bright, attractive and helpful. All are cordially invited.

They Give Pain.

The Catholic Register evidently has little love for either Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., or the Toronto Globe, as the following, taken from this weeks' issue, would indicate:

"We congratulate the Globe on winning from the broad and sure-footed patriot, J. H. Burnham, completest commendation in its latest anti-Popery crusade. We are delighted to see two such generous and gifted minds in perfect accord. J. A.M. and J.A.B. are very different things in one's stomach it is true, but in the end they produce the same result—they give us pain."

Coming To-day.

The Orangemen from Lindsay will not be able to visit Peterborough per C.P.R. The line from Lindsay to Bethany has not been finally passed upon, and of course the company could not use it for passenger traffic. The Order from that town will therefore travel G.T.R., leaving Lindsay at 8.45 this morning. The train which will convey the Lindsay brethren to this city will be a double-header. Another special leaves Omemee, carrying Emily lodges at 10.30 o'clock. Extra accommodation will also be provided on the 10.50 train. The Orange Lodges from Grass Hill, Cambray, Bobcaygeon, Dunsford, Byrnell, etc., intend coming by C.P.R. to this city.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Pointing the Path of Duty.

"Don't you think women ought to vote?"

"Of course I do," replied Mr. Growcher. "Man is oppressed by economic conditions which only women can understand. What women want to do is to get together and legislate to prevent hat shops from collecting $40 for a handful of straw and a bunch of feathers."—Washington Star.

Early Autograph Hunters.

A certain Atoms in early Roman days seems to have been the mother of autograph collectors. Cicero had a collection, which must have been a fine one, for he speaks of it with particular pride. The fever, even in those far back days, was contagious. Pliny speaks of Pompeius Secundus, at whose house he had seen autographs of Cicero, Augustus, Vergil and the Gracchi, and his own collection was valued at $15,000 of our money. Then came the inrush of barbarians, and we do not again meet with the collector until the beginning of the sixteenth century, when he reappears in the person of a Bohemian squire, who kept a book to record his exploits in the chase and enriched it with the signatures of his great hunter friends.

GREATEST ORANGE DEMONSTRATION EVER HELD IN PETERBOROUGH

Procession Over Several Miles In Length Parade The Principal Streets Of The City

Stirring Addresses By Hon. Sam Huges, Hon. Dr. Sproule, Mr. Patrick Morgan and Others

All Yesterday Morning The Visiting Orangemen Poured Into The City By Special Trains and Steamers

The largest number of visitors that ever assembled in Peterborough for any purpose, invaded this city yesterday when nearly twelve thousand Orangemen and their friends gathered here to celebrate the anniversary of King William III's victory in the Battle of the Boyne.

The Morning.

The whole city was greatly interested and even early in the morning there were a large number of citizens on the streets. Shortly before ten o'clock, when the visiting lodges were marching from the stations and the wharf to the Armouries, George street was crowded with visitors and local people watching the intermittent procession to the rendezvous. All forenoon, with short intervals of time between them, the procession formed of several newly arrived lodges, with their members attired in full Orange uniform, and their prominent, bright banners high in the air, would take possession of George street in their march to Central Park. As noon approached the scene at the park became a gorgeous one, as not only thousands of brethren, but thousands of spectators had congregated there. Twelve booths, one of them under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. were kept busy selling ice cream and cold drinks during the entire day.

The Afternoon.

By the afternoon the expected thousands of visiting Orangemen had become a realization and as they formed up in the Central Park in preparation for the monster procession the sight was an inspiring one. The interest was manifested by the people in watching the muster of defenders of the Protestant faith in Canada, as would be shown had the occasion been a military one. Finally about 1.45 o'clock, the lodges became arranged in their places and following the lead of South Hastings, across in front of the Collegiate Institute and Armouries, and down Murray street to George, they left the park to form the longest procession that has ever marched on the streets of Peterborough. The following was the order of the counties that marched:

SOUTH HASTINGS.
CENTRE HASTINGS.
NORTH HASTINGS.
NORTHUMBERLAND.
VICTORIA.
HALIBURTON.
WEST DURHAM.
EAST DURHAM.
EAST PETERBOROUGH.
WEST PETERBOROUGH.

These comprising 150 or 175 Orange Lodges with the members in full regalia marched through the city by the following route: Down Murray to George street to Hunter street, west on Hunter street to Aylmer, south on Aylmer to Dalhousie, east on Dalhousie to George north on George to Hunter, east on Hunter to Water, north on Water to Dublin, west on Dublin to George, and south on George to Central Park.

At every corner and at practically every point in this long route, the streets were lined with those anxious to see the procession, which was several miles in length.

The procession was in charge of Bro. J. B. McWilliams, Chief Marshal, and Brothers Wm. Kindred, Geo. Bartley Hurrell Dodds and P. Noyes Marshals.

A little over half an hour after the procession started alarge crowd surrounded the band stand in Central Park and the Rev. W. C. Riddiford, who acted as chairman for the occasion in a very satisfactory manner, opened the program by a few remarks.

He first welcomed all the visitors to the "best city on the face of the earth" and expressed his pleasure to see such an enthusiastic gathering in the interests of the cause that our forefathers had fought for in the past and that they were ready to fight for in the future. Mr. Riddiford announced that Mr. Burnham was in Toronto addressing an Orange meeting there, and therefore was unable to be present, and that the other member for West Peterborough (Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P.) who had been invited to speak was suffering from a slight headache—or something—and could not accept the invitation. He then called upon Hon. Col. Sam. Hughes.

Hon. Col. Saml Hughes.

The Hon. Col. Sam. Hughes explained that the twelfth of July should be celebrated because the one key-note of the Orange Order was liberty and toleration. The speaker said that after having travelled for some time he had returned to this section of the country and thought that the best citizens were to be found in the Orange districts. In touching upon the temperance question, Col. Hughes said that he failed to see the place where a drunken man would fit in. He was glad that no Orangeman had become intoxicated, and was pleased to see the ever decreasing use of liquors at social and other functions.

In connection with the bi-lingual question, thes peaker expressed the opinion that many of the loyal French-Canadian families had realized that without athorough knowledge of the English language their children could not keep pace with the advancement of civilization, and consequently were educating them in this language.

Rev. Robt. Pogue.

The next speaker called upon was the Rev. Robt. Pogue who gave a stirring address, and contradicted those who thought that Protestantism was dying. "Is Protestantism dying?" he said, "Never in my life as to-day have I realized that to answer such a question would be impertinent." He quoted a Catholic priest, who, in his writings lamented the fact that 9,000,000 or 10,000,000 people had forsaken the Roman Catholic Church.

Hon. Dr. Sproule.

The Hon. Dr. Sproule was received with long and prolonged cheers by the listeners. In opening Dr. Sproule said that he must congratulate the people of Peterborough on the advancement they had made in culture and higher civilization since his last visit to this city some years ago, and the Orangemen of Peterborough and Eastern Ontario for the large assembly in honor of the memory of the man, and the principle for which they all stood, "We stand for perfect freedom, and supremacy of the State," said Dr. Sproule. "Freedom of conscience, of religious worship, of speech, of the press and of the State."

The difference between the Protestant beliefs and those of the Roman Catholics was this: That the Orangemen believed in the State supremacy over all other powers, while the Catholics insisted upon the supreme power of the Church.

Dr. Sproule pointed out how in particular, France and Portugal had degenerated through the temporal power of the Pope and Romanism, and how on being released from this tyranny the countries had progressed rapidly. Then in referring to the Pope's diminished power, he said, "With all his authority he cannot marry two Italians to-day." Catholicism, he said, was not on the increase, but was growing smaller and smaller, and its power less and less.

Mayor Bradburn.

In opening Mayor Bradburn said that he appreciated the kind invitation of the Orangemen, for him to address those assembled, and particularly so because he was not a member of their Order. He officially and heartily welcomed them to the city, and extended to them an invitation to return at the earliest possible date. He could promise them that the people of Peterborough could be depended upon to give them a hearty reception and a good time.

Rev. Patrick Morgan

The Rev. Patrick Morgan delivered a splendid address telling of why he had left the Catholic Church, because he was not allowed freedom of religious thought or speech. He told how he had come to Canada, and not wishing to mix with the Catholics, because of his determination to stick to what he thought was right, and yet cautious about mixing with the Protestants, because he had always been taught to believe that it was wrong to associate with them; he had wondered hungry and homeless. To earn his living, though he had graduated from two colleges, decided to work in a cheese factory which he did for some time. Afterwards he published The Liberator, a journal of the truth, and he was determined to make it a success. Mr. Morgan said that the real reason for the Catholics' loud cries about settling their religion in the West was a ruse to take the people's attention from Ontario, where immediately the Catholics would creep in and get a foothold. He also said in this connection, that a speaker at a French meeting has said, "Here in Canada the State bows down to the church" and the former Premier of Canada "stood by with his lips sealed."

Rev. Ben. Oliel.

The closing address was that of the Rev. Ben Oliel, who made a brief but splendid speech, displaying enthusiasm in the Orange cause and pleasure at the success of the celebration. He suggested that if ever the Orangemen came to Peterborough again, a more suitable place be proplace be provided for the speakers.

After three cheers for Dr. Sproule, Mayor Bradburn, Mr. C. E. Wiley and the chairman, Mr. Riddiford, and the singing of the National Anthem, the gathering broke up.

Those Who Deserve Credit.

MUST BE INTOLERANT

The Catholic Register, the organ of the Roman Catholic Church in Ontario, in this week's issue, says: "No new doctrine—that there is only one Church and consequently only one real ministry. The Catholic Church claims to be the true Church and as such MUST BE INTOLERANT of all others—to be otherwise were to be self-destructive. No Catholic recognises any other Church but his own, or any other ministry but that of his priests. If this be new doctrine to any Protestant—much less to a clerical editor—where has he been since he came to the age of reason, anyway?"

THE TIMES LEADS

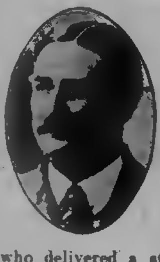
Extract From a Letter Received From Port Hope Yesterday.

During the past few weeks The Times has received many assurances of good will from its readers, as well as the general public. The following extract from a letter from Mr. J. G. Elliott, Port Hope, brother of our esteemed fellow townsman, Mr. T. C. Elliott, the well known George street merchant, speaks for itself:

"Have just received copy of The Morning Times. Although the paper has always been a necessity to advertisers, and which gave opportunities unobtainable elsewhere, its appearance now strikes me that it is one if the most up-to-date metropolitan papers issued. And alto please to hear from numerous friends of mine, who have lately subscribed for it, that they are taking The Times in preference to the Toronto morning dailies, as it covers Peterborough local and district news in good style."

BURNHAM IN TORONTO.

Member for West Peterborough Delivers Stirring Address



The Orange parade in Toronto yesterday was as usual very large, the procession passing through the principal streets of the city in splendid order and without a hitch. One of the best speeches of the occasion was made by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., who delivered a stirring and patriotic address. He had a splendid hearing and was loudly applauded.

Mr. Burnham had been invited to address the Orangemen in Peterborough yesterday, but had accepted a prior invitation to speak in Toronto.

POLICE WERE IDLE

Last night Chief Thompson informed Mr. C. E. Wiley, chairman of the Orange demonstration committee, that he never met in all his experience a crowd more sober or orderly. There was not a single case of drunkeness or disorderly conduct. Is there an institution in the country that could assemble 20,000 people together, and say this? We doubt it.

RIOTING IN BELFAST WHEN 60,000 ORANGEMEN WALKED

Catholics Tried to Break Up Parade and to Tear Down Arch--Scores Were Hurt By Stones, and Two Policemen Were Badly Injured

Belfast, July 12.—An outbreak of rioting between Home Rulers and anti-Home Rulers, followed an attempt by the former to-day to break up an anniversary celebration in commemoration of the Battle of the Boyne.

Sixty thousand anti-Home Rulers were marching towards the White Abbey to adopt resolutions in opposition to self-government for Ireland, when the trouble started. The paraders desperately resisted repeated efforts to break their ranks, and to tear down an arch erected in honor of the occasion. An orgy of stone-throwing and window smashing ensued, and when the police tried to restore order, both sides fought them furiously. Scores were hurt by flying stones, and two policemen were so badly injured that they are in the hospital.

The Orangemen finally reached the Abbey, where resolutions were adopted pledging resistance of Home Rule to the last ditch. More trouble is feared.

A BOY DROWNED

Young Lad Drowned While Playing With Comrades Yesterday

A young lad named Feeley was the victim of a sad drowning accident yesterday. He and some of his comrades were playing near the water, when young Feeley slipped and fell in drowning before the eyes of his playmates. The accident occurred just above Crawford's Grove. The young lad is the son of George Feeley who has been unfortunate enough to have several accidents happen to his family lately.

FIRST LORD OF ADMIRALTY WANTS TWO DREADNOUGHTS

Winston Churchill Would Like Canada to Contribute Two Battleships and Maintain Them--Borden Declines Party Invitations--Foster Not So Careful

London, July 12.—The meeting of the Imperial Defence Committee yesterday, when Premier Borden and his colleagues were present, was the real commencement of the Canadian naval negotiations. Sir Edward Grey spoke at some length, outlining the international position, and revealing the true inwardness of the present war dangers. The meeting lasted about three hours, but was rather in the nature of a preliminary review of the entire situation than a detailed debate. The Canadian ministers were profoundly impressed by the facts laid before them.

The reports that Mr. Borden is playing into the hands of the Opposition here are incorrect. He and his colleagues, with the exception of Hon. George E. Foster, are carefully avoiding any appearance of partisanship in local British affairs. They have declined many party invitations for this reason. Neither the Liberals nor the majority of responsible Unionists, with the notable exception of a group of tariff reformers, are trying to turn their visit to a party advantage.

The Liberals, from Premier Asquith downwards, desire closer association with the Dominions in Imperial defence, but they feel that the exact form of such participation must be left to the decision of the Dominions themselves.

SIR WILFRID—"I see his finish."

T. Pineaway Thyme was the shape of a pin,
He was born with acute indigestion,
And how to put fat on a figure like that
Was apparently out of the question.
One morning his Dad read a Post Toasties ad.
And sent to the grocer to try it.
Now T. Pineaway grows fatter each day,
It proved a most wonderful diet.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager, 46 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 85c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 7c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 85c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 366 George St. directly opposite Creeman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:
25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

HAWKER WAS ECCENTRIC.

An English Poet and Clergyman Who Married His Godmother.

Robert Steven Hawker, poet and vicar of Morwenstow, England, was an eccentric person. In his younger days he used to daub the village physician's horse with stripes of paint until the animal looked like a zebra and then summon the physician hastily to an urgent case miles away in the country. Two elderly women whom he disliked he is said to have driven out of the town by sending all the undertakers in Plymouth to measure them for their coffins.

His marriage, too, was out of the ordinary. It happened while he was at Oxford. His father told him that he could not afford to keep him there any longer. Hawker at once set out to the home of his godmother, Miss Charlotte I'Ans, twenty-one years his senior and the possessor of an annuity of $1,000. He is said to have "run from Stratton to Bude, arriving hot and blown," and proposed to her. She accepted him. He returned to Oxford a married man and won a fellowship. The marriage was a happy one.

When his wife died Hawker wore at her funeral a pink hat without a brim. But this was in no disrespect to her memory. It so happened that it was his usual headgear at that time.

Tempestuous Jupiter.

Careful study of the planet Jupiter has afforded some rather interesting figures concerning its rate, or rather rates, of rotation. These do not affect the round numbers in which the equatorial velocity of Jupiter's rotation is usually stated—viz, about 28,000 miles per hour. But they furnish additional proof that the motions visible on the great planet's surface are not uniform from year to year. For about twelve years the equatorial region appears to have experienced an acceleration of velocity. Relatively to the surface some thirty degrees north or south Jupiter's equator rushes ahead with hurricane speed, between 200 and 300 miles an hour.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Not Very Flattering.

Mary met Emily on the street. They had not seen each other for many years.

"Why, how do you do?" exclaimed Mary, effusively, topping off the salutation with a few vague pecks at Emily's face.

"Now, this is delightful," said Emily, who was older than Mary. "You haven't seen me for eleven years, and yet you knew me at once. I couldn't have changed so dreadfully in all that time. It flatters me."

Said Mary:

"I recognized your bonnet."—Popular Magazine.

LUMBER AND TIMBER.

What We Call Boards or Planks the English Call Deals.

Among the differences existing in the names of various employments and callings in this country and in England may be mentioned those pertaining to the forest industries. What Americans call a lumber dealer in England is called a timber merchant.

Timber in New England is applied to trees large enough to cut logs for the mill, to the logs entire and to the large single sticks into which they are hewn or sawed.

When the logs are cut into boards, planks, joists, and so on, they form lumber. In the west timber is generally standing trees, and it includes all trees, large and small, without reference to their fitness for the mill.

The cutting and hauling of this timber is lumbering there, but in a large part of New England it is logging. What is in some quarters known as joist is called elsewhere scantling, and what Americans call boards or planks the English call deals.

In this country a person who splits out shingles is called a shingle weaver. In England shingles are not made in this way, but lath are regularly riven, and a maker of them is called a lath render.—New York Sun.

THROWING THE DICE.

The Ancient Germans Were Furious Gamblers at This Game.

The invention of dice has been of old ascribed to Palamedes, the son of Nauplius, king of Euboea, about 1244 B. C., and also to a Greek soldier named Alea, which is the Latin for a die, but Herodotus assigns both dice and chess to the Lydians.

The ancient Germans would gamble away at dice all that they were worth and then their liberty, submitting to slavery if they lost, and the Saxons, Danes and Normans were all addicted to the game. Fox Talbot is of opinion that the Latins invented, if not the game, at least the name for the single point, which they called unus. The Germanic races, adopting this practice from the Greeks, translated the Greek corruption of unus into ass, which has now become ace. The root of this word lies in the Latin, as the monetary unit.

John of Salisbury in the twelfth century mentions ten different uses of the dice. Stow mentions two entertainments given by the city of London at which dice were in evidence.—London Telegraph.

One of the Family.

Tibbie had been placed by her aunt in a situation as maid of all work in a family of three. At the end of a week the aunt "stepped along in" to see how Tibbie was getting on.

"Do you like your work?" asked the aunt.

"'Tis fair," said the laconic Tibbie.

"And are they making you feel at home?"

"Whiles they are, and whiles they aren't."

"Now, what do you be meaning by that?" asked the aunt impatiently.

"Aweel," said Tibbie, "they have na' asked me to gang t' kirk wi' them yet, but last night they went on wi' a grand quarr'l they were having, all the three o' them, wi' me takking the dishes off o' the table, jist as if I'd been one o' the family."—Youth's Companion.

Getting Evidence.

The witnesses were at the Waterford assizes in a case which concerned long continued poultry stealing. As usual, nothing could be got from them in the way of evidence until the nearly baffled prosecuting counsel asked in an angry tone of voice. "Will you swear on your soul, Pat Murphy, that Phady Hooligan has never to your knowledge stolen chickens?" The responsibility of this was too much even for Pat. "Bedad, I would hardly swear by my soul," he said, "but I do know that if I was a chicken and Phady was about I'd roost high!"—Life.

No Cinch.

Lulu's mother heard a great splashing in the bathroom, and, upon investigation found her little daughter standing in the partially filled tub, in a most bedrabbled condition.

"Why, you see, mamma," she explained. "I've been trying to walk on the water, and it's no fool's job, let me tell you."—Judge.

The Greater Evil.

"A visitor to see you, sir," said Senator Greathead's secretary.

"I'll bet he wants some favor," grumbled the senator.

"It's a lady, sir."

"Ah! That means half a dozen favors."—Catholic Standard and Times.

CARE OF THE CAT.

How Pussy Should Be Corrected and How She Should Be Fed.

It isn't a very nice task to punish pussy if you're fond of her, but there are times when she must be chastised. This is how to do it, according to Mr. Louis Wain, the great authority on the fascinating feline.

In the first place, don't actually strike the cat. A blow merely numbs it. And when the spine, which is its most sensitive part, is struck—particularly if the cat is old—it is likely to spring at the striker.

When pussy does anything wrong frighten the wrongdoer by striking a stick on the ground. A cat is most sensitive to sounds and will connect this new noise with what it has done. It feels more intensely than most animals; hence its supposed savagery in cases. Cats are highly electrical, and it is very good to have one perch on one's shoulder or knees.

The best food for puss is raw meat, chopped up, and only one meal a day should be given. Most of the mistakes which are made in training cats arise from an absence of knowledge of the cat's character and constitution. —London Answers.

Natural Enough.

STORY OF A CHURCH.

Curious History of an Unfinished Edifice in England.

There is a curious history regarding an unfinished church which stands at Hassall, near Sandbach, England. A former resident at the local hall, a Mr. Lowndes, painfully conscious of the lack of provision for the spiritual wants of the people in the neighborhood, determined to build a church at his own expense. After carefully choosing a site he gave instructions for the erection of a structure in the modern style capable of seating 400 or 500 persons.

Work on it was begun in the summer of 1836 and was pushed on steadily until the day on which Queen Victoria was crowned, by which time the building was well advanced. The crypts, about ten in number, had been put in, the walls and roofs were complete, and the scantlings for the floor were fixed. Indeed, partly in consequence of the national rejoicings and partly to celebrate the progress which had been made, the building was smothered in flags and decorations and was the center of local festivities.

Next day Mr. Lowndes was seized with an illness which quickly proved fatal, and with his passing all work on the church ceased. Though the building could have been finished at comparatively small cost, it was abandoned, and it has not been used since, except by tourists, whose names "hallow and adorn it," as Mark Twain said of those on the ruins of Cain's altar, by the thousand.—Wide World Magazine.

PRINCE RUPERT

. . . "Canada's Golden Gate" . . .

Extract Taken from Prince Rupert Journal, May 23rd., 1912:

"I wish to say that Prince Rupert is in my opinion destined to be one of the most important commercial centres of this Dominion, and that, too, at no distant date."

GEORGE ROSS.

Mr. George Ross is Chief Post Office Superintendent of the Dominion of Canada, with headquarters at Toronto.
This statement was made by Mr. Ross while upon an official visit to Prince Rupert.

WHY

WHY IS PRINCE RUPERT THE BEST CITY ON THE NORTH PACIFIC COAST?

Because it is ideally located.
Because it is the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.
Because it has a great natural harbor.
Because it is 400 miles nearer the Orient than any other Coast City.
Because the Grand Trunk Pacific of which Prince Rupert is the terminus has the easiest grades through the mountains of any transcontinental railway.

WHY

WHY IS A CO-OPERATIVE HOME BUILDING COMPANY IN PRINCE RUPERT THE SAFEST INVESTMENT IN CANADA TO-DAY?

Because all investments are based on a real estate, the foundation of our great financial institutions.
Because its soundness rests on the homes of the people, the bulwark of the nation.
Because new people are arriving daily in Prince Rupert. All must have homes and the demand is greater than the supply. This means dividends to the home-building company.

WHY

WHY ARE THE HOME-BUILDING COMPANIES SUCH A GREAT SUCCESS?

Because of the co-operation of the many small investors they are enabled to carry out large projects and make the greatest profits. In this way all great enterprises are carried to a successful issue. They pay larger dividends than any other financial institution.
A Company is now being formed in Prince Rupert and you are invited to co-operate. The Company will be incorporated for $100,000 divided into 100,000 shares of the par value of $1.00 each. For reservations of shares and full information, address

THE 12TH IN PETERBOROUGH

The local Orangemen have every reason to feel proud of yesterday's demonstration. It was a fitting celebration of the victory of William III over James II at the Boyne. In the glorious history of the British Empire, there is no achievement that will compare with the triumph of the Boyne, for its far-reaching advantage to Protestantism. The demonstration yesterday was an object lesson, showing conclusively that Protestantism is advancing, notwithstanding the aggressive attitude of the Romish Church.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR RUBBER.

In a recent lecture before the Society of Chemical Industry in London, Prof. W. H. Perkin, of Manchester University, stated that it had been discovered that metallic sodium would rapidly change acetone or fusel oil into either of which starch is readily converted, into isoprene, the raw material used in the production of rubber and that the resulting product, which is absolutely identical with the natural one, can be made much cheaper than the latter, or at about 69 cents a pound, and possibly at 24 cents.

As rubber is now bringing $1.23 for what is called "smoked sheets" and 68 cents a pound for the high grade lump, this discovery will doubtless interest the United States Rubber Company, which at a recent meeting agreed to increase its capital stock from $75,000,000 to $120,000,000. As a matter of fact, it will interest everybody who uses rubber for boots, shoes automobile tires, hose and various other purposes, because it will mean a considerable reduction in the price of these wares.

This is the natural effect of all discoveries that result in the production of substitutes for things in common use, when they can be produced at less cost and are just as good. The discovery, made a few years ago, of the method of extracting and producing aluminum is much cheaper, and in some ways quite as useful as copper.

WELSH DISESTABLISHMENT.

Since this country is happily spared the troublesome problems and complications that always exist where there is a state church, it is difficult for Americans to appreciate the intense feelings stirred up in England and Wales over the bill, now before Parliament, to disestablish and disendow the Anglican church in Wales. The debates in Parliament have witnessed a bitterness not exceeded in any controversy of recent times. Those opposed to the bill declare that it involves sacrilege and pillage, that it outrages the Christian sense of the world, and that it amounts to a national repudiation of all religion.

As for Wales itself, it is earnest and united in the demand for disestablishment. Thirty-one of the thirty-four Welsh members of the House of Commons favor the change. It is held that not one-fourth of the Welsh people are in the Anglican church, the rest are Baptists, Methodists and Independents. They insist that the immense endowments of the established church, which are of ancient origin, should be treated as national property and used for educational and charitable purposes rather than for maintenance of a church to which only a small minority belongs. To the cry of Mr. Balfour that the bill is but a beginning and that the Church of England will be destroyed little by little, in various counties, the Welsh people reply, through Lloyd-George, that Wales is not a country or group of counties, but that, judging by the tests of race, language, literature and history, it is at least as much a nation as Ireland or Scotland, and that it is the only nation on earth where the religion of a minority is the state religion.

It was not until the twelfth century after 800 years of independence, that the Church of Wales became bound up with the Church of England. The civil government of Wales by England proved a success, but the ecclesiastical rule was a sad failure, and there was a spiritual destitution in Wales until the great religious revival of a century or so ago under evangelists who were non-conformists. Vigorous and popular churches resulted, and the Church of England has not been able to make up the lost ground. For years the move for the disestablishment and disendowment of the established, but alien, church has been gaining force. Since the reform act of 1884 widened the electorate, at least two-thirds and usually more, of the Welsh members of the House of Commons have been striving for disestablishment Now they have a powerfuly ally in Lloyd-George, himself a Welshman. Wales does not ask that the Cathedrals, chapels, parsonages or other church equipment be taken from the Anglican church, but it asks that the income of its great endowments, derived by force from Welsh sources long ago, be put to their intended purposes by being used for all the people. The battle can have but one end.

Editorial Notes

Recently a petition, signed by 150,000 Spaniards, was presented to the legislation in Madrid, asking for absolute religious freedom in all parts of Spain. And of these petitioners at least 120,000 must be nominally Roman Catholics. The present Government is by far the most liberal and progressive that Spain has ever had, and alas! one of the most defiant to the Pope. Evidently Spain is moving towards freedom.

HOW TO KEEP FACE YOUNG AND ATTRACTIVE.

(National Hygienic Review.

The way to ward off old age is not to fear it, not to allow one's self to be oppressed by the dread of advancing years. Use only legitimate preventives and avoid trying experiments wito preparations not endorsed by physicians. An entirely safe and very effective way to keep the complexion young and beautiful looking is to apply ordinary mercolized wax at bedtime, using it like cold cream washing it off in the morning. This gradually absorbs the withered, faded, cuticle, which is replaced by the more youthful, pink tinted underskin. One ounce of this wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to completely rejuvenate a worn-out complexion.

Wrinkles and flabbiness of cheek and chin, the first signs of advancing age may be lessened by a simple, harmless preparation made by dissolving an ounce of powered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. It is used as a face bath.

"For many years," writes Richard McCallum, Stirling, Ont., "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed, irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of, and tried it. Really it benefitted me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors and other so-called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit I continued using Catarrhozone and in a few weeks I was completely cured of Catarrh and throat trouble."

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 11.—There was a fairly good enquiry from European sources for Manitoba spring wheat, but owing to the advance of 1c to 1½c per bushel, Nos. 4, 5 and 6 wheat in Winnipeg, the foreign prices were all out of line. The foreign demand for oats is steady and the volume of business done so far this week amounts to 300,000 bushels for July-August shipment. The local market is steady with a fair demand for car lots. The export trade in flour is quiet, but a fair domestic business is doing. A firmer feeling prevails in the market for bran under a good demand. The butter market is easy, owing to the falling off in the demand. Cheese is fairly active and steady. Demand for eggs is fair. Provisions active.

BELLEVILLE

[ST. LAMBERT]

BELLEVILLE is 3 miles from the centre of Montreal. It is reached in 20 minutes from the centre of the city, and is guaranteed to be high, dry and suitable for building purposes. Cars run there every 20 minutes for a 5 cent fare.

Land within the three mile radius of Montreal, which touches Belleville includes Westmount, Outremont, and Maisonneuve, where lots cannot be bought for under $1,000 each. Yet Belleville lots can be purchased for from $225 each, payable 10 p. c. cash and the balance by small monthly payments.

The reason for this is that Belleville is on the South shore, and the South shore in the past has been like Cinderella. Although it is the most beautiful residential section round Montreal, the other sections all got good transportation systems, whilst the South shore, separated by the Victoria Bridge, could not get anything but a slow train service.

To-day all that is changed. Cinderella has come into her own. The South shore has a perfect system of Electric cars One line runs to within a few minutes of Belleville, whilst a new line, almost completed, runs right along the whole of one side of the property.

These lines have been operating for less than two years, yet in that time the South shore has quadrupled its population.

Belleville is in the finest possible location for an investment. It immediately adjoins St. Lambert, which is now practically all sold and built on, and investors there will see their money double and treble within a very few months.

PAYING THE DUTY.

Custom House Officials Have Some Queer Experiences.

PASSING A SEALSKIN COAT.

The Way the Matter Was Fixed Up With an Appraiser and the Surprise That Awaited the Owner—A Bride, a Ring, a Husband and a Bluff.

The general impression is that the life of a customs inspector is a very dull routine of hardship, but such is not always the case.

The average person believes there is a little romance about the life and unquestionably the tang of the sea, but it almost never occurs to him that it is one of the funniest businesses in the world. The element of humor never enters into the general appreciation of the customs man, but it exists nevertheless.

There is a deputy collector now in the custom house of New York whose experiences in several years are really humorous. He is a grave, solemn looking man, thus bearing out the traditions, but that does not prevent him from enjoying the odd incidents that bob up in his line of duty. Speaking of them, he said:

"I had an odd experience the other day. A young man from an office in Wall street had gone to Europe to be married. In London he bought his wife a ring. He had put it in his declaration at a value of $1,000. He brought his bride to me, and she held out her pretty little pink hand that I might examine the ring. It flashed and sparkled beautifully, but the flashes and sparkles didn't seem quite right, so I asked to be allowed to examine it more carefully. The bride blushingly pulled the ring off and handed it to me. I showed it to an expert appraiser, who promptly declared that it was a fake piece of jewelry worth about $20.

"I sympathized with the young man, and when I got a chance I told him the truth. 'Oh, yes,' he replied, 'I know. You see, I didn't have much money with me, so I bought this for £1 6s., but I had to ring in a bluff on my wife. Don't give me away.' The poor fellow was willing to pay several times the value of the ring to make his bluff good, but we fixed it up for him without his bride knowing the truth.

"Another laughable experience, but more serious for the passenger, happened not long ago. When I boarded a big steamship from Europe I was approached by a man who introduced himself as one who had formerly been collector of one of the most important western ports. I knew him very well by reputation. He was returning from abroad with his family. He explained that he was very wealthy and did not want to evade paying all the duty necessary, but he confided in me that he had a sealskin coat, bought in Paris for his wife, which he had not included in his declaration, knowing that sealskins could not be imported. Nevertheless, just because we were both members of the same fraternity, he wanted to know if there was not some way in which he could get the coat into the country.

"I would have been glad to help him, but didn't see how it could be done. However, I told him I would put the question up to the appraiser at the pier and if the matter could be arranged I would fix it up. The appraiser looked the coat over and told me to put it on the declaration as an imitation sealskin valued at $75. The western man was delighted.

"'That's what I call clever,' he said.

"A few days later I got a letter from this man asking me to call upon him at one of the most fashionable uptown hotels. I went to see him and had luncheon with him and his family. When luncheon was over he made a little golden cone on the table. It consisted of a twenty dollar gold piece, a ten, a five, a three, a two and a half and a one, all in gold. He shoved the stack over to me.

"'Just a souvenir, a reminder of your cleverness in getting that seal coat through for me,' he said.

"I refused to take it, but he tried to press it on me and told me to give it to the appraiser, but I refused. Later, when his family left us, I asked him how much he had paid for the coat in Paris. He said he had paid $1,000. He could hardly believe it when I told him that we had not falsified the declaration, that the coat was an imitation and that $75 was its outside value. He called a bellboy then and there and sent the coat to a furrier to have it appraised. The furrier sent back word that he would sell him all he wanted just like it for $65 each."—New York Herald.

Mirror, Crystal and Sword.

The three symbols of the imperial house of Japan are the mirror, the crystal and the sword, and they are carried in front of the emperor on all state occasions. Each has its significance. "Look at the mirror and reflect thyself," or, in other words, "Know thyself," is the message of the mirror. "Be pure and shine" is the crystal's injunction, while the sword is a reminder to "Be sharp."

A Custom of the Tyrol.

In the Tyrol it is the custom for women and children to come out into the open when it is the latter's bedtime and sing. Their husbands, fathers and brothers answer them from the hills on their way home.

The injuries we do and those we suffer are seldom weighed in the same balance.—Simmons.

Sartorial Discord.

Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood was greatly attached to a regiment of highlanders when the latter were stationed at Portsmouth. Sir Evelyn, then a captain, one day returned from London and with great hurry proceeded to array himself for parade. When he at last emerged he observed that his men were evidently at great pains to conceal their laughter, and he quietly questioned his subaltern as to the probable reason. "Well, sir," replied the latter, "you are dressed correctly as to kilt, sporran and all the rest of it, but you have forgotten to remove your tall hat!"

IN A REBEL'S GRAVE

TOMB OF AMERRY GIROD IS IN HEART OF MONTREAL.

Where Sherbrooke Street Crosses St. Lawrence in the Busiest Part of the Commercial Metropolis Is the Burial Place of the Swashbuckler, Whose Rebellion Was Crushed 75 Years Ago—A Strange Career.

This story tells of the tragic end of a remarkable man whose remains have mouldered into dust in the strangest grave ever dug on the island of Montreal. Two of the great thoroughfares of the Montreal of to-day are Sherbrooke street, running through the heart of the finest residential quarter, and St. Lawrence street, which, running in from the country to the northwest, cuts the city in two and crosses Sherbrooke street at right angles. Beneath the pavement where these streets cross is the grave of this remarkable man, who played the game of rebellion and lost, and then dying a suicide, was buried, according to the custom of the time, at this cross-road. Seventy-five years have passed since that strange burial took place, and the traffic of a great city passes over the grave. The man buried there has long since been forgotten, but the story of the closing scene of his chequered career can be gleaned from history, and it is briefly retold here.

His name was Amerry Girod, and he came to Canada about the year 1827, or ten years before the breaking out of what is commonly called the Papineau rebellion. Whence he came no one precisely knew. By some his birth-place was in Switzerland, by others in the Province of Alsace, then part of France, now part of Germany. He claimed to have passed his youth at a model school of agriculture, and subsequently to have served as an officer of cavalry in Mexico. He was an excellent linguist, speaking not only English and French, but German, Italian and Spanish as well. He seems to have been a soldier of fortune.

Coming to Quebec he won the friendship of Mr. Perreault, prothonotary of the district, who placed him on one of his properties to establish a model farm. The end of the enterprise was heavy debts, which Mr. Perreault had to pay, and the ingratitude of the man whom he had befriended.

Girod then came on to Varennes, on the south side of the St. Lawrence and only a few miles below Montreal. There he found favor with one of the great men of the village, Dr. Duchesnois, a great supporter of Papineau. At Varennes Girod married Dr. Duchesnois' sister-in-law, the daughter of Mr. Ainse, Seignior of St. Therese, and from that time the adventurer lived on the property of his father-in-law, and devoted himself principally to the trade of a political agitator.

It is not proposed to trace the course of that agitation, or of the rebellion in which it culminated, but simply to follow the fortunes of Girod through the bloodiest chapter of the drama—the chapter which tells of the uprising to the west of Montreal, which was crushed at St. Eustache, on December 14, 1837.

One of the earliest overt acts of the St. Eustache insurgents was to plunder the Indian mission of Two Mountains where guns and ammunition were carried away from the Government stores and a small cannon, belonging to the superior of the mission. Girod was one of the party, and he employed his best cunning to persuade the Indians to give up the arms in their possession and their two small cannon. The Indians showed such determination to resist any attempt to remove their property that Girod and his companions departed without the arms they had demanded.

During the two weeks of turmoil that preceded the battle, Girod was one of the principal agitators. At times he seems to have dominated the situation and to have influenced for the worse Dr. Chenier, whom some historians have made the hero of the uprising. Girod was practically the general in command. He forbade the priests to leave the village, and he practically detained them several days as prisoners. He sent men to destroy the bridge at St. Rose, and his men succeeded in making the bridge impassable. He harangued the crowd, but no attempt was made to drill them or to prepare them to resist the troops that would be sent against them. In fact, the misguided insurgents were told that the troops dare not come to St. Eustache, and that the insurgents would take Montreal without drawing a trigger.

But the troops came, and soon all was over. On Dec. 13, Sir John Colborne set out from Montreal with what was a small army in comparison with the force it was going to attack.

On the following day the force reached St. Eustache and at once began the attack, the artillery opening fire upon the church. The battle lasted only a short time and Girod, the swashbuckler, was found when the insurgents surrendered to have gone for reinforcements. The loyalists started out on his trail. Girod's wanderings lasted four days, with his pursuers always on his tracks and ever drawing nearer. He turned northward and then circled to the east, making for the St. Lawrence River. He succeeded in reaching the outskirts of the village of Pointe-aux-Trembles, about eight miles below Montreal.

Girod's body was at once brought up to Montreal, and the authorities ordered that it should be buried "at what was then called Cote a Barron, in the middle of the cross-roads of the St Lawrence Main street and Sherbrooke street."

"And so do things pass away like a tale that is told."—The Montreal Standard.

Carrots Four Feet Long.

Some remarkable giant vegetables were exhibited at the Horticultural Hall, London, Eng., a short time ago. There is keen competition for the championship in the art of vegetable-growing between the Duke of Portland and Mr. Vicary Gibbs, and at the exhibition referred to it was generally agreed that the Duke of Portland's exhibit has never been equaled. He showed some carrots four feet long, and as smooth and regular in taper as if they had been cast. Among other vegetables he also showed a number of beans 12 inches long.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

CHANGED THE PLAY.

Peter the Great Turned the Comedy Into a Tragedy.

It is related that Peter the Great, that mighty czar of Russia, strolling incognito through the camp, came upon a party of noncommissioned officers and grenadiers enacting a comedy, which he paused to witness.

All at once his brow became clouded. In the play a soldier in the uniform of his guard commits at a certain moment a robbery. Nevertheless the emperor allowed the play to proceed. The court martial is summoned on the stage and the thief is sentenced to death. The spectators, composed of officers and men, showed the most lively concern in the performance and laughed at the grotesque contortions of the condemned culprit. The amateur actor played his part very well. Here come the squad that is to execute him. "Fire!" orders the lieutenant, and the amateur dropped down dead, his heart pierced by seven bullets—no make believe, but dead indeed.

Whereupon the emperor dropped his incognito and addressed those assembled: "A soldier of my guard who committed a robbery must die. If he did not steal why did he boast of it and sell his uniform? It is I who ordered the loaded rifles given to the men. I henceforth forbid my soldiers to ply the trade of mummers."—Argonaut.

PHILADELPHIA SCRAPPLE.

How to Prepare This Inexpensive and Highly Nutritious Dish.

Have your butcher clean a pig's head and split it in halves. Put it into a stock pot and cover with boiling water. Cook until meat falls from the bones. Remove the meat, strain the liquor and set aside to cool. Remove most of the fat, all gristle and bones. Chop meat fine.

Remove fat from liquor, place on range, bring to boiling point, add meat and one pound of beef liver previously parboiled ten minutes and cut in very small pieces. Season with salt, pepper and sage to taste. Add one cupful of buckwheat mixed with one cupful of cornmeal, letting it slip through the fingers of the left hand while you stir briskly with the right. Thicken with cornmeal until mixture is the consistency of cornmeal mush. Stir until free from lumps. Remove to back of range and simmer two or three hours. Use a heavy vessel to cook the mixture in. This lessens the danger of scorching.

Pour mixture into brick shaped bread pans previously wet with cold water. When cold cut in half inch slices and saute in a well greased hot spider. Brown on both sides. Serve for breakfast or luncheon. This is an inexpensive dish and is highly nutritious and will keep several weeks in cold weather.—National Food Magazine.

High Living in Germany.

The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin publishes an urgent appeal to German society leaders to return to "simple eating." It says that the luxury era in Germany has caused an extravagance in eating which threatens financial impoverishment and digestive ruin. Carlsbad, Marienbad, Kissingen and other spas which cater to the needs of "penitent gluttons" are, says the journal, visited by numbers, annually increasing, who go there in spring and summer to make amends for overeating and overdrinking in winter. "It would be a genuine public service on the part of leading society personages if they would begin by practical example to wage war on the sensual luxuriousness of modern entertaining, as far as the culinary end of it is concerned. Only by a return to simple and sensible dinners can we avert genuine economic and physical perils."

Streets of New York.

"Anything in the line of luck can happen to New York city," observed a commercial traveler recently, "and some of the funniest stunts are accidentally pulled off. I saw something the other day quicker done than told. An automobile was going down Broadway. A woman dropped a magazine or book from it. A man picked it up—a man worse for poverty. As the chauffeur turned the vehicle this man threw the magazine or book into it, and the woman tossed a coin at him. Another man, running down Broadway, caught the coin and continued running. The man who had lost his tip started to laugh, and soon Broadway was laughing with him, although not knowing what it was laughing at."—New York Tribune.

Flat Woes.

"No, sir," he answered positively. "Dey ain't been no such call fuh you fuh two days, sah."

"Yes, suh, pos'tive."

"Well, if one comes for me this afternoon say I'll be in later."

"Yes, suh—what's youah name, suh?"—Toledo Blade.

Slim Chance.

"Is there any chance of a young man escaping loss the first time he goes into Wall street?"

"Well, it is a toss up if he escapes the bulls and a tight squeeze if he gets away from the bears."—Baltimore American.

So She Does.

"Dog watches are common on ships, but what can a cat do?"

"She comes in handy for a pur, sir."—Baltimore American.

Pot Roast.

Use any kind of meat. Put into an iron pot a tablespoonful of meat fryings or butter; let it brown; wash off the roast and put into the pot. After it begins to fry, pour in enough water to half cover the meat; season with pepper and salt; cover and stew slowly. As the meat begins to fry, add more water; turn it often, and cook about three hours. A half hour before serving add either Irish or sweet potatoes or turnips; allow to brown with meat. If turnips are added prepare browned sweet potatoes separately.

EYE STRAIN.

First Felt Not in the Eyes, but in the Organ That Is Weakest.

No human organ, except possibly the heart, is called on for such hard and continuous activity. Even the most musical ear is never taxed beyond the three or four hours of a Wagnerian opera and at the worst is rested by frequent intermissions. The brain, even in the case of professional men, is called on for only six to eight hours of work a day. But we use our eyes in business all day and then all evening in our amusements. In point of fact, the heart itself is less severely taxed.

The eye has, to be sure, a most marvelous strength. As long as its mechanism remains measurably correct it seldom or never gives out, and its vitality is supreme. But when to the strain of near work in artificial light are added defects in its own mechanism even this wonderfully adaptable and hardy servant gives symptoms of strain.

The brain is generally our first informer. It automatically supplies the energy that flogs the lame muscle to its conscious task, and it is in the closest possible sympathy with the retina, the sensitive plate on which all vision is recorded. The brain declares its exhaustion in headache and vertigo. The masterful eye, so to speak, shunts off its suffering upon the nearest neighbor. Yet in many cases even the brain gives no direct symptom. It is the central organ, the highly vital and complex master, of the entire system, and it also has a superior way of passing on the kick. Just how it does this oculists do not profess to know. The rule seems to be that eye strain declares itself first in the organ which is nearest and weakest. The stomach, the liver, the intestines, the kidney, the heart or the membranes of nose and throat may develop symptoms while the eye and the brain seem normal.—Metropolitan Magazine.

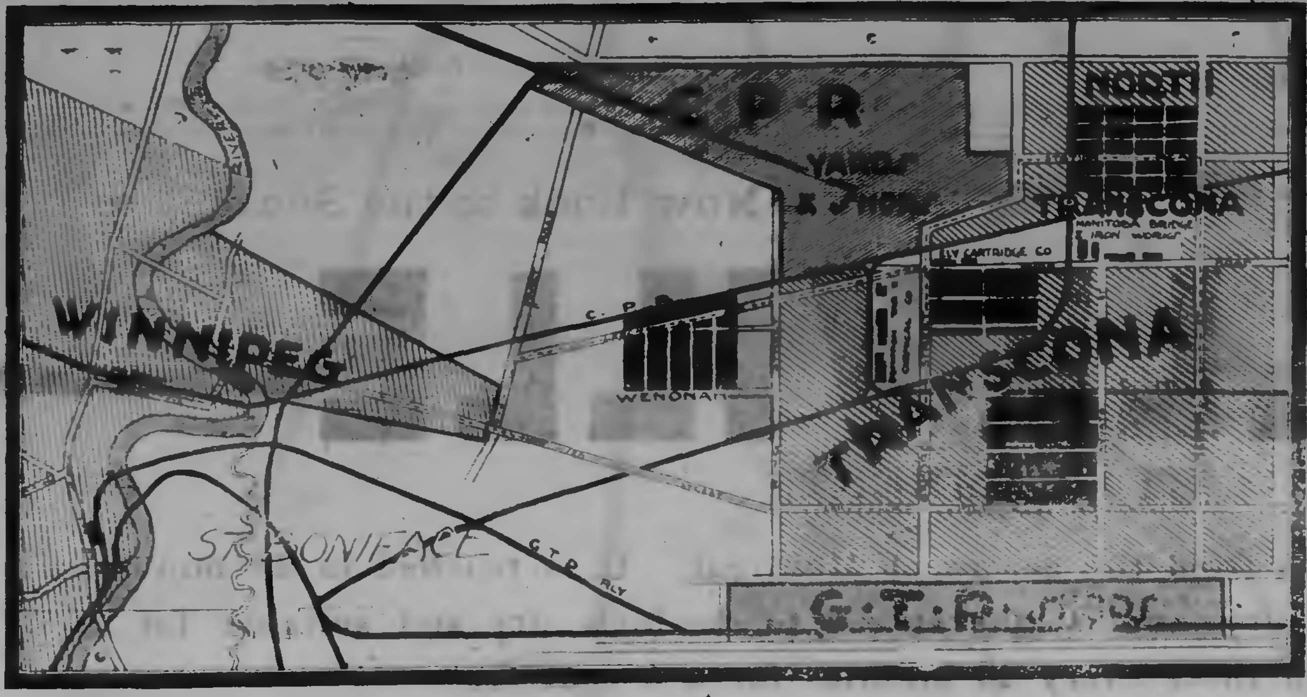
Holland's Ways.

Sea fishing is one of Holland's principal industries, and large fleets of sturdy looking fishing boats are seen at the seaside villages and hamlets, so no doubt this and the almost amphibious life the Dutchman leads among his canals and ditches account for the popularity of the fishing rod and line. The country villages with their white and green painted houses and pretty gardens are made more attractive by the survival in Holland of the picturesque old time costumes of the people. Quaint linen headdresses and numerous ample skirts mark the women. Equally ample trousers—several pairs—clothe the men. The children are miniature copies of their parents in dress as in everything else, even to the pipe or cigar in the case of boys. Everybody wears wooden shoes.—American Traveler's Gazette.

Take Our Advice and Invest in Transcona To-day



Winnipeg's Railway and Industrial Centre

TRANSCONA is rapidly becoming the recognized manufacturing centre of Winnipeg, and will be to Winnipeg what Toronto Junction is to Toronto.

The Grand Trunk Pacific are rushing to complete their immense shops at Transcona, one unit of theses are already finished, the machinery is now being tested, and in a few weeks' time one thousand men will be employed permanently and other sections will be pleted as rapidly as possible, and will give employment to a small army of mechanics.

The C. P. R. are now building the largest railway yard in the world at Transcona, together with elevators, round houses and other terminal facilities. Several industrial plants are already located in Transcona, and many others will be located there in the near future. The Dominion Tar and Chemical Co., and the Ely Cartridge Company now have their plants in operation. The Manitoba Bridge and Iron Works are building an enormous plant, and expect to have a part of it completed by the first of the year.

The G. T. P. shops will give employment to four or five thousand men, and in the near future the C. P. R. will require fully one thousand mechanics and yard men and the several manufacturing plants will require sufficient men to bring the total number of employees in Transcona up to fifteen thousand, this will mean a city with a population of over fifty thousand people.

Transcona has been incorporated, a progressive Council elected, and contracts have been already let for several mile of sidewalks, streets graded, electric light, and the question of sewage is now under consideration.

LOOSE SHOES.

These Not Fastened Tight at the Instep Cause Foot Trouble.

Seven persons out of ten suffer excruciating pain at one time or another with their feet. A single corn no larger than a grain of sand can take all the "snap" and vitality right out of you.

Two thirds of modern foot troubles are due to the fact that almost every one—man, woman and child—wears his shoe too loose. The shoe itself may be correct as to size and shape, but it is not fastened tight at the only point of control—namely, the instep.

When you set your foot upon the floor or pavement in the act of walking the shoe adheres, and if it be loosely fastened over the instep the foot pushes down into the toe of the shoe. At certain spots on the foot this slipping causes friction. These spots are the soles of the feet, the tops, ends and inner sides of the toes, the great and little toe joints and occasionally even the back of the heel.

When the friction thus caused is continued hour after hour and day after day one or more of these spots are almost sure to become inflamed and sore. A slight thickening, called a "callous," is formed. As the friction and pressure go on the resulting callous may thicken up unevenly; then it is called a "corn."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Satan of the Greeks.

The Greek conception of the evil one, whom they call Yama, makes that personage one of the most satanic of the whole evil tribe. According to their ideas of him, he is 240 miles high and the hairs on his body stand out like palm trees on a mountain side. He punishes the doomed beings submitted to his charge by putting them in beds of boiling oil, sewing their bodies in two, pouring molten lead in their ears and such other little pranks as pulling out their tongues, toe and finger nails and gouging out their eyes. He is a heartless old fiend of the most fiendish kind and has many other exquisite little tortures laid up for the helpless wretch consigned to his "chamber of horrors."

HOLIDAYING.

It Is a Pursuit Which Is on the Increase In Canada.

Canada has become the holiday land of North America. The cool breezes of the St. Lawrence, the bracing ozone of Muskoka and the North, the scenic grandeur of the Rocky Mountains, are the delight of jaded thousands from all over the country. Only recently has Canada come into its own as a tourist paradise. Twenty five years ago the ordinary Canadian family managed to worry through the heat of the summer without abandoning its usual place of abode. The head did not on Saturday morning hurry to his office with a huge suit case and inform his chief clerk about noon: "Off to my island; back Monday." Few people in this country thought of appropriating some rustic bit of Canadian land with running water, fish and scenery, to recuperate on after the wear and tear of the winter. A holiday, in those days, meant a trip to some big city, or, more commonly, a "visit" to the old folks on the farm.

There were no summer resorts, hotels or tourist routes in Canada. The reason why these things did not exist are chiefly two—lack of population and transportation. People will not seek playgrounds until they feel the need of them. When our cities were small they gaped with breathing spaces, and the citizen had no desire to exchange the comforts of home for the unbeaten paths of wilderness. He could not conveniently do so had he wished; for the early Canadian railroads, while they were alive for business, had little appreciation of the commercial potentialities of scenery.

A quarter of a century has completely transformed the life of this country. The world has realised the value of our natural resources. We have grown wealthy. We have more leisure, and, fortunately, with it a bump of curiosity. There is a venturesome instinct in our Canadian make-up to find out what we can about our environment. A strong Canadian tendency exists to exult in our heritage; lapse into verse on every occasion. This enthusiasm contains at least the element of good, that Canadians are fast developing a clear consciousness that there is a keen, life-giving enjoyment in the mere using of their mountains, woodlands, lakes and rivers. On the other hand, railroad men, steamboat men, and hotelkeepers have fostered the growing passion for the wild by throwing their lines across the trails and building hotels. They have tapped and made accessible the treasure places of nature; they have created in Canada an interesting and rapidly-expanding industry—the summer resort and tourist business.

A witness to the universal appeal this country makes to the tourist is the increasing number of people who cross the country from coast to coast for the satisfaction of seeing it. Canada is a new sensation. It has become essential for the up-to-date globe-trotter to have Canada included on his ticket. But, after all, tourist traffic is only in its infancy in Canada. As our cities grow bigger, as our wealth increases, and as our railways pierce the heart of the country, so we will learn to enjoy to the full a heritage, which we are fast recognizing, yields a greater satisfaction than wealth merely expressed in gold.—Canadian Courier.

PRANK OF A BASEBALL.

Funny Stunt That Once Won a Game For the Washingtons.

Following is an interesting story told by Hugh S. Fullerton in the American Magazine, in an article describing freak plays that have won baseball games:

"On the old Washington grounds, when Washington was in the National league, the players left the field by passing under the stands, and the entrance to the passage was closed by a cellar door arrangement which sloped down to the ground. The doors, of course, were kept closed during games, but at the top, cut in the planks of the stand, was a small square hole to permit the players to reach through and unlatch the doors when they desired to leave the field.

"During one game I saw a ball, which had been thrown wild to the plate in an effort to cut off the tying run, roll up the doors and disappear through that hole. The batter circled the bases and scored the winning run. The Chicago club, under Anson, was beaten and protested the game on the ground that the opening existed in violation of the rules. In the investigation of the complaint an attempt was made to force a ball through the hole, and, although it was pounded with a bat, the ball refused to pass through the hole until the cover gave way.

"After that almost every team that came on the grounds tried to put balls through the hole and failed. How that thrown ball managed to twist its way through the aperture never has been explained satisfactorily."

Shakespeare's Tragedies.

Whenever "Macbeth" is put upon the stage very nearly a fourth of it has to be omitted, for, although it is the shortest of the tragedies, it would take fully three hours to read it out loud without gabbling. "Hamlet" thus read would take nearly two hours more, and this seems to bear out the contention of Swinburne, among others, that much of the play, and, indeed, of other tragedies, was written by Shakespeare for the study and not for the stage. A six or seven hours' performance must have been too much even for an audience of Elizabeth's spacious times.—London Graphic.

When He Went to the Front.

"Did you hear that George went to the front yesterday?" asked the brother of Ethel.

Ethel's face blanched. "Why, what do you mean, Jack? He never told me."

"Well, I saw him go," said the brother as he reached for his hat. "Don't you remember last evening, when he kissed you first on your right cheek and then on your left, and then didn't he go to the front?"—Ladies Home Journal.

WHY

the stock of Trust Companies and Banks appeal to conservative investors.

The following are a few good reasons why you should invest NOW in the stock of the Acadia Trust Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C.:

1. It is showing remarkable growth, having earned seventy (70 p.c.) per cent. on its paid-up capital since its inception, November 26, 1911.

2. It is thoroughly established (with no promotion stock).

3. It is subject to advance without notice; and will very shortly be amongst the premier Trust Companies doing business in British Columbia.

4. Its profits will necessarily be large.

5. It will declare large bonus dividends to reduce the uncalled liability, thereby increasing the paid-up portion of your stock.

6. Prospects of an increase in value are excellent.

TOOK HIM LITERALLY.

And the Great Sculptor Houdon Found His Name Changed.

Houdon, the famous French sculptor, rendered great service to the fine arts not only through the masterpieces he left behind him, but also by perfecting the casting of statues in bronze. This art, fallen into disuse since the renaissance, he revived. When he reached his seventy-third year, writes Mr. C. H. Hart and Mr. Edward Biddle in their life of the artist, Houdon withdrew from active work. As a means of agreeable relaxation he began also to frequent the performances at the Comedie Francais.

It so happened that in consequence of certain alterations the building had to be closed for a considerable period. On the day of its reopening Houdon came as usual, but a new ticket taker had been engaged since his last visit.

"Monsieur, your ticket, please!" this official cried.

"I don't need any," and the venerable figure continued to advance.

"But, monsieur, no one enters without a ticket."

"I have my entree, sir," replied Houdon, growing warm.

"But how do you call yourself?"

"How do I call myself? How do I call myself?" Then pointing to the statue in the peristyle, which he himself had made, "I'm the father of Voltaire!" he cried, and he passed in triumphantly. The amusing part of it is that the next evening as Houdon passed in the ticket taker turned to his assistant and instructed him to inscribe on the register of entries for the evening, "M. Voltaire, le pere." It is easy to imagine the hilarious reception of this at the Comedie, and for some time after the old sculptor was referred to by this name exclusively.

The Healing Laugh.

Merriopathy is the science of the healing laugh. Merriopathy is better than homeopathy or allopathy for curing all the gloom diseases and grouch complaints that make life miserable. The wise physician well understands the therapeutic value of fun and a cheerful spirit. Medicine may be a necessary and powerful agent in the treatment of illness, but it may fail where fear and melancholy join hands with the disease. Laughter is one of the best medicines in the world and lengthens life as well as brightens it.—Christian Herald.

Any Headache Cured, Tired Systeme Re-Toned

When You're Dull, Tired, Restless Day and Night, Something is Wrong with the Stomach.

A Prominent Publishing Man Says the Quickest Cure is Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callander, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly, and know of marvellous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you fell strong and well. Far headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescriptions is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver, and bowels. In consequence food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease, all druggists and store keepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills 25c per box, 5 for $1.00, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Unwelcome Visitors.

Yesterday a swarm of bees invaded the beautiful grounds of Mrs. Walsh, Dickson street, and lighted on one of the shade trees on the lawn. The insects evidently escaped from some hive in the neighborhood.

Cadet Camp.

On Wednesday, July 17th, the local Cadets will leave for the camp at Barriefield where there are now 2,500 Cadets encamped. Each Cadet should take with him a plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon. The present prospects do not point to a large number of the P.C.I. boys attending but before the week is up a goodly number may have decided to attend.

Factory for Belleville.

A company for the manufacture of wood alcohol which is likely to locate in Belleville, and with which Mr. J. H. Larmonth is connected, considered Peterborough some time ago, but it was found that the consideration of freight excluded this city. Belleville is soon to vote on a by-law in connection with this company. The wood limits of the company are in the northern part of Hastings county, and Belleville is on a direct line of railway, whereas several lines would have to be used to reach this city.

Orangeman 72 Years.

Seventy-two years an Orangeman is the record of Mr. Frank Weir, of East City, who is in the city to-day Old age cannot extinguish the enthusiasm of Mr. Weir, and although in his 86th year, he talks with the readiness of youth. This is the second year in which Mr. Weir does not feel quite up to the task of walking in parade. But as an active Orangeman in every other way his activity was surprising. Mr. Weir is comfortably fixed as far as worldly goods are involved. He does not wear glasses and his hearing is still fairly good.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

GREATEST ORANGE DEMONSTRATION

ed the celebration was due almost entirely to the magnificent work done by the committee in charge, who spared neither time nor money in perfecting the arrangements. It is no small matter to handle a crowd of fifteen or twenty thousand people, and this was done without a hitch. In fact the entire program was carried through without a single mishap or mistake. Mr. C. E. Wiley, the chairman of the committee, and Mr. E. F. Reid, the secretary, deserve special mention. They were ably assisted by other members of the committee, consisting of Messrs. J. B. McWilliams, Wm. Kindred, Robert Wilson, H. Dodds, H. Noyes, J. Jones, Jos. Batten, Uriah Hawley, and others. Of these gentlemen it may be truthfully said that they successfully carried through the biggest celebration that ever took place in this part of Canada, and The Times joins in extending them the heartiest congratulations on their magnificent achievement.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

The Kilties' band of Belleville, composed of six bagpipes and large and small drums, were given the place of honor in the procession, and received an ovation as they passed through the crowded streets. Hon. Sam. Hughes and Hon. Dr. Sproule were also in the procession, and were vigorously cheered at points en route.

The 57th Band was divided into two divisions, thus making two bands. One was dressed in khaki and the other in white.

One of the most pleasing features of the day was the total absence of drunkenness—Not an intoxicated man was seen on the streets.

To show the thoughtfulness of the committee of management, horses were provided for all the outside district Marshals.

The restaurants, lunch counters and ice cream parlours did an enormous trade.

There were 204 banners left in the Armouries at one o'clock. This meant an equal number of lodges, placing the average number of members at 60, it would make over 12,000 men in the procession.

A pleasing incident took place in front of Rev. Mr. Pogue's residence, little Gordon Pogue, four years old, feeling no doubt the inspiration of the music, stepped out on the side of the roadway and extended his little hand to each Orangeman as they passed. He did this on his own notion and must have shaken hands with over 200 to the great amusement of many who were watching as well as those in the procession.

Chief Thompson told Chairman Wiley that he never saw a more orderly crowd. There was not a single act that required the attention of the police, and not a soul was in the cells last night.

One of the features of yesterday's demonstration was the ladies' L.O.L., who brought up the rear of the procession in carriages.

The Indian band from Roseneath, received considerable applause during the parade for their splendid appearance as well as their excellent music.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams, the Grand Marshal, lead the procession, and looked quite natural in his regalia. An Orange procession in Peterborough without Mr. McWilliams would be of little color.

The People's Chimes in St. John's church were rung yesterday afternoon in honor of the day. Various numbers in accord with the occasion were played.

A RUSTIC'S FANCY

(Written for The Times.)

When I have reached at last life's sunset gate
That, backward rolling with a noiseless sweep,
Admits a wanderer who has travelled late,
Footsore and weary, up the toilsome steep.

If then some friends who knew me long and well,
For gossip or for customs mead should come,
Let them beware, nor of my vices tell,
Since now my lips in self-defence are dumb.

Cast at this prostrate clay no venomed stone,
Have you so holy, broken no command?
Or bring your charge before the judgment throne,
When fellow-sinners there we both shall stand.

But if it chanced of some word or deed,
Relieved one hour of earthly misery,
Let justice only for remembrance plead,
And for the rest at least sweet charity.

One boon (the last) yet would I humbly crave,
If ye would wish me calm and peaceful rest;
No sordid, menial hand shall make my grave,
Nor fashion's heartless wreath disturb my breast.

But bear me to the church beneath the hill,
Where oft we worshipped in the years gone by,
In those familiar courts so hushed and still,
A few short moments let my body lie.

While prayers ascend for rest in Paradise,
With those most near and dear who passed before;
So when the eternal morning dawns we rise,
To realms where pain and death are known no more.

And the glad hymns which cheered the lonely day,
When clouds of grief obscured the day star's light,
Perchance, the blest refrain will melt away,
In angel songs, and upward guide my flight.

Be my last rest where morning's rising beam,
O'er Warsaw's rugged hill effulgent glows,
Nor but an idle fancy deem,
The love that seeks in Dummer's seared soil repose.

Amid her pleasant woods and vales I roved,
When youth and hope within my breast beat high,
With dear companions then so fondly loved,
Who now beneath the mould unheeding lie.

But one by one they reached the far-off shore.
Finding eternal rest beyond the sky,
O, how dull sorrow pierced my heart's deep core,
That bled afresh at every sundered tie.

Perhaps when service in the church is o'er,
Fair summer smiling glorious far and near,
Some village folk may wander as of yore,
And drop for Auld Lang Syne a passing tear.

No sable roll of mourning ever don,
To cast o'er life's bright span a shadowy blight.
Why hopeless black, when they who thence have gone,
Are wearing ever more the spotless white.

Still for the living leave unculled the flowers,
To cheer the care worn soul or tear dimmed eye,
We need such not where amaranthine bowers,
Are bright with verdure that can never die.

No marble pillar raise nor graven stone,
To point the careless stranger to a name,
That scarce beyond the village bound was known,
And sought no trophies from the hand of fame.

Nought but the waving grass to deck the sod,
Or snow wreaths drifting on the wintry air,
Safe in the hallowed acre of our God
Leave me in trust to his strong angels' care.

—S. Calder.

The Monaca Rod and Gun Club, of Monaca, Pa., who with a number of other Americans are summering on the Fenelon River, near Fenelon Falls, were in the city yesterday and gave The Times a call. Messrs. Wilson, J. W. Morehouse, Jas. Witherow, D. C. Irons, Jack Wallace and Cecil Heyman went fishing in Cameron Lake and in an hour and a half landed 40 fine bass and returned 25 smaller ones to the water. Although the gentlemen did not exceed the Government's limit for the number of fish, it is a question whether or not they exceeded the speed limit.

DO THE STATES FACE A REVOLUTION?

STATES FACE A REVOLUTION—SO SAYS SENATOR BAILEY

Much Nearer a Crises Than Wisest Men Think Says The Senator From Texas—Compares Situation to French Revolution

Washington, Jul 13.—Senator Bailey, of Texas, in a farewell address to a score of his colleagues at a private dinner last night predicted that if conditions in the United States continued to change as much in the next thirty years as they had in the last thirty, the country would face a condition parallel to that of the French revolution.

"This Republic is near a crisis which is greater than the wisest men think," said Senator Bailey. I do not forget that the French revolution came while the Governors were at the theatre and that they arose from their banquet tables to come face to face with violence and bloodshed in the streets of Paris."

"You Senators and representatives," continued Mr. Bailey, "can prevent this great crisis and you will do so if you have the courage to go out and tell the public the truth. Every evil which exists in the country to-day can be corrected without danger to the principles and policies upon which this Republic was founded, and it should be done."

BIRTH RATE DECLINES

Prussia Going the Way of France In A Lower Birth Rate—Race Suicide the Cause of the Falling Off.

Berlin, July 12.—Prussia is going the way of France in the matter of declining population, if the figures for the past year are any guidance.

Though there were over 10,000 more marriages than in the year before, the births were 14,000 less than in 1910, and 86,000 less than in 1906. There were 57,000 more deaths in Prussia last year than usual, most of them being infants, owing to the abnormally hot weather, so the loss of the balance of population was really more than appears at first glance.

Race suicide is therefore again a theme for the animated debates of Prussian sociologists, who attribute the conditions of affairs to the soaring cost of living. In Germany generally the same truth applies in varying degree, according to locality. Whereas the German birthrate in 1875 was 42.6 per 1,000, the last figures for 12 months show barely 31 per 1,000.

THE 12TH IN TORONTO

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Delighted With the Great Demonstration in the Queen City—60,000 People in Exhibition Grounds.

Being asked by The Times what he thought of the turnout at Toronto, on the 12th, Mr. Burnham said: "It was a very large and orderly procession. There were at least fifty thousand on the Exhibition grounds and more than a quarter of a million lined the streets. I would liked to have been with you in Peterborough, but my invitation to speak to the immense gathering of Orangemen at Toronto, I regarded as a great honour to a stranger, so I went up to it. It was a revelation. Surely no where could the great mass of the public be more orderly and circumspect than this immense throng was."

Were there many speeches?

"Yes, both those pre-arranged for and impromptu. There was no bitterness or disrespect for Roman Catholics, but the decree of the Pope is being met with firmness and intense opposition. Of course, such an uncompromising attack on democracy cannot help provoking a world-wide struggle."

MR. FINCH MILLER APPOINTED.

To Succeed George H. Howson as Immigration Officer.

Owing to the numerous complaints that have reached the Department at Ottawa to the effect that one man cannot do the work of district inspector of weights and measures and immigration work also, owing to frequent absence from the city, Mr. Howson will continue the former office, but will hand over the immigration work to Mr. Finch Miller, City Charity officer, who has received the appointment. It will fit in with his work for the city and prevent confusion as well.

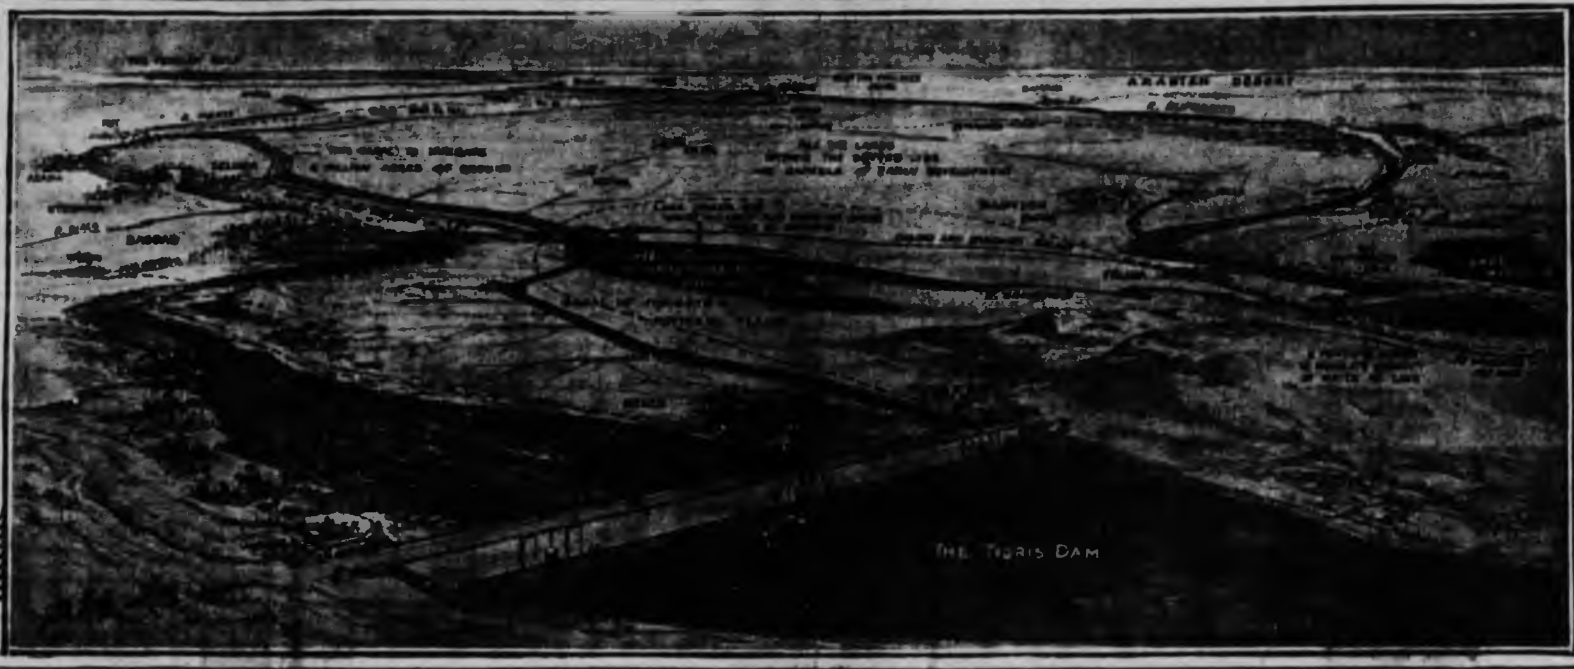
EMPLOYERS ARE STUBBORN HUNGER MAY WIN THE DAY

Lord Devanport Refuses to Make Any Concession to Transport Strikers Until They Return to Work Public Sympathy Turns to the Men

London, July 13.—The course of the dock strike has confounded every expectation. Last week the labor authorities were almost unanimous in declaring that the men would return to work in a few days, but, on the contrary, the men have stiffened their ranks. The dispute has now settled itself down to the issue of whether the transport workers and federation leaders shall be admitted to a conference with the employers or not. Before the strike is declared off, Premier Asquith, bishops and others have privately and publicly begged the employers' leader Lord Davenport, to receive the men's leaders. Lord Devanport is adamant this morning. He issues a fresh statement, refusing any concessions until the men have returned to work.

The result of the employers' obstinacy has been to turn public sympathy in favor of the men. The trade of London ports is largely crippled. Multitudes are starving. The Premier is being approached to frame measures which will force the employers to give way. Hunger, however, threatens to win the battle for the employers.

ENGINEERS CONSIDERING PROPOSITION TO MAKE A "GARDEN" OF THE PLAINS OF MESOPOTAMIA



•RESUSCITATING THE GARDEN OF EDEN•

Engineers now propose to "resuscitate" the plains of Mesopotamia, and their idea of doing this is illustrated by a drawing which is reproduced on this page.

The view is taken from the north looking toward Bagdad and Basra in the south, with the Persian Gulf in the far distance; the Arabian Desert is on the right. In the immediate foreground is the River Tigris, across which the engineers purpose to throw an immense dam, more or less in the form indicated here. From the right hand corner of the lake thus formed will issue a stream of water flowing in a canal the level of which will be sixty feet below the dam. This canal will irrigate the northern plains in which are situated Beled, Opis, and other places, which will grow in importance with the increased fertility of the surrounding lands.

This canal will flow into Lake Akkar Kuf, where it is proposed that the cozy mud from the river should be deposited. This natural hollow will be filled with water from the Euphrates which will here have its dam, with two powerful sluices. The water of the Euphrates thus held up would be liberated as occasion required to irrigate the district in which Hilla, Kerbela, Kufa, Diwanieh, Nippur, Erech, and other cities of the plain are situated.

From Lake Akkar Kuf a big canal connected with the Tigris at Kut will irrigate 6,000,000 acres of ground. It is proposed that the Bagdad-Damascus Railway should run southward along the bank of this canal. The areas capable of early development are enclosed within the broken lines. The district which would thus be made to flourish once again contains many historical places, some of them of extreme antiquity.

SERIOUSLY INJURED ON SATURDAY

The Times has learned from a reliable source, that Mr. David Hunter, who lives on his farm about two miles out the Norwood Road from this city, was seriously injured on Saturday. It seems that Mr. Hunter was working on the reaping machine when his horse ran away. He was thrown against a tree and very badly injured.

The Times last night called up several local physicians and both hospitals anh nowhere had the report of the accident been heard of. Several of the farmers in the neighborhood of Mr. Hunter affirmed their knowledge of it over the phone, stating that he was seriously hurt.

INSURANCE ACT IS STILL EXCEEDINGLY UNPOPULAR

Lloyd George's Warmest Friends Admit That New Law Will Have a Stormy Time—Workmen Irritated Before They Realize Full Benefits of Act

London, July 13.—All England is discussing the Insurance Act, which comes into force on Monday. The post offices are constantly thronged by long lines of working people asking for contribution cards. It is clear that most of them have resolved to obey the law, but even Lloyd George's warmest friends admit that the prospect ahead of the Act is exceedingly stormy. It is generally unpopular, and it becomes daily more evident that some of the most keenly anticipated benefits will not be so great as expected. This particularly applies to sanitariums and medical benefits. The doctors show no signs of yielding to Lloyd George's proposal. The payment of six shillings a head of patients to doctors has been, however, splendidly vindicated by the report from Sir William Plender, the famous actuary, which shows that in five great towns last year the gross incomes of medical practitioners averaged five pence per patient less than the sum named in the Act.

The danger before the Act is lest the mass of people should be irritated by the extra taxation and supervision, and lest they wreck the law before its wide-reaching benefits have time to be realized.

SECRETARY OF STATE P. C. KNOX MAY ADMINISTER GOVERNMENT

Rather Startling Possibility In U. S. Contest—One of the Candidates for Vice-President May be Chosen Chief Executive

Washington, July 13.—For the first time in their lives the politicians see before them a real triangular contest for the presidency. The situation is so novel and unique that the most bizarre possibilities are under discussion. The electoral college antiquated, and cumbersome, is expected to break down and little better is expected of congress. The New York American, nominally supporting Wilson, but suspected of preferring Roosevelt, has figured out that there will be an interregnum on March 4, and that Hon. Philander C. Knox will take over the Government until a new election can be held.

An Emergency Government.

The possibility of an inter-regnum cannot be denied and under the statute the secretary of state would assume control, but if there was such a constitutional breakdown it is more than likely that an emergency government would be formed and a national assembly summoned for the purpose of making a new constitution. What disorders might ensue no one can say, but the people in such an emergency naturally would turn to a man of power, probably Theodore Roosevelt. He might for a time, untitled and unsalaried become the real ruler of the Republic.

But if no president is elected by the electoral college, neither will there have been any vice-president elected. To meet this situation the senate must select some one of the two men who receives the highest number of votes for vice-president in the electoral college. It is therefore important for a party this fall to come out second best if it cannot come out first best.

A GOOD TIME ASSURED.

All who attend the Printers' picnic on Saturday afternoon, August 3rd, to Jubilee Point, per steamer Stoney Lake, are assured of a good time. A good program of sports, dancing, baseball, refreshment booths.

CYCLONE SWEEPS GRAND RAPIDS FORTY PERSONS WERE INJURED

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 13.—Grand Rapids was hit early to-day by a cyclone that injured 40 or more persons and did thousands of dollars worth of damage. The storm entered the city from the southwest about four o'clock. The first place struck was the city market and the Grand Rapids Central Baseball park adjoining.

The market was crowded with farmers and their teams, as trading had just begun. As the storm struck the roof of the ball park grand stand it was lifted and hurled to pieces, being scattered all over the market. A panic followed. Horses were killed and a great many persons were hurt, some so badly that they had to be sent to the hospitals. The police reserves and fire department were called out.

The storm then swept across the town, striking the best residence district.

STREET CAR HITS BUGGY OCCUPANTS SERIOUSLY HURT

What might have been a fatal accident occurred Saturday evening about seven o'clock, when a street car collided with a buggy at the corner of George and Dublin streets.

Mr. Reid, of 220 Rogers street, and Miss Johnson, of East City, were the occupants of the vehicle, and were driving east on Dublin street, when in attempting to cross the street car tracks on George street the vehicle of the conveyance became fixed and the street car coming at a high rate of speed ran down the buggy. Luckily the motorman saw the coming collision and applied the brakes, resulting in a reduced speed that undoubtedly saved the lives of the occupants of the buggy.

When the car crashed into the rig, the latter was split in two and Miss Johnson and Mr. Reid were thrown out onto the road. Both were painfully injured, Mr. Reid seriously, and they were taken to their homes in Belleghem's and Comstock's ambulances. The report prevailing last night that Mr. Reid had succumbed to his injuries was not true. His many friends will be glad to learn that he will recover.

The horse attached to the buggy made one of the most sensational flights ever witnessed on George street, tearing into the terrace at the corner of London and George and smashing the railing on the verandah. After a hair-raising, pedestrian scattering dash, which luckily did not result in some fatal accident, it was captured when it stumbled from the step from the side-walk to the crossing at Brock street. It sustained only slight injuries.

JACKSON PARK CAR HITS A BUGGY.

About nine o'clock an eastbound Jackson Park car ran down a horse and buggy, the property of Mr. Bell, at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets. The rig was badly smashed, the man severely bruised and shaken up, and the horse slightly injured. The man was not able to resume his drive for several hours after the accident.

THE WEATHER.

Mostly fair and about the same temperature.

REFORESTRATION OF NORTHERN COUNTIES IS NOW UNDER WAY

Prof. Fernow is Engaged in Re-planting in Apsley—Will Result in Conservation of Water

Prof. Fernow, expert adviser of the Reforestry Department of the Dominion Government, was in the city on Saturday and left for Apsley. It will be remembered that Mr. Burnham, M.P., interested the parties in regard to the re-forestration of the townships in the northern part of our county and accompanied Prof. Fernow on a several days' trip through the territory referred to in October last. The result of this was that Prof. Fernow made an exceedingly favorable report to the Department and some time ago the work of surveying the area referred to was begun. There are a number of men now at work under the direction of the Professor, so that we may expect tree planting very soon.

The land to be replanted is practically at the present time entirely worthless. The timber which will be grown consists mostly of pine, although other woods will also be grown in places where the land is not suitable for the development of pine.

The Times regards the work as one of the greatest importance, and although the benefit which will follow may not be apparent for some years, future generations will reap the harvest, and will naturally feel grateful to those who assisted in this day in so great and deserving an enterprise. A conserving of the waters will be one of the features of Mr. Fernow's operations. By the increace of trees and shrubbery the effect on the conservation of streams will be very great.

DOUBLE DROWNING YESTERDAY IN WATERS OF THE OTONABEE

Mr. Henry Hayward and His Five-Year-Old Daughter Meet Death Together Just North of Crawfords Grove

Two deaths were added to the terrible toll of life taken by the Otonabee river, when yesterday afternoon, shortly before six o'clock two more victims were drowned in its waters, just above Crawford's Grove. They were Mr. Henry Hayward, of Gordon avenue, and his little five-year-old daughter.

It appears that Mr. Hayward and his little girl, had been trawling down the river, and as they were passing the end of Park street, the line, held by the child became caught in some manner and was pulled or nearly pulled from the canoe. In the excitement of the moment the canoe upset, leaving Mr. Hayward, who was unable to swim, and his little daughter in the deep water, and in a terrible plight. No boats were near enough to be of any assistance to the ill-fated couple and both were drowned.

Immediately after the accident occurred a number of small boats came upon the scene to assist in the search for the bodies. That of the little girl was found about eight o'clock by the dead man's brother, but up to the time of going to press no word could be gotten of the recovery of Mr. Hayward's body.

Mr. Hayward was about 35 years of age, and resided on Gordon. He was a bricklayer and worked with his brother.

CANADA'S EXAMPLE NOT TO COERCE AUSTRALIA

London, July 13.—There were three topics to absorb London this week-end. Premier Borden's mission, State Insurance, and the dock strike. Two days of reflection have only served to increase the general appreciation of Canada's action, yet statesmen here, while deeply grateful for Canada's coming assistance, recognize that such an offer does not solve the intricate issues of Imperial defence.

Canada's example will undoubtedly influence, but at the same time, cannot be used to coerce Australia. There are problems ahead during the coming conferences which, despite the most careful and sympathetic handl-

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager, 67 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 tu J1

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 380 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:
25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

The Sibylline Books.

It is recorded of Tarquin the Proud, seventh emperor of Rome, that an old woman came to him with nine books, which contained, she said, sacred oracles. She asked an enormous price for them, and when the emperor refused she flew into a rage, threw three of the books into the fire and still asked the same price for the remainder. The emperor again refused, and she thereupon threw three more into the fire and still asked the same price for the three remaining. This so astonished the emperor that he bought the three at the price for which in the first instance he might have had the nine. These were the Sibylline books, long looked upon by the Romans as divine oracles.

A Delicate Point.

They are a happy couple. They haven't been married very long. In fact, the honeymoon has barely waned. An elderly friend met the bridegroom downtown yesterday and slapped him on the back.

"Well, happy as a lark, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes."

"How's the cooking?"

"I have one trouble there. It's just this—my wife has been preparing angel food every day for dinner."

"You must be getting tired of it."

"I am. Yet I feel a hesitancy about saying anything. How soon after the honeymoon would it be proper to ask for beefsteak and onions?"

Persian Way of Eating Watermelon

"The ordinary Persian bill of fare sounds something like the banquets described in fairy tales," said a man who has spent some time in the orient. "While traveling in that country I found that the best overture to a wayside repast is a watermelon, not cut in slices, as is done in this country, but eaten like an egg, one end being cut off and the contents eaten with a wooden spoon, the roseate fluid trickling all the time to the bottom and affording a fragrant drink when the first course is over."

A Bright Youth.

Lord Crewe tells an amusing story of the little son of a friend of his who refused to say his lesson to his governess.

He admitted that he knew it well, but, said he: "If I say my lesson, what's the use? You will only make me learn something else."

That child will probably be heard of again.

He Was No Settler.

"I suppose that old chap with the long white whiskers over there is one of your old settlers, isn't he?" said the grocery drummer.

"I reckon he's what yew might call a old resident," rejoined the village merchant, "but he ain't no old settler. He's been a-owin' me for nigh on to thirty years."

LITERATURE AND COOKING.

Dumas Was of the Opinion That They Were Twin Sisters.

How completely Alexandre Dumas was master of another art than that of fiction is shown by an amusing anecdote in Mme. Judith's "Recollections." A very sociable company was gathered late one evening at her apartments. Dumas the elder, Theophile Gautier, De Banville and other lesser lights were there. After much conversation and reading aloud every one grew hungry. But the hostess had sent away her servants and had made no preparation for a late supper.

"No matter!" cried the resourceful Dumas. "If the cooks have gone to bed we'll take their places!"

And, calling on several of the company to act as his assistants, he started foraging. Soon he found abundant provisions, among which was a hare.

"Fine!" he shouted. "In half an hour we shall have a splendid meal." And he vanished, with his satellites, into the kitchen.

In thirty minutes the door leading from the kitchen was thrown open, and an extraordinary procession appeared.

First came Theophile Gautier, bearing a large platter of food; then Dumas, attired in a chef's full costume—white apron, cap and all—proudly bearing aloft the hare; behind came two of the satellites, one of whom solemnly carried a big knife, the other a gigantic fork.

"I never ate a better dish," says Mme. Judith. Dumas was a capital cook. After the repast he exclaimed:

"Are not literature and cooking twin sisters? It is too bad that a good cook is not esteemed as highly as a good novelist. I am just as proud when I make a good sauce as I am when I write a good page.

"Alas, if genius had not been deflected from the kitchen what astonishing progress the art of cooking might have made! What divine joys would have been vouchsafed to mankind if Corneille, Racine, Moliere and Voltaire had turned their marvelous talents to the invention of new dishes!"

"He is right!" shouted Theophile Gautier.

Light Lures the Fish.

Fishermen of Cezimbo, Portugal, have a novel method of catching fish by the use of a natural phosphorescent substance. This is obtained from a fish known as Malacocephalus laevis and is a thick yellowish fluid which possesses a bluish phosphorescence in the dark, believed to be due to the presence of a luminous microbe. The fishermen rub this substance upon a muscular tissue, such as a piece of cuttlefish, and this is used as bait. The light appears to last for a long time, at least for several hours, and has a brighter glow when dipped in the sea. Fish are attracted to the bait by the light and are thus caught.

Ants as Biters.

Ants are terrible fighters. They have very powerful jaws, considering the size of their bodies, and therefore their method is by biting. They will bite one another and hold on with a wonderful grip of the jaws, even after all of their legs have been bitten off by other ants. Sometimes six or eight ants will be clinging with a death hold to one another, making a peculiar spectacle, some with a leg gone and some with half the body gone. One singular fact is that the grip of an ant's jaw is retained even after the body has been bitten off and nothing but the head remains.

Proofs Beyond Question.

Her soldier son in India had sent a cablegram to Mrs. Blunderleigh in London, and that dame was proudly telling of it to her impressed neighbors.

"Yes, they be wonderful things, the telegraphs," she said. "Just fancy, it has come from Indy—all those thousands of miles!"

"And so quick, too," put in her best friend.

"Quick ain't the word for it," went on Mrs. Blunderleigh. "Why, when I got it the gum on the envelope wasn't dry!"

A Butcher Shop Idyl.

She was pretty and she looked soulful.

"How much is porterhouse?" she timidly inquired.

"Umpty cents a pound," said the butcher, a large, coarse man.

"Oh, I cannot afford that. I'm discouraged at these high prices." She began to weep.

"Take heart," murmured a benevolent looking old gentleman.

"I guess I will. That comes cheaper. Please wrap me up half a pound."

Easy Money.

Breathlessly he rushed into the lawyer's office. "My next door neighbor is learning to play the cornet," he exclaimed. "The man is a public nuisance. What would you advise me to do?"

"Learn to play the trombone," replied the astute lawyer. "Ten dollars, please."

STRENUOUS STILLNESS.

Posing For Meissonier Was a Trying Athletic Feat.

Perhaps stillness is something that scarcely seem compatible with physical strenuosity. Nevertheless posing for an artist may become, in the maintenance for long periods of a difficult attitude, one of the most trying of athletic feats. When Meissonier, the famous French artist, was painting one of his battle scenes he hired several old soldiers for models—seasoned, tough veterans, whose experience and endurance would, he thought, be useful in enabling them both to understand the positions required and to hold them. They did so, indeed, as well as any one could, but it was an everyday affair for a model to faint and more than once to collapse with exhaustion and require the services of a physician.

Especially difficult were the poses representative of cavalrymen slain or wounded and falling from their saddles. Despite an ingenious arrangement of straps and slings hung from the ceiling of the studio to afford such support as was possible, these poses remained so hard that one old soldier declared fervently when the picture was finished:

M. Meissonier, I have been six times wounded and once nearly frozen on the field, and once they were going to bury me, but it was all nothing to this—nothing, nothing! It is not hard to fall out of the saddle, really. A bullet helps one so neatly one scarcely knows when he touches the ground. But then, you see, one is allowed to fall all the way; one is not halted in midair.

"You are painting a great picture, monsieur, and I am proud to be in it, but if you could have put me there with a pistol instead of a paint brush I should have preferred it."

It was long a current tale that the model for another painting by Meissonier, entitled "The Brawl," actually died as the result of long posing in an unnaturally strained position for one of the two intertwined and struggling combatants in the picture.

This was not true. Indeed, he lived to boast much and volubly of his achievement, and it served him as his chief professional recommendation afterward.

Rolling up his sleeve and displaying an arm heavily corded with muscle, he would say to a prospective employer:

"Monsieur, behold! Is not that an arm? Aha, truly! You are not the first to admire it. And a leg to match, monsieur; a leg that is veritably superb! But I do not praise them, I. There is no need. These arms and these legs have been immortalized. They belong to art; they are consecrated to art—at any sacrifice of personal convenience. Monsieur, it was I—I—who posed to M. Meissonier for 'The Brawl!'"

The sect known as the Jains, in India, is said to be ahead of all others in fasting feats. Once a year these people abstain from food for seventy-five days, while feats of from thirty to forty days are very common.

Meekness is imperfect if it be not both active and passive, leading us to subdue our own passions and resentments as well as to bear patiently the passions and resentments of others.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S PARTY.

Mr. Roosevelt declares that his third party movement will go on without interruption to complete organization, and that he will be a candidate and make the fight to the end, even if he should get only one electoral vote. But he is finding quite a change in the situation since he made his sensational and futile canvass for the Republican nomination. Some of his most prominent supporters in his preconvention contest have refused to go with him in a separate party organization, and many in the rank and file who threw up their hats and shouted themselves hoarse for him a few weeks ago, have had their enthusiasm chilled by the thought of severing their lifelong affiliation with the Republican party. Gov. Hadley, one of the seven Governors who urged Mr. Roosevelt to come out as an aggressive candidate against President Taft, has refused to join him in the new party movement, and Gov. Osborne, another of the seven, has declared that there is no need for a third party and has announced his intention of supporting Woodrow Wilson, taking the ground that the Republican party has no legitimate nominee for President and that Republicans can vote independently for Wilson without leaving their party.

There can be little doubt that the third party will be formed. Roosevelt is resolute, and still has a persistent following, and there are indications that he will have a financial backing. He has staked his prestige and political future on his fight against Taft, and his bolt from the party, and while it is apparent that he has been disillusioned of the idea that he could win the Presidency, he is egotistic enough to believe that he can, by his personal efforts and influence in the campaign, recover much of the ground that now seems lost to him, and permanently establish a party which will give promise of ultimate power.

His declaration that he will make the race for President at the head of the new organization, even if he should get only one electoral vote, implies that he does not hope to win, but he will not be gratified if Taft is defeated in November, and it is his hope, out of the complications of politics, with perhaps an appeal to the extreme radical elements of the country, to establish an organization which must be seriously reckoned with in the future.

PULPWOOD CONSUMPTION INCREASED.

The quantity of pulpwood manufactured in Canada in 1911 showed an increase of 73,801 cords (or 12.3 p. c.) over 1910. In 1911, 672,288 cords were manufactured as compared with 598,487 cords in the previous year. The value of the wood also increased with the result that the 1911 product brought to its vendors $2,338,024, as compared with $3,585,154 for 1910, an increase of $752,870. The value of the wood (96.85 per cord) was greater than it had been for years.

Of the total amount Quebec consumed in its 28 mills 58 per cent. Ontario used nearly one-third of the total consumption; this province has the highest consumption per mill of any, viz., 12,480 cords. New Brunswick mills were hampered by low water during the year. The consumption of pulpwood in these four mills was 45,924—over twice as much as in the depression of the previous year. Nova Scotia, where only mechanical process of pulpmaking is used, in its seven mills consumed 22,221 cords of pulpwood. In British Columbia pulpwood manufacturing was still in the experimental stage.

Quebec used four species of wood for pulp, namely, spruce, balsam fir, (or balsam), hemlock and poplar. Ontario and Nova Scotia employed spruce, balsam fir and poplar, while New Brunswick used Spruce and balsam fir only.

Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing Fumes of Catarrhozone, Which Are Breathed to the Furthest Recesses of the Bronchial Tubes, Bring Quick Relief and Sure Cure.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at the source, disperses the germs of disease and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing, balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from Catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrhozone, and have been completely cured, and, in fact, have been well for some time. Catarrhozone is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only give temporary relief, but will always cure permanently. Yours sincerely, (Signed) WILLIAM RAGAN, Brockville, Ont."

For absolute, permanent cure use Catarrhozone. Two months' outfit costs $1.00; smaller size, 50c, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Editorial Notes

Bishop Leagal, of Reading, Pa., objects to the new half-cent coin on the ground that the churches will suffer. He declares that many persons put the smallest coin on the collection plate. It is evident from this that some people take their meanest spirit with them when they go to worship.

REVOLUTION IS TALKED OF FRANCE

Everybody Thinks He's Overtaxed and Over Red Taped, Too

UNEASINESS IS GENERAL

Thought By Many That a Revolution Is not Far Distant—The High Cost of Living is the Cause of the Discontent-

Paris, July 12.—The general uneasiness which the prevalence of Socialism, the increase in the price of living and the general political discontent in France had brought with them encouraged the Bonapartists, who have been quiescent recently, to hold a monster meeting at the Salle Wagram the other evening. The Marquis de Dion was the principal speaker. Five thousand people listened to him and applauded to the echo his plea for "a consular republic." The implication, of course, was that Prince Napoleon would be the consul.

Although there is little likelihood of a monarchy, an empire, or even a consular republic in France in the immediate future, there is no doubt whatever that the French people are ripe for another revolution. Nobody is quite satisfied with the present form of Government. Everybody feels no matter what class he belongs to, that he is over-taxed and over-red-taped. There is a general feeling that the real rulers of the country (who are not merely the government but all the members of the two chambers, and far too many for their friends) are much too expensive a luxury.

A Boulanger Could Start Something

If General Boulanger were alive there might easily be a coup d'etat to-morrow. By turning out the congregations, the nominal rulers of France have set the many-headed in power, and they are harder masters than either the priests or even the nobles ever were. The bourgeois is a long suffering animal, but he is beginning to kick against the pricks. The Socialist element has so swelled a head that it demands are rapidly becoming more than the bourgeoise will stand, and in France, when unrest has become as general as it is now becoming, a flare-up is inevitable.

A well-known politician said the other day that war of one kind or another must break out in France within the next five years. His meaning was that if war with another nation did not come to turn people's thoughts away from their home troubles a civil war, with or without bloodshed, a revolution peaceable or otherwise, would be a necessity.

To Wipe Out Hideous Advertisements

Passengers from London to Paris will be delighted at the news that the journey on French soil will be, in all probability, no longer disfigured by the thousands of hideous advertisements that at present line the railway. M. Klotz, the minister of finance, has recently proposed a law by which a prohibitive tax is to be placed upon all such disfiguring boardings. Whereas at present these signboards are merely subject to a fixed tax of from 25 to 50 cents each henceforward, according to the proposed law, the tax will be changed into an annual duty of $75 per square yard of advertisement. The tax will be doubled or trebled if the sign contains two or three announcements. Moreover, the tax upon the land on which the signs are erected is to be increased by the amount of profit which the landlord derives from allowing their erection, so that all possible inducement to let space for the purpose will be removed.

An Innocuous Absinthe.

The French Senate is at the present moment discussing an interesting recommendation of a commission which has recently been conducting an inquiry into the sale of alcoholic liquor in France. The proposal amounts to the suppression of the sale of absinthe in France. At all events though a substance called absinthe would still be sold, it would be comparatively innocuous by the side of the liquor at present sold. Absinthe is made of a variety of herbs, hyssop fennel, sage, aniseed and many others some of which possess an extraordinary dangerous effect, which culminates in epilepsy and convulsions.

Scientific inquiry has established beyond a doubt that these toxic properties all derive from the presence of a common element "thyone." According to M. Lamarzelle, the author of the proposal, this scientific fact reveals an obvious method of combating any disastrous effect which may result from the vastly increased consumption of absinthe in France—namely by the absolute prohibition of the manufacture of any beverage containing "thyone." If the suggestion be adopted, France will be merely following the example of Switzerland Belgium and Holland. The problem will remain, "When is absinthe not absinthe?"

Decrease of the Birthrate

The alarm of French economists and sociologists at the continued decrease in the French birthrate is giving rise to suggestions for legislation which are oddly reminiscent of the Roman empire. The latest would-be reformer is the famous economist M. Paul Leroy-Beaulieu, writing in "L'Economiste Francais." His reasoning is simple. Parents who bring two children into the world are merely doing their duty, and no more, as they but leave two citizens to take the place of two.

But with three children the claim of the parents to a State recompense grows perfectly clear. For them, however, M. Leroy-Beaulieu rejects the generally adopted scheme of a gratuity of $100. He would make the percentage of three children an absolutely essential condition to State employment of any kind. Only when the list of candidates with this qualification is exhausted should civil employment in the government service be thrown open. The proposal is an almost exact revival of one of the Augustan laws. It would probably meet with exactly the same measure of success.

HOW TO KEEP FACE YOUNG AND ATTRACTIVE.

(National Hygienic Review.

The way to ward off old age is not to fear it, not to allow one's self to be oppressed by the dread of advancing years. Use only legitimate preventives and avoid trying experiments with preparations not endorsed by physicians. An entirely safe and very effective way to keep the complexion young and beautiful looking is to apply ordinary mercolized wax at bedtime, using it like cold cream washing it off in the morning. This gradually absorbs the withered, faded cuticle, which is replaced by the more youthful, pink tinted underskin. One ounce of this wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to completely rejuvenate a worn-out complexion.

Wrinkles and flabbiness of cheek and chin, the first signs of advancing age may be lessened by a simple, harmless preparation made by dissolving an ounce of powered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. It is used as a face bath.

CANADA'S EXAMPLE

ing, will be difficult to settle. Compulsory defensive schemes, applicable to all the Dominions, are regarded here as frankly impossible, and would be opposed as steadfastly in London as elsewhere.

MOST POPULAR MAN.

The moderate Liberal opinion is admirably summed up by the Westminster Gazette, which says: "We have the greatest possible expectation of good result from Mr. Borden's mission, though, in saying it, we do not necessarily mean that every part of the problem to be considered can be completely solved at this moment."

Canada's Premier has suddenly become the most popular man in London, and he would be the social lion of the hour if he permitted himself to be lionized. He is quietly doing his work, minding his own business, avoiding interviewers, and keeping his own counsel. Hon. Geo. E. Foster, on the contrary, is seeking the limelight, conspicuously allying himself with the aggressive Tories, and is delighting the Primrose League dames and party organizers by his picturesque oratory.

SPOKE HIS OWN DOOM.

In Spite of His Caution an Innocent Remark Condemned Him.

The father of Gueau de Reverseaux had been a distinguished lawyer, and through his influence he held important offices under the government. When the revolution began he gave up his office at La Rochelle and retired to Chartres.

From the time that the revolution began Gueau de Reverseaux devoted his attention exclusively to preserving his own safety. He wrote no letters. H would receive no letters. He saw no visitors and paid no visits. He spoke to no person and allowed no one to come near him. It would have been impossible to be more prudent than he was.

However, he wanted some sheds built on his farm near Chartres and ventured to consult a carpenter. The carpenter told him that he could not undertake the work immediately, as Gueau de Reverseaux wished, because most of his workmen were drafted to join the army at once.

Gueau de Reverseaux replied: "The workmen need not go. They can send substitutes."

This remark was heard by the workmen, but only the first phrase made any impression on them. They reported everywhere that M. Gueau de Reverseaux, who must be good authority, had said that they need not go. The news went to headquarters that Gueau de Reverseaux declared that the drafted workmen need not obey the government. This was considered to be conspiracy, and he was condemned to death and executed.

Who He Was.

A traveler saw a woman take a man by the collar, yank him up the steps into a railroad car, jam him down into a seat, pile up a valise and two big brown baskets with loose covers and long handles at his feet and say:

"Now, sit there until I help Mary Jane on the car, and don't move till I come back."

When the woman reached the door the traveler said to her:

"Is that man your husband?"

"Naw!" roared the woman. "He's my daughter's husband, and she hasn't spirit enough to say her soul is her ——."

What Impressed Him.

"What impressed you most in our great city?" asked the native.

"Well," replied the man from the small town, "I've been here for a week and I noticed that nobody wears Sunday clothes on Monday." — Cincinnati Enquirer.

MONTREAL is growing at the rate of 40,000 people a year

MONTREAL'S densely populated districts extend 5 miles to the west, 4½ miles to the east, and 6½ miles to the north and there are scattered sections beyond these limits

Now Look to the South

BELLEVILLE

[ST. LAMBERT]

BELLEVILLE is 3 miles from the centre of Montreal. It is reached in 20 minutes from the centre of the city, and is guaranteed to be high, dry and suitable for building purposes. Cars run there every 20 minutes for a 5 cent fare.

Land within the three mile radius of Montreal, which touches Belleville includes Westmount, Outremont, and Maisonneuve, where lots cannot be bought for under $1,000 each. Yet Belleville lots can be purchased for from $225 each, payable 10 p. c. cash and the balance by small monthly payments.

The reason for this is that Belleville is on the South shore, and the South shore in the past has been like Cinderella. Although it is the most beautiful residential section round Montreal, the other sections all got good transportation systems, whilst the South shore, separated by the Victoria Bridge, could not get anything but a slow train service.

To-day all that is changed. Cinderella has come into her own. The South shore has a perfect system of Electric cars One line runs to within a few minutes of Belleville, whilst a new line, almost completed, runs right along the whole of one side of the property.

These lines have been operating for less than two years, yet in that time the South shore has quadrupled its population.

Belleville is in the finest possible location for an investment. It immediately adjoins St. Lambert, which is now practically all sold and built on, and investors there will see their money double and treble within a very few months.

Fill in the coupon to-day and send it to us. You will then receive particulars which will enable you to judge for yourself.

BEN TILLETT'S STORY

ENGLISH STRIKE LEADER RAN AWAY AT SEVEN YEARS.

Left an Orphan at Two the Generalissimo of the London Dockers Had a Hard Time of It In His Early Days and Had to Gain an Education After Working a Twelve-Hour Day—Gave Life to Workers.

They call him a firebrand, an agitator who seeks to stir up class hatred, a man with "Fight at any price" as his motto, and one who is never so happy as when he is creating turmoil in the industrial world. That is the character they give Ben Tillett —to thousands in the East End of London he is addressed merely as "Ben" — the dockers' secretary and the leading figure in the latest great transport strike. I told him this as we sat in his modest office at the Dockers' Union, a few days ago, and chatted about his work, struggles and ambitions, says a London interviewer.

"Ah, well," he replied, with that quiet, characteristic smile of his, "hard words break no bones, and after twenty-five years of work in the cause of labor one's susceptibilities are not easily affected. I have been accused of worse than that. I remember shortly after the dock [illegible] I was travelling to Cardiff, and in the same carriage was a working man who was confidently informing a fellow-passenger that I was making good business out of the dockers, and had $50,000 in the bank. At that time I was probably poorer than I had ever been—not only in pocket, but in health and general physique. And I have not improved much since then.

"The same accusation was made against me last year, on the occasion of the transport strike. It was even suggested by some petrol consumers that I was in the pay of the Oil Trust, or that I was a secret agent of a few millionaires. As a matter of fact, the money I got out of striking a blow for the dock-laborers wouldn't pay my doctor's bill for the last illness I had."

In all such accusations, however, Ben Tillett only sees the humorous side. He has a rare bump of humor; that is why he is so popular with men, women, and children of the East End, and he laughed heartily as he told me of some of the contents of his letter-bag.

"It is no unusual thing," he said, "for scores of abusive letters to reach me every morning. One anonymous writer threatened me with a quart of vitriol, signed himself 'Anti-Socialist,' and drew under his signature a rude diagram of a coffin. Another, signing himself 'Cromwell,' asked, 'What have you done to be a dictator?' and yet another, running on the same lines, asserted that 'We'll have no more Cromwells in this [illegible]'"

[illegible] bodes no good for Ben Tillett, but, whether we agree or disagree with his opinions and actions, anyone who talks with him cannot fail to be impressed with his earnestness, his knowledge of the masses, and his ambition to make their lives healthier, brighter, and happier. Perhaps the following extract from one of his speeches furnishes, better than words, the keynote of his character and aims:

"I would say to all our enemies, to those who decry us in the press, from the pulpit, from the platform, or in Parliament, 'If you can do better than we are doing, do not sneer. If you mean well, give us the benefit of your better education, of your larger experience. Show us a better way. But until you do, we shall believe more firmly than ever that our course is the right one. We want the women and the men, the best in the country, to come to us and help, to make us better men, to make our homes better, and by their example to show us that there is a real live religion'."

"Only those," he said to me, "who have lived and worked with the laboring classes know the hardships of their lives. I was the youngest but one of fifteen children, and my mother died when I was two years of age. Just enough to keep body and soul together — that is all we had, and things were so bad that at seven years of age I actually ran away, got on board a vessel, and went to America and back. And when I returned I got a job in a brickyard. That is forty-six years ago, and I have been living and working with the laboring classes ever since."

"You have been a docker yourself, Mr. Tillett?"

"Yes; but this was after I had worked on a fishing smack, with a bootmaker, joined the navy, been invalided out, and spent some time in the merchant service. However, I ultimately settled down at the docks, worked twelve hours a day carrying weights, and picked up my education by burning the midnight oil for a few hours each night. But it was a hard and precarious existence at the docks. You might get five or six hours' work a day at fourpence an hour, or you might only get one hour. Owing to the dock strike of 1889, the rate of pay was raised to sixpence an hour."

"With reference to your self-education, Mr. Tillett. Which books interested and influenced you most?"

"I read anything I could get hold of at first—newspapers, story books, and any odd literature. Like a good many other people, I was and am still passionately fond of Dickens. The characters of the underworld in his books fascinated me. I loved, too, the adventurous stories of Mayne Reid and the romances of Scott. But later the seriousness of life appealed to me, and I read with avidity the writings of Mill, Holyoake, and Morris, and came under the influence of Bradlaugh and Mrs. Besant. The grievances of my fellow-workers greatly impressed me, and I threw myself into the struggle of 1889. I developed an aptitude for organization and public speaking, and—well, the rest you know."

DARING YEGGMEN.

Ways of the Most Desperate and Cunning of Burglars.

BLOWING OPEN A BANK SAFE.

Nitroglycerin Is the Explosive Used, and Wet Blankets Help to Deaden the Sound—Making the "Soup" Is a Perilous Part of the Business.

Of all the thieves and crooks that operate in the country the yeggman, or bank burglar, is the most cunning and systematic and in the majority of cases the most desperate. Some people have an idea that a common tramp housebreaker is a yeggman, but that is far from the truth. In nine cases out of ten yeggmen are intelligent, educated men. There is a bond between them as strong as that which unites any brotherhood or union in the country.

There are not more than fifty good yeggs in the United States. To be successful the yegg must understand every little detail of the work, because a slip usually means a life. When a man becomes too old or is disabled or for any other cause cannot remain an active member of his gang he then instructs the younger and less experienced members. In all the time that I have been connected with bank investigations, says a yegg hunter in the New York Sun, I have never known of a case in which one yeggman double crossed another, and I don't think that can be said of any other branch of thiefdom. I will explain some of the methods used by the yeggs, also some used by the investigators.

Four or five men usually make up a gang, and these gangs are scattered over the whole country, each having its own territory. For instance, one gang had the territory between Albany and Boston on the Boston and Albany road. In that case the members would be scattered out along the road between Boston and Albany looking for a bank or postoffice which may be easily blown. It sometimes takes them six months or even a year to locate the job and get everything in readiness for the "touch off," as they call it. One successful job with these men equals a great many small hauls that other thieves make.

When the job is spotted the gang is called together, and every detail is gone over and the plans are mapped out. Each member looks over the bank, and the discussion of methods sometimes lasts a week. I once knew of a gang operating in Indiana who were in doubt about a job and who sought advice from a gang in Maine. That probably took three or four weeks. I mention this to show that they absolutely will not "turn a trick" if there is the least doubt about its success.

After the job is located and their plans are settled the next thing they do is to get the tools and make their preparations. Common yellow soap, fuse, caps and nitroglycerin are needed. The soap, fuse and caps are easily obtained at any hardware or grocery, but the nitroglycerin is not so easy to get. If no other method is available it must be taken out of dynamite sticks, and that is almost an art in itself, being a very dangerous process.

For an ordinary shot they take five five-pound sticks of dynamite to make enough nitroglycerin, or "soup," as they call it, for the job. The utensils consist of two lard cans and a quart whisky bottle. The bottom is knocked out of one of the lard cans and holes made all around the sides. A charcoal fire is then built and the lard can is set on it. Then the other can is filled half full of water and placed on the first. The water is allowed to become lukewarm, and then the sticks of dynamite are placed in the water. The whole affair stands about six hours.

After that time the water is allowed to cool and is then strained through a piece of cheesecloth, after which it is again allowed to stand. In a short time the nitroglycerin rises to the surface and is skimmed off and placed in the bottle. The yeggs call this process "making soup." Several times it has resulted seriously, and in one instance, when it blew the operator's arm off, it led to the capture of two of the best men in what was known as the B. and F. H. gang.

It sometimes takes as many as three shots to blow a safe. Four holes are drilled around the combination knob, and the nitroglycerin is poured in the holes, soap funnels being used. A dynamite cap and fuse are then attached, wet blankets are thrown over the safe, and the shot is touched off. The men inside throw themselves face downward on the floor.

After the smoke has cleared the safe is sometimes found ready to be rifled. Often there is a strong box which the first shot does not harm. In that case a second and sometimes a third shot must be fired off in the same manner as the first.

In case the citizens hear the explosion the men who are watching outside give the inside men the alarm and endeavor to hold the town at bay, giving their inside pals a chance for a clean getaway with the plunder.

He Understood.

"You must always be nice to your little playmates."

"I know. I've got my lesson all right, ma. I'm just beating them around a bit trying to teach them that they've got to be nice to me too."—Detroit Free Press.

Liberty will not descend to a people; a people must raise themselves to liberty.—Colton.

DEATH BY PRESSING.

One of the Horrible Modes of Torture In the Middle Ages.

One of the judicial penalities in the middle ages was death by pressing. Strictly speaking, this manner of death was not a penalty, but an avoidance of penalty. In the penal practice of the time it was not enough that the person accused of crime for which capital punishment was provided should be convicted by the testimony of witnesses. His own acknowledgment of guilt was necessary. If the [illegible] by witnesses and [illegible] confessed then only was a true conviction obtained. In this case the goods of the criminal as well as his life were forfeit to the law. The pressing, the "peine forte et dure" of the old penal law, was designed as a means of extorting a confession. The sufferer of this exercise administered by the sworn tormentors was stripped and laid upon the dungeon floor with a jagged stone under him. Over him was laid a door, and upon this platform was laid a mass of stones up to and past the weight which the human frame could endure. On the first day he was fed with three morsels of moldy bread, on the second with three sips of water and thus in alternation so long as life remained. During all this suffering the tormentors awaited his confession.

It is of record that as late as 1650 in England a Mrs. Clitheroe died silent under the pressure rather than allow her property to be taken from her family.

In the older accounts of the Salem witchcraft it is said that Giles Corey in 1692 was pressed to death, but that whole episode is involved in obscuration.—New York Sun.

SNAKES ARE STUPID.

The Reptiles May Be Tamed, but They Cannot Be Trained.

One cannot train or teach snakes to do anything whatever. Their brain power is so limited that the marvel is how they have ever managed to survive in the great competition, especially when one finds that they are still on the "ascending curve" of evolution. Most of them can be tamed to some extent by constant human companionship and judicious handling (some species very much more readily than others). When they have learned to trust, to appreciate the fact that there is no necessity for self defense, then they may be trusted, a principle which applies to most animals, and there the scope and possibility of their education come to an end.

After that the most that a skillful exhibitor can do with them is to adapt himself and his actions to their movements, which by familiarity he can pretty nearly anticipate, so that these may appear purposive and intelligent. He may affect to listen to the serpent's counsel, or receive its kiss on his lips if its head inclines in an upward direction, or to lure it from one hand to the other, or to guide it to some given spot, should it by chance glide horizontally or downward, just as the Indian snake charmer takes deceptive advantage of the natural defiant attitude of the well nigh untamable cobra de capello.—Chambers' Journal.

Men's Evening Clothes.

Many severe things have been said of the inartistic qualities of man's dress in modern times, so that it comes as a pleasing surprise to hear a word spoken in its defense by no less an authority than Antonio de la Gandara, the portrait painter. "In the first place," he says, "people dress very well in these days. Thus, as regards the men, think of their evening dress clothes! [illegible] the sober ones, the perfect harmony! One dazzling point alone in the whole costume, the white surface of the shirt front, and all else is black—nothing but black. Do you know anything more beautiful? Never, possibly, has man's dress been nobler. In a century's time it will be said, 'With what perfect art men of that time used to dress!'"—New York World.

The Old Tableboard.

Perhaps no great difference exists between any mode of the olden times and that of today than can be seen in the manner of serving the meals of the family. In the first place the very dining table of the colonists was not like our present ones. It was a long and narrow board, sometimes but three feet wide, with no legs attached to it. It was laid on supports or trestles, shaped something like a sawhorse. Thus it was literally a board and was called a tableboard, and the linen cover used at meals was not called a tablecloth, but a boardcloth or board clothes.

Cause of the Row.

Mrs. Popley—For goodness' sake, what's the matter with Willie? Mr. Popley (from the bathroom)—Oh, he wants the earth. Mrs. Popley—Wants the earth? Mr. Popley—Yes; at least that portion of it that I'm trying to wash off his hands and face.—Philadelphia Press.

Sidestepped.

"You can't sit up with my daughter after 11 o'clock."

"Would you mind telling her that, sir? I have been trying to get home early for six months."—Life.

Very Much Married.

Waitress—Have another glass, sir? Husband (to his wife)—Shall I have another glass, Friedrike? Wife (to her mother)—Shall he have another, mother?—Fliegende Blatter.

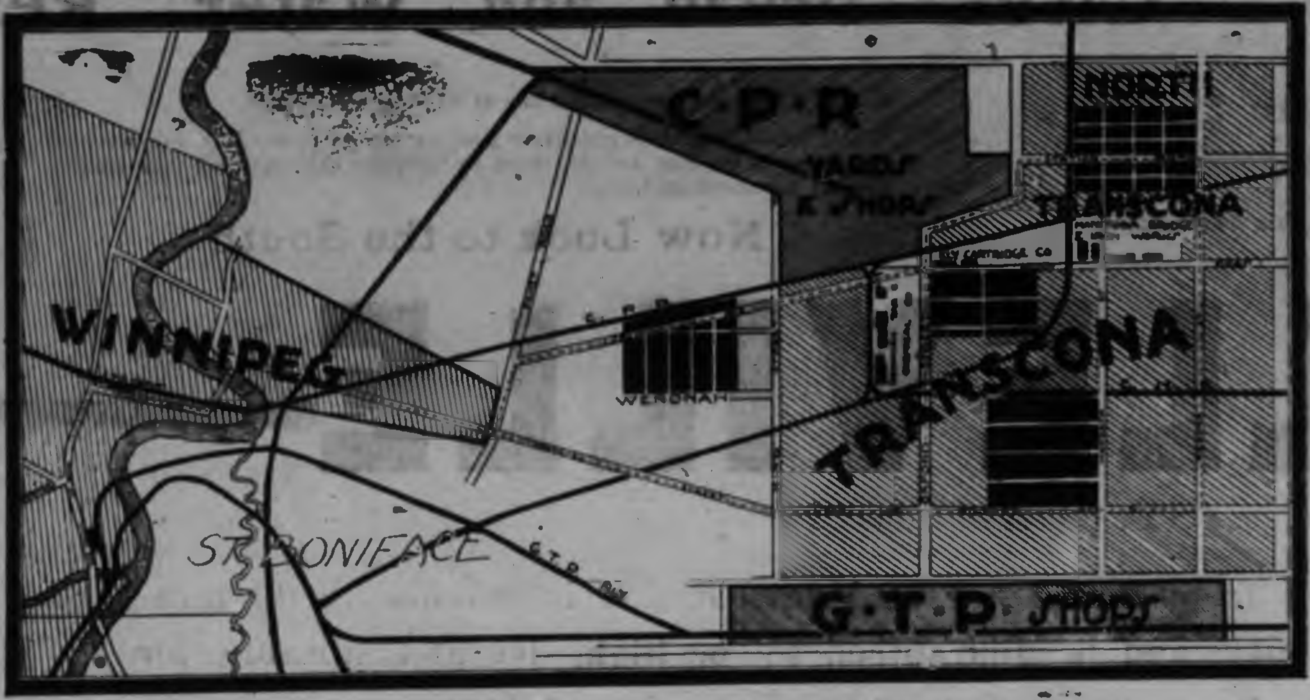
Humility hath depressed many a genius to a hermit, but never raised one to fame.—Shenstone.

Scotch Rivalry.

Glasgow and Edinburgh are, in the "popular" mind, regarded as rivals eternally criticising each other—Glasgow's sneering at Edinburgh's "genteel pride" and Edinburgh sneering at Glasgow's "commercial taint" and her smoky, sunless atmosphere. Princes street is regarded by many travelled people as the finest street in the world, but it was a Glasgow man who called it "only hauf a street," because the buildings are all on one side.—London Athenaeum.

Fools the Snakes.

The Bengal grosbeak builds a nest shaped like a bottle and always selects for its support a long, lithe limb overhanging a stream of water. The entrance is beneath, and, from the situation and peculiar shape, it is absolutely impossible for a snake to gain admission to the nest. One naturalist records seeing fourteen attempts on the part of serpents to get at the nest, but the hungry snakes always fall off into the water.



Take Our Advice and Invest in Transcona To-day

Winnipeg's Railway and Industrial Centre

TRANSCONA is rapidly becoming the recognized manufacturing centre of Winnipeg, and will be to Winnipeg what Toronto Junction is to Toronto.

The Grand Trunk Pacific are rushing to complete their immense shops at Transcona, one unit of theses are already finished, the machinery is now being tested, and in a few weeks' time one thousand men will be employed permanently and other sections will be pleted as rapidly as possible, and will give employment to a small army of mechanics.

The C. P. R. are now building the largest railway yard in the world at Transcona, together with elevators, round houses and other terminal facilities. Several industrial plants are alreadv located in Transcona, and many others will be located there in the near future. The Dominion Tar and Chemical Co., and the Elv Cartridge Companv now have their plants in operation. The Manitoba Bridge and Iron Works are building an enormous plant, and expect to have a part of it completed bv the first of the year.

The G. T. P. shops will give employment to four or five thousand men, and in the near future the C. P. R. will require full- one thousand mechanics and yard men and the several manufacturing plants will require sufficient men to bring the total number of employees in Transcona up to fifteen thousand, this will mean a city with a population of over fifty thousand people.

Transcona has been incorporated, a progressive Council elected, and contracts have been already let for several mile of sidewalks, streets graded, electric light, and the question of sewage is now under consideration.

Investors who buv in Transcona to-dav will make large profits. Real estate values in Transcona are exceptionally low, considering the possibilities of this young City. Lots that we are now offering for $5.00 per ft. and upwards will be worth from $100.00 to $300.00 per ft., in less than five years' time.

Any Investor can make 100 p.c. or more on their money in a very short time by investing in Transcona Lots.

The Sea Anemone.

The sea anemone resembles in shape a morning glory. Its mouth opens like the cup of that flower, and above it are seen a number of tentacles waving in the water. Its food consists of anything it can get, but generally it gets the minute insects that float in the sea. At any alarm it closes its cup and is then hardly distinguishable from the rock on which it is rooted. It has a set of sucker muscles that attach it so firmly to the rock that it will sometimes be torn in pieces rather than let go.

Good Gifts.

The blessedness of giving is not limited to checks and bank bills. There are gifts that far transcend these—gifts of patience, sympathy, thought and counsel, and these are gifts that the poorest can give.—Lilian Whiting.

Mme. de Maintenon.

Once when Mme. de Maintenon, who had risen from the gutter to grandeur, was looking pensively in the golden pool at Versailles her companion, noting the fish in the crystal water, observed, "How languid the carp are." "Yes," replied the famous beauty, with a sigh, "they are like me; they miss their mud."

Unconscious Humor.

Curate—How did you like the vicar's sermon yesterday morning, Miss Briggs?

Miss Briggs—Oh, Mr. Smiley, I liked yours in the evening much better. The dear vicar is so intellectual!

Descriptive.

"At this point," said the narrator, "she broke down and wept scalding tears."

Tall Lighthouses.

The tallest lighthouse on the British coasts is the Skerryvore, off Argyllshire. It is 140 feet high, contains 4,30? tons of masonry, and cost over $450,000.

Heroism In Animals.

Animals are capable of what we should call heroism in man. In one field was a donkey, in another a horse. Through the first went a mastiff and made for the ass, seized him by the throat, pulled him down, and that so suddenly that the donkey looked likely to be killed. The horse in the next field leaped the hedge dividing the two pastures, collared the dog with his teeth, swung him and, like a baseball player, caught him on the fall—with his heels. The mastiff was whisked over the hedge which the horse had just crossed, and the donkey was left in peace to recover from his wounds.

Wooden Shoes In Holland.

"The wooden shoe," said a native of Holland, "is worn almost exclusively by the peasant classes, and they find them more comfortable than the leather shoes that are worn elsewhere. The foot is clad in a heavy woollen stocking and then slipped into the shoe without fastening. They never fall off because the people are used to wearing them. They would not exchange, because any other kind would not be comfortable. The shoes are of elm wood and cost from 10 to 15 cents of our money. Two pairs will last a year."

The Smallest Book.

The smallest book in the world was made in Italy. It is not much larger than a man's thumb nail. It is four-tenths of an inch in length, a quarter of an inch in width and contains 208 pages, each with nine lines and from 95 to 100 letters. The text consists of a letter written by the inventor of the pendulum clock to Mme. Christine of Lorraine in 1615.

Dislike Male Doctors.

There are about 150,000,000 women in India, and at least two-thirds of these have the most profound objection to be treated by male doctors. To meet the needs of these millions there are only about 600 fully qualified medical women in India, about half of whom are missionaries.

Syrian Name Customs.

In Syria the names of children are very odd. They suggest those of our Indians, inasmuch as the child's name is apt to be something which occurred at the time of its birth—something which interested the parents. For instance, if you were a child of this country your name in all probability would be "Stuffed Cabbage," or "Hotel," or "Civil War," or something akin to these. If a child falls sick his name is immediately changed. Instead of his parents thinking that a piece of pie or too much pudding disagreed with him they attribute his sickness to the fact that his name did not agree with him.

Tobacco Smoke.

Smoke is nothing more than the mixture of finely divided solid matter suspended in air. It is never gas. The exact composition of smoke depends on what is burnt and how it is burned. The hotter the fire in the furnace the better or more complete will be the burning or the combustion of the fuel. This explains why there is more smoke at a freshly lighted fire. And the fact that all smoke is finely divided solid matter shows why it is injurious to inhale tobacco smoke, many of the particles cling to the lung tissues and in time poison the system.

A company for the manufacture of wood alcohol which is likely to locate in Belleville, and with which Mr. J. H. Larmonth is connected, considered Peterborough some time ago, but it was found that the consideration of freight excluded this city. Belleville is soon to vote on a by-law in connection with this company. The wood limits of the company are in the northern part of Hastings county, and Belleville is on a direct line of railway, whereas several lines would have to be used to reach this city.——

JAPANESE BOOK PAPER

This Wonderful Product Is Made by Hand From Plant Fibers.

The Japanese paper which has been found so useful in the making of books that would, if ordinary book paper were used, be too bulky for convenient handling is a distinct variety, having little in common with the American made product. It has a strength of fiber that cannot be produced here, and, as it is handmade, it is more costly than any other kind. This paper is made from the bark of certain Japanese plants, which is cut up into stripe, some of which may be a yard long. These strips are then tied up into bundles and put to soak in a weak solution of lye, by which they are softened sufficiently to be worked without breaking.

The real work of making the paper then begins. The strips of bark are laid flat and separated into fine fibers with a special form of mallet, and this step in the process is so carefully done that the fibers obtained are much longer than those produced in a pulpmaking machine. When the fibers have been separated they are spread out on a sieve. By shaking the mass in the sieve the fibers are swelled out and drained of lye. The Japanese do not use the animal glue found in American papers and which has such a rank odor, but employ instead a cement obtained from the roots of one of their native plants.

When the fibers have been drained and settled down in the sieve and the cement is introduced the pulp is spread on a board with a soft instrument and rubbed down smooth and to the desired thickness, or perhaps thinness would be the better word. The board with its thin coating of pulp is then put out into the sun to dry, and when this has been accomplished the sheet of paper peels off the board as a sheet of remarkably tough paper. The Japanese use this sort of paper instead of window glass. It is also twisted into threads of great strength, which are used in embroidery and other kinds of ornamentation. The native painters, owing to its porousness, find it specially adapted to their colors, and it is unsurpassed for writing on with india ink.

A Bit of a Blow.

"I suppose you have encountered worse gales than this?" asked an inquisitive passenger of the sailor man during a very moderate bit of a blow.

"This yere ain't a gale," responded the salt. "Why, I was onct in the bay o' Biscay when the wind blew all the paint off the bulwarks. It took four on us to 'old the captain's 'at on 'is 'ead, and even then all the ankers was blown off 'is buttons. That was a blow for yer. Why, even"—

But by this time the curious passenger realised that he was being guyed, and he did not give the imaginative tar the chance of finishing his interesting narrative.

Sentiment.

It is the dream, which goes along with the deed, that leaves its imprint on the man and makes most of his personal significance. Sentiment in a practical man is like a border of flowers around a vegetable garden. It makes the garden pleasant for the worker and attractive to the passer. There is sham sentiment, as there is oratory that is only verbiage; but a touch of feeling for what is outside the bread bin, a sympathy with the happy or the sad, an abiding faith, a taste for that which is fair—these are much of a man's worth. They are what help you to know that his life is more than meat and raiment.

Sergeant-Major Under-General French

Veteran of Boer War Who Lost His Health on the Veldt Tells Of Experience.

Good Advice for all Who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders.

In his home at Waldegrove, N.S., no one is better known that Sergt.-Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill-effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergt.-Major writes: "I served under General French during the late Boer War, in the capacity of Sergt.-Major. It was perhaps owing to a continued diet of bully beef, hard tack, and bad water, but at any rate my stomach gave out. I was in such a state that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion and tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cured him. I confess it was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to others and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Quick, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription. 25c per box, five boxes for $1.00, all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Body Recovered.

The body of Harold Feeley, whose sad drowning we recorded in Saturday's Times, has been recovered by Mr. Joseph Levasseur, assisted by the boy's uncle. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the family residence, 271 Romaine street, to the Sacred Heart Church and St. Peter's cemetery.

Was Seriously Injured.

A serious accident occurred on the C.P.R. Friday at Bethany Junction, when Mr. Arthur Martin, son of Mr. John Martin, of Calmer Post office, was badly injured in jumping from the swiftly moving Bobcaygeon special. He sustained a broken nose, a deep scalp wound, requiring nine stitches, and minor injuries to the hips and shoulders.

At Mark Street.

The Sunday evening service for the congregation of Mark street Methodist church, was held on the church lawn. The service was largely one of song and besides the four hymns, and a selection by the choir, Miss Kate Manning, of Oshawa, and Mr. G. W. Mulligan, of this city, gave solos. "One sweetly solemn thought" was the selection chosen as the quartette number.

A Good Record.

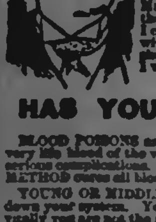
An esteemed subscriber sends The Times the following, which we cordially endorse: "Over nine thousand Orangemen in procession, fully twenty-five thousand strangers in Peterborough last Friday, the 12th inst., and not a single arrest for drunkenness or disorderly conduct. The Orangemen have every reason to be congratulated."

Nearly a Wreck.

While hundreds of Orangemen and their friends were being rushed over the C.P.R. to Peterborough on Friday morning in an eight-coach train, little did they think they were to be saved from a bad wreck. But this is so. They owe their escape solely to the fact that Mr. Albert Reynolds of Springville in walking the track to this city for the occasion, noticed a spread rail, thus averting what might have been an awful catastrophe.

Sixty-Four Years An Orangeman.

The Times had a call on Saturday from Mr. F. J. Armstrong, of Port Hope, who came up to spend the twelfth the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roberts, 335 Sherbrooke street, Mr. Armstrong has been a member of the Orange Order for over 64 years, having assisted in celebrating the 64 anniversaries of the Battle of the Boyne. He is still hale and hearty and is proud of the Order of which he has been so long an active member. His 84 years sits lightly on him and he hopes to live to see many more such gatherings as he witnessed here on Friday last.



VARICOSE VEINS CURED

☞ NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Highwaymen in Springville.

On Thursday a highwayman made his way into John Wilson's residence at Springville through the cellar, and after helping himself to all he could eat, proceeded to see what he could carry away with him, selecting some choice fruits and preserves. The thief next went to Mr. Reynolds general store and commenced to try a Raffle's stunt on the lock, when he was frightened away by Mr. Reynolds, who became aware of what was taking place. The would-be thief proceeded to make haste from danger as rapidly as his pedal extremities would allow.

A Sea Serpent.

The Orillia News-Letter, after relating the experience of an Indian who saw a sea serpent in Lake Couchiching, goes on to enlarge and speculate as follows: That some monster of the deep inhabits these waters there is little doubt. It has been seen on different occasions for a number of years and bobs up serenely at different times before the astonished gaze of a much frightened spectator. The last appearance of the sea serpent was at Barrie, ten years ago, when it was seen by several people, who said it had a head resembling a horse and was about ten feet long.

A Successful Season.

Mr. Richard J. Devey has had a successful season with pupils in both the University and College of Music examinations. All but one achieved honours. Special credit is due to the two young men, Harry Hill and Victor Boorman, who in addition to working 10 hours a day are faithful workers in other lines of city life. The successful students are as follows: Miss Macfarlane (harmony); Miss Duff (piano); Miss Quartermaine (Vocal); Evelyn Muriel Bridge (piano); Cyril Devey (piano); Harry Hill (piano) Victor Boorman, (piano).

A Narrow Escape.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Madill, who have returned from the West, tell the story of Mr. and Mrs. Hipperson's narrow escape. It appears that Mr. and Mrs. Hipperson were at home together, when they suddenly became aware of the swiftly approaching storm. They commenced to go up stairs, but even as they reached the second floor, the roof began to leave the house and they were forced down stairs. The blizzard was then at its very highest. What occurred next was so sudden that neither scarcely knew what took place. They were aware of being thrown to the floor clasped in each others arms, expecting death at any moment. In some marvellous manner they were thrown against the wall of the room and while in this prostrate condition, a high radiator was wrenched from its fastenings in the floor and thrown over them thus forming a protecting shield. Underneath this they lay until the fury of the cyclone had exhausted itself, emerging frightened but entirely unharmed. They discovered the house over their heads to be gone completely, and blown quite a distance away. Everything occurred so rapidly that no perfect knowledge of what had occurred could be grasped, the cyclone came with terrific force, but it lasted scarcely longer than ten seconds.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. The sad death occurred yesterday morning about 11 o'clock of Sarah Dudgeon, wife of Mr. John Watt, 263 Rubidge street, at her late residence. For some time Mrs. Watt had been dangerously ill and her demise although not entirely unexpected has come as a shock to her many friends.

The deceased lady was 58 years of age, and has lived in the city for 30 years, during which time she has been a faithful member of St. Paul's church.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Mr. R. P. Watt of this city, and John of Midland, as well as one daughter, Mrs. J. S. Laing of Montreal. She also leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Mrs. Gardner, Mount Forest, Ont., and Mrs. Scott, of Minnesota, U.S., and two brothers Peter of Guelph and George of Greenslade, Alta.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, 263 Rubidge street, to the Little Lake cemetery. In the absence of the Rev. Mr. Pogue, Rev. Mr. Rollins will officiate.

Mr. J. H. Mowry.

The death occurred last night, about 9.30 o'clock, of Mr. J. H. Mowry, of Elm street. Mr. Mowry's demise came with unexpected suddenness and the sincerest sympathy will be extended to his family.

Mr. Mowry, who was 55 years of age, is widely known in this city, having been employed as a machinist which trade he followed all his life, in Peter Hamilton's, Wm. Hamilton's and the Canadian General Electric Works. For some time previous to and up till his death he was an employe in the works of Mr. G. Walter Green.

He leaves to mourn his loss seven sons, Wm. A., Ruban, R. C., C. C., S. H. and N. S. Mowry of this city, and Milne of Orangeville, and two daughters, Margaret A., of Peterborough, and Miss Minnie Mowry in the West. Five of the sons are married.

Ruptured People—

Try this for Relief and Cure

Here is something you can try sixty days without having to risk a single cent of your money.

Something which has cured—in the last twenty-four years — thousands of ruptured people—

Something so strengthening to the ruptured parts that you can work right along while being cured—

If you don't find yourself getting better after trying a Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager—

If you don't think it's doing you a lot of good—making a new man of you—

Then we don't want a penny.

Try It 60 Days at Our Risk

This is more than a truss — more than merely a device to hold your rupture in place.

For your protection we guarantee in writing that a Cluthe Truss will keep your rupture from coming out—when you are working, exercising, taking a bath (this truss is water-proof)—every minute of the day. If a 60 days' trial doesn't prove it, the truss won't cost you a cent.

You see this truss—unlike all others — is self-adjusting, self-regulating.

The support it gives automatically increases when there is any sudden movement or strain — as in working — so no strain can force your rupture out.

And, in addition, a Cluthe Truss provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

While relieving the weak, ruptured parts of all strain, this Truss is constantly strengthening the ruptured parts.

Does that by automatically massaging them —this healing massage does for these parts what exercise does for a weak arm—restores their lost strength— in many cases makes them so strong that a truss is no longer needed.

Curing Begins at Once

This massage is so beneficial that nearly all feel better and stronger—get immediate relief—after trying this truss.

So beneficial that a Cluthe Truss has cured some of the worst cases on record—

Among them men and women 20 to 70 years old, who had been ruptured from 10 to 30 years.

Cured many of them after everything else, including operations, ha [illegible] to do any good whatever.

Our Expense If It Fails.

You are making the mistake of your life if you let any doubts or past disappointments keep you from finding out what a Cluthe Truss can do for you.

Remember that we ask you to take no chances.

We'll make a truss especially to your case and send it to you and allow you 60 days trial to prove that it will help you—cure you—that it will put an end to the trouble you've heretofore had and improve your condition. If the trial fails to prove this, we'll be the losers, not you.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book.

So that you can judge for yourself, we want to send you a free book we have written—a cloth-bound book of advice. Even physicians who have read it say it is the best book ever written on rupture.

It sums up all we have learned about rupture in forty years of day-after-day experience—in the successful treatment of over 200,000 cases. It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages—explains the dangers of operations—exposes the worthless trusses and the equally worthless makeshifts masquerading under such names as "appliances," "method," "system," "plasters," etc.—puts you on guard against throwing money away on things that cannot stand a fair test.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Truss — how little it costs—how it ends constant expense on account of your rupture — how thousands have found this truss as comfortable as their clothing (no springs or web or elastic band or belt around your waist—no leg straps)—how you can try one 60 days at our risk—thus giving you plenty of time to make sure of its wonderful holding and healing powers and of its water-proof and wearing qualities.

Book sent in plain, sealed envelope. Write for it to-day — don't put it off — this book may be the means of adding many years of your life and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

Just use the coupon or simply say in a letter or postal "Send me the Book." In writing us, please give our box number:

Child Population of Quebec Village Nearly Wiped Out

Montreal, July 15.—The Mayor of Ste Ceclie to-day applied to the city for water, which he said, was necessary to stop the rapid wiping out of the child population of the village which has about 300 inhabitants all told. He said the village used to get water from a river owned by a power company. This was stopped and the people had recourse to a well as a result of which sixty children have died within two weeks. Water was promised the municipality.

Right Food
Works Wonders

It is often the case that people drift into wrong habits of food, although they should know better.

When one gets into trouble of this sort it's a fine thing to know how to get out of it. The "food route" is the common sense way back to health and comfort.

A dish of Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast regularly, helps mightily to put one in mental and physical condition for the day's work.

DEATH AND RUIN IN CLOUDBURST DENVER, SUFFERS MUCH LOSS

HUNDREDS RENDERED HOMELESS AND PROPERTY DAMAGE PLACED AT $1,500,000.

Four Perish in Floods There—Many Sleeping Families in Both Cities Aroused in Time to Save Lives.

St. Louis, July 15.—Four persons were drowned at Alton, Ills., Sunday by a cloudburst, which destroyed two miles of streets, wrecked six buildings, and the gas plant of the Alton Gas and Electric Company, with a total property loss of $250,000.

The cloudburst followed a spectacular storm which lasted all night. A heavy cloud passed over Alton three times, flooding streets and cellars each time. The third time the rain fell in torrents, sending a wall of water nine feet deep through the principal business and residence streets. Sewers broke, washing away tne foundations of six residences which dropped into the cellars.

That more lives were not lost was due to William Doty, who ran through the streets ahead of the water, breaking windows with his bare hands and awakening sleeping families in time to permit them to reach safety.

Denver Also Suffered.

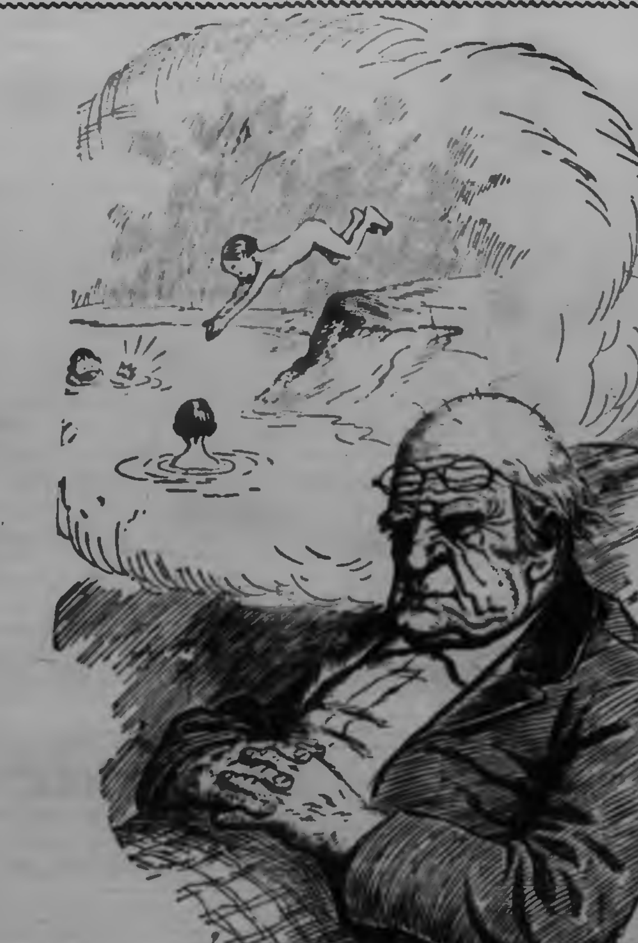
Denver, Col. July 15.—Several hundred men, women and children are homeless, a number of deaths are rumored and a million and a half dollars' worth of property is in ruins here to-day as a result of a cloudburst in the overflow of the shallow bed of Cherry Creek, through this city, from 10 o'clock until midnight last night.

The big city auditorium to-day is a refugee camp. At dawn five hundred of the homeless gathered here, and are being fed by the city. Twenty-five children from six months to six years old, whose parents may have been lost, are in the care of a police matron.

After directing relief and rescue work all night, Mayor Arnold organized relief parties at dawn to begin the search of the course of the flood, which is a trail of wrecked dwellings and other debris heaped in the current of the South Platte River. The flood is without parallel in the history of the city.

Reports along the course of Cherry Creek early to-day indicate an augmentation of the loss of property in the outlying districts.

Had it not been for a note of warning sounded over the telephone from an unknown source to the city hall just before the crest of the flood reached the city many could not have escaped death. Many fled in their night clothes. That many were caught in the flood while sleeping is the general belief.



Who can tell what Grandpa dreams?

LONDON TROOPS CALLED OUT TO CONTROL THE STRIKING DOCKERS

Strikers Who Have Lost There Positions Are Desperate And Threaten Trouble--First Trouble is Caused Since Beginning of Strike

London, July 15.—For the first time since the dockers' strike was declared nine weeks ago troops have been called out to-day to preserve order.

The strikers, many thousands of whom with their families are on the verge of starvation in the east end of London, are approaching the point of desperation, and the authorities, who have been advised of the situation and the necessity for additional precautions to prevent threatened bloody reprisals on the non-unionists workingmen who have taken the places of the strikers this morning ordered several companies of the Irish Guards to march into the disturbed district.

WILL THE SENATE HEED BRITISH PROTEST ?--APPARENTLY NOT

So Says London News--Question Should Go to Arbritation But There is a Conflict of Opinion

London, July 15.—In an editorial on the Panama Canal Bill The Daily News, the principal ministerial organ, says that apparently the United States Senate means to pass the bill without heed of the British Government's protest, adding:

"Perhaps the Senators think that in its present form the bill makes no distinction, and it certainly is obscure enough to stand very divers interpretations. That, however, is not a satisfactory attitude, for if the Senators do not wish to discriminate surely they ought to make their intention as clear in the bill as possible.

Conflict of Opinion.

"It is more probable that they think Congress has the right to discriminate under the Hay-Paunceofote treaty. That is not the British view and we have a conflict of opinion as to the meaning of the international agreement.

"There is only one permissable way to dispose of this conflict, and that is by arbitration. Neither America or Great Britain wishes to violate any engagement and both countries are anxious to carry out its agreement in the spirit and in the letter where there is a difference of opinion as to their true character.

"The obvious solution is to submit the issue to an impartial judge. That course should be taken if the bill, as it leaves Congress, turns out to be in conflict with the British view bearing on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty."

The Senate to-day voted by 40 to 34 to make the Panama Canal bill unfinished business.

This substantially refuses Britain's request that the bill be held up pending diplomatic negotiations

An effort to put Democlatic tariff legislation ahead was lost.

MANY RURAL MAIL ROUTES FOR EAST PETERBOROUGH

Yesterday, Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M. P., left the city in an auto, accompanied by an official of the Post Office Department, Ottawa, for the purpose of laying out a number of rural mail routes in the east riding. These routes will cover most of the leading highways of Otonabee, Douro Dummer and Asphodel. Later on, as soon as circumstances will permit it is expected that the service will be extended to the northern portions of the riding. Already the west riding is partially served by daily mail, to which further additions will be made from time to time. Both Mr. Burnham and Mr. Sexsmith are pressing for rural mail delivery in new districts. Their efforts in this direction as will be seen by the above, are meeting with every success.

WILL CANADA'S AID TO THE NAVY AMOUNT TO $7,500,000

London, July 15.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes an apparently inspired message which says the naval arrangements will provide for $7,500,000 as a minimum contribution to the navy by Canada. In return Canada has not put forward any requests, but it understood that the British Government will do its best to meet Canada's requirements in regard to certain transportation matters such as the granting of the subsidy towards a steamship line between Canada and the West Indies, also a subsidy towards an all red route steamship line, which has already occupied the public attention in both hemispheres. In the latter case a sum suggested was $1,000,000 a year on condition that the money shall not be given to any line now in existence.

THE ORANGE CELEBRATION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—There was just one failure in connection with the Orange celebration in this city on Friday last. I refer to the noise and disorder in the park, when the speechifying was in progress. I would suggest in future that a stop be put to this. If the brethren like the sound of their fifes and drums better than they do the addresses, they should be asked to go to some other place for the purpose. Thousands were disappointed in not being able to hear the speakers on Friday, on account of the noise made by drums. Surely this might be prevented in future.

While writing I might say to the Orangemen that many are of opinion that the time has come when the 12th should be celebrated every year in Peterborough. There are many reasons to favor this: It is the only place in the district that possesses the facilities for handling big crowds. It has the hotels, eating-houses, parks and above all, is easily accessible on account of its splendid railway facilities.

As a large majority of the Orangemen not only of the city, but also of the district read The Times, I hope they will take this matter up, so that we may look forward to a repetition each year of the magnificent demonstration of Friday last.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 360 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:
25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.
Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

Wouldn't Work Nowadays.

The Egyptians had a very remarkable ordinance to prevent persons from borrowing improdently. An Egyptian was not permitted to borrow without giving to his creditors in pledge the body of his father. It was deemed both an impiety and an infamy not to redeem so sacred a pledge. A person who died without discharging that duty was deprived of the customary honors paid to the dead.

The Hall Not the Only One.

At a mass meeting in a small country town a large quantity of refreshments were distributed to keep the audience in a good humor. The first speaker rose after the noise had ceased to some extent and began his speech by saying:

"The old hall is full to-night," but here his voice was drowned by the confusion. When it had subsided he began again by saying:

"The old hall is full to-night."

He paused for a rhetorical effect, and a thick voice in the back of the hall said slowly and deliberately:

"So is old Bill Horn."

The meeting then broke up.

Vision as Evidence.

In a hearing in the Dumfries sheriff's court to establish presumption of death in the case of an English emigrant to Australia the testimony of a relative to the effect that she had seen him in a vision in circumstances suggesting his decease was admitted as evidence.

Judging Her Appetite.

Very Stout Old Lady (watching the lions fed)—'Pears to me, mister, that ain't a very big piece of meat for such an animal.

Attendant—It may seem like a small piece of meat to you, ma'am, but it's big enough for the lion.

A DUEL IN BALLOONS.

Curious Aerial Battle Fought by Two Frenchmen in 1808.

In this day of the development in aeronautics it may be interesting to recall the first duel that was ever fought in the air. It took place in 1808 and, as might have been expected, occurred in France. M. de Grandpre and M. le Pique had a quarrel arising out of jealousy concerning a lady engaged in the Imperial Opera.

They agreed to fight a duel to settle their respective claims, and in order that the heat of angry passion should not interfere with the polished elegance of the proceeding they postponed the duel for a month, the lady agreeing to bestow her smiles on the survivor. The duelists were to fight in the air.

Two balloons were constructed exactly alike. On the day of the duel De Grandpre and his second entered the car of one balloon, Le Pique and his second the other. This was in the garden of the Tuileries, amid a big crowd of spectators. The men were to fire, not at each other, but at each other's balloon, in order to bring them down by the escape of gas. As pistols would hardly have served for this purpose, each aeronaut took a blunderbuss in his car.

At a given signal the ropes holding the balloons were cut, and up they went into the air. The wind was nearly moderate and kept the balloons in their respective positions, about eighty yards apart. When about half a mile up in the air the preconcerted signal for firing was given. M. le Pique fired, but missed. M. de Grandpre fired and sent a ball through Le Pique's balloon. The balloon collapsed, the car descended with frightful rapidity, and Le Pique and his second were dashed to pieces.

De Grandpre continued his ascent and terminated his aerial voyage at a distance of seven leagues from Paris. History does not state whether he was rewarded by the hand of the lady for whose sake the duel had been fought. —New York Herald.

TIMELY PRECAUTIONS.

How to Properly Care For Food In Hot Weather.

Protection of food after it comes into the house is a matter of vital importance at all times, but is especially urgent in summer, when a few hours of continuous bacterial activity may produce certain malignant poisons, termed ptomaines, in the food supply. Thousands of cases of acute illness are occasioned annually by eating canned meat or fish, due undoubtedly to ptomaines contained in the meat either before the canning process or that have developed afterward, owing to imperfect sterilization. Canned food is not the only source of this poison. For instance, meat, fish, shellfish and ice cream have been known to cause ptomaine poisoning.

To guard against the degeneration of food after it comes under the housekeeper's care a low temperature, such as a refrigerator furnishes, is of first importance. When this is not available a cool, clean cellar, a spring-house or suspension in a well may be resorted to. When these methods are not feasible all perishable food should be cooked before there is any possible chance of spoiling.

The presence of bacterial life in food caused by decomposition is not the only danger to which it may be subjected. The lodging of even minute quantities of dust on the surface of food left uncovered in kitchen, pantry, cellar or other places where there is a possibility of atmospheric impurities settling upon its surface may carry disease producing germs into the system. The storage places for food should be clean, well ventilated, dry, as free as possible from dust and of a temperature sufficiently low to discourage decomposition, and all food should be carefully covered. Each article of food has its individual requirements for preservation, and familiarity with these should be part of the special knowledge of every housekeeper.

Record prices were realised at the auction sale which succeeded the Evesham annual asparagus show. The bundle which took the challenge cup weight 18 pounds 4 ounces, and was bought for ten guineas.

Blunt.

A Scotchman once took dinner at a house and regarded the meal as inadequate. As he was leaving his host asked him when he would dine with him again. "Now," was the startling reply.

His Act of Charity.

Mrs. Henpeque—So you did an act of charity to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of our wedding.

Mr. Henpeque—Yes; I refused a raise of salary to one of my clerks who wanted to get married.

PLUCK OF A DEER.

A Big Buck That Was More Than a Match For a Cougar.

It seems to be generally assumed that wild animals of different species keep the peace, but now and then the experience of some woodsman strikingly disproves this peaceful view of forest life.

Two sportsmen made a trip to the Kettle river region, in the state of Washington, and in the course of the shooting witnessed a rare occurrence.

They had been on the trail of a large buck for some time and, as it chanced, came in sight of him at the very moment when a cougar launched himself upon the buck from the limb of a tree. The cougar landed squarely on the buck's shoulders, almost throwing him to the ground.

The buck quickly recovered and, throwing back his head, drove two prongs of his antlers into the cougar's body and with a swing forward threw him to the ground. Leaping backward, he then waited with lowered head for a second attack.

With a yell of rage and pain the cougar sprang upon him. He might as well have leaped against an array of bayonets, for he was caught on the buck's antlers and buried several feet into the air.

The instant he struck the ground the buck was upon him, striking savagely with his forefeet, which cut like knife blades, and driving his antlers again and again into his body.

Finally they separated, and the cougar crawled forward for the final struggle. The deer was wounded, but still in excellent fighting trim. The hunters interfered. One of them walked up to the cougar and shot it through the heart.—Exchange.

Sea Level and Tides at Panama.

The average sea level of the Pacific ocean and the Caribbean sea, at opposite sides of the isthmus of Panama, is the same. This is the mean or average levels of the two waters during all days of the year. But there is a great difference in tides. The Caribbean tides are faint, rarely exceeding two feet, while the tides in the Pacific at Panama are not pacific, for they at times rise ten feet and sink ten feet below normal undisturbed sea level. Without tide locks, currents would alternately rush in the canal from south to north entering, and from north to south escaping.—New York American.

A Political Pointer.

"A president has to eat a good deal these times."

"What do you mean?"

"The chief executive has to attend a great many banquets and the like."

"Seems so. What about it?"

"I was just thinking that the next president ought to recognize the growing importance of this social side of the job and appoint an addition to the cabinet in the shape of a toastmaster general."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Great Scott!" replied the sadly flippant youth. "You're not trying to pick dark horses that far ahead, are you?"—Washington Star.

THE LEADERSHIP OF WOODROW WILSON.

Practically the unanimous opinion of the American press is the nomination of Woodrow Wilson means that the Democratic party, after being in a helpless minority for sixteen years, again faces its adversary with more than equal chances of success. As a matter of fact, the country realizes that ter of fact, the country realizes that the Democracy is born again, and has found a new and inspiring leadership which may write a new chapter in American palitics.

"Under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson," says the New York Globe, "the party is likely to make a gain in character and support equaling or exceeding that which came to it with the nomination of Cleveland. As Cleveland was attractive to the business element and did much to overcome the prejudice that his party was unsafe and dangerous, so Wilson is attractive to those, dominant in the Republican party during its earlier days, accustomed to look at political questions from the moral point of view, In the reaction against the Democracy of Cleveland, with its over-sympathy with wealth and the established order, the party swept into the blind and unintelligent revolt of 1896 and wrecked itself. But it now seems to have slughed off the excesses of that period while clinging to everything substantive and practical in the Bryan programme, and has a fair chance of securing acceptance of itself as the recognized party of rational progressiveness."

MODERN WARFARE.

At the naval review off Spithead the other day, Hon. Mr. Borden and the Canadian ministers with him, witnessed a demonstration of the very latest methods of modern warfare, which included an attack on the fleet by submarines and which was successfully defeated by hydroplanes. It must have been a most interesting spectacle. The hydroplanes were handled with ease in a twenty knot breeze, and darted about in the air like fishhawks, intent upon discovering the approaching submarines. When a submarine was discovered, which seemed to be a matter of comparative ease, the hydroplanes notified the nearest warship by wireless telegraphy, and then proceeded to swoop down on it and endeavour to put it out of business by dropping explosives. The combat must have resembled an encounter between a flock of eagles and a school of porpoises. And still it is said that modern warfare does not lend itself to the picturesuqe.

Editorial Notes

If every winter is the coldest every summer is the hottest ever. So what becomes of the doctrine that the earth is cooling? The theory must have taken a vacation.

You Can't Cure Catarrh By Swallowing Drugs

Cough Syrup, Tablets and Sprays Sicken the Stomach But Don't Reach the Germs of Catarrh—Hence Their Failure to Help.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to route out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal, and cure.

Catarrhozone has entirely displaced the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, sprays, tablets, and sedative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and drowsy narcotics so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrhal remedies.

Couldn't Breathe — "Catarrhozone" Cured.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago," writes Mr. G. E. Root, a well-known resident of Bridgetown, W.I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone last two months, price $1.00 smaller sizes 25c and 50c. All reliable dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., of Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada

At a recent gathering of school teachers in the United States the moving picture business was suggested as a method of teaching children geography, morality, and a few other things. In London, England, a man has a patent on an instrument for children to "see through their ears." Most of us regret the fact that we were born too soon for these luxuries.

Now, here's apretty thing suggested by the seasonal prevalence of fly-swatting:

A Fly flew into a grocery store,
It lit on the ceiling, it lit on the floor
It lit on the sugar, it lit on the ham—
It didn't care a damn for the Grocery
Man—
The grocery man flew into a rage,
And the Fly flew out the door,
But outside the fly encountered a lustyyouth with a swatter, and he swatted it hiv and thigh; and, at that swat the potential progenitor of a billion flies was not.

RESULTS OF EXAMINATIONS

various centres in the County of Peterborough, appear below. In connection therewith a few general remarks may be in place. It will be observed that the proportion of successful candidates is much smaller than usual, there being 87 from a total of 210, while last year there were 126 from a total of 190. The most of the failures this year were owing to inability to make the total mark of 390 required to pass. Of those who were successful in making this total, only 8 failed in individual subjects. Of these five failed in Geography, 2 in Arithmetic, and 1 in both Geography and Arithmetic. Of candidates trained at the Village schools, 11 out of 15 passed at Havelock, 13 out of 14 at Lakefield, and 13 out of 19 at Norwood. One thing very clearly indicated by the results is the general superiority of the work in schools that have been in charge of trained and experienced teachers.

Successful candidates from the village schools will receive their certificates from the principals at the opening of school in September. Other certificates will be mailed. Unsuccessful candidates will receive their marks by mail in the course of a few days.

The County Prize for the highest mark goes to Miss Mary E. Galvin, of Lakefield. The second highest mark was made by Miss Ena J. Sanderson of Lakefield, who will receive Mr. Thompson's prize of a gold watch. Mr. Burnham's prize goes to Miss Clara B. Dobbin of S. S. No. 1, North Monaghan, who is at the head of the list of those writing from West Peterborough.

The Simple Foreigner.

In his new book, "The Surgeon's Log," Mr. J. Johnston Abraham describes an amusing adventure at Port Said. He was driving in the town one afternoon, and as they drew near one house the strains of music came echoing into the empty, sandy street.

"As if at a signal," says Mr. Abraham, "the decrepit chariot stood still, my guide got down, and suggested I should go in. I thought rapidly, and then followed him. It was queer, and I wanted to know. He led the way upstairs into a large room, where several men were playing roulette. None took any notice of me, but apparently the bank was having a bad time of it. Everybody was winning. The music from the automatic piano was deafening. I looked in silently for some time and then made a move for the door. An oily-looking Greek intercepted me.

"'Won't you try your luck?' he said.

"'No, I'm not drunk enough,' I answered.

"He shrugged his shoulders and I passed out. On the stairs I paused and then stole quietly back, the music had ceased, and all the confederates who had been playing so feverishly and winning so much had ceased also, and were preparing to resume the siesta my advent had so fruitlessly interrupted."

Turbines.

The first steam turbine fitted vessel, the Turbinia, was built by the Hon. C. A. Parsons at his works at Newcastle-on-Tyne. The Turbinia, a small craft of some hundred odd feet in length, made her trial trip on the 6th of November, 1894. The system rapidly grew in favor, owing to the increased speed thus developed and the economy effected in its use of coal. In the meantime improvements were made, and to-day the turbine engine is in use all over the world.

London Streets Death Traps.

In the streets of London last year there were 410 killed and 14,254 injured. Certain places have become veritable death traps, especially for the old and infirm.

Some of the local authorities have provided subways at busy crossings, but it is curious how unwilling pedestrians are to make use of them.

The dingo or wild dog is to Australia what the wolf is to Europe and the coyote to America.

INDIANS BURNED AT THE STAKE

London, July 15.—The disclosures as to the state of affairs in the rubber industry in Peru, published in the Blue Book just issued by the Foreign Office, as the result of Sir Roger Casement's investigations, attract a great amount of attention and have caused comparisons to be drawn between these wholesale atrocities and those at one time reported from the Congo Free State. The British Consul-General at Rio Janeiro fully confirms the charges brought against the native agents of the Peruvian Amazon Company, a British concern, formerly engaged in rubber collection in the Putumayo district.

Sir Roger Casement was sent out to Peru a year ago, and found overwhelming evidence of the murder and torture of defenceless Indians. He discovered that kerosene had been poured over men, women and children who had been tied to stakes and were then set on fire. The brains of children had been dashed out, the limbs of Indians had been cut off or broken and they had been left to die. The tortures also included the deliberate starvation of many people.

THE MARKETS

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 12.—An idea that the black rust would have to hurry to catch the spring crop brought lower prices to-day for wheat. Experts in the field declared that unless the plague should develop with extraordinary rapidity the yield would break all records. Closing figures were steady, but ⅛c to ⅜c under last night. Latest trading left corn ⅜c lower to ⅛c up, oats off ⅛c to ⅜c, and provisions at 7½c to 22½c decline.

The Liverpool market closed to-day 3-8d to 5-8d higher than yesterday on wheat, and 1-2d to 1d higher on corn. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged, Berlin 3-8c higher, and Buda Pest 1-4c lower. The Paris market was closed over the holiday and will not reopen until Wednesday next.

* * *

While hundreds of Orangemen and their friends were being rushed over the C.P.R. to Peterborough on Friday morning in an eight-coach train, little did they think they were to be saved from a bad wreck. But this is so. They owe their escape solely to the fact that Mr. Albert Reynolds of Springville in walking the track to this city for the occasion, noticed a spread rail, thus averting what might have been an awful catastrophe.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

His Career Is a Matter of Moment to the British Race.

In the eager attention with which the British people follow every step in the education of the Prince of Wales, we have a striking illustration of the abiding influence of the monarchy upon the national life. The nation takes a genuine interest in hearing of his intended residence at an Oxford College, and of his being sent to Paris to perfect his knowledge of the French language. Indeed, it expects to be advised at once on all such matters, because it feels that it has a right to exercise an informal supervision over his training. It is in no carping or hypercritical spirit that the young prince's career is watched, but with a whole-hearted sympathy, tempered only by a keen desire that he should have every opportunity of proving himself worthy alike of his descent and of the great Empire of which in after years he is to be the supreme representative. The character of our monarchy has altered with the times, but it clearly has not lost its hold upon the popular imagination. It relationship to the nation is still an intimate one, but there has been a marked change of emphasis in the expression of that relationship. Of old the stress was laid upon the personal authority of the sovereign. It was "my" will, "my" prerogative, "my" people, and so on, which were the emphatic phrases of monarchy. To-day the emphatic phrases are "the responsibility of the crown to the people," "the duty which the King owes to his subjects," and 'the services which royalty renders to the state." It is no longer the King who owns the land and the people, but the people who own the King.

Even in the old days of personal rule, it was those sovereigns who were most closely in touch with the national sentiment of their day that were most successful during their lives and have had their memories handed down from generation to generation in the every-day talk of the common people—such, for instance, as Alfred, in distant Anglo-Saxon times; Edward I., the greatest of the Angevins; and Elizabeth, the typical Tudor. Monarchs of this kind naturally appear with greater frequency in a selected ruling stock than in any other; but, unfortunately, there were many sovereigns of the past who were not in any true sense representative of the nation they had to govern.

The elective ruler, though he has worked his way up from the ranks of the people, can hardly fail to be tainted with party, and to that extent be somewhat less than representative of the whole. It is in his consideration that the strength of monarchy lies, but the argument in favor of it vanishes if the monarch himself is incapable of the tactful work and disinterested self-repression required of him.

King Edward VII. was trained with the utmost care for his kingship, and was thoroughly at home in the Britain which was losing its insularity and becoming with its growing imperialism more and more an international force. In him it got, as head of the state, just what it then needed—one who was pre-eminently a persuasive man of the world among other sovereigns, as well as among the new leaders of high finance and of the rising political democracy. King George's own training was more specialised since he had expected to make the sea his career, but the sailor's, of all professons, is one best calculated to educate a king to understand the spirit of a world-wide empire, and to use his influence on the side of that efficiency which is the chief lack of all democratic administrations. What the present Prince of Wales' particular forte will be it is yet too early to say; but there can be no doubt that his training will be such as should make him conversant with all possible phases of national and imperial life. He, too, in his turn, must be a representative of the Empire, and his peope want to feel that he is on the way to become so. That is why they watch his doings so closely.—Melbourne Argus.

Drinking Fountains.

Drinking fountains are of modern origin. Among the earliest were those erected in Liverpool about 1857. The Metropolitan Drinking Fountain, association was formed in London in 1859 by Lord John Russell, Mr. S. Gurney and others. In the "brave days of old" little consideration was had for the "public." One of the most interesting and encouraging signs of the times is found in the fact that such consideration is nowadays in all civilized countries well nigh omnipotat, causing the "public servants" to look after the comfort of the master they so long contemptuously ignored.

Pigeon Post.

The value of pigeons as messengers in war was proved during the siege of Ladysmith. Sir George White, who commanded the defending garrison, had a plan made of the Boer position in order to send it to Lord Roberts by pigeon post. As the plan was too heavy for one bird to carry, it was cut in four pieces, each of which was attached to a pigeon. The birds on being released carried the despatches a hundred and seventy odd miles, all four arriving within twenty-six minutes of one another.—London Mail.

Some Irish Families.

It is a notorious fact that many of the families of Ireland which have come to be regarded as typically Irish are of alien extraction. Thus the Plunketts are of Danish origin, the Burkes, Dillons, Roches, Husseys and all the tribe of Fits are Anglo-Norman, while the Mitchells are English. —London Spectator.

The Deadly Hatpin.

An inquest at Stockport, England, developed the fact that death had been caused by blood poisoning originating in a slight scratch on the nose inflicted by a woman's hatpin.

Eight-Mile Walk at 80.

Mr. Frederic Harrison, the famous leader of the Positivists, friend of Ruskin and Carlyle, was eighty years of age last October, and he came in from an eight-mile walk at tea-time with springy step and alert bearing. It was his ordinary daily exercise, and not at all in the nature of a birthday celebration.

Mr. Harrison is spending the evening of his days near Hawkhurst, in Kent, where he delights in his garden and grounds, which he has made very beautiful. He rose on his birthday at 7.30, breakfasted at 8.30, and was engaged from 9.30 till luncheon-time with the morning newspapers, his correspondence, and his new book, "Autobiographic Memoirs." His morning's work included the writing of twelve letters. Arriving home at five o'clock after his walk, he spent half an hour in showing visitors round his garden. Then there was a little rest before dinner. At eleven it was bedtime. An unbroken sleep of eight hours every night and an interest in every waking hour, that is Mr. Harrison's happy lot at eighty.

He is engaged on another work, "Among My Books." He writes about 1,500 words a day.

Thrice Wrecked In One Week.

In 1883, as the schooner Albatross was driving east across the Banks in a murky storm, she met her end from a low-lying berg. Of her crew of ten, only two escaped, having cut clear the dinghy and launched it safely.

Next day they were picked up by the fishing schooner Energy, making for the Newfoundland coast. Driven south by bad weather, she sighted, two days later, the steamer Liddesdale, with a load of cotton. She agreed to take the castaways, and, in closing with the Energy, sank her, but saved her crew.

Thirty-six hours later the Liddesdale herself went ashore near Cape Race and became a total loss. Thus the two men were wrecked three times in one week—berg, steamboat, and rock.

The Winchester Measure.

The Winchester measure, a term seldom if ever used in this country, though common in England, refers to the fact that away back in the reign of Edgar that king established a legal standard measure for the prosecution of fraud. The standard vessels were by royal order kept in the city of Winchester, hence the "Winchester measure" of the time of Henry VII. The standard of measure in the United States is based on that of the Mother Country. The last standard weights and measures act of England was passed in 1855, many of the old rules being still in force in that country.

The Word "London."

What is the derivation of the word "London?" The usually accepted one is the Celtic "Llyn-din," or lake city, referring to the historic fact that the city was built on a river that overflowed at full tide and half surrounded it. Other philologists have derived it from "lawn" (full) and "dyn" (man), others again from "lon" (a plain) and "dun" (a hill). But the derivation Lunden, or "grove city," seems more probable than most of these. The name occurs in wooded parts of Scandinavia to this day.

Whistler's Idea of Hands.

Whistler, the artist, said: "I always use Irish models for hands, with their long, slender fingers and delightful articulations, the most beautiful hands in the world. I think Irish eyes are also the most beautiful. American girls' hands come next. English girls have red, coarse hands; the German girl has broad, flat hands, and the Spanish hand is full of big veins."

London 'Change.

The London Stock Exchange brings together 25,000 persons daily.

A Greater Scoundrel.

A famous master of Trinity College, Cambridge, had been a friend in earlier days of one Jemmy Gordon, a London solicitor. But Jemmy went to the bad, was struck off the rolls and lived from what he could get from old acquaintances. One day he met the master and asked for a shilling.

"Gordon," thundered the master, "if you could show me a greater scoundrel than yourself I would give you half a crown." And he stalked stiffly away to his rooms. In half an hour's time the butler announced that Mr. Pompous, the esquire beadle, wished to see the master. Now, the master had a special detestation of the beadle, who when admitted curtly asked what he wanted, replied:

"Mr. Gordon informed me that you desired to see me."

Said the master, "Gordon has made an ass of you!"

In ten minutes more the butler came again, grinning, and said:

"Mr. Jemmy Gordon has called and says you owe him half a crown, sir."

Royal Women Gamblers.

Marie Antoinette was a slave to cards. On one occasion she played for thirty-six hours at a sitting with but an intermission of a couple of hours.

"The play at the queen's table at Fontainebleau," wrote the Emperor Joseph I., "was like that in a common gambling house—people of all kinds were there and mingled without decorum. Great scandal was caused by the fact that several of the ladies cheated."

Anne Boleyn, Henry VIII.'s ill-fated queen, was never quite so happy as when playing for high stakes. The records of privy purse expenses are full of her winnings from her royal spouse, for she was a lucky player.

Four Spiders to the Pound.

The lizard spider (Melus mygale) is the largest species of venomous spider known. He is of a bright yellow color with three red stripes on his back and a crescent of pure black on the abdomen. Full grown specimens of the lizard spider (so called because his chief food is small lizards, frogs, etc.) measure four inches across the back and have legs ten inches long. Four full grown males collected by a British exploring expedition weighed one pound four ounces. This giant of the spider family is a native of Ceylon.

A Mixed Sitting.

A North Westmoreland (England) farmer recently came across a very unusual sight. In the course of his rounds through his fields he found a nest with twenty-five eggs in it. The large number was not the only marvel for, on examining the eggs, he found that fifteen of them belonged to a pheasant, and the remaining ten to a partridge. The pheasant, as the stronger bird, was the probable intruder.

Stratford Popular.

During the year ended March 31 40,300 persons paid for admission to Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon. Twenty-nine thousand signed their names in the visitors' album.

Ruptured People—
Try this for Relief and Cure

Here is something you can try sixty days without having to risk a single cent of your money.

Something which has cured—in the last twenty-four years — thousands of ruptured people—

Something so strengthening to the ruptured parts that you can work right along while being cured—

If you don't find yourself getting better after trying a Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager—

If you don't think it's doing you a lot of good—making a new man of you—

Then we don't want a penny.

Try It 60 Days at Our Risk

This is more than a truss — more than merely a device to hold your rupture in place.

For your protection we guarantee in writing that a Cluthe Truss will keep your rupture from coming out—when you are working, exercising, taking a bath (this truss is water-proof)—every minute of the day. If a 60 days' trial doesn't prove it, the truss won't cost you a cent.

You see this truss—unlike all others — is self-adjusting, self-regulating.

The support it gives automatically increases when there is any sudden movement or strain — as in working — so no strain can force your rupture out.

And, in addition, a Cluthe Truss provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

While relieving the weak, ruptured parts of all strain, this Truss is constantly strengthening the ruptured parts.

Does that by automatically massaging them —this healing massage does for these parts what exercise does for a weak arm—restores their lost strength—in many cases makes them so strong that a truss is no longer needed.

Curing Begins at Once

This massage is so beneficial that nearly all feel better and stronger—get immediate relief—after trying this truss.

So beneficial that a Cluthe Truss has cured some of the worst cases on record—

Among them men and women 50 to 70 years old, who had been ruptured from 20 to 50 years.

Our Expense if It Fails.

You are making the mistake of your life if you let any doubts or past disappointments keep you from finding out what a Cluthe Truss can do for you.

Remember that we ask you to take no chances.

We'll make a truss especially to your case and send it to you and allow you 60 days trial to prove that it will hold—that it will put an end to the trouble you've heretofore had and improve your condition. If the trial fails to prove this, we'll be the losers, not you.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book.

So that you can judge for yourself, we want to send you a free book we have written—a cloth-bound book of advice. Even physicians who have read it say it is the best book ever written on rupture.

It sums up all we have learned about rupture in forty years of day-after-day experience—in the successful treatment of over 200,000 cases. It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages—explains the dangers of operations—exposes the worthless trusses and the equally worthless makeshifts masquerading under such names as "appliances," "methods," "systems," "plasters," etc.—puts you on guard against throwing money away on things that cannot stand a fair test.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Truss—how little it costs—how it ends constant expense on account of your rupture — how thousands have found this truss as comfortable as their clothing (no springs or web or elastic band or belt around your waist—no leg straps)—how you can try one 60 days at our risk—thus giving you plenty of time to make sure of its wonderful holding and healing powers and of its water proof and wearing qualities.

Book sent in plain, sealed envelope. Write for it to-day — don't put it off — this book may be the means of adding many years of your life and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

An Awe Inspiring Spectacle.

Of the overpowering magnificence of the sun's corona as seen in a total eclipse some idea may be gathered when it is considered that even matter of fact scientists are stricken speechless with awe in its presence. Sir Francis Galton was once assigned to measure the heat of that strange halo. He recounts that he experienced a feeling of supreme exultation when he discovered that his instrument was broken and that he would be permitted a few moments in which to revel in the remarkable spectacle. So carried away was he by the glory of the panorama that he even forgot to note down the beginning of the first contact.

Roman Lamps.

Roman lamps were of many sizes, but most of them very closely resembled what is at present denominated a sauce or gravy boat. At one end there was a ring, through which the finger was passed when the light was carried. The body of the vessel was filled with oil, and at the other end there was a small tube, through which a rag wick was passed. When this was lighted the smoke and odor of the rancid fat employed were extremely offensive. Many Roman poets mention the abominable effluvium sent out by the lamps at the feasts.

Punishment For Poisoners.

In ancient Rome poisoning was punished by crucifixion, no matter what the rank of the criminal, although this penalty was usually reserved for slaves. A Roman of respectable station, having been convicted of poisoning his ward, was sentenced to be crucified, but protested against the punishment as unfit for a gentleman. The emperor thereupon ordered the cross to be painted white and otherwise made more presentable than those commonly used. Whether the convict expressed himself as better satisfied is not recorded.

Indolent Rossini.

Rossini was one of the most indolent men that ever lived, yet he wrote operas against time, as it were. "The Barber of Seville," for instance, was written and mounted in less than a month, which fact gave rise to Donizetti's cogent witticism. Upon being informed that Rossini had finished his opera in thirteen days Donizetti replied: "It is very possible. He is so lazy!"

How an English Farmer Sold What He Termed Domestic Curse.

It was long a popular belief among the ignorant in England that if a man sold his wife at public auction such a sale had all the legality of a regular divorce. The latest case of the kind on record occurred in 1832.

John Thompson, a farmer, had been married for three years and he and his wife agreed to separate. Thompson brought his wife into the town of Carlisle and by the bellman announced he was about to sell her.

At 12 o'clock Thompson placed his wife on a large oak chair with a rope or halter of straw about her neck. He then made this announcement: "Gentlemen—I have to offer to your notice my wife, Mary Anne Thompson, otherwise Williams, whom I mean to sell to the highest and fairest bidder. It is her wish as well as mine to part forever. She has been to me only a born serpent. I took her for my comfort, the good of my home; but she became my tormentor, a domestic curse, a night invasion and a daily devil. I speak truth from my heart when I say—may God deliver us from troublesome wives and frolicsome women! Now I have shown you the dark side of my wife, and told you of her faults and failings. I will introduce the bright and sunny side of her, and explain her qualifications and goodness. She can read novels and milk cows, she can laugh and weep with the same ease that you could take a glass of ale when thirsty.

"She can make butter and scold the maid; she can sing Moore's melodies and plait her folds and caps; she cannot make rum, gin or whisky, but she is a good judge of the quality of each, from long experience in tasting them. I therefore offer her, with all her perfections and imperfections, for the sum of 50 shillings."

The woman was finally sold to one Henry Mears for the sum of 20 shillings and a Newfoundland dog. Man and wife parted in perfect good temper, Mears and the woman going one way, Thompson and the dog another.

An esteemed subscriber sends The Times the following, which we cordially endorse: "Over nine thousand Orangemen in procession, fully twenty-five thousand strangers in Peterborough last Friday, the 12th inst., and not a single arrest for drunkenness or disorderly conduct. The Orangemen have every reason to be congratulated."

While hundreds of Orangemen and their friends were being rushed over the C.P.R. to Peterborough on Friday morning in an eight-coach train, little did they think they were to be saved from a bad wreck. But this is so. They owe their escape solely to the fact that Mr. Albert Reynolds of Springville in walking the track to this city for the occasion, noticed a spread rail, thus averting what might have been an awful catastrophe.

POTTED GHOSTS.

An African Tribe's Method of Driving Away Sickness.

One of the most curious and interesting of African tribes are the Banyoro, or cow people, of Uganda, who are powerful clansmen and whose wealth, religion and health are all connected with cows. It is degrading for any member of the tribe to dig, so milk and flesh are their staple food. Their bravery is very great. The only beast they fear is the leopard. Their chief weapon is a long stick, and, armed with this, they go out to meet a lion that is trying to get at their precious cattle and drive him away by the simple process of thrashing him.

Though they are brave, they are inveterate thieves and very subtle in their methods of carrying out their thefts and concealing their guilt by lies. Indeed, one of their favorite mottoes is, "Keep a grave face even though you laugh behind your hand."

When sickness comes to these people they believe that it is one of their enemies, the ghosts, that is attacking them, so they proceed to capture him. Ghosts like hot cooked meat, so meat is cooked in a large pot near the dwelling where the ghost is at work. As soon as the savor of the food reaches the dwelling the evil spirit greedily enters the pot and is at once sealed up. This potted ghost is then taken away from the village and buried, the spot being marked by a ghost shrine.

The position of rest for these people is a half sitting posture, and when they are holding a council they will remain in this posture as long as ten hours. When they die it is in this resting position that they are buried. If it should be the king who dies his successor is generally selected by the drastic process of civil war.

Moral Courage.

It is moral courage that characterises the highest order of manhood and womanhood, the courage to be just, the courage to be honest, the courage to resist temptation, the courage to do one's duty.—Samuel Smiles.

STRIKING A MATCH.

An Act In Which, It Is Claimed, You May Read One's Character.

"There is no better way to judge a person's character than to watch how he strikes a match," remarked the man who had acquired the rare habit of observation. "It may seem only a trifle, but it is the little things that count, after all. We often poke fun at the way a woman lights a match, but if you watch half a dozen different men do it you will find that you have just as much to laugh at.

"Take the conceited man, for instance, who thinks he knows it all and who has so much misplaced confidence in himself that it merely makes him obstinate. He will try to strike a match on a damp surface or in a gale without paying any attention to which way the wind is blowing. Knowing it all, experience teaches him nothing, and he will waste a whole box of matches before he will seek a place that is dry and sheltered.

"The careless man will grab a match haphazard and viciously strike it against the nearest thing at hand. Failure makes him lose his temper, and when he goes up in the air he is likely to waste several matches before he succeeds in getting a light.

"The man who lacks common sense will attempt to strike a match under impossible conditions. If he had the least bit of judgment he would realize that he was going about it the wrong way, but his case is hopeless, and he never learns.

"Hungry Joe the king of the confidence operators, used to size up his victim in this way: The first thing he did after striking up an acquaintance was to offer the man a cigar. If he lighted it properly with the first match Hungry Joe passed him up as a bad proposition, convinced that he possessed judgment, shrewdness and too much common sense to be buncoed."

How Exclamations Originate.

"Halloo" and "hurrah," which are among the exclamations in common use, can be traced to curious origins. The author of "The Queen's English" tells us that the people of Carnwood forest, Leicestershire, when they wish to hail anyone at a distance call out not "halloo," but "halloup." This, he takes it, is a survival of the times when one cried to another "A loup! A loup!" or, as we should say, "A wolf! A wolf!" "Hurrah," according to high authority, is derived from the Slavonic "huraj," "to paradise," a battlecry which voiced the prevailing belief that all soldiers who fell in the fight went straight up to paradise.

War In the Air.

A strange drama of bird life was witnessed recently by some Portland fishermen on the south coast of England. A homing pigeon was attacked by a large hawk, when two rooks and a seagull joined forces and attempted to deprive the hawk of its prey. The fight lasted some five minutes when the hawk, tearing the pigeon's head from its body, let the latter fall and flew away.

The Orillia News-Letter, after relating the experience of an Indian who saw a sea serpent in Lake Couchiching, goes on to enlarge and speculate as follows: That some monster of the deep inhabits these waters there is little doubt. It has been seen on different occasions for a number of years and bobs up serenely at different times before the astonished gaze of a much frightened spectator. The last appearance of the sea serpent was at Barrie, ten years ago, when it was seen by several people, who said it had a head resembling a horse and was about ten feet long.

DODGED THE TRAP.

The Way Dr. Wayland Was Not Cornered by His Son.

Dr. James B. Angell tells in his reminiscences the following enjoyable story of his college days at Brown university under the presidency of Dr. Wayland:

The doctor's son, Heman Lincoln Wayland, one of my classmates, inherited from his father a very keen wit. The passages between father and son were often entertaining to the class. One day, when we were considering a chapter in the father's textbook on moral philosophy, Lincoln rose with an expression of great solemnity and respect and said:

"Sir, I would like to propound a question."

"Well, sir, what is it?" was the reply.

"Well, sir," said the son, "in the learned author's work which we are now perusing I observe the following remark," and then he quoted.

The class saw that fun was at hand and began to laugh.

"Well, what of it?" asked the father, with a merry twinkle in his eye.

"Why," continued the son, "in another work of the same learned author, entitled 'On the Limitation of Human Responsibility,' I find the following passage."

He quoted again. Clearly the two passages were irreconcilable. The boys were delighted to see that the doctor was in a trap and broke into loud laughter.

"Well, what of it?" asked the doctor, and his eyes twinkled still more merrily.

"Why," said the son, with the utmost gravity, "it has occurred to me that I should like to know how the learned author reconciles the two statements."

"Oh," said the father, "that is simple enough. It only shows that since he wrote the first book the learned author has learned something."

BOUGHT HOUSES ON FIRE.

Queer Trade That Enriched Cato and Crassus in Ancient Rome.

One of the strangest businesses in ancient Rome is mentioned by Juvenal in his "Satires," and we hear of it also from historians. It consisted of buying houses on fire.

The speculator hurried to the scene attended by slaves carrying bags of money and others carrying tools, judged the chances of salvage and made a bid to the distracted house owners, who were glad to accept anything as a rule. The bargain struck in all haste this earliest of fire assurers set his slaves to work and secured what he could. Sometimes even he put out the flames and so made a coup.

It was a business for capitalists, but the poorest who speculated in a small way could hardly lose if he had presence of mind enough to grasp the chances.

Thus Cato the elder and, above all, Crassus laid the foundations of their wealth. The latter had a passion for such gambling. He gradually collected a force of carpenters, masons and such artificers — slaves, of course — which reached 500 men. Not only did he buy houses on fire, but also, enlarging upon the common practice, he made a bid for those adjoining which stood in danger. His proposals were commonly welcome, so helpless were the people and so great the peril. By this means Crassus became the greatest owner of house property in Rome.

A Bad Heart, Its Cause and Cure

Many, Firmly Convinced They Are Dying of Heart Trouble, Have Often the Strongest Hearts.

Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen, and cause horrible anxiety.

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

Just read what happened to Isaac Mailloux, of Belle River, Ont.,

"Three months ago I was a weak sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, I had sour risings and indigestion. At night I would often waken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation.

"I consulted doctors and used remedies that my friends advised. Nothing helped.

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's pills, and my cure commenced. To-day I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action, and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before."

Your druggist or storekeeper sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Is Recovering.

Mr. Reid, of 220 Rogers street, who was hurt in the street car accident on Saturday evening is doing nicely. Miss Johnston, who figured in the same accident is progressing favorably also. Reports that gained considerable credence in the city to the effect that Mr. Reid had succumbed to his injuries are not true.

The Rev. Mr. Henderson.

The St. Catharines Journal publishes an excellent portrait of Rev. G. W. Henderson, who recently left the pastorate of the Charlotte street Methodist church to take up the work of the Welland avenue Methodist church in St. Catharines. An extended and complimentary sketch of Mr. Henderson's life is given, and in every way he is made welcome in his new charge.

St. Andrew's Church.

The W.F.M.S. of St. Andrew's church will meet in the Ladies' Parlours this afternoon at 3.30. This midsummer meeting promises to be of unusual interest. There will be an interesting program, one feature of which will be an address by Miss Smith, deaconess of Toronto, who has been engaged in Christian work in the Jewish Mission for three years.

Will Live in St. Catharines.

Mr. E. R. Deem, of the Cressman Company, left on the 4.30 train Sunday afternoon for his home in Stratford, then to Port Arthur, where he accepts the position as buyer for the gents' furnishing department with the firm of A. McGillis & Co.

Mr. Deem was also an active member of the Belmont Club, and with him follows the hearty and enthusiastic wishes of all his fellow associations for an unlimited success in his new field.

Free From Debt.

At St. Luke's church Sunday the announcement was made by the rector that the church was now entirely free from debt. A note of long standing against the church was paid off last week on the thirty-sixth anniversary of the opening of the church. The rector F. J. Sawers and the church officials are to be congratulated on their success. Such a position is an enviable one. Rapid progress has been made since Rev. Mr. Sawers was appointed to St. Luke's and there is every indication that the property will increase as the parish work continues.

Uniforms for Norwood Cadets.

Norwood Register : The caretaker of the school reports that there were twenty-two or more of the grey uniforms belonging to the corps. These were examined and found to be in a very fair condition, and on motion of Messrs. Cuffe and Cuthbertson, a committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Finlay, Squire and Anderson, to secure, if possible, the remainder of the present uniforms and to make arrangements to distribute them out to the cadets who go to camp, and see that the same are returned.—Carried.

Wreck Near Newtonville.

A railway accident occurred on the Grand Trunk near Newtonville Friday night about 11 o'clock. A freight with 15 cars and a caboose was backing over a switch to give way to the No. 8 express which arrives at Belleville at 12.25 a.m., when the passenger train crashed into the caboose. The fireman of the express jumped to the dangerous side of the line and was badly injured. It was feared at the time that his wounds were serious, but reports this morning say he is likely to recover. His name is not ascertainable. He is from Mimico. The engineer of the express is a Belleville man. He was unhurt as he remained in the cab. The auxiliary was called from Belleville shortly before midnight.

"The Canadian Highway."

A book which is somewhat different has arrived at The Times Bookstore. This is a publication issued by the Canadian Highway Association, and deals in an interesting way with the work accomplished by that body since its organization on November 3 and 4, 1911. The mission of "The Canadian Highway" is to educate the public to the advantages of good roads and anyone interested in this work may obtain a copy by addressing Secretary P. W. Luce, New Westminster, B.C.

Inquest Held.

An inquest was held yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the Council Chamber, into the death of the late Mortimer B. Mowry, who died in the Police Station Sunday night. The jurors sworn in were : P. Drummond J. White, J. W. Elliott, W. Shea, N. C. Cameron, J. P. Bryson, James Metheral, Frank Detcher, Wm. Gray, L. J. Picard, J. J. McDonald and Archie Brault. Considerable evidence was taken to the effect that Mr. Mowry was found sick on Murray street, between Stewart and Rubidge streets, and taken to the Police Station. A few minutes after the policemen in charge were attracted by a gurgling sound and when they reached him lying in the cells, they found him dead. The jury brought in a verdict of death due to heart failure. The funeral will take place to Little Lake cemetery this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from 210 Margaret avenue.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

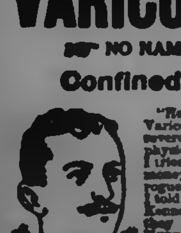
Confined to His Home for Weeks.



"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn [illegible] a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning [illegible] and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

GREAT SENSATION IN NEW YORK CAUSED BY MURDER OF MAN WHO ACCUSED POLICE

Gambler Rosenthal Had Filed Affidavits Accusing Lieut. Becker of Being His Partner and Taking 25 Per Cent. Profits as Graft---His Place Raided When They Fell Out

New York, July 16.—Herman Rosenthal, proprietor of a New York gambling house, whose sensational charges that the police were guilty of grafting and oppression were to be investigated to-day by the Grand Jury, was shot and killed in front of the Hotel Metropole early this morning by five men who escaped in a large grey touring car.

Rosenthal was murdered only a few hours before he was to appear in the home of District Attorney Whitman and give further statements in an effort to substantiate the police grafting charges.

Within three hours after the murder detectives visited a garage on Washington Square, known to the police as the headquarters of the taxicab robbers, who recently robbed bank messengers of $25,000, and arrested a man describing himself as Louis Libby on the charge of homicide. The police also recovered the auto that they say was the one that figured in the murder.

Wounded Five Times.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty asserted that eye-witnesses to the murder of Rosenthal identified Libby as one of the quintette who drove up in front of the hotel and, calling the gambler from the dining room to the sidewalk, shot him down with a fusilade of bullets, and then fled in the motor car. Rosenthal was shot five times in the head.

Mrs. Sadie Rosenthal widow of the gambler, in a statement to District Attorney Whitman, put the assassination of her husband squarely up to the police. She said she warned her husband that if he kept an appointment last night he would come to a violent end. She said she had a premonition a tragedy would follow, and she named a police official as one of those who was to be present.

Charged His Partner.

Rosenthal sprang suddenly into public notice only last Friday, when he hurled a bomb into police circles by filing affidavits charging that the police were in league with the gamblers throughout New York, and that every gambling house was being assessed a fixed sum for police protection.

Police Lieut. Becker, who was accused by Rosenthal, the gambler, of being his partner, phoned District Attorney Whitman at once when he heard of the murder of Rosenthal today. He said:

"It is very regrettable. I no of no motive. I haven't seen Rosenthal for a week and then I met him casually."

Lieut. Becker said later:

"It ought to be needless for me to say—I think I ought not to be asked to say—that I know absolutely nothing about the crime, who perpetrated it, what the motive, or what end is to be gained by it. I want to say, now that I have said this much, and perhaps I am violating a rule of the department by saying so, that it was to my best and only advantage that Rosenthal should have been permitted to live right on for many years, if not for a few more days only. I bore this man no malice. He set himself up as my enemy. I have explained every move I made with this man to the satisfaction of my superiors.

"The mortgage is very easily explained. As I look on it now. In three more days the whole thing would have been off. I calculated that in three days, at the outside, the last suspicion would be lifted from the police department, by documentary, legal evidence before the proper authorities."

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY IN WEST PETERBOROUGH

Rural Mail delivery in West Peterborough is completed so far as requested by the people of the riding. Since Mr. Burnham came in he has had a new route added to North Monaghan, the old one there put in proper shape, a route established in South Monagdan and two established in Smith. This puts West Peterborough in good shape. No further routes have yet been called for by farmers.

ORANGEISM AND HOLLAND.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—In your issue of the 12th, there appeared a poetical production from the pen of my compatriot, Mr. T. M. Duyrers, entitled: "An Orange Hymn."

This is not to find fault with the Orange enthusiasm of the author, nor do I want to indulge in any literary criticisms. I only wish to protest against the suggestion, clearly underlying this ode, as should the Orange idea be something peculiarly Dutch and greatly approved of by Hollanders.

It is true that we are a Protestant people. It is also true that the name of Orange is held in high esteem by the majority of Dutchmen. But it is very doubtful whether the Orange Order would find many followers in Holland, not to mention the fact that demonstrations like those we witness here on the 12th of July, would certainly not be tolerated by the Dutch authorities. We too have fought our religious battles and I dare say we have conquered. But we are chivalrous enough never to mention our victory in a manner that might hurt the feelings of the people we besieged.

I am, sir, etc.

W. Walraven.

SPECULATORS IN LEMONS LOSE MILLION DOLLARS

New York, July 16.—That speculators in lemons have lost over a million dollars in the past three months by overbuying the market, was the assertion here to-day of leading fruit importers. They say that this has been the most disastrous season for the lemon importers that they can remember.

The speculative movement began in the spring with reports that the California crop of lemons had been destroyed by freezing weather. Speculators in Italy then began to contract heavily with the growers for the supply. Importers here rushed orders to Italy to buy up all the lemons in sight.

Then came the crash. The speculators found that there would be no shortage in this country. The cold weather in California did not cause as much damage as was at first supposed, and a late spring kept down the consumption of lemons. In the last few weeks some of the importers had to sell at $4 or less lemons that cost them upwards of $5 a box. The receipts in April and May amounting to 495,000 boxes, and there was a flat loss well in excess of half a million dollars. The receipts for June and early in July have been close to 400,000 boxes, adding $600,000 more to the amount sunk in the speculation.

A Peculiar Case.

A rather strange case is reported from the south end of the city. Willie Taylor was taken ill, apparently with an attack of appendicitis. The ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the hospital to undergo an operation. This was on Sunday. On the following day a swelling on the side of an older brother, Alfred, became larger, and he was conveyed to the hospital. Willie, however, returned to his home, without having an operation performed, and it is said he went on a fishing trip. The older brother, Alfred, however, was operated on and is reported to-day as doing nicely.

Post Toasties is the food for me, I'm happy all day long,
And want to tell the world at large the tenor of my song,
'Tis this: eat Toasties every morn if you would healthy be;
The food that's fit for princes, is good enough for me.

YANKEES CONTINUE BRILLIANT WORK IN THE OLYMPIC GAMES

JAMES THORPE
ALVAH T. MEYER
LOUIS SCOTT.
EDMUNSON
RALPH CRAIG.
T. MEREDITH

The Yankee runners continue their brilliant work in the big Olympic games at Stockholm, Sweden. One of the most exciting races was the one hundred metre run, and every American heart in the stadium thrilled with joy when the royal band crashed out the inspiring strains of the "Stars and Stripes Forever" and three American flags were raised to the pole of victory. This was the signal that the sprinters from the United States had made a clean sweep of all the places counting for points in the one hundred metre run.

Ralph Craig, the Detroit Y.M.C.A. man, was the victor by four feet over Alvah T. Meyer, holder of the American national sprinting championship, and Donald F. Lippincott, the freshman from the University of Pennsylvania, was third—a bare six inches behind. Meyer and Lippincott were not chosen as regular members of the American team, but went along to Stockholm on the supplementary list when their expenses were guaranteed from private sources. Scott, Edmundson, Thorpe and Meredith are also winning honors.

ELECTIONS NEXT YEAR

Ottawa, July 16.—That a general election is not far off is the opinion of not a few of the leading Conservatives of the capital. A dissolution will probably take place after the next session of Parliament, the government going to the country on their naval policy. The understanding which will be reached as a result of the conference now going on in London between Premier Borden and the Imperial authorities, will be submitted to the people for their approval. In an article which appears to be inspired, the Montreal Star says that from present plans the government will introduce and put through at the next session the Redistribution Bill, based upon the new census. The figures have been finally collaborated. That the Bill will be passed is beyond doubt as, in view of important matters of policy to be determined, the government may consider an early appeal to the country advisable.

MRS. HETTY GREEN JOINS THE CHURCH AT THE AGE OF 78

New York, July 16.—Much interest was taken to-day in financial circles in the report that Mrs. Hettie Green the richest woman in the world, had, at 78, turned to the chure.b.

It became known that she was secretly baptized by Rev. Augustine Elmendorf on Saturday in the Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Jersey City.

This ceremony, it is understood, was preliminary to her being received into membership in the Episcopal Church by Bishop Edwin S. Lires, of the Newark diocese.

Mrs. Green's son, Col Edward, H. R. Green, who is his mother's right hand in business, was the only witness.

TO ELIMINATE THE DANGEROUS HOUSE FLY

The common house fly is one of the deadliest disease spreaders that threaten the life and health of the citizens of this community and it is imperative that everyone in the city do their part to get rid of this dangerous and persistent insect. There is only one way to defend the community against the inroads of this undesirable pest, but on the other hand it is fortunate that this, if carried out will practically result in the eliminating of the house fly.

The fly feeds on filth of almost every description and in this city finds its chief diet in exposed garbage. Particularly is this the case since the new method of collection has been adopted, as many of the house-keepers and restaurant keepers neglect to supply the necessary covering for their garbage which has to be left in a convenient place for collection.

The city has passed a by-law compelling the citizens of this city to provide covering for their garbage, and in a measure this is being enforced. But to enforce it thoroughly would need a greater equipment than the city is as present prepared to furnish.

So the remedy lies with the individual citizens of Peterborough, who should be interested enough to see that all garbage is well covered and that their neighbors are doing the same thing, for a while if some are attentive in this regard and others are not, the result may be as hurtful to the careful as to the careless one. The great responsibility rests with the individual who, while engaged in a campaign of swatting the fly, should at the same time see that all filth is promptly removed from his premises, and that all garbage is well covered. If this is not done the resultant toll may be a terrible one this season, when the weather is, and promises to continue so hot and humid.

Laid At Rest.

The funeral of the late C. C. Mowry took place yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery. The service was held at his late residence 310 Margaret avenue, by the Rev. W. C. Riddiford.

The employes of the G. Walter Green Co. walked to the cemetery in a body.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Jos. Metheral, Robt. Wilson, Hugh Smith Jas. Mulholland, R. Mulligan and E. Carr, Fr.

Among the floral tributes were wreaths from the deceased's fellow-workmen, Mrs. W. Logan and daughter, the Armature Department C.G. E., his brother; Sheafs from L.O.L. No. 50, Miss Minnie Logan and Mr. and Mrs. Erie Jones.

Women learn politics fast in California. One of them is a candidate for Mayor of her town and says she will run as the people's girl and not as a mere suffragist.

SIR EDWARD GREY DEALS WITH THE FAMOUS PANAMA DISPUTE

Makes Statement in the British House About Terms of The Bill In The U. S.---America Violating Terms of Treaty

London, July 16.—With a view to heading off attempts at premature and perhaps provocative discussion of the Panama Canal question, Joseph King, the Liberal member of Parliament from North Somerset, was put up in the House of Commons this afternoon to ask the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs:

"Whether friendly representations are being made to the United States Government with the aim of securing generous treatment for such British shipping as shall pass through the Panama Canal?"

Sir Edward Grey, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in reply merely quoted Article III., paragraph 1, of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which reads:

"The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation, or its citizens or subjects, in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic, or otherwise. Such conditions and charges of traffic shall be just and equitable."

Sir Edward added:

"As it appeared to His Majesty's Government that some of the provisions of the bill now before the U. S. Senate would not be consistent with this article of the treaty it has thought it right to point out these objections to the Government of the United States in order that they may be taken into account while the bill is under consideration."

Sir Edward Grey can now stall off would-be Catechizers by saying he has nothing to add to to-day's reply.

GERMAN MENACE IS VERY REAL PREMIER BORDEN HAS FACTS

London, July 16.—The statement regarding the progress of the negotiations between the Canadian Cabinet Ministers and the Imperial Defence Committee was given yesterday by an apparently well posted authority.

"If the Canadian Ministers were in a position to speak, there is not the slightest doubt that they would say the aims of Great Britain in regard to naval requirements are modelled mostly on the German expansion at sea. That has been the keynote of the representations made by the British Ministers, and they have been made in such a conclusive manner that the Canadians are absolutely convinced that danger is in prospect—Particularly Premier Borden.

Gets the Facts.

"It is learned that Mr. Borden has put a series of questions in order to elucidate the real inwardness of the naval menace and requirements. He took nothing for granted, and, as a result, voluminous and vouched-for facts are now in his possession. Technical explanations from navy experts dealing with the strategic position and structural recommendations with regard to the type of ships required will be submitted convenient with any aid that may be extended.

"What form this aid will take has not been decided, but something will be submitted at the meetings, beginning to-day, at which naval experts will be present. It is generally believed in the inner circles that the granting to Canada and the other Dominions of a place on a remodelled Committee on Imperial Defence has been practically settled as a matter of principle, but the details have to be worked out. Just as the Canadian Premier declared that Canada would not be an adjunct of the Empire, so he has insisted upon such assurances of the same as this representation.

Canadians in Paris.

"Much conjecture surrounds the visit of the Canadian Ministers to Paris on July 27th. No doubt, while they are there unofficial inquiries will be made in regard to the relations of France and Germany. Having in mind the entente between Britain and the cross-channel neighbor and the community of interest involved, the Canadians are assured of a warm welcome."

Water Commissioners.

The Water Commissioners met on Monday afternoon, with all the members present. A letter was read from the Brinton Carpet Company, saying their agreement with the Commissioners had expired. Instructions were given that the city solicitor prepare a new agreement with a minimum rate of $225.00 a year gross. The rate on the Murray street Baptist church was set at $75 gross per year. A letter was read from E. M. Cooke, asking for an increase of salary. The request was laid over. Several other applications were dealt with, of lesser importance.

YOUNG SCHWARTZ CONFESSED TO MURDER OF JULIA CONNORS

New York, July 16.—Samuel Schwartz, father of Nathan Schwartz the young man wanted by the police in connection with the murder of the child, Julia Connors, in the Bronx last week, acknowledged to-day in a statement made to Assistant District Attorney Nott, that his son had confessed to him that he had killed the child and that he had told his son to go out and commit suicide. The father, in his statement, said he believed the boy did as he was told.

Schwartz and four members of his family were summoned as witnesses before the Grand Jury, which to-day took up the investigation of the murder. The latest information of the police was that the young murderer was out of the State.

The child's body was found in a vacant lot. It bore forty-one knife wounds.

RICH TITANIC WIDOWS VOW LIFELONG FRIENDSHIP

New York, July 16.—Three well-known women who survived the wreck of the Titanic, while their husbands perished, have just sealed a compact of lifelong love and friendship. They are the widows of John Jacob Astor, George D. Widener and John B. Thayer.

The "news" was revealed a few days ago by Mrs. Astor to several of her friends, after she returned from a visit of a week to her two sisters-in-mourning.

The invitation to visit Philadelphia came to Mrs. Astor from Mrs. Thayer about ten days ago.

As if to disprove the stories that are afloat concerning a break in her health, Mrs. Astor, in an open automobile, drove up and down Fifth avenue yesterday afternoon. Beside her sat her mother, Mrs. William N. Force, wearing her famous string of pearls and petting the toy terrier to which she is devoted.

Mrs. Astor has selected a summer home for her parents at Bernardsville, N.J. It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Force, with their daughter Catherine will remove from the town house at East Thirty-seventh street, within a few days.

Vincent Astor dropped into the city over Wednesday night, but returned yesterday to his country home at Rhinebeck. He will sail for Europe soon and will join his mother.

LE CANADA ANGRY WITH ORANGE ORDER

Montreal, July 16.—Le Canada, in an editorial article this morning quotes the Toronto Telegram's report of the Orange celebration in Ontario, and makes it an excuse for a very severe criticism of the Ontario members of the Orange Order.

"It is easy to perceive the sentiments which animate this fanatical society, with which some French-Canadians, misled and deceived, allied themselves last September to overthrow Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Telegram shows the true spirit of the society, which counts among its members Colonel Sam. Hughes, Minister of Militia, and Dr. Sproule, M. P., who was for a long time its grand master."

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government issued hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company, Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario, Manager. 43 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in-J1

Preference Shares are preferential both as to assets and cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, also participate in dividends after 7 p.c. has been paid on common stock.

The average net profits of the Cafeterias, Limited, on King street, for the month of May, as shown by the report of the auditor, John I. Sutcliffe, C.A., amounted to over 30 p.c. on the entire issue of stock. A complete auditor's statement of the finances of Cafeterias, Limited, up to the end of May, may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Fleming & Marvin, Lumsden Building. This statement shows the monthly profits.

About $50,000.00 will be required to put the new Yonge street Cafeteria on a running basis. Of this amount about fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will be required to complete the interior finish, and make this restaurant one of the finest cafeterias in America. The balance will be required for outfitting the restaurant and providing a certain amount of working capital. The new restaurant will have a dining room of the large dimensions of 7,000 square feet on the ground floor, and will also have spacious additions for other purposes of the business.

Cafeterias, Limited, has found in the running of its business on King street that it has eclipsed the old style of waitress-serving restaurants, which is a great saving of labor and expense, and that the new restaurant is the best system of meeting the demands of the public for quick service, consistent with quality and efficiency of service.

We have opened subscription books for sale at par ($10.00) $50,000.00 fully paid shares of the above-mentioned 7 p.c. cumulative preference participating stock, carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of the amount of the preference shares in common stock.

Payments as follows:

25% per share with subscription;
and 75% per share on allotment.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and the right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and for such amounts as may be approved, and to close the subscription without notice.

Subscriptions may be forwarded by mail or by telegram at our expense.

An Answer For Kipling.

On one occasion Mr. Rudyard Kipling was visiting a bookseller's shop and began casually to turn over some of the books, entering into conversation with the shopman as he did so. "Is this good?" he asked suddenly, taking up a volume. "I don't know; I've not read it," replied the bookseller. Kipling frowned. "A bookseller," he said, with mock solemnity "and you don't read your own books?" "If I were a druggist,' answered the bookseller, "would you expect me to take my own drugs?"

Guides in Japan.

Once a person has visited Japan and engaged the services of a Japanese guide he exists forever in the good book and graces of the guide. Always at Christmas and frequently two or three other times during the year he receives some little gift. Japan is the only country in the world where the Government takes sufficient interest in tourists to take under its supervision the guide fraternity. So strict is the regulation that it is a rare thing for any guide to receive an unfavorable report.

Rudest Man of His Age.

John Hunter, the famous British surgeon, anatomist, physiologist and medical writer, who died in 1793, was one of the rudest men of his age. He returned home late one evening from his round of professional calls and found his wife entertaining a few friends. Grimly he walked into the center of the room, stopped and looked around. "I knew nothing of this kick up," he said, "and I ought to have been informed. As I have returned home for the purpose of studying, I hope the present company will retire at once." They [illegible]

The Spider Cheat.

Many species of spiders are interesting on account of their physical construction or their habits, but the most curious specimens are probably to be found in the woods of Sumatra, and these naturalists call, not without reason, "spider cheats." This insect, in order to trap the flies, etc., on which it feeds, hides on a leaf and spins a web of neutral color, making an illusion so perfect that the prey not only does not fly, but seems attracted by the peculiar termination of the web on the edge of the leaf. This is a perfect knot in appearance and gives to the trap the general shape of a miniature palm leaf fan with indented handle.

DWARFS OF HISTORY.

Little Men Who Gained Great Favor With Kings and Queens.

One of the most celebrated dwarfs of past times was Jeffery Hudson, who was born at Oakham, Rutlandshire, England, in 1619. At eight years of age, when the Duke of Buckingham took him under his protection, he was only 18 inches high, which he did not exceed until he reached the age of 30, when he sprang up to 3 feet 9 inches, which he never exceeded. Soon after the marriage of Charles I. he was presented to the Queen, by whom he was kept for the amusement of the court, once being served up as a venison pie. When the pie was opened out stepped Jeffery in all the dignity of his 18 inches, and made a courtly obeisance to the astonished and delighted Queen, who, in response to the little man's appeal to be taken into her service, promptly granted the request.

In a duel that he fought his antagonist at first took the affair as a joke and appeared on the ground armed only with a squirt, which so enraged the little man that a real encounter with pistols was arranged, resulting in David killing the Goliath. Hudson died, at the age of 63, while in prison for his alleged connection with the popish plot.

No less celebrated was Richard Gibson, a dwarf, who came into the world four years before Hudson. His ability as an artist was of a high order. He married Ann Sheppard, court dwarf to Queen Henrietta Mary, the King giving away the bride and the Queen presenting her with a diamond ring. Waller, the court poet, wrote one of his pretty sets of verses on the occasion. The marriage turned out a complete success in every way, and the little couple had nine children, five of whom were of full ordinary stature. Gibson lived to be 75 years of age, his good lady surviving him for fifteen years.

Another notable dwarf was Joseph Borulwaski, the Pole, of whose debut an interesting tale is told. As a boy of 15, when he was just one inch better than a two-foot rule, Borulwaski was presented to the Empress Maria Theresa, who was so charmed by his good looks and grace that she seated him on her lap and gave him a hearty kiss. To the Queen's question as to what he considered the most interesting sight in Vienna, the dwarf replied: "What I now behold, so little a man on the lap of so great a lady." This speech rendered the little fellow a great favorite.

He became a special favorite of Stanilaus II., who took him to England and introduced him to George III., and for more than half a century Borulwaski made his home at the English court.

This dwarf, who at his tallest was a yard and three inches, had a sister whose head just reached her big brother's shoulders. Borulwaski was not only a handsome and courtly man, but a scholar of repute. He lived in five reigns, and was laid to rest in Dunham in 1837, side by side with the Falstaffian Stephen Kemble.

Tail of the Comet.

It is one of the most wonderful of all the phenomena that confront us in the study of nature that the tail of the comet, visible through such a vast area of space, is one of the most transparent of objects. The tail of the comet is much more transparent than the earth's atmosphere, as this at its best would in bulk act as an opaque curtain. But stars are seen almost as distinctly through the comet's tail as through the adjacent atmosphere. Comets change their form and appearance with the utmost rapidity and finally back steadily away from the sun, like a courtier out of the royal presence.

Variable Rewards of Literature.

The rewards of literature are certainly variable. One of the most successful novels ever written was Fanny Burney's "Evelina." On completing the third volume the author handed the book to Mr. Lowndes, who offered her $100 for the manuscript—"an offer which was accepted with alacrity and boundless surprise at his munificence." Lowndes subsequently paid her another $50 after the book had gone through a third edition.

Fanny Burney's third novel, "Camilla," a book which no one to-day ever dreams of reading, is computed to have brought to its author a sum of at least $15,000.—London Standard.

One of Dumas' Jokes.

Just for a joke Dumas once addressed a letter to "the greatest poet in Paris." The postoffice sent it to Lamartine, the idol of sentimental readers. He hesitated to open it and took it to Victor Hugo, who protested that his brother bard had far too humble an opinion of himself. After some conversation they agreed to decide by lot which of the two should open the envelope. The lot fell to Victor Hugo, who, taking out the letter, read, "My dear Alfred." It was written to Alfred de Musset.

IRELAND'S POLICE.

Some Facts About the Royal Irish Constabulary.

The Royal Irish Constabulary, in consequence of the Home Rule bill, is now a much-discussed police force. Many people have only a vague idea of its existence and know nothing of its inner working. It is a semi-military force. The rank and file are armed with the Lee-Metford rifle, sword-bayonet, thirty rounds of ammunition, and Webley revolver.

It consists of one inspector-general, one deputy, and three assistants. These reside in Dublin and have their offices in the Castle. From here the whole police force of the thirty-two counties is controlled. In addition to the above there are thirty-six county inspectors, whose position corresponds to that of chief constable in England and Scotland.

There are 196 district inspectors, serving under the county inspectors in the various counties, and about 10,000 head constables, sergeants, acting-sergeants, and constables. The district inspectors are the lowest commissioned officers, and are comprised of two classes. One-half join the force by competitive examination as cadets, the same as in the army. The other half are promoted from the ranks, some by competitive examination, some for good police duty, and last, a goodly number by private influence. The latter is the least popular officer with the men.

The force costs the nation over six million dollars annually. The officers' salaries—county and district inspectors — and allowances are extremely liberal in comparison with the rank and file. A youth, after passing his examination, is sent out to a county district, and commences at $600 per annum. This may look small, but then, take his allowances, which tot up to more than his pay. He gets $250 for the upkeep of a horse—that sometimes does not exist, $225 for a groom, $150 for lodging allowance, $50 for his office, $15 for stationery, etc. Not a bad job for a young fellow who has only to sign his name to a few documents daily, written and tabulated by a head constable, perhaps of over thirty years' service.

Now for the other side. The efficient constable, who acts as clerk to the district inspector, commences at $175 per annum. He remains at about $5 a week until he attains fifteen years' service. If he is fortunate he attains the rank of sergeant with more pay, and when on the eve of retiring on pension, say at twenty-eight or thirty years' service, he may be promoted head constable on "the minimum wage." less than a district inspector is allowed for his horse and groom!

Workman's Fortune.

A fortune of $400,000 was left by a Sheffield workman, John Smith, who died recently at the age of seventy-seven after forty-five years of active work which had never brought him more than $600 a year. The foundation of his fortune was the sum of $1,000, painfully saved in pennies and invested in stock of his employer's concern, which rose to a value of $75,000 in fifteen years.

Very Young.

A new member of the harbor board in a New Zealand town was attending its meetings for the first time, and the board was discussing a proposal to place two buoys at the entrance to the harbor. "I beg to propose an amendment," said the new member, "that one man should be placed there instead of two boys, as the latter are too young for such a responsible position!"

A Dangerous Precedent.

"I know a girl who made a two dollar graduation gown and captured a husband on the strength of it."

"There's a good argument for two dollar gowns."

"The trouble is she caught a two dollar husband. He has expected her to dress on that precedent ever since."

HIGHER EDUCATION IN FOREIGN LANDS.

The officers of the American Board for Foreign Missions has just issued a beautifully printed booklet on the higher educational institutions under its care in foreign parts. It already controls nineteen colleges, to say nothing of the fourteen theological schools that are seeking recognition as colleges. These are scattered about in Bulgaria, Turkey, India, Ceylon, China Japan and Africa. The largest number, eleven in Turkey and nine in China, are in those countries which at present are undergoing fundamental constitutional changes.

The significance of these facts are apparent to Americans when we realise that a large part of our recent immigration is from countries where these schools have been established. The Armenians and Syrians who are coming to us in large numbers have been made familiar with American ideals and traditions through these schools, and the student of our immigrant population detects a marked difference in these people by reason of this American influence. China, too, is already furnishing a large market for our wares, and as American influence grows there, that market is destined to grow larger still. The educated missionary has broken ground for our manufacturer and trader. But better than that is the mutual comprehension which is being fostered between America and the peoples of the Orient, which will make for amity and mutual respect.

These institutions are not struggling and weak affairs. The Doshisa in Japan has nearly 1000 students and has trained some of the most notable leaders of thought and civic life in the empire. Others approximate to these proportions and to this influence. Endowments to the extent of $2,000,000 are being sought, of which $1,360,000 has already been raised. The work done in these colleges and in the schools supported by other religious denominations of this country is bound to react favorably upon our American life and has already proved a wise investment.

"BACK TO THE LAND."

It is now in France that the cry of "back to the land" is being raised, in the hope of checking the cityward trend and stimulating agricultural production. France, with a system of intensive cultivation such as the farmers of this country have little conception of, has hitherto been practically self-supporting in the matter of food. It has come nearer then Germany to producing all the food needed for its population. It has ranked as the fourth wheat producing nation in the world, raising more than a third as much as the whole United States.

But the cost of living has been steadily going up in France, and there, as in this country, when the various reasons are carefully analysed it is found to be mainly a case of more city mouths to feed and fewer people engaged in the work of providing food. The young peasants, after their compulsory army service, is over, leave the farm for the city, and the peasant girls go with them—or after them. The matter has recently been made the subject of investigation by the French Parliament, and the earnest discussions show how seriously the danger is viewed by the leading French statesmen.

One of them, Senator Darbot, sternly rebukes his countrymen for adding to the number of American millionaires —meaning those in Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa—by importing millions of dollars' worth of food stuffs each year. He points to what neighboring Denmark is doing; and that wonderful little kingdom may well be taken as an agricultural model by France or any other country. Denmark is one-fourteenth as large as France and three times as densely settled, but it feeds itself and exports three times as many cattle as France, eighteen times as much meat, four times as much butter and three times as many eggs. Denmark has almost a monopoly of the English butter market and sends England $8,000,000 worth of eggs a year.

Greatest Invention of Age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

Nothing so far Discovered is so Beneficial to Public Speakers, Ministers, Singers and Teachers as Catarrhozone.

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety—unfitness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhozone, and credit is no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

Singer Recommends Catarrhozone

"For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as CATARRH.

"Being a professional singer you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill.

"One year ago I read in the 'Progress' a convincing testimonial from one who had been cured of this disease through using your God-sent invention, Catarrhozone.

"Believing in the merits of Catarrhozone I tried it.

"Catarrhozone cured me and has been the means of my success.

"You are at liberty to use my name if it will help relieve some sufferer and I will always remain.

"Box Bixley, New Glasgow, N.S."

Mr. Bixley is one of the best known singers and entertainers in the Maritime Provinces. Everyone knows him and his testimonial for Catarrhozone is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhozone is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh.

Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months, costs one dollar. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., or Kingston, Ont.

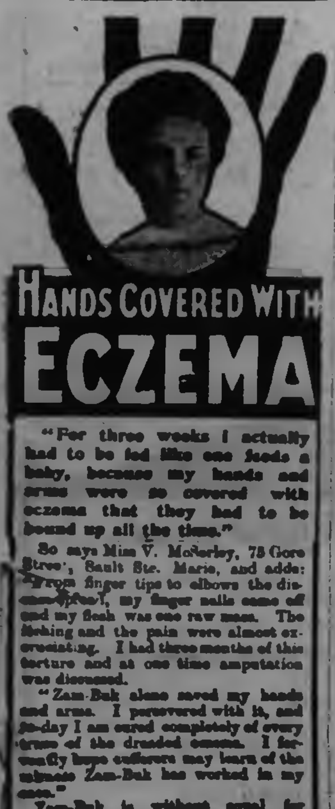
Editorial Notes

In the opinion of Saskatchewan Liberals, the "Glorious Twelfth" isn't in it with the Glorious Eleventh.

The people of Saskatchewan prefer Walter Scott, with reciprocity, to Fred Haultain, without. But they get Scott and they don't get reciprocity.

Colombia will make no more fuss over Panama if she is able to float that $70,000,000 loan in the United States. It will take care of all the hungry officials and plug the pockets of the croakers about U. S. perfidy on the Isthmus, so greatly vaunted by the third term candidate.

The chronic Republicans who put office above all other considerations are so afraid they are going to lose their jobs that they are signing a "round robin" which requests the Hon. Bill Taft to withdraw as a candidate for President. But the Hon. Bill takes his nomination so seriously that he will stay in the race until the rollers are put under him.



HANDS COVERED WITH ECZEMA

"For three weeks I actually had to be fed like one feeds a baby, because my hands and arms were so covered with eczema that they had to be bound up all the time."

So says Miss V. McSorley, 75 Gore Street, Sault Ste. Marie, and adds: "From finger tips to elbows the disease spread, my finger nails came off and my flesh was one raw mass. The itching and the pain were almost excruciating. I had three months of this torture and at one time amputation was discussed.

"Zam-Buk alone saved my hands and arms. I persevered with it, and to-day I am cured completely of every trace of the dreaded eczema. I fervently hope sufferers may learn of the miracle Zam-Buk has worked in my case."

Zam-Buk is without equal for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, cracked hands, cold sores, chapped places, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

GROWING CITY OF THE WEST

Calgary's Wonderful Growth And Development

A REMARKABLE RECORD

Messrs. Pyle & Carlisle, One of the Western City's Leading Real Estate and Financial Brokerage Firms, Writes an Interesting Letter to The Times.

Editor of The Times, Peterborough:

Dear Sir.—Since our advertisement first appeared in the columns of your paper we have had numerous inquiries from all parts of Ontario regarding investments in Calgary, and if space will permit we would like to give your readers a true idea of the conditions in this wonderful City of Opportunities.

It is not what a city has been, it's what it is that counts. Yet more important is what a city is going to be and by all the laws of life MUST BE.

The past of Calgary is therefore something in which you may be but little interested. But its present and its future must interest you if you desire to be informed regarding the Biggest, Busiest City of the Middle Canadian West.

Calgary has not become the fifth commercial city of Canada by chance. Its growth has been due to the operation of great natural laws which make and are making one community among communities greater than others.

Chief among these factors, in the building of cities, is location. In this Calgary's advantage is unique and indisputable. Calgary is the natural nucleus and distributing point of one of the largest and most productive regions in the world, the commanding centre—the heart which receives from all parts of the tributary region a large quota of the wealth which they produce, and in turn distributes to them necessities and luxuries gathered from the marts of the world.

Broadly speaking all Southern and Central Alberta, Western Saskatchewan and Eastern British Columbia are tributary to Calgary. Her position is unchallenged and supreme over a trade domain of 90,000 square miles. North, south and east lie the great Canadian wheat field, the granary of an Empire—while to the West, in close proximity, are almost inexhaustible areas of coal and timber, adequate to supply the needs of the entire prairie west, greater in its area than the whole continent of Europe.

Three transcontinental railway systems have their lines built into Calgary, and, when all are in operation, the city will be served by elevan distinct main and branch railway lines. In addition, four new roads are projected from Calgary, upon which construction will soon begin. It is, therefore, no surprise that a city so advantageously situated, and so well served by railways has become the biggest wholesale distributing point between Winnipeg and Vancouver, one hundred and eighty wholesale and manufacturing firms maintaining branches here and sending out one thousand commercial travelers from Calgary each week to solicit business throughout her trade domain.

Calgary is rapidly becoming an important manufacturing centre. Cheap power, natural gas, and the possibility of obtaining labor, skilled and unskilled, at fair prices, has made Calgary attractive to the manufacturer. In addition, the city offers the manufacturer liberal inducements to locate, in the form of exemption from taxation upon plant and buildings until 1918, also power, light, water and a factory site with trackage facilities, at cost. No city in the Canadian West is showing such marvelous industrial development as Calgary at the present time, many large plants having been recently secured, of which the extensive western car shops of the C.P.R. to employ 5,000 men, is the most notable.

The commission form of Government prevails in Calgary, and has board is composed of three commissioners who devote their whole time to the interests of the city, the Mayor being a member and chairman of the board. These commissioners hold office at the will of the people.

Calgary owns and operates its public utilities, all of which are big profit makers. The municipal street railway has netted a profit of eighteen per cent. upon a million dollar investment, and has paid from the first day of operation. Forty-five miles of line are operated. The electric light and power plant last year returned a profit of $24,000. The gravity system of water works, also a municipal success, provides an abundance of pure water from the Elbow River, which has its source in the glaciers of the Rocky Mountains.

Calgary has three hundred miles of graded streets, twenty miles of macadam, grantifoid, creosoted wood block and asphalt pavingi thirty miles of improved boulevards, ninety-five miles of concrete sidewalks, one hundred and fifteen miles water mains, and one hundred and ten miles of trunk and lateral sewers. During 1911 almost $10,000,000 was spent by the city in improvements of all kinds. This sum does not include wages paid to 2500 men employed throughout the summer upon civic works.

Calgary has splendid educational advantages, having over $1,000,000 invested in twenty-three school buildings, in which over five thousand chilhren are instructed daily. The erection of a university costing $1,-5000,000 will start this year, the citizens of Calgary having already subscribed $1,150,000 of the sum required.

Calgary has a delightful climate, being free from intense heat in summer and severe cold in winter. The warm chinook winds from the Pacific moderate the temperature, and there is in winter but little snow. Cattle graze upon the prairies in the vicinity of Calgary all the year round. The mean temperature for the last ten years has been Spring 36.2; summer, 58.9; Autumn, 39.9; Winter 18.5. The sun shines six days out of seven, and the air is clean, wholesome and invigorating. Calgary's altitude is 3,389 feet above sea level. In latitude Calgary is south of London, England, and Berlin, Germany.

Calgary business men act progressive, and have unbounded faith in their city. An evidence of this was given in November last, when the business men, within thirty hours, subscribed $100,000 to be expended in making the industrial advantages of Calgary known to the world. In raising this fund within a day and a half, Calgary established a record unbeaten by any city on the Continent.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

250 WORDS A MINUTE.

Some Feats of Britain's Champion Shorthand Writer.

For the third year in succession, Mr. Reuben J. Garwood has won the world's shorthand championship, the contest for which took place at the Business Exhibition at the Agricultural Hall in London, recently. Mr. Garwood thus wins outright the cup awarded for this feat. There were eighteen competitors, twelve of whom were women, and the test consisted of reporting 1,000 words of dictated newspaper matter in five minutes.

Mr. Garwood, who is a professional shorthand writer, is engaged chiefly on important verbatim reports, such as those of company meetings, law cases, speeches, etc. Besides winning the world's championship for the last three years, he has won ten medals in various shorthand contests, the test in most cases being 200 words per minute.

The champion has, however, on many occasions exceeded this remarkable speed. "On one occasion," he says, "in a one-minute test I succeeded in taking down 250 words, afterwards reading them back without hesitation. On two occasions I have accomplished the feat of writing 50,000 words in on day—that is, from 10.30 a.m. to 7.15 p.m., while in 1903 I assisted the official reporter on the Alaska Boundary Tribunal, which sat for over twenty days."

Mr. Garwood, during the course of his career, has reported such celebrities as Lord Strathcona, Dr. Jameson, Hon. Alfred Deakin, General Sir R. S. S. Baden-Powell, and also the late Duke of Fife and the Duchess of Albany

The contest for the typewriting championship of the world was also held at the same exhibition, and was won by Mr. Emil Tresager. It is a curious fact, in view of Mr. Garwood's triumph, that this makes Mr. Tresager's third consecutive success in this competition. The test consisted of copying from printed matter for twenty-five minutes and typing from personal dictation for fifteen minutes. The winner was a conspicuous figure during the contest. With collar removed and a green shade over his eyes, he seemed to work with the precision and swiftness of an automatic machine, and all, seemingly, with the least effort, his work being the acme of perfection.

Dairy Reports.

The report of the Dairy Record Centres in Ontario for the month of May has just been received, and shows that while there is not as many cows being tested here as at one or two other centres, owing to the herds being smaller, that the number of farmers testing their herds is away ahead of any other centre, thus bearing out the prediction made last fall by the local recorder, Mr. Andress, that the Peterborough Centre would in 1912, be the largest in the Province.

(From The Woman Beautiful.)

This is the season when she who would have a rose-leaf complexion, lily-white neck and hands should turn her thoughts to mercolized wax, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectually overcomes the soiling effects of the sun, wind, dust and dirt. The wax literally absorbs the scorched, discolored, withered or coarsened cuticle, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft, girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs pores, removing blackheads and increasing the skin's breathing capacity. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, applied nightly like cold cream and washed off mornings, will gradually improve the worst complexion.

When depressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the evening, bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. You will find this more refreshing than an hour's rest. It also smooths out fine lines, affecting even the deeper wrinkles.

Built For the Part.

This is selected from the reminiscences of Mr. F. G. Hales, the famous English war correspondent:

"Once I wandered forth to face a callous world, and noticed that a company of strolling players had just arrived in the town. I hunted up the manager and asked him if he was in need of talent. He said he was. Then he asked me if I was an actor. I said I was born an actor.

"He pulled me into the building, and asked me to give him a sample of my powers. Of course I took something easy—the ghost scene in 'Hamlet'—and I played Hamlet, the ghost, and the whole outfit.

"When I had finished the manager took me by the arm and said:

"'I'll engage you. I have the part to suit your histrionic abilities.'

"Then he gave me a big brush, a basket of paste, and a roll of bills.

"'Go forth,' he said, 'and decorate this town. You were built for the part.'

"It was a shock, but I was used to shocks, and so I took it and a half-crown payment in advance."

Good Anyhow.

Norman McLeod was once preaching in a district in Ayrshire, where the reading of a sermon is regarded as the greatest fault of which the minister can be guilty. When the congregation dispersed an old woman, overflowing with enthusiasm, addressed her neighbor: "Did ye ever hear anything sae gran'? Wasna that a sermon?"

All her expressions of admiration being met by a stolid glance, she shouted: "Speak, woman! Wasna that a sermon?"

"He read it," said the other.

To which she replied with indignant emphasis, "I wadna care if he had whustled it!"

A Hair Restorer.

"You promised me," she said coldly, "to return the lock of hair I gave you and"—

"Gee whiz!" he interrupted. "Do you take me for a hair restorer?"

The safest way of not being very miserable is not to expect to be very happy.—Schopenhauer.

ADMIRAL VERNON.

He Invented "Grog" and Gave a Name to Washington's Home.

Few Americans are informed as to how Mount Vernon, the home of Washington, received its name.

The unfortunate Duke of Monmouth had a secretary named Vernon, a prudent, sensible man of business, who, after the duke's death, found favor in influential quarters and under William III. became a secretary of state. He left a son, Edward, born in 1684, who, greatly against his father's wishes, entered the navy and, serving with distinction, rose to the rank of admiral. In 1722 he was elected to the house of commons, and having, in July, 1739, declared there that Porto Bello might be reduced with six sail of the line, he was sent with a squadron to fulfill his prediction. On returning home successful he received the thanks of both houses and the freedom of the city of London. From that time, however, his star declined. An expedition to Cartagena, made two years later, signally failed.

It was in the land force at Cartagena that Lawrence Washington, George's eldest brother by fourteen years, had served, and apparently he esteemed Vernon, as he gave his name to his home on the Potomac, and procured a midshipman's appointment for George. His mother's interposition ultimately prevented the boy's availing himself of this appointment.

Vernon's popularity was so great that his unlucky expedition does not seem to have affected it, as he was actually elected to parliament for three places on his return. Probably his known hostility to the government had much to do with this. In 1745 he was detailed to watch the North sea, in view of the movement of the pretender's adherents. The next year a serious squabble arose between him and the government, resulting in his producing two pamphlets that so exasperated the authorities that by the king's express command he was struck off the list of admirals. He died in 1757.

It was Vernon who brought into use the custom of mixing water with the ration of rum, which got the name of grog from his habit of wearing a grogram waistcoat, and hence his nickname of "Old Grog." To summarize, the man who invented grog is buried in Westminster abbey, commemorated by Smollett and gave a name to Washington's home.

A Bornean Weapon.

The Bornean mandau, or "head taker," is a modification of the Burmese dah. It is a heavy, thick bladed cutlass, from twenty to thirty inches long, and the edge is ground from the right side only, the left side being forged slightly concave. The blade is also slightly curved to the right, so that the cutting action of the weapon is like that of an enormous gouge. Only two strokes can be dealt with the mandau—from right to left downward and left to right upward.—Chamber's Journal.

Belting Cement.

Probably one of the most important parts connected with the manufacture of belting is the composition of the cement that holds the pieces together. One firm maintains a staff of specialists who work constantly in a well equipped laboratory, testing and improving this important cement and the various other chemical preparations used in making leather belting.

At St. Luke's church Sunday the announcement was made by the rector that the church was now entirely free from debt. A note of long standing against the church was paid off last week on the thirty-sixth anniversary of the opening of the church. The rector F. J. Sawers and the church officials are to be congratulated on their success. Such a position is an enviable one. Rapid progress has been made since Rev. Mr. Sawers was appointed to St. Luke's and there is every indication that the property will increase as the parish work continues.

Mr. Reid, of 220 Rogers street, who was hurt in the street car accident on Saturday evening is doing nicely. Miss Johnston, who figured in the same accident is progressing favorably also. Reports that gained considerable credence in the city to the effect that Mr. Reid had succumbed to his injuries are not true.

THE FARMER'S SON.

He Must Follow His "Natural Bent" Say Educationists.

Authorities tell us that every human being is so constituted that there is a particular line of work at which the individual will reach a maximum of efficiency. The modern tendency is to provide such education for boys and girls of the farm as will result in the majority of them remaining on the farm.

However, it is not in accord with natural laws or the best interests of general education for a Government or the head of any institution to aim at keeping all farm boys on the soil by any separation of the agricultural institution that means a discord among educational forces.

Principal Black and those who argued for separation of Manitoba Agricultural College from Manitoba University on the plea that such relationship would prevent farm boys from giving up the agricultural course in favor of some other line of study, should ponder what Charles Dickens has to say about education in general, and "the natural bent" in particular.

Or, better, they should have heard James L. Hughes, superintendent of schools for Toronto, at the annual convention of the Manitoba Teachers' Association recently, when he spoke on "Dickens as an Educator." Mention was made of Dickens' opinion of the fathers of his day, who decided as their children were born into the world what occupation they should follow; no regard was given to "the natural bent."

Dickens realized that no man should undertake to select a vocation for another. He argued that even fathers were not capable of choosing a line of work for their youthful sons, each of whom had a "natural bent."

Principal Black wisely argues that it is the object of his college to send as many as possible of the sons of the soil back to the farm; but at the same time he makes arrangements to place as many as possible of the graduates in positions away from their farms. This is what creates suspicion as to what is the real object in separating the agricultural college from the university.

If good reason or sound argument had been put forth, there would have been little or no objection to the move. However, since a relationship was established a few short years ago, no change should have been made without good and sufficient reason. At all events, this is the age of union and harmony of educational interests, rather than of separation and discord.

Train your sons to be good farmers if you can, but don't forget that each one has a "natural bent."—Montreal Standard.

Cooked In a Knapsack.

Charles XII. of Sweden invented the first portable military fireless cooker. He had a knapsack lined with hay to strap to a soldier's back. When starting on a march a big chicken was split open and the inside dressed clean and then filled with butter. In the chicken was placed a small cannon ball of hot iron. The hot cooking chicken was then placed in the hay knapsack. When the camp was pitched at evening the meat was deliciously cooked and all soaking in butter.

Weak, Tired Folks Given New Vigor

STRENGTH RETURNS, HEALTH RENEWED, VITALITY OF YOUTH RE-CREATED.

Exhaustion and Bodily Tiredness Every Day Being Turned Into Vigor and Ambition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

From Cheboque Pt., N. S., comes the following from Mrs. W. A. Reynolds: "A year ago my health began to fail, I lost appetite, became nervous and sleepless. My weight ran down. I became thin, hollow-cheeked and had black rings under my eyes, I really felt as if the charm of life had left me, and when springtime arrived I was in the 'blues.' I read of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and got five boxes at once.

"Within a month my appetite and color were good. I gained strength and felt like a new woman. New life and vigor returned, and my friends scarcely knew me. A medicine that will do this should be in every home."

Good health means much to you. Success and happiness depend upon it. The maintenance and source of health is found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Thank You.

The Ladies' Aid of the George street Methodist church, desire to thank the Orange Order for patronizing the dinner, which they served on July 12th, also all who helped in any way to make it such a success.

Fined for Speeding.

Yesterday morning a Toronto chauffeur was fined $22.35 for reckless driving in this city, by Magistrate Dumble, who refused to take his excuse that he was attempting to escape the approaching thunder storm.

Cadets Leave for Camp.

Forty Cadets gathered at the Armouries this morning at seven o'clock in preparation for leaving for camp on the 8.20 o'clock G.T.R. train for Barriefield. They are under the command of Mr. C. E. Jamieson and will return to Peterborough on July 22nd.

Stan. Cresswell Successful.

Mr. Stanley Cresswell, pitcher in the Newmarket Baseball League, is spending a few days in the city. He is well satisfied with his job. His arm is not overworked, as only two games a week are played. He has won the five league games he has played.

Killed by Machinery.

Joseph Baeves, chief burner at the Point Anne Cement works, was the victim of a terrible and fatal accident on Sunday afternoon about four o'clock. Barnes was a widower, who came from Newburgh, and had been employed at the point for a number of years where he gave good service. He was literally cut to pieces and his legs broken in several places.

Cows Killed by Lightning.

Monday's electric storm killed two cows belonging to Mr. Franks, of Smith township. Mr. Hancock, of the 2nd line of Smith, reports seeing the railway section house at Best's Station, in flames as he was driving past during the storm. In his neighborhood the storm was accompanied by hail for several minutes.

Elm Street Fire.

An alarm from Box 35, at about two o'clock yesterday afternoon, sent the brigade on a run to the house of Charles Murty, 476 Cedar street. The kitchen roof was fired by a stovepipe, which was too near the woodwork. Although a line of hose was laid, the blaze was easily extinguished by chemicals. The damage amounted to about $15.

Almost Drowned.

Nearly a drowning accident was recorded at Crawford's Grove yestermorning, when Walter Stevens was capsized out of his canoe and was recovered from a watery grave by a couple of men in a motor boat. Stevens was unable to swim and at the time of the accident was trawling for 'lunge, and it was while he was attempting to release the boat that had become entangled in the weeds, that the accident happened.

Lots of Honey.

The report of Morley Pettit, Provincial Apiarist, shows that there are 434 Beekeepers in the province, and that 15,756 colonies survived the recent severe winter. The increase to this by swarming since the opening of spring is 25 per cent. Owing to the lateness of the season bees did not begin work on the clover field until about the middle of June, but notwithstanding this a fair crop of honey is expected. There are now about fifty colonies of bees in the county of Peterborough.

The Chinks Again.

Once more the Chinese gambling case, which has illuminated the Police Court proceedings on numerous occasions, will be brought before the bar. In this instance it will be dealt with by a higher tribunal, as it is the intention of the counsel for the defence to appeal the case. It will be remembered that the eight Celestials concerned in the case were one week ago fined $40 and costs, and the case was proceeded without either the defendants or Toronto counsel for the defence being present.

Insane Man Arrested.

Lindsay Post: Sunday County Constable Thornbury and Chief Clifton drove out to Emily to arrest an insane man who was causing considerable excitement and uneasiness in that district. He was tossing telegraph poles and crow bars about and it was feared that harm would come to some one as a result of his actions. A court was held at the county jail Monday morning before P. M. Moore, and it was decided to send him to the Mimico asylum for the insane.

Killed by Lightning.

William McKenna, a farmer living at the head of Wolfe Island, a few miles south of Kingston, met death Saturday evening at six o'clock during the progress of a thunderstorm. A lightning bolt struck him as he was milking a cow at his barn and he died immediately. Two of his children, a boy and a girl, who were beside him, were also struck, but recovered. The bolt struck the barn and knocked the side out. It also killed two cows, including the one being milked by Mr. McKenna.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
